PASTOR OF CHURCH FOR 30 YEARS

Rev. O. N. Fosmark anounced Sunday that he decided to tender his resignation as pastor of the Synodical Lutheran church of Fergus Falls. The resignation will not take effect until some time during the summer and in the meantime a new pastor will be secured. Rev. Mr. Fosmark is the oldest minister in Fergus Falls in point of service, having been pastor of the Synodical Lutheran church there for the past thirty years, and he has also ben very prominently connected with the Park Region Luther in raising a large portion of the funds for the erection of that institution. He has not fully decided as to his future course.

Rev. Fosmark is well known in Crookston having delivered a number of sermons in this city. Few ministers ever serve the same church for nearly a third of a century and few ministers have been as successful in their endeavors as Rev. Fosmark.

WOULD NOT WITHDRAW HIS RESIGNATION

The special committee appointed a short time ago by the members of the Baptist church to urge Rev. C. C. Markham to withdraw his resignation, reported at the meeting last evening that Rev. Markham had refused to withdraw it, consequently it was accepted. The resignation was to take place on or before June 1st next.

HIS LEG BROKEN BY FLYING CHAIN

On Monday while Otto Volrath was engaged in assisting in the removal of the Presbyterian church at Bathgate to its new location the draft chain broke when at great tension and flying back came in violent contact with Mr. Volrath with the result that his leg was broken. He was taken to a surgeon at once and every care given but he suffered great pain The break is of a serious nature and it will probably be several months before the leg will have improved so that he will be able to use it much.

CITIZENS WIN AT CASS LAKE

RESULT OF ELECTIONS MEANS THAT CITY WILL HAVE A BIG OVERHAULING IN THE NEAR FUTURE IS VERY CERTAIN

From Thursday's Daily—

After the most exciting political fight ever waged in the history of Cass Lake the citizen's ticket headed by L. M. Lange won out Tuesday in the contest for the selection of village officers for Cass Lake for the ensuing year.

When the polls opened Tuesday morning and the sheriff read letters from the governor and attorney general and Assistant Attorney General Weeks appeared on the scene, matters took a decided change for the better.

The first two of the many woodsmen who had been induced to vote (illegally) after being challenged, swore in their votes and were immediately arrested. This put the fear in the rest and they left the village.

The controllers of the election stated positively at the outset that no one conected with the citizens' ticket would be permitted within 50 feet of the polls, and to that end a chain fence was built around the voting places. But when Governor Johnson's letter was read and assistant attorney general spoke, the gang backed up and the chain was practically ignored.

The two men arrested will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law and given a chance to prove they had a right to vote there.

The election of the citizen's ticket means that Cass Lake will receive the greatest overhauling ever known in its history. L. M. Lange the president of the council is known as a man who never shirks his duty and he has held many honorable positions. Besides being the present judge of probate of Cass county, he was formerly receiver of the United States land office at Marshall a former judge of

GOING AFTER RAILROAD

VALLEY CITY IS AFTER EXTENSION OF THE MILWAUKEE

The talk of the extension of the Milwaukee, which now has its northern terminal at Harlem, Sargent county, N. D., going to Valley City, is being renewed at present by many Barnes county as well as Valley City people. The Commercial club has the matter in hand and will act when the proper moment arrives. It is understood that the Milwaukee will not build any more branches until their main line is completed to the coast then they will consider the Harlem extension. In the meantime, Valley City and Barnes county people will be busy in securing a right of way if not building the road.

GREENBUSH HAD HOT ELECTION

ACTIVE WORK IS COMMENCED

CONSTRUCTION WORK IS BEING PUSHED ON BILLINGS AND NORTHERN ROAD

AN IMPORTANT CONNECTING LINK WITH THE BURLINGTON RAILWAY

Active work on the construction of the Billings & Northern, which is being built by the Great Northern between a small station beyond Billings Mont. and Great Falls, will be resumed the early part of next week, when crews will be placed at work laying steel. The line, which is 194 miles in length, has been under construction for about two years. Practically all the grading work has been completed all along the line. About 32 miles of rail was laid last fall, but work was discontinued on account of cold weather.

With the opening up of the season this work will be resumed and pushed as rapidly as possible. Unless unforeseen delays arise the track laying should be completed by the end of July or the early part of August. Meantime the work of ballasting the track will proceed and it is expected that thenew section of line will be ready for operation some time in the fall, probably about Oct. 1.

The new line extends properly from Laurel on the Northern Pacific, to Armington, thru which connections are made to Great Falls. The line will cross the new St. Paul Pacific coast extension to the east of Harlowton.

With the opening of this line freight and passenger traffic from the Pacific coast will practically have a direct route to Chicago via Billings, which is reached by the Burlington. This will obviate the necessity of hauling freight and passengers via St. Paul and will materially lessen the distance and shorten the time.

POLK COUNTY NEEDS MORE SUCH FARMERS

F. B. PHILLIPS ARRIVED WITH STOCK AND MACHINERY

F. B. Philips, a prominent and substantial farmer from Eagle Grove Ia., who owns land on section 36 in the Town of Andover, and who arrved with his horses, cows and machnery last week and is settled in the buildings on section 24 in the same township, there being no buildings on his own farm, spent yesterday in the city getting acquainted with local business men.

Mr. Phillips is a practical farmer of considerable means, and will farm his land right, and is therefore certain to succeed. He will diversify and later on will probably purchase 400 or 500 arces more of Red River Valley land.

He is pleased with the outlook, and specially pleased with the weather and is certain to make one of Polk county's most substantial farmers. Polk county cannot have too many farmers of this type. He not only knows how to farm, but has plenty of means to farm the right way.

WHO PLANTED THE ARSENAL?

Last evening as Elmer Erickson a son of Ed Erickson was on his way home he found a "plant" at the north end of the Sampson addition bride in the form of 32 calibre revolver and a box of cartridges. Tracks showed that some one had been in that vicinity very recently, the plant having been made just under the edge of the bridge on the river bank. This morning he made a further search but found nothing but two pairs of ladies' curling irons and these did not throw any light on the arsenal end of the deal. The police will investigate.

BRAINERD MEN IN JAIL FOR MAKING CURRENCY ELASTIC

WOHLHAUPT WAS FORMERLY A RESIDENT OF ANGUS BUT LEFT

From Friday's Daily—

Fred Wohlhaupt and S. Brooks of Brainerd are confined in the county jail at Duluth on the charge of passing counterfeit money. They will be held for investigation by the grand jury at the next term of the United States district court.

It is said that the two had successfully inaugurated a quiet little game of changing the figures on $1 bills to $10 and had scattered a large amount of them around the town before being caught.

They were given a hearing yesterday before Judge Page Morris of the United States district courrt who fixed their bail at $1,500 each.

Wohlhaupt was at one time a resident of Augus but left this section some time ago, and has not since been heard from.

FORMER RESIDENT LOSES HUSBAND

News has been received here of the death of James Watson of Wyandotte Mich., a short distance from Detroit and the news will be of special interest here from the fact that his wife was formerly Miss Agnes Goudbout whose family resided here for many years her father having been a well known shoemaker, removing to Wyandotte about 1890 to reside.

Mr. Watson was a well known and highly respected citizen of Wyandotte and was the city marshal of Wyandotte in 1902-3-4. He was a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Eagles. Death occurred Wednesday of last week and the funeral was held Saturday.

Besides his wife, he leaves three children, two sons and a daughter who will receive heartfelt sympathy from friends of the family here. He was forty years of age and died of paralysis after a long illness.

H. T. GENDRON SHOULD DRAW A PENSION

H. T. Gendron who was re-elected as town clerk of Gentilly township Tuesday is now serving his 20th year as clerk of that township. It would look as tho it is about time he was drawing a pension. It certainly shows that he is a faithful servant of the people in that capacity or he would not have been continued in office for one fifth of a century and prospects are good for a continuation indefinitely as long as health remains Few officers have served that length of time continuously in Polk county if there are any others the Journal would like to hear from them. Here's hoping Mr. Gendron will serve 20 years longer.

6,000 TONS STEEL FOR GREAT NORTHERN

The Great Northern has placed its order for 6,000 tons of steel rails. It amounts in all to about 425 miles of track. A considerable portion will be used in completing the line of the Billings & Northern, the construction of which has been going on for nearly two years and the remainder will be used in replacement along the various parts of the line.

LAND RULES MORE RIGID

REGULATIONS ARE ISSUED RELATIVE TO OCCUPATION

OF SCRIP TERRITORY BY DEPARTMENT AT WASHINGTON

New regulations have been issued by the general land office of the department of the interior in regard to the occupation of government scrip lands. The local office handles some of this business. The new regulations will become effective April 1.

The location or selection of land must be accompanied in addition to the evidence required by existing rules and regulations, by affidavit of the locator, selector or some reliable person possessed of the requisite personal knowledge of the premises, showing that the land is not already occupied.

The locator will be required to begin publication of the notice of his selection at his own expense in a newspaper designated by the register. The publication must cover a period of 30 days. During this time a similar notice must be posted in the local land office and upon the lands included in the location and each of the noncontiguous tracts.

The published notices must describe the land located and give date of the selection. They must also state that they are issued for the purpose of giving other applicants for the land an opportunity to present their claim to the proper authorities.

Prof publication must consist of an affidavit of the publisher or foreman or other employe of the newspaper in which the notice is published. The first and last days of such publication and posting must in all cases be given.

Walter Stone attended the meeting and sold Russia township the latest improved Russell Gasoline Grader and Two Russell Reversible road machines of the latest pattern and Russia will certainly have some fine roads in the near future.

The election in Russia township yesterday was a very quiet affair tho there was a good turn out and much interest shown in township affairs.

Telegraphing Made Easy

A Soo Line Operator Invents a Machine that Makes the Dots—Sold All Over the World

F. T. Vail, formerly chief operator of the "Soo Line" at Minneapolis, now the chief electrician of the International Vailograph Co. with an aggressive and pushing organization at his back, is heralded as the latest great inventor in the telegraphic field.

As is generally known, a telegraph operator "talks by dots and dashes" made with a key that opens and closes the electric circuit. To make dots and dashes is nerve racking work. In rapid sending it is estimated that an operator makes 30,000 nerve movements an hour. Mr. Vail has invented a machine that makes this part of the work child's play, as the Vailograph makes the dots. A large number of telegraph operators and other people with money to invest are buying stock in the company, which has recently installed a factory at Minneapolis and will sell its product all over the world. Parties seeking a safe investment will find it to their interest to write the

Minnesota Belittled

The Springfield, Mass., Republican speaks somewhat slightingly of the presumption of Minnesota, a state so far removed from the culture and learning and narrowness of New England, in having a presidential candidate, says the Duluth Herald.

It speaks of Governor Johnson as "twice elected governor of a state that does not rank very high in population, weath and the diversity and complexity of its social and administrative problems;" as much as to say that a state that shines so dimly when the refulgence of Massachusetts is emblazoning the firmament has a lot of nerve to be trotting out a presidential candidate.

It is very clear that it is necessary to remind the Republican that there is a good deal of the United States outside of New England, and even west of the Alleghanies. Minnesota need not fear to compare itself with Massachusetts at any time or in any contest. It is younger, of course, and that is its chief offense; however, youth is a disability that even states will, in time overcome.

As to population, it is true that there are more populous states than Minnesota, but there are none with a higher average of citizenship and intelligence not even Massachusetts. Fifty years ago Massachusetts was sixth in population among the sister hood, and now it has sunk to seventh fifty years ago Minnesota was thirty-sixth, and now it has risen to nineteenth. Fifty years hence at this rate Minnesota and Massachusetts may have changed places.

If the Republican will look at the Statistical Abstract of the United States it will find more interesting intelligence that it does not now possess It will find that this state's wealth was estimated in 1905 at $3,343,722,076, while Massachusetts, with its greater age and population, was worth $4,955,578,913. Per capita, this is $1,909 in Minnesota and only $1,766 in Massachusetts. At the same time, Massachusetts was in debt $72.72 per capita, and Minnesota only $22.07 per capita.

In that year too, the value of railroads and equipment was $250,052,000 in Massachusetts and $466,734,000 in Minnesota. Massachusette is heavily burdened with taxation compared with Minnesota, the per capita taxation upon an ad valorem basis being $9.61 in Minnesota and $17.06 in Massachusetts. Minnesota's prosperity was more stable than that of Massachusetts, because in that year this state had only 291 failures while Massachusetts had 887. Between 1900 and 1905 Minnesota increased the number of its manufacturing enterprises, while those of Massachusetts fell off.

From 1880 to 1900 Minnesota's farms increased in number from 92,386 to 154,696 while those of Massachusetts fell off from 38,406 to 37,715. The percentage of farm acres under cultivation in Minnesota, in the same time, increased from 54.1 per cent to 70.3 per cent, while in Massachusetts it fell off from 63.4 per cent to 41.1 per cent. In the same period the value of farm property in Minnesota increased from $238,718,864 to $788,684,642 while in Massachusetts the increase was only from $164,288,956 to $182,646,704.

As to "diversity and complexity of social and administrative problems," the advantage should be all in favor of Minnesota; in favor of a young, vigorous and growing state with all the industries that Massachusetts has and many besides and against an old settled, slowly deteriorating commonwealth and its problems—in its own mind—settled and disposed of.

The Foundation of Prosperity.

Today Crookston is honored by the presence of many of the leading farmers of this section who are here to attend the Institute which is in progress in the city hall.

Nothing could be more truly indicative of the steady progress being made by the farmers in this section that the attendance at such institutes not only here, but at the numerous other places in the Valley where they have been held during the past week or ten days by the same corps of institute workers. It was not many years ago that it was next to impossibel to get more than a mere handful of people at such a gathering. Now it is difficult to get a hall large enough to accommodate the crowds that attend. The big council room at the city hall was entirely inadequate to take care of the crowd that assembled today from all parts of Polk county.

Nothing could show more plainly a desire to progress by the farmer than to attend such a meeting. It is not only knowledge about the raising of grain that he wants, for most farmers are pretty well versed in that line already, the best breeds and proper care of hogs, sheep and stock of all kinds, and, more than anything else a better insight to successful dairying.

The middle states all passed thru the forced change from exclusive grain raising to diversified farming. The Red River Valley is in the throes of that change now, and nothing could point to permanent prosperity as surely as does the general interest manifested by the farmers of this section on the subject.

The farmers of this section are the foundation of both present and future prosperity. Manufacturing plants will help, but a farmers on every farm in the valley, who is progressive and is diversifying more and more each year—who is improving his methods—getting more and better stock—will insure a permanent prosperity for this entire section which can never be shaken.

Crookston extends a hearty welcome to every farmer here today and doffs her municipal cap to them. Were it not for the farmers there would be no Crookston. May a new prosperity be dawning for them. Every sign is hopeful at the present time. Thru their industry and progressiveness the Red River Valley is today one of the most favored spots in the entire land.

While in many places, not only in this country, hunger and cold have resulted in great suffering, the farmers have made the Red River Valley a haven where hunger has no place. Again we bid the brain and brawn from the rural districts thrice welcome to Crookston.

At its last meeting the Fergus Falls Commercial club passed resolutions endorsing the candidacy of John G. Grass of that city who aspires to be elected as a member of the State Railway and Warehouse Commission We have not the pleasure of the acquaintance of Mr. Grass and he may be ideal timber for the position he seeks. However that may be we are of the opinion that the Fergus Falls Commercial club is making a very bad move in getting into politics of that character. There are occasions in connection with legislative matters when a commercial club may very properly pass resolutions stating the position of the members, but the function of a commercial club is not to get into the political game, and those that do will find their usefulness materially curtained soonerr or later.

Fancy his disgust when—in plain sight of all—he uncovered a nice yellow lemon. He made no comment.

He will leave in a short time for visit with his home folks at Greenfield, Ind.,—so he says—but there are good reasons to believe that he will spend more time visiting "folks" at somebody else's home in Greenfield—and the next announcement will probably have some thing to do with fitting up a cosy home at Fargo for the reception of a bride.

Mr. Fournet believes in carrying the very best to be had in his line. Business in the furniture line is picking up rapidly and the spring trade will soon be on in full blast. Mr. Fournet feels very optimistic regarding the future and looks for a good brisk trade the coming season.

A FALSE REPORT — The report that Travelling Engineer J. M. Carrall of this city had resigned his position was erroneous and entirely without foundation. Mr. Carroll, with other travelling engineers has been called to St. Paul for three weeks on a "cold test" and after his return here will resume his regular work with more territory than he had before. How the rumor originated that he had resigned is a mystery, unless due to some practical joker who cannot distinguish between a joke and nonsense.

ROSEAU IS UP IN ARMS

FARMERS AND OTHERS WILL TRY TO GET RIGHT OF WAY BACK

THEY CLAIM TO HAVE A PROPOSITION FROM THE SOO ROAD TO BUILD

There is blood on the moon up in the Roseau Country. Since the receipt of the letter last week from President Louis W. Hill of the G. N. to the effect that neither the Great Northern nor any other road wanted any more trackage in Minnesota under the present conditions and that there was no hope of any steel being laid on the grade from Greenbush to Warroad, the people along the right of way are up in arms.

Legal advice has been secured and steps will be at once taken by the farmers to get the right of way bacq. Most of it was donated to the Great Northern to secure the road, but the rest was secured under condemnation proceedings. The farmers whose farms are cut up now propose to get their land back and will carry the fight into the courts.

The Roseau people claim to have received overtures from the Soo and will cut loose from the Great Norththe Soo proposition instead. They claim that the Soo will have trains running in time to move the next crop if the Great Northern right of ern as soon as possible and accept way is vacated.

BOLD THIEF GRABS WOMAN'S CASH

ELIZA FULLER CARRIED HANDBAG—STILL HAS THE HANDLE

Eliza Fuller, of Glasston, was robbed on Kittson avenue, between Third and Fourth street Grand Forks last evening about 8 o'clock by a bold thief who grabbed her handbag containing $15 as he passed her. The girl held the handle of the satchel in her hand.

A thoro search was made by the police but no arrest has been made. A clue has been secured however, and it is probable that the thief will be caught before many hours.

Miss Fuller came from Glasston to visit a girl friend and they were walking down the avenue when the man robbed her.

ELECTRIC ENGINEER

RUNNING FROM GREENBUSH TO ROSEAU AND OTHER POINTS NORTH

From Tuesday's Daily—

Jarvis C. Mott of Chicago, an engineer on the New York-Chicago Electric Air line, has been staying in this city for the past two or three days and departed this morning for Greenbush, Minn. He was accompanied by a cook, a complete camping outfit, two helpers and had survey instruments sufficient to make a preliminary survey.

He intends to operate for four weeks along the well-known Greenbush-Roseau sandridge upon the apex of which the Great Northern grade for the proposed Greenbush-Warroad extension has already been built and has been waiting for the past three years for steel.

It is well known that electric companies and promoters have been watching the conditions which developed in connection with this grade construction ever since there arose from the inhabitants of Roseau county and tributary country a protest against the Great Northern's delay in laying the steel.

The inhabitants of that country had been led to believe that the Great Northern would lay its steel the first fall and, when that illusion had been dissipated, the fall following. But nothing has been done with it and probably will not be until the state legislature revises its legislation, if impending developments permit it to be done then.

The land now included in the G. Northern right-of-way was obtained chiefly under protest and by condemnation proceedings. The former owners are beginning action to regain possession of the land.

At a meeting of the Badger commercial club last October items were submitted showing that the freight alone at present transported by team from Greenbush to Badger and Roseau and intermediate towns for a distance of thirty-five miles would make an investment in an electric railroad a paying one from the start.

While no organized efforts has been made to interest promoters in the scheme certain individuals have heralded their probable financial interest in any proposed project. The country has awaited the income of modern transportation facilities to develop its latent wealth and would be interested in any feasible project. Engineer Mott has been over the line before.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Crookston Citizen Shows How to Cure Them

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Crookston people testify to permanent cures.

N. L. Nelson, sheet metal worker, of 303 Jackson Avenue, Crookston, Minn., says: "Backache and kidney complaint were constant annoyances to me for years. The aching in my back was not continued, but the cause was always there, and it required only a little exertion or a cold to bring on a severe attack. I was suffering more than usual when I was induced to go to Wallace's drug store and get Doan's Kidney Pills. Their use promptly took the pains out of my back and helped me generally. I want to give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for working this wonderful cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

In Spite of Aunt Merrivale.

By ETHEL DOUGLAS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by M. M. Cunningham.

Nancy started angrily as the porter dropped a suit case into the front seat of her section and Philip Graham followed him to the seat.

"This is ungenerous," she said tensely when the porter had taken himself off. "How did you discover that I was coming?"

"I am afraid that you will not credit my protestations," said Graham soberly, "but I assure you that my surprise equals your own. I was telegraphed for not two hours ago. I had just time to throw a few things into the suit case and run for the train. I was under the impression that you were to remain with your aunt a week and that—last night would make no difference in your plans."

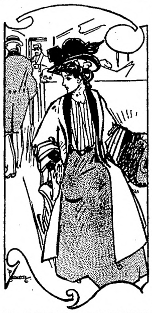
"Last night had nothing to do with it," disclaimed Nancy. "Father wired for me. I am afraid that it is serious, and you elect to follow me and annoy me with your arguments."

"I have already assured you of my entire ignorance of your presence on the flier," said Philip stiffly. "In proof of my good intentions I shall betake myself to the smoker until I am able to arrange an exchange of seats with the conductor."

He raised his hat and stalked forward in the direction of the cafe car, leaving Nancy with her feelings sadly ruffled. Only the night before Graham had proposed to her and had been refused. She was certain that her aunt, Mrs. Merrivale, had managed to get word to Philip that Nancy had been telegraphed for. His presence here was a part of Mrs. Merrivale's matchmaking plans.

Had she been left to herself Nancy would have accepted Graham; but, being a young person of spirit, she declined to be forced upon Graham or to have him forced upon her. From the beginning Aunt Merrivale's plans had been too obvious.

They were flying through the yard now. She could not leave the train.



GRAHAM PASSED HER ON HIS WAY TO THE DINING CAR.

Of course Philip would be back later to explain that he was unable to effect an exchange into another car. Probably he would spend the evening across the section from her, and, unlike the men, there was no place to which Nancy could retreat.

She was genuinely surprised when presently a strange porter came for the suit case, placing another in the seat in its place. She smiled to herself with satisfaction. It was plain to be seen that she had shown Graham how she had penetrated his plan, and he had acknowledged his defeat. Idly she wondered if he would leave the train at Philadelphia; then mentally she scolded herself for taking any interest in Philip Graham's movements.

They were well past Philadelphia when Graham passed her on his way to the dining car, and Nancy rather admired him for his persistence in remaining away from her. At least he was too clever to betray his disappointment that his ruse had failed.

The night had settled down. Lights were dull, and reading was impossible. Nancy had answered the first call for dinner, and she resigned herself to idling the long hour until the berths were made up. The message calling her home had been vague in the extreme, and in its very vagueness it was the more alarming. Her father might be dying for all she knew, and the thought bore down upon her.

She was peculiarly sensitive to moods, and the atmosphere of the half deserted car was depressing. Through the closed door of the stateroom at her back came the wailing cry of a baby, to which was occasionally added the more lusty note of a growing child. Across the aisle a man played innumerable games of solitaire, the sharp whir of the shuffle punctuating his grunting, half audible comments at the run of bad luck. Just ahead two women were discussing dressmaking in shrill tones which rose above the steady rattle of the train, and here and there some man leaned idly back in his seat and turned his newspaper with a rustle that jarred on nerves already at a tension.

Nancy felt that she must scream. She had slept little the night before after her interview with Philip, and when at last she had been able to doze off she had been aroused to read the telegram calling her home. From then until train time it had been a steady confusion, and the meeting with Philip in the car had added the final touch to her nervous condition.

As he returned from the diner to seek the car ahead she half started from her seat, but sank back in confusion. It would never do to tell Philip that she needed him. He would think that she was seeking to reopen the question of last night, and he would suggest that the need was permanent.

But as the minutes dragged past Nancy's discomfort increased, and at last she signaled the porter and directed him to go after Graham. The porter grinned understandingly as he went forward to the cafe car and presently returned with Graham, whom he presented with the proud air of accomplishment worn by the magician who extracts a rabbit from a hat.

"You are ill?" Philip asked, with grave concern, as he noticed the drawn lips and the feverish sparkle of her eyes.

"Not ill," she explained, "but I shall be presently if I have to sit here and listen to the wailing of those children, with no one to talk to. I thought—perhaps—you wouldn't mind doing a charitable act and talk to me for a little while."

"Philanthropy becomes a pleasure when it assumes so inviting a form," he declared, with a smile, as he sank into the seat beside her.

Graham was a capital conversationalist, and almost before she realized it the porter had begun to take down the berths, and Graham glanced at his watch.

"Don't go yet," pleaded Nancy, and Graham smiled.

"I was going to ask permission to wait until after the next stop," he said. "We can take a little walk on the station platform and get a breath of fresh air before we face the smother of the berths."

"There's the whistle now," said Nancy as she reached for her hat.

The train slowed down, and presently they were pacing up and down the platform. There was a sharpness in the air that was grateful after the overwarmed car, and Nancy was sorry when the warning came to get aboard again.

The porter from Graham's car approached them as Nancy resumed her seat. He handed Graham a telegram.

"I wired your father for more particulars," Philip explained when he had read the message. "Your aunt from San Francisco is visiting your father and wished to see you before she returns to the coast."

"Is that all?" Nancy's face expressed the relief she felt. "Isn't it odd I never thought of that? But I never told you that I was worried about father," she added.

"Not in words," he admitted. "I could see it in your face. And now that your mind is set at rest I shall say good night."

Nancy watched him until he had almost reached the end of the aisle; then she ran after him, catching up with him just as he reached the vestibule.

"Is that all you wanted to say?" she asked as she swayed lightly toward him.

"Not all I wanted to say," he replied, "but all that I was permitted to say."

"The rest is permitted, and the answer is 'Yes' this time," was the impulsive reply. "I'll marry you even if Auntie Merrivale does want me to."

And Graham's eyes smiled comprehendingly as he bent and kissed the rosy lips. He was not appreciative of matchmakers himself.

Colors In Dreams.

Red and yellow are the dream colors if Dr. Havelock Ellis is right. No other hues come to the dreamer of dreams. Simroth has declared that red is the most primitive of colors, and long ago protoplasm from which human beings derived their origin on the new earth probably responded to or was affected by red color waves.

In the depth of the sea the algae, or seaweed, are red. With the savage red is the favorite color, and for a bright piece of red calico African savages gladly would give valuable elephant tusks.

Red strikes the note of intense emotions. It is the color of joy, exultation, jubilation. Savages paint themselves red and rejoice at seeing each other in burning hues. German women of the early ages daubed their bodies with brilliant red and yellow and considered themselves most beauteously adorned.

On sacred festivals in Rome and Greece, Pliny records, red was smeared over the statues of Jupiter and was the color of religious rejoicing. The human eyes, it is said, can distinguish 100,000 different hues or colors and can appreciate and differentiate twenty shades of each hue. In other words, the eye is capable of 2,000,000 color impressions.

His Diamonds and His Paste.

Bob Palmer, the comedian, had been originally a billsticker, a fact pretty generally known among his colleagues of the stage. One evening when dressed for the character of Sir Brilliant Fashion he strutted into the greenroom with buckles sparkling on his shoes and a fine diamond on his finger. A brother actor inquired if his gems were real. "To be sure they are. I wear nothing but diamonds," was the reply, whereupon Bannister remarked, "I congratulate you, Bob, for I can remember when you wore nothing but paste."

Palmer did not take the joke with becoming good humor, and an angry altercation ensued, which was only broken when Mrs. Jordan cried out: "Why don't you stick him against the wall, Bob? Stick him against the wall!"—London Telegraph.

ANSWERED LAST CALL

MATT CORNELIUS PASSED AWAY AT BETHESDA HOSPITAL AT 10 A. M.

NEVER REGAINED CONSCIOUSNESS FROM SECOND STROKE OF PARALYSIS

From Friday's Daily—

This morning Matt Cornelius breathed his last at Bethesda hospital. He was taken to the hospital last Monday, having suffered a stroke of paralysis at noon of that day, and never regained consciousness. About four weeks prior to that he suffered a lighter stroke and the second one following so soon caused grave apprehension on the part of the attending physician as to his recovery.

Mr. Cornelius was one of the pioneer settlers of this section. When he first came to Crookston about 30 years ago he clerked for Fontaine & Anglim, and in that capacity soon had a wide acquaintance. Later he farmed, and has operated a farm a mile and a half south of the city for many years. He also owned another farm about nine miles from the city which he sold about a year ago. He has made his residence on Robert street, Jeromes addition for about 20 years and his wife died there about 10 years ago.

Deceased was deputy County Auditor of Polk county for many years and had a wide acquaintance thruout the county as well as in Crookston, and was held in high esteem. He was 58 years of age and leaves four sons, Ivan aged 17, Clarance aged 15, Virgil aged 13 and Cyrus aged 11, all of whom live at home, and who in their hour of sad bereavement have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community. He also leaves two brothers in this county, John of Sampsons addition and Pete who resides south of town.

Mr. Cornelius was a man of thrift and leaves his orphaned children in most comfortable circumstances. His death will cause widespread sorrow for tho quiet and reserved his strict business integrity and warm heart made friends of all with whom he associated.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed but will be announced in Saturday's issue of the Journal.

The funeral services over the remains of Matt Cornelius whose death took place yesterday, will be held Monday afternoon. The services at the residence on East Robert Street, Jeromes addition, will be held at 2 o'clock sharp, and after the short services at the house services will be held at the M. E. Church, Rev. T. E. Green officiating.

The services will be in charge of the Modern Woodmen of America of which deceased was a member.

BOTH BANANAS AND PEACOCKS

"The Journal and other Valley papers often refer to this section as the 'Banana Belt" but never heard any of you refer to the fact that Crookston has also started in the Peacock line. Here is a good news item, the details of which I am not permitted to divulge. There are city officials, however, who can give you a tip on the status of the peacock colony in Crookston. I have seen one bird myself, and cannot see why the project should be shrouded in such mystery unless the flock is so small that those who are 'next' are all desiring to get the choicest tail feathers."

And that is all we were able to get out of our informer.

It is rumored that radical changes will be made on the Northern Pacific system this spring. Acording to report the passenger division point, which has been located at Staples for years, will be moved to a new town in North Dakota, just outside of Fargo. This will leave but one passenger division between the cities and Fargo, which is located at Little Falls.

The company laid off a large number of men at Staples during the past few weeks. Others have been set back. Some of the oldest employes on the road have been set back eight years in their line of promotion.

LOST GIRL IS FOUND

LEFT CALGARY MONDAY, AND NOTHING HEARD OF HER SINCE THAT TIME

MRS. OLSON OF ST. HILAIRE TOOK HER IN CHARGE AT WINNIPEG

From Friday's Daily—

Relatives are frantic regarding the whereabouts of Ragna Bye, a little 13 year old girl who left Calgary, Canada Monday enroute to Bemidji, and no trace of her has been found since that time.

She should have passed thru Crookston Tuesday evening, but the conductor on that train says he did not have such a passenger. Her baggage arrived at Bemidji Wednesday and relatives there at once started an investigation.

Supt. Elliott of this city received a telegram from Bemidji yesterday but all efforts to locate the missing girl have proved fruitless. Inquiry among the conductors who run on 7 and 8 indicate that she was never on No. 8.

It is the theory that the little girl either lost her way in Winnipeg or has met with foul play.

From Saturday's Daily—

Miss Ragna Bye the lost immigrant from Calgary, was in this city last evening in care of Mrs. J. T. Olson of St. Hilaire, Minnesota. She departed this morning for Bemidji on the 9:15 train. Mrs. Olson went her way to St. Hilaire.

When seen at the train this morning the little girl who cannot speak the English tongue seemed oblivious of the fact that the police of four cities and two great corporations were exerting their efforts to discover her.

"No," said the little girl thru an interpreter to the Journal representative, "I did not know they were looking for me. You see I come into Winnipeg way up there and got lost in a big house (hotel). They took care of me well there, but they said I had lost my ticket (directions for transportation) and they asked me where I was going.

"I forgot the name of the place where I was going, but I told them I was coming to this big town, Crookston, and they sent me away on the train with Mrs. Olson who was going that way. She treated me nicely."

When Mrs. Olson saw the article in the Journal of last evening regarding the lost child she renewed the ticket of the little girl, directing her to friends in Bemidji. They arrived from Winnipeg last evening.

"Refused notice." Every editor has received them, says an exchange. The postmaster sends it to the editor. For instance, there is a man by the name of, well say John Jones, who refuses to take his paper out of the postoffice. He did not want it any longer. We wondered what was the matter. Upon investigation of our subscription book we found John was short $5.70. He had stopped his paper as a matter of economy to us. A few evenings ago we stepped into church, and John's melodious voice rang out loud and clear in the soul-stirring song, "Jesus paid it all". We might have been mistaken, but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing he had made an assignment of his liabilities to the Lord.

QUARANTINE RULE IS MISUNDERSTOOD

STATE OF WASHINGTON COMPLAINS AGAINST MINNESOTA—FEDERAL HEALTH AUTHORITIES INDUCED TO ISSUE REGULATIONS

Minnesota and its state board of health incur some undeserved onus in connection with new regulations planned by the federal health and marine hospital service to govern travel between states on the part of persons who have been exposed to small pox or any other contagious disease. This action of the federal board is said to have been brought about by a report from the Washington state board of health stating that many cases of smallpox in that state had been traced to Minnesota.

Dr. Wyman surgeon general of the marine hospital service announced when intervewed at Washington that he proposed regulations would be ready for applicaton within three or four weeks.

Dr. Wyman's information does not sustain the statement that Minnesota has withdrawn all quarantine regulations governing the isolation of affected persons and those exposed to contagon. As he understands the recent action of the Minnesota state board of health there is now no quarantine of all persons living in a house where smallpox develops. The patient is isolated, as formerly and the house in which the disease developes is placarded, but the state board of health has adopted a campaign of education by advising all persons exposed to the disease to be vaccinated.

This campaign of education appears to meet with the approval of the federal authorities, as being a move in the direction of preventing the spread of smallpox. Reports from various sections of the country are to the effect that the old method of quarantining entire households for fourteen days upon the development of the disease is onerous upon the "contracts" as they are called and that vaccination is the only scientific way of preventing the spread of the disease.

A Seattle dispatch quotes Dr. E. E. Heg secretary of the Washington board of health as saying that in the past month many cases of smallpox have come into Washington "some of which have come from Montana and some from Idaho, but I am satisfied that many were from Minnesota."

According to dispatches from Washington complaints are constantly being received from different states telling of the arrival within their borders of persons from other states who have developed smallpox.

Of all the states into which the disease has been imported, the Washington state board of health has been most active in invoking the power of the federal government to regulate traffic between the states. The activity of the Washington board has been directed particularly at Minnesota because of the understanding there that this state has raised its quarantine on smallpox.

"We have one instance in the town of Kerriston King County," he was further quoted as saying, "where a man from Minnesota communicated the disease to six persons, and there are other cases under investigation. If these investigations confirm my present belief, that they originated in Minnesota the only recourse we have will be to appeal to Surgeon General Wyman for protection."

The action of the Minnesota board of health in isolating only the person affected is understood in the state of Washington to be the outgrowth of the repeated "failure of the medical authorities of this state to secure the passage of a bill providing for compulsory vaccination."

POTATOES IMPORTANT PRODUCT OF MINNESOTA

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES REGARDING THE TUBER PRODUCTION IN MINNESOTA AND OTHER STATES OF THE UNION ISSUED BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT—THE ACREAGE IN MINNESOTA SHOWS UP WELL AND PRODUCTION PROMISES TO INCREASE STEADILY IN THE FUTURE

Wise, practical farmers who have interested themselves in saving their land and make money in special bad years by raising diversified crops will be interested in the potato yield of Minnesota. A report is at hand covering the United State.

In the Northwest, Minnesota had slightly the largest yield, 101 bushels acreage 145,000. Wisconsin had 91 bushels; Iowa, 85; North Dakota, 89; South Dakota 84. In the middle west the yield was poor; Ohio, 76 bushels Indiana 87, Illinois 87, Michigan 90. Kansas took the booby prize scoring 65 bushels. The average yield for the whole country was 95.4 bushels and the total production 297,942,000 bushels, a little less than 3½bu. to each one of our estimated 87000,000 people. The average price used in determining the total cash value of the farm crops of the country is 61.7 cents a bushel.

The states having the largest yields of potatoes per acre in 1907 were Wyoming and Nevada, each having an everage of 200 bushels, but the acreage was very small, only 5,000 in the first and 3,000 in the other. Colorado's average was 150 bushels per acre from 47,000 acres; Washington's 150 bushels from 40,000 acres; and Montana the same, from 18,000 acres. California, Maine and Idaho had 145 bushels each, but Maine had 118,000 acres to California 48,000 and Idaho 14,000. The other New England states had an average of about 118 bushels to the acre.

It will be seen that Minnesota had a far larger acreage in field than all the other states above it in average per acre.

It is fully expected that with the institution of the proposed canning factory here the local demand for peas, beans, sweet corn, pie plant and other like vegetables will give a noticeable impetus to small and profitable farming thruout this vicinity.

CARL O. NELSON DROPPED DEAD IN THE STREET

Last evening while walking along Fourth Street in Minneapolis, Carl O. Nelson of Fertile dropped dead from heart trouble.

Mr. Nelson is one of the substantial farmers near Fertile and was in Minneapolis with K. O. Flaknes. He had been troubled with his heart for some time, and had medicine in his pocket which he took during bad spells.

He did not complain of being ill, but suddenly threw up his arms and fell dead without uttering a syllable. The tragic death will cause much sorrow both at Fertile and here where he was well and favorably known.

Teachers and Pupils Fight Fire.

FARMERS INSTITUTE IS LARGELY ATTENDED

City Hall Packed At Both Forenoon And Afternoon Sessions. The Addresses And Discussions On Agricultural Topics Were Listened To With Great Interest. Institute A Success Beyond Sanguine Anticipations. Farmers All Given Free Dinners At Various Hotels And Restaurants. Music Furnished By School Of Agriculture Heartily Welcomed.

From Tuesday's Daily—

The farmers' institute opened at the city hall this morning and the sessions morning and afternoon were extrimely interesting to all present and the large hall was packed with many standing up.

J. E. O'Brien of Crookston gave an address of welcome to the farmers of Polk county, Valley and the state. He said in part: "The business men of this city have founded this, the most highly improved city of its size in Minnesota, to attract and convenience the farmers of the Valley at our door. We intrust to you the development of the sail of the valley and make this country of the same farming wealth as has been developed in the southern part of the state where the business men of the cities borrow from the farmers." Mr. O'Brien invited the entire body of visitors at the institute to a dinner without charge as guests of the business men of Crookston. Mr. O'Brien voiced the business men's feelings of sympathy with the every agricultural advancement made in the northwest.

The meeting opened at 10:10 o'clock a. m. with three hundred representative farmers present from all parts of the Valley. R. A. Schultz of LeRoy introduced the speakers of the day.

He mentioned his visit to the dairy farm of C. O. Carlson at Erskine with his exclusively high grade herd of 100 dairy cows, and commended the energy and foresight of that gentleman.

A Pioneer Settler

~~Mr.~~ Schulz is an early settler in Minnesota, coming hither in the 80's from Illinois. He spoke at length of the pioneer winters and other conditions of those days with the remarkable development that has taken place since that time. He spent many profitable moments setting forth the opportunities that civilization and settlement have brought to this state in the past thirty years.

He spoke of his own financial success in farming and wittily introduced himself thus as able to give some little humble advice about some of the things in farming.

Strawberry Culture

Mr. Schulz took up strawberries as his first subject. He referred to voluminous charts in the view of all present which are a portion of the equipment of the Institute corps.

The Brandywine strawberry is too acid, he said. Female strawberries will not grow if planted alone. When the Senator Dunlap and Brandywine are grown together never take out any plants. When the transplanting is done take only those with white roots which alone indicate life in the fruit. The plants are liable to rot from many causes but care will lessen all loss.

How to Plant

To plant strawberries straighten out garden hoe, stick in ground and drawing toward you placing plant in handshaped cavity. The fruit must be planted so that may be cultivated with horse and plow; for hired help is no longer to be secured at cheap rates.

The rows should be 7 feet apart. The ground must be rich and free of weeds. Allow no fruit to grow on plants first year for it lessens the second year crop more than proportionately.

Grow Well Together

The Senator Dunlap is a self fertilizer. Growers should plant one row of Brandywine among two of Senator Dunlap for best results. Strawberries should be mulched every fall to prevent roots being torn by freezes and thaws. Straw will hold moisture and keep fruit clean. Strawberries may be saved from late frost by straw. Defer mulching in fall until a slight fall of snow makes better fruit. Mulching before frost smothers the plant. Mr. Schultz takes no stock in pedigree strawberries.

Sheep Raising

C. W. Hale, expert on the raising of sheep, was introduced by Mr. Schutz and that subject was taken up.

Mr. Hale referred to the economy in shelter and feed in raising sheep; and their use in the destruction of the 600 weeds existing in Minnesota.

Sheep enable economy in summer and furnish labor in winter and generally distribute the necessities of labor more evenly thru the seasons of the year, thus obviating to a large extent the problems of labor scarcity.

Four to six sheep per acre generally makes average pasturage, tho much of this is due to good judgment and conditions.

Good Pasture Necessary

Pasture must be fenced well, four feet high of open wire with barbs at top and bottom. Clover feed is better for sheep. Should not feed hay cut too late. Screenings dirty sheep wool and is seeding for future weeds in pasture.

Change pasture for sheep and avoid intestinal and other diseases in sheep. Sheep should be kept in good feed all the time. A period of bad care in this regard stunts whatever wol grows during that time and makes it break off there when pulled or tested. Sow red clover seed thru corn for the best feed.

Sell the Poor Ones

During the forepart of October, weaning time, examine carefully hoofs, wool and general conditions and sell those sheep which are unsatisfactory. Good care and attention to whatever extent applied will make so much the better sheep. Sheep will not grow of themselves. The black merino sheep is not a good sheep for a song, forty participating, entieled for sheep diarrhoea.

Answered Questions

Questions in great number were asked Mr. Hale on this subject showing a widespread interest in this department of farming.

Mr. Hale said he did not advise the raising of roots as this required too great an amount of work and risk of rot and freeze to be generally followed with satisfaction.

The Minnesota State Agricultural School students created pleasant and appropriate diversion under the direstion of Mrs. Schroeder by singing a song of forty members entitled "The Merry Farmer."

C. A. Carlson's Talk

C. O. Carlson of Erskine was next introduced. Mr. Carlson stated he had been brought up in a wheat growing country and found it hard to be appreciated. Mr. Carlson believed the Red River Valley must make a study of agriculture to save its prestige and power.

He believed the scientific farmer the more important than that of all other Valley businesses combined.

During summer, feeding season, creamery checks are large, but in winter this goes down. This is due to poor management. More money should be obtained from farmers winter creamery sales than at any other time of the year.

Increased Milk Flow

Anyone can't run a pasture, says Mr. Carlson; it takes judgment and knowledge of the subject. More nutriment must be given cows than just sufficient to continue life.

Mr. Carlson stated that as a result of study his farm increased the production of each of his cows in one year 5½ pounds milk a day.

Clover a Great Feed

"Clover is worth more than all other feeds put together in my estimation," said Mr. Carlson. Other feeds too high. When you cut down the feed of your cows you are not cutting expenses but cutting out all the profit you make on your herd. Mr. Carlson practices, feed 1 pound feed to 3 pounds milk.

During the winter (most expensive months) cost of producing 1 pound of butter fat is 16 cents, price of that butter fat is 32 cents.

Adjournment for dinner was then taken.

Afternoon Session

In the presence of 600 people almostly entirely farmers, the state school's quartet opened the afternoon session with a choral service.

Prof. Wm. Robertson of the state farm spoke of the large crowd present and wished the farmers would gather together oftener. No one could deny the benefits in every way he had secured from the institute to day would more repay the trip he had made to the city. And he urged the continued session of farmers institutes every month at least and farmers would reap the benefit of the experience of all.

Young Folks on the Farm

Prof. L. P. Harrington of the school of agriculture chose the subject of boys and girls of the farms. He said the boys and girls must be interested in the farm and educate themselves into the departments of agricultural science. He spoke of a contest for corn growing by the state schools.

The girls have also been interested and results have increased 100 percent per year for the past three years The boys and girls should be formed into clubs by the 25,000 club and inspired to scientific studies.

Secure a Library

Every boy and girl can secure booklets and treatises on agricultural topics without charge and accumulate a library on this important line of national development.

In answer to question, Prof. Harrington stated experiments would be practical for boys to determine what variety of corn could be grown in Red River Valley.

Mr. Schutz recited an experience of a city girl who saw the error of her ways and became a farmer's wife.

The state school chorus sang a fine selection during a cessation of addresses.

General Topics

Mr. Hale in answer to questions says clippers and a gasoline engine to run it could be purchased by a group of farmers and used to advantage. Hay and oats are best feed for sheep in winter. Barley is fair feed if no other can be obtained. Potatoes and other roots are good feed.

"My wife grows poultry," said Mr. Schutz, "somewhat as a side line." Mrs. Schutz insists the hen is the greatest money maker on the farm. He urges the planting and cultivation of fruit.

"The incubator we use on the farm is the old Plymouth Rock hen. We select the eggs from the very best of our poultry and separate the hens in divided shed and place ladders up to the roof; build nests between each round and place eggs in the straw with a moth ball in each to kill lice and insects on hens."

The Poultry Question

Prof. Brown, poultry man at the Experimental farm, was called. He said there was much money in a few hens. He mentioned the problems of poultry work. The incubator will not hach eggs that chickens will. There are 200 egg (in a year) hens at the state farm, but that is too high an average for immediate effort at a breed and 150 eggs is the object of poultry men.

If farmers have not time to build trap nests, pick out a few favorable pullets and tie a band around their neck and they are reliable layers. He favored cement floors and 1-3 front of glass for chicken house with straw loft overhead to absorb moisture. He said, if chickens have not been kept just before in a warm place, they will stand much cold weather.

Mr. Hale on Clover

One of the best things about clover raising is economy in division of labor. Clover is specially advisable to keep farms free from weeds. It will kill mustard and wild oats. Wheat farming exclusively despoils a farm. If sheep are pastured before oats go to seed clover will kill weeds the first year. This should be done before the farms' fertility is exhausted.

Men and women should live on their farms because they want to, not because they have to. It is to educate this that men and women should attend agricultural schools.

RECIPE FOR RHEUMATISM

Directions to Prepare Simple, Yet Remarkable Home Mixture

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after a while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

PROSPERITY IN CLEARWATER CO.

Oscar Barness, Cashier of the Clearwater State Bank at Bagley in the city between trains last Friday stated that prospects were never so bright for the farmers of that county as at present. Last year the farmers made a start in the creamery line and last fall Mr. Barness states that interest was never paid as promptly. A few days ago he went to Pine Island and financed the 5th creamery for the county. He says the farmers are all enthusiastic over the success of the creameries and that more attention will be paid to dairying this year than to the raising of grain.

While in the city Mr. Barness became a subscriber of the Daily Journal for a year.

GREAT OPPOSITION TO CLOSING THE RED RIVER

PLAN TO CLOSE IT TO NAVIGATION MEETS WITH RED HOT OPPOSITION IN GRAND FORKS, CROOKSTON AND THRUOUT THIS TERRITORY—IDEA WILL BE FOUGHT VIGOROUSLY—ELIAS STEENERSON LEAVES FOR FARGO THIS EVENING TO VOICE THE GENERAL OPPOSITION FELT IN THIS SECTION—ELECTRICAL REVIEW POINTS TO GREAT IMPORTANCE OF PROPOSED DEVELOPMENT OF WATER POWER NEAR CLIMAX

Intense opposition has developed to the proposed plan to declare the Red River a non-navigable stream. Gov. Burke of North Dakota is opposed to the plan, the Grand Forks Commercial club is fighting it vigorously and the farmers along the river are bitterly opposed to the scheme.

Opposition Here

Postmaster Elias Steenerson of this city has canvassed the situation in this section and finds sentiment unanimous against such a move and he will leave this evening for Fargo where he will attend a gathering and enter a vigorous protest against closing the river to navigation. Many others will attend, including representatives from Grand Forks and other towns located near the Red River.

Discriminated Against

In this same connection something should be done in connection with the proposed bill of United States Senator Newland's which appropriates $50,000,000 "to be used for examinations and surveys for the development of the inland waterways of the country, including the Great Lakes, the Mississippi and its tributaries, the the navigable rivers of the Atlantic coast and their tributaries, the navigable Rivers of the Pacific coast and their tributaries."

This it will be seen would cut out the Red River of the North altogether as it flows north into Hudson Bay and is not included in any of the above provisions.

If there is a $50,000,000 melon to be opened why should not the people of the Red River Valley get their share?

Much Opposition

Of the scheme the Grand Forks Herald this morning says:

"S. C. Wallace manager of the Red River Transportation company arrived from Minneapolis yesterday. He is here to look after matters in connection with the plan of the war department to close the Red River to navigation from Breckenridge to Grand Forks will strenuously oppose any such movement. He believes that no portion of the river should be declared non-navigable. He will attend the meeting in Fargo tomorrow.

"Secretary M. C. Bachellor of the Commercial club has received many letters of protest from people along the river. They are anxious to do all they can to prevent the river being declared non-navigable for any portion of its length."

Of Vast Importance

As showing the vast importance attached to the water power, the Electrical Review in its last issue discusses the proposed water power near Climax which was discussed in full exclusively in the Journal a few weeks ago. The proposed power development is specially important at this time when there is so pronounced need for electricity for municipal lighting in contiguous territory and the promotion of electric lines, including interurban lines running in all directions which will come in the course of a very short time. The Electrical Review says:

An Important Project

"Considerable interest is being manifested in the surveys and operations of the United States Government, looking to the improvement of the Red River for navigation and the regulation of the flow of water by a system of reservoirs. The people on each side of the river in the Red River Valley which extends north and south from Lake Traverse to St. Vincent, on the boundary line, a distance of 200 miles, and extending into Minnesota and North Dakota, are watching this work with great eagerness.

"The foot of the Goose Rapids is at the mouth of the Sandhill River, near Climax, Minn., and it is probably at this point that the greatest power development would be located, as the Goose Rapids extend upstream about 12 miles to the mouth of the Goose River, near Caledonia, N. D.

"There is sufficient fall in the river between these points to produce a large quantity of power and owing to its central location, a very good demand for power would be provided The matter is being taken up very vigorously by Elias Steenerson, Crookston, Minn.; K. S. Aker, Climax, Minn. Ole Rauk and S. Knutson, Belmont, N. D. Application is being made to the Secretary of War to secure data, and the practicability of the project will be demonstrated at an early date."

MUST KEEP OUT OF DANGERS PATHWAY

Sivert Cligaard city charge afflicted with St. Vitus dance who has been a land mark on the city streets for the last five years, will be sent to the county jail for thirty days. He was sentenced this morning by Judge McLean on the charge of vagrancy. The city has been his keeper for five years and of late he has become stubborn and unable to handle. He goes to the depot and other places of danger where he has been rescued only because he has been closely watched.

The city has obtained consent of two hotels in city to take care of him but he will not go to these places. He will probably remain in the jail until warm weather and be put out on trial again.

It is so much easier to forget a favor than it is to forgive an injury.

SONS OF NORWAY AT FERTILE

The Sons of Norway, organized by Christ Peterson of Minneapolis who organized the lodge in this city were installed at Fertile last Saturday night by a delegation from the Crookston lodge. 35 members were initiated. Those who attended from here were: N. A. Hoffard, P. J. Tronrud, Trygne Randers, Christ Arneberg, Torgeson, O. B. Twedten, Carl Borghen, Arthur Anderson, Theodore Reggeson, Carl Carlson, Ole Sivertson, Ole Norseth, Chas. Ryan and others. They departed on the Northern Pacific south, returning Sunday morning. Of the Fertile lodge Representative John Holten was chosen president; Eide, vice president; Knute Nelson, historian; and Doctors Nelson and Risjord, physicians.

IS CHARGED WITH WIFE POISONING

Barney Dyer a farmer living at Hines, north of Blackduck, was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with the crime of murder in the first degree in having caused the death of his wife, Florence Dyer, by administering poison to her.

A warrant for the arrest of Dyer was issued yesterday by County Attorney Henry Funkley as a result of information filed with the county atterney, which is said to have pointed strongly to Dyer having committed the deed with which he is charged.

The warrant was issued Sunday, and as there is no train to Hines or Tenstrike on Sunday, Deputy Sheriffs J. N. Bailey and Arne Solberg went to Tenstrike on a railroad velocipede, 'pumping" their way there, over the M. & I. railway tracks.

The deputies found Dyer at Tenstrike, considerably under the influence of liquor. When the warrant was read to him he offered no resistance, but said "all right," and he accompanied the officers to the jail in Tenstrike, and was brought to Bemidji this morning and lodged in the Beltrami county jail.

Dyer's wife died at Hines, about a week ago and was buried at that place. The father of the dead woman (Mr. Ratclinffe who lives in this city) suspected from the remarks which have been attributed to Dyer, that the latter had been instrumental in causing his daughter's death, and he caused an investigation to be instituted in the matter, which led to the issuing of the warrant against Dyer and his subsequent arrest on the charge of murder in the first degree.

It is said that Dyer sold all his household goods and other belongings immediately after the death of his wife, and that he has spent most of the time at Tenstrike where he was drinking considerably.

Dyer was married to Florence Ratcliffe (the dead woman) about a year ago, they had one child, which was about six months old. The body of the Ratcliffe woman will probably be exhumed, and the case against Dyer will be at once considered by the grand jury.

Dyer has retained H. J. Loud of this city as his attorney to look after his interests.—Bemidji Pioneer.

FOUR YEARS IN NAVAL SERVICE

JOSEPH A. LE PAGE OF MENTOR RETURNS FROM BATTLESHIP INDIANA

NAVAL SERVICE GOOD FOR ANY YOUNG MAN — SEAMEN RIDICULE NAVY CRITICS

From Monday's Daily—

Joseph A. LePage son of F. E. Le Page of Mentor, Minn., a well known public official and farmer spent Saturday in this city today after being honorably discharged from the United States navy where, during four years of enlistment, he had been stationed on the battleships Massachusetts and Indiana. Mr. LePage left the navy a quartermaster of the second class; he had been "landsman in training." Ordinary seaman" and "quarter master of the third class" before reaching his highest grade. Before entering the navy he was the growing son of an old established farmer of the valley. He had never before had experience on the sea. Mr. LePage enlisted March 5th 1904 and as a practical seaman is well acquainted with all departments of the navy. He believes four years in the navy is a good thing for any young man, tho after that period not the larger share of the ambitious and restive plan to remain in the service longer. The landsman as he is becoming a seaman and afterward is well taken care of by the federal government. The personnel of the navy is of the highest standard among any like body of men in the world. Mr. Le Page was on the battleship Indiana last fall when the bunkers caught fire and were discovered so just before they had reached the magazines and threatened the destruction of the vessel. Tho a position of greatest danger to life the seamen almost without exception came forward and volunteered to descend into the hold with the hose and chemicals. The seamen laugh at the recent criticisms of the navy by a marine painter and others. It is the common sentiment among all seamen and those officers directly connected with them that the ships of the United States are the most powerful per dollar expended in the world. The only criticism to which some attention is shown is the extreme age of captains. The turret hoists, the super-imposed turrets, the open great guns ports and the armor belt controversy are not taken seriously by those men whom it is claimed are endangered by these defects. The life on the sea is pleasant. The Indiana spent the winters at Cuban and West Indian ports, returning to the naval base at League Island, Pennsylvania every summer. Of the one hundred and fifty men who re-enlisted with Mr. Le Page only two came back with him to St. Paul, M. J. Mohan and M. Flaherty. The balance re-enlisted or intended to do so.

It is better to forget an injury than to forgive it.

SPOONER QUITS DISTRICT BENCH

ABLE JURIST TO LEAVE MINNESOTA IN APRIL TO TAKE POSTION AT SPOKANE

HAS BECOME ENAMORED OF AN ALLURING PROPOSITION

From Thursday's Daily—

From Bemidji Jupdge Marshall A. Spooner of the Fifteenth Judicial district today mailed his resignation to Governor Johnson. It is understood that he is to accept a very lucrative position at Spokane, Wash., an dthat he expects to leave for that place about April 10.

Judge Spooner is considered one of the ablest judges in the state, and is highly honored by the members of the bench in Minnesota and the northwest. His popularity with the people of his district has been manifested in many ways during his long service in the fifteenth district.

Judge Spooner was appointed to his position on the bench by Governor Van Sant at the time the Fifteenth District was given its second judge. He was elected to the position by a large majority at the next general election.

There are three or four more years of Judge Spooner's present term, but the position that is to be his in the west has proved too alluring, and he has decided not to finish his term. Judge Spooner enjoyed a very lucrative practice in the law business, before taking up his duties on the bench and has been in business at Moorhead Morris and Bemidji.

MINN. RAILROAD RATE LAW IS HELD INVALID BY SUPREME COURT

United States Court Holds Atty. General E. T. Young in Contempt and Declares the Railroad Rate Laws Passed by the Last Session of the Minnesota Legislature Unconstitutional. Justice Peckham Writes Decision in Which Federal Courts Are Given Jurisdiction as Rates May Be Confiscatory. Court Holds That Penalties Imposed For Violation of Law Are Excessive and Unreasonable.

> AN EXTRA SESSION IS PROBABLE.
> The Minnesota legislature will probably be called in extra session to pass new railroad rate laws.
>
> The decision of the United States supreme court yesterday knocks out the law passed a year ago, entirely. The law is declared unconstitutional because of excessive penalties.
>
> The proposition of an extra session will probably be put up to Governor Johnson without delay.

Washington, March 24.—In refusing to grant to Attorney General Young, of Minnesota a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from the penalty imposed by the United States circuit court for the district of Minnesota, on the charge of contempt of court in instituting proceeding in the state court for the enforcement of the railroad rate law after the federal court had prohibited such course, and in affirming the decision of Judge Pritchard, of the United States circuit court for the western district of North Carolina, discharging from imprisonment, James H. Wood, ticket agent of the Southern railway at Asheville, after he had been sentenced by the Asheville police court to serve a term on the rock pile on a charge of collecting for a ticket on that road a greater price than was permitted by the state railroad law, the supreme court of the United States yesterday added another to the series of decisions which have rendered notable the present term of that court. In both cases the right of states to fix rates for railroad transportation was the issue and both involved conflicts between federal and state courts. The decision in each case was opposed both to the states and their courts.

One Judge Dissents

The opinion of the court in both cases was announced by Justice Peckham and with the exception of Justice Harlan, all the other members of the court stood behind him in the announcement of the court's finding. Justice Harlan read a dissenting opinion in the Young case in which he took the view that the suit was practically a proceeding against a state and therefore not permissible under the eleventh amendment to the constitution. He therefore characterized the opinion as era making in the history of the court, said it had the effect of closing the courts of a state against the state itself, and predicted that the result would be disastrous. Two cases were so similar that both practically were decided in the one opinion. A particular pronouncement was made in the Minnesota case.

The court at the same time pronounced invalid the Minnesota law regulating both freight and passenger rates. The opinion was announced by Justice Peckham, who held the Minnesota law to be unconstitutional on its face because of the enormous penalties imposed for violations. The decision was against Attorney General Young on all points.

Decision in Part

Substantially the court decided: That the circuit court of the United States had jurisdiction. That the proceedings against the attorney general were against him as an individual because he was attempting to enforce the law that was clearly unconstitutional by reason of the heavy fines imposed, and that the state law was unconstitutional in that it denied to all persons the equal protection of the law. "Several questions have been presented to the court by the plaintiff for consideration," Justice Peckham announced, "and they have been given careful attention by the court. One was that no federal question had been raised. One fact alone is sufficient to determine that question and that is whether the rates to be enforced under the state law may not be confiscatory. We hold that under the circumstances it is a question of a federal nature and therefore clearly within the jurisdiction of the federal court. It is not only a federal, but of a judicial nature in that it is a question whether the rates are sufficiently remunerative to give at least some return to the railroad companies.

"Another federal question involved is as to the very great fines imposed under the legislative act of April 18, and under the general law of the state These fines are so great as to prevent any person from approaching the courts to contest the act and the case therefore comes within the jurisdiction of the court, as this constitutional question is involved."

Story of Case

Proceedings in Young's case grew out of an effort by the Minnesota federal court on May 31 last, to restrain Mr. Young and other state officials from executing or attempting to execute the rate law. Certain stockholders of the Northern Pacific railway company filed suit at the time, asking for an injunction to prohibit the state officials from carrying the law into effect, on the ground that the rate was so low as to make impossible, returns to the company on its investment. The injunction was granted on the 23rd of September on the ground that the law was confiscatory and its promulgation was immediately followed by the commencement of an action by Attorney General Young, in the Ramsey county district court, in which that court was asked to direct the issuance of a writ of mandamus, commanding the Northern Pacific company to comply with the rate law.

The state court immediately issued the writ in compliance with Mr. Young's petition and this proceeding precipitated a sharp conflict between the federal and state courts. Mr. Young was summoned before the former to give an account of his defense of the court's injunction, and failing to make satisfactory explanation, he was subjected to a fine of $100 for contempt of court, and at the same time ordered to dismiss the case. Mr. Young immediately brought the case before the supreme court of the United States on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. He based his petition upon the grounds that the United States circuit court was without jurisdiction in the original proceeding, because there was no diverse citizenship and that the suit instituted against him as attorney general was in effect a suit against the state, and not against him.

ARE NO OPPOSED TO THE DRAINAGE

Relative to dispatches published widely thruout the northwest and presuming to originate from Beaudette that a mass meeting of settlers held at that point some time ago attacked the principle of drainage and asked the government to forbear its plans for the improvement of the north country in that way, C. R. Middleton formerly of this city now a prominent Beaudette lawyer denies this. There is a well based demand for drainage generally thruout that section of the country.

The alleged objections astonished citizens of this part of the state and Senator Clapp and Congressman Steenerson of this district wrote adherents here that they could see little point in working in behalf of a cause that would be discredited. But the mass meeting of three hundred settlers at Beaudette which was gathered together by the combined action of the Spooner and Beaudette commercial clubs who sent printed calls and circulars thruout the homesteaded country expressed their disapproval only of that feature of the federal drainage bill which removed from government lands intended to be improved the right to prove up until the entire drainage project had been completed and the benefits assessed per acre.

Such a condition has already, and will continue to retard the growth of the country affected. It is rather the usual than the unusual, said these settlers, that government projects consume ten years in the planning and building and to have a proprietary right to land lapsed that length of time, a continual imperfection of the title, endangers the stability of the country. Within the operation of this drainage law there is and will be about three quarter million acres in the northern part of the state between Warroad and Beaudette and Red Lake on the south.

4000 Bona Fide Settlers

It is estimated that there are about four thousand bona fide settlers already in this region and more are rapidly coming in. The settlers are of a high class, coming from the middle states and the east. They are educated and have already taken large tie and railway timber contracts which they are supplying to western Canadas new railroads. There are a number of Red River Valley settlers also in this neighborhood and altogether they prove an active aggregation of citizens.

ADVICE FOR NORTHERNERS

CORRESPONDENT OF THE AITKIN INDEPENDENT GIVES SOME FACTS

ABOUT THE MUCH TOUTED GULF COAST COUNTRY — INVESTIGATE FIRST

From Tuesday's Daily—

A correspondence of the Aitkin Independent, writing from Texas, advises Minnesotians to stay where they are or at least not to be hasty in selling out and going to the Lone Star State. He advises people to beware the land agents who say that from $52 to $50 per acre profits can be cleared on crops. "You will not see the sign of a straw stack, hay stack, corn field or corn crib anywhere along the gulf coast," says he. "The farmer buys everything he eats or feeds to his stock Hay, $20 to $52 per ton; potatoes $1.40 bacon 25 cents; eggs 35 cents and 40 cents, and everything else in proportion. And strange as it may seem, all kinds of fruit are much higher here than in the north, and vegetables can be bought in our northern cities about as cheap as there. Tree life is very scarce there, also bird life. Climate really is nice barring the wind and dampness. The only water to be had is cistern water. The wells are brackish. Let me advise all who contemplate making a change to hold on to that which you have and go down for a full season and investigate. You who are northern born and bred, used to good horses, hogs and cattle and corn raising, with other northern advantages, investigate thoroly before you make the change, or I fear your disappointment will be great."

NO APPROPRIATION FOR LOCAL PROJECTS

ONLY STEENERSON'S DRAINAGE BILL BEING PUSHED BY HIM

Congressman Steenerson has written to one of the citizens of the north country interested in drainage that "the prospects for getting appropriations to carrry out any local Minnesota project are so poor that I have concluded not to press the same." It has been well known for some time that the Minnesota delegation would be gathered behind the general drainage bill as the special legislation in favor of Minnesota has met with some opposition from other parts of the country on general principles.

SETTLERS PROSPERING

WIDE AWAKE HOMESTEADERS MAKE MONEY FROM FIRST YEAR

OTHERS LAY AROUND AND BORROW TO PROVE UP— RAILROADS

From Monday's Daily—

Attorney C. R. Middleton, formerly of this city now of Beaudette, Minn., arrived in the city last Saturday evening bringing with him a breath of the fresh country to the northeast. The past few months have witnessed the most rapid growth thruout that country and Mr. Middleton has with others risen to prominence in that locality by his conection with it.

The homesteaders are getting under headway in that territory. The embargo laid by the federal drainage bill which compels the withdrawal of all public lands to be drained from final title until the lands have been drained is acting as a great detriment upon the settlement of the lands and will retard the growth of the country many years unless this feature of the bill before congress is taken out and annulled.

Money from the Start

Some of the homesteaders in the north country are idlers and sit on their haunches until final proof day comes when they borrow the money to prove up on. Others get busy as soon as they land on their claim and cut off corddwood and timber, making money from the very start and when they prove up they have a little roll besides.

Mr. Middleton states that the majority of the homesteaders from Crookston who are situated south of Graceton have fine claims and are showing about as much results from their residence on them as other of the best bona fide settlers.

Railways into Rainy River Country

At present there are two railways planning entrance into the Rainy River country. The M. & I. has built its branch to Kelliher which when continued as planned will reach to Beaudette, a distance of fifty one miles and connect that city with St. Paul by a transportation line only twenty miles longer than the Great Northern route from here to St. Paul.

The Greenbush line is already graded from Greenbush to Warroad and while no steel is yet laid or will be laid on this line by this railway it is hardly probable that the right of way will be vacant another twenty months. This line will connect Crookston with the new country and open up a great amount of communication.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM McINTOSH INDUSTRIAL DEPT.

The members of the botany class have begun an experiment in the growing of tomato plants, the plants will be on exhibition at the school house just before time for setting out and we hope to have a good exhibition of ripe fruit next fall.

The pupils in the 4th, 5th 6th and 7th grades have been taking sewing twice a week since Christmas and are doing splendid work, almost as good as the high school girls.

The carpentery class has begun work on constructing a model of a barn frame.

The following facts with regard to the present body of high school pupils would seem to warrant the effort to give to our school work an agricultural trend; the homes of fourteen are on the farm; fifteen others have lived on a farm, the parents of seven of these still retain their farms; only two of the pupils have never lived on the farm.

TAFT AND BRYAN RED RIVER VALLEY O. K.

County Treasurer Helland of Norman county is in receipt of a letter from Jacob Gerdes, who, with his wife, is spending a few weeks at Hot Springs Ark. Mr. Gerdes' faith continues to grow in Red River Valley real estate and says that there is no better time than now to invest in land here. Mr. Gerdes says that Taft will be the nominee of the Republican party for president and that there is no doubt but that the democrats will confer the same favor on W. J. Bryan. Writing along political lines Mr. Gerdes says: "In my opinion Taft and Bryan will be the nominees; but neither suits the money trust." Mr. Gerdes expects to arrive here the first part of April to look after his numerous farms in this county.

EUCLIDITES THINK WELL OF PEOPLE OF ARGYLE

Euclid, Minn., March 15th, 1908.—Editor Thompson, Argyle, Minn. Dear sir: In the quiet and solitude of a Sunday afternoon at a more quiet and small village (after our strenuous life at your busy little city,) I will endeavor to express my individual thanks for the most royal time you gave us. Would add that I voice the sentiments of the fair sex and all of the 'boys.'

Your hospitality far exceeded the Genial Kentuckian's, who welcomed the visitors, with these words: "We turn over to you our houses and our horses, and there is the jug and the sugar and the ice and the mint. We even surrender to you the hip pocket playthings with which we are wont to amuse ourselves. And if you can't make yourselves at home and pass the time most pleasantly may the good Lord have mercy on your souls." The Argyle people certainly went the southerner one better, for didn't you allow us to torture the unsuspecting audience for a long two hours?

Again thanking you kindly for the many favors shown, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,

—Dr. J. S. Chapin.

TEDDY WOULD SAY "PERFECTLY DELIGHTED"

N. S. Aamoth of Fosum was in the village Thursday. He had with him Mrs. Aamoth and their nine children and gave Photographer Klemetsrud's camera one of the hardest jolts it has had in several moons. A few years ago when Mr. Aamoth's family was limited to seven children he concluded he had done enough to stamp out race suicide and was in and had a family picture taken to be handed down to future generations of Aamoths. But as Burns said "the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft a gee," and after a while when two more descendants of Thor bearing the Aamoth stamp made their appearance it became necessary to make the second trip to the protographer and it would not surprise the editor in the least if he came again.—Twin Valley Times.

TWIN VALLEY PHYSICIANS' TROUBLES ARE SETTLED

Before Judge Brown and a jury the case of Enock Haugseth against Martin L. Goldberg, two physicians of Twin Valley, is being tried. The plaintiff claims he bought Goldberg's practice in Twin Valley for $500 with the understanding that he was not to practice there again. Goldberg came back and went into practice, hence the suit. Goldberg claims that as a counter claim he performed professional services worth $500 for Haugseth's wife.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Dr. Haugseth recovered judgment against Dr. Goldberg for $350 with interest thereon from Jan. 1, 1907, at the rate of 6 per cent and the costs of the action. The jury allowed Dr. Goldberg $150 for treating Dr. Haugseth's wife who died about a year ago —Twin Valley Times.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

Penned and Pilfered

A traveling man was doing a stunt at story telling last night at the Palace hotel.

"There was, you know," he said "a Denver woman whose husband lay very seriously in fact, hopelessly ill. To the doctor, as he came down stairs from the sick room one morning, the woman cried:

" 'Dear doctor, is there no hope at all? Can nothing more be done? And she wrung her hands piteously.

"But the doctor, with a delighted smile, replied: " 'Madam, take heart I congratulate you. Our patient has taken a sudden and decided turn for the better, and we shall have him about again in a few days."

" 'Oh, doctor', wailed the lady, in horrified tones, 'you told me he could not possibly recover and here I've gone and sold all his clothes.' "

Rev. W. H. Medlar two Sundays ago in his morning sermon at Linden Hills Minneapolis Congregational church, used as an illustration the story of the first suspension bridge across the Niagara in which a boy who flew his kite across the chasm figured. Last Sunday Mr. Medlar said from the pulpit "When I used that illustration of the boy who started the bridge I did not know that the boy who flew that kite lived in Linden Hills. The boy was Eugene Childs, whose house is on Sheridan avenue about a block from the church."

Mr. Childs spent his boyhood near the falls. His father owned a farm along side of the falls, and was one of the platters of the town of Suspension Bridge, since merged in Niagara Falls City. Mr. Childs himself was born on this farm. He is a veteran of the civil war, having enlisted in the Fifth Iowa volunteer infantry in which he was captain of Co. A., and is a distant relative of City Clerk Childs of this city.

The shingle-whittling, story-telling, expectorating Missourian has had a narrow escape. It is gratifying to note that the supreme court of Missouri has held a St. Louis anti-loafing ordinance to be unconstitutional. It would be hard indeed if a man had to go outside the city limits of St. Louis to loaf, says the Minneapolis Journal.

A journalist who has been investigating the matter reports that almost any girl can quickly find a good husband down at Panama. It is to be hoped that he has not made this statement merely for the purpose of booming the business of some steamship company.

MAIN ENTRANCE TO 2ND. FLOOR

CITY HALL FRONT ENTRANCE WILL LEAD TO THE SECOND FLOOR

POLICE AND 25,000 CLUB ENTRANCE WILL BE ON FLETCHER STREET

From Saturday's Daily—

When the visitor at the city hall opens the front door of that building after the repairs now under way are finished he will find before him a broad stairway leading directly upstairs to the second floor now or lately occupied by the justices of peace and City Clerk Childs.

The building will in many respects undergo a complete alteration. The room formerly occupied by Judge McLean will be made into a firemen's assembly hall, the council room will be enlarged by the extraction of the room of the street commissioner in the northeast corner and also lengthened, Judge Wilde's previous offices will be made part of the city clerk's office and a ladies' toilet will be placed on the second floor. A municipal court room will be one of the new apartments of the second floor and will be about where the band room is now with some change in outline.

On the first floor sanitary stalls will be installed for the fire teams and other arrangements are being made in consultation with Chief Thomas Morris for the expedition of the sudden calls of that important branch of the administration. It is not understood that there is any means of communication, however, between the upstairs where the municipal court and council room will be located and the police department. The office of the chief of police and the 25,000 club's rooms will suffer no alterations, but will have their only means of egress by a door on the Fletcher Street side.

The basement of the building once ocupied by Co. I will be made into a boiler room and other portions of that part will in the future cool off those overheated gentlemen who have conducted themselves with little propriety in public.

The changes on the city hall when complete will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 according to the estimate of an official intimately connected with the work. These repairs are fundamental. All of them cannot be completed at once, but it is arranged that the most requisite ones be made now and the others when provision is made for the expenses not now covered by monies in that special fund.

On the day previous the people of Alida held a meeting also attended by Mr. McGuire and effected a temporary organization.

MILL STARTS AT ROSEAU—LOG HEADWATERS OF UPPER ROSEAU

From Saturday's Daily—

Ed Olson of Roseau arrived in the city last evening from that city in charge of Jas. O'Brien an imbecile peddlar whom he is taking to court at Hallock. He brings a breath of the fresh air of the open, developing country to the north.

To a Journal representative he said:

"Roseau is to have a large sawmill this summer. William Orson, a capitalist and leading merchant has had crews logging at the headwaters of Roseau river to the southeast and his cut will amount to many million feet These logs will be floated down the river to this point and will be manufactured into lumber in time for shipment when the railroad reaches here later in the season.

"The headwaters of the Roseau River run in south of Roosevelt and Graceton where many Crookston people are homesteading. By cutting out the water growths that block up swamps, canals can be readily made to convey timber from almost any part of that territory to the proposed mills.

"There is enough pine, spruce, tamarack and poplar timber tributary to Roseau river to keep a sawmill in operation here for fifteen or twenty years. It is an industry that would have developed sooner had shipping facilities been at hand.

"The scarlet fever scare has about subsided. One death occurred in the country south of town, and one child died in town.

"About a foot of snow has fallen in the past week and logging operations are going forward with great vigor."

THINKS HE OWNS MILLIONS

John Johnson who declares that his residence is Duluth, was committed to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls from Bemidji and was taken thru this city last evening in charge of Deputy Sheriff Andrew Johnson. Johnson recently became possessed of the idea that he had several millions in the old country and many hundreds of acres of land in New York Mills.

The insane patient has a claim near Grygla where he has lived alone for the past five years, and during all that time has never been farther from home than the Grygla post office and was not there often. The physicians state that his is a case due solely to isolation.

Edward Guyer of Ashland, Wis., who was picked up at Bemidji a few weeks ago is being held under order from Probate Judge Clark to await the action of the state board of control relative to Guyer's mental condition. Because he is a non-resident the board of control must pass on his case and will probably pronounce him insane.

E. P. SCHAEFER IS OPTIMISTIC

SAYS THERE IS MORE INQUIRY FOR VALLEY LANDS THAN FOR PAST 5 YEARS

SAYS PEOPLE OF ILLINOIS AND ADJACENT STATES ARE LOOKING THIS WAY

From Friday's Daily—

E. P. Schaefer, one of the well known land men of this city, who now has an office at Hebron, Ill., arrived in the city yesterday to look after a land deal and asked about the movement towards the Red River Valley this coming summer said:

"There is double the inquiry for Valley lands that there has been at any time for the past four years. This I attribute to the fact that less interest is being taken in Texas and Canadian lands. The farmers of Illinois and adjacent states have determined that the Red River Valley offers better inducements than any section of the country at the present time.

"Those who have returned from the Canadian Northwest as a rule do not bring very glowing accounts. While some did well, many did not, and what is more they are dissatisfied with the lack of schools, churches and other evidences of civilization which will not be established for many years to come in the sections where cheap lands can be secured because the sparsely settled regions will not permit of such improvements.

"The coming of spring and summer will witness more sales of land in the Valley and in the cut over sections between the Valley and Duluth in the northern part of the state than have been recorded during any year in the past five. At present there is no question but what the reputation of the Red River Valley as an ideal diversified farming section is rapidly spreading. The recent butter contests by the National association held in St. Paul in which Moinnesota walked off with the majority of the prizes has shown them what Minnesota can do in the butter line and they are taking due notice."

FIVE BUSINESS HOUSES AT FISHER ROBBED

HARDWARE STORE, GENERAL STORE, JEWELRY STORE AND TWO SALOONS WERE BROKEN INTO LAST NIGHT—SOME PLUNDER AND ALL CASH IN SIGHT TAKEN FROM EACH PLACE ENTERED —FRONT DOORS SMASHED IN AND REAR WINDOWS PRIED OPEN—NO TRACE OF THIEVES HAS YET BEEN FOUND—ABOUT $25 IN CASH AND $500 WORTH OF GOODS TAKEN

From Saturday's Daily—

Practically all of Fisher was robbed last evening, five of the leading business houses having been broken into by a gang of thieves who carted away all the goods they could well carry and robbed the tills of the few dollars in change that had been left in each place. Kile's general store, Hamilton's Hardware store, C. Widenhoefer's jewelry store and the saloons of Albert Jance and Carl Vinge.

The thieves broke in the glass front doors in the hardware and general store. At Kile's they stole a quantity of rubbers, shoes, gloves, tobacco and other articles and took about $14 in cash from the till, all small change

From Hamilton's hardware store they appropriated a number of revolvers, razors, knives, ammunition and other goods, and got a few dollars in cash also.

At the jewelry store, which they entered from the rear by prying open a window, the burglars stole a dozen or more watch chains, and quite a number of valuable pieces of jewelry but the more valuable goods were locked in the safe which they did not succeed in opening. They also secured a little change there.

From the Jance and Vinje saloons both of which were entered by prying open rear windows with crowbars, the thieves stole a large quantity of cigars liquors etc., and got about $10 or $15 in change from the two places.

There is absolutely no clue to the thieves as the robberies were not discovered till the proprietors came down to open up for business this morning. The robberies were probably committed shortly after midnight, as the saloons close at 11 o'clock and everything was quiet after that time.

Yesterday there were a number of men who looked like lumber jacks at Fisher and it is the general supposition that these, or some of them were the thieves in disguise.

Chief Eck and Sheriff Gonyea were notified but no suspects have been apprehended here. Grand Forks, Fargo and other surrounding towns were also notified early this morning and all will keep watch for strangers who are long on the kind of junk stolen.

This is about the boldest piece of work committed in the valley for many months.

The cash taken aggregates about $25 and it is estimated that the value of the merchandise stolen is in the neighborhood of $500.

YEGGMEN BLEW SAFE AT SABIN

STRONG BOX IN WYATT GENERAL STORE SHATTERED — $188 SECURED

A HARDWARE STORE ROBBED OF SOME HATCHETS AND A REVOLVER

From Saturday's Daily—

Bandits early this morning forced an entrance into the hardware store of Fred Scheel at Sabin, Minn., secured two hatchets and a revolver, and then, with the aid of the hatchets secured entrance to the general store of F. A. Wyatt. They started upon the safe, adjusting their explosive and then packing clothing and dry goods about the safe to deaden the sound. The safe was blown to pieces. The door was blown to pieces. The door was blown off and a hole blown thru the bottom. The interior was quickly rifled and the thieves made their escape.

The work was not discovered until the store was opened this morning.

Mr. Wyatt states that the thieves secured about $118 in cash, and a number of checks. Among the latter was Great Northern check No. 48713 for $36.15 payable to Henry Kuhl. Mr. Wyatt could not give a complete list of the checks.

Mr. Wyatt telephoned this afternoon that the checks were found along the Great Northern tracks between Moorhead and Sabin.

FOUL MURDER COMMITTED

A WEALTHY FARMER IS A VICTIM OF COLD BLOODED CRIME

HANS HALVORSON SHOT IN BACK AND HEAD BLOWN OFF—JONES WAS ARRESTED

From Saturday's Daily—

Paul Jones, who was employed on the farm of Walter Ryan about 12 miles southwest of Leeds, N. D., was arrested today on a charge of murdering Hans Halvorson a farmer residing near the Ryan farm.

The murder of Hans Halvorson was committed sometime on Thursday afternoon and was a particularly brutal crime. He was shot three times in the back with a 12-gauge shot-gun. A fourth charge of shot tore away the top of Halvorson's head. His death occurred instantly. The murderer had evidently shot Halvorson in the back first and then dragged the body from the well around to a straw stack near the barn, where he would be less likely to be seen. There he fired the shot which tore away the top of Halvorson's head.

Neighbors found the body cold in death.

Jones is Arrested

This morning the authorities placed Jones under arrest at the Ryan farm It is claimed that there is a strong case against him. He ha dbeen enquiring if Halvorson or others of the neighborhood had money and if they kept it in their homes or on their persons. It was common talk in the neighborhood that Halvorson who was a wealthy bachelor, kept large sums of money on his person or secreted in his residence. Jones has been unable to satisfactorily explain his whereabouts at the time the murder is believed to have been committed.

According to Ryan his employe was at the farm when he left for a trip Thursday forenoon. When Ryan returned in the evening he found that Jones was absent. He came home late at night.

Ryan declares that he was afraid of Jones, who was surly and had a fearful outburst of bad temper. Jones is a former resident of Indiana. Since his arrest he has maintained that he is innocent.

Coroner Meadows held an inquest at the home of the deceased today and a verdict charging Jones with murder was found.

Motive is Robbery

The authorities believe that altho the motive for the murder was robbery no money was secured by the slayer. From the evidence they can gather it appears that Halvorson kept his money in a secure place.

The murdered man was an old-timer in that section of the state and had many friends. He was not quarrelsome.

State Rights Hard Hit

"The decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota commodity rate case does not appear to leave much room for state regulation of railroad rates," says the Duluth Herald.

The court has not decided that the state cannot regulate intrastate rates apparently, but it has practically prohibited the legislatures from providing penalties needed to make the rate laws effective, and it has opened the way for suits in the federal counts to prevent the states from enforcing their laws, the eleventh amendment to the federal Constitution to the contrary notwithstanding. These rulings will have the effect of making state attempts to regulate rates ineffectual, if they go so far as they seem to on the face of the decision.

The Minnesota legislature passed a law fixing certain commodity rates in this state, and making it a misdemeanor to charge more than these rates. The railroads got an injunction from the federal court restraining the state officers from enforcing the law. Attorney General Young, to test the case violated the injunction was fined $100 for contempt of court, and took the case to the United States supreme court on a writ of habeas corpus. The state held that the suit was in violation of the eleventh amendment to the Constitution in that it was in effect a suit against the state. Shrewd railroad attorneys declared that it was not, that it was simply a suit against the state officers, and the supreme court has agreed with them. You can't sue the state but you can sue its officers and accomplish the same results.

This does not leave much of the eleventh amendment. It destroys the principle that a state cannot be sued. As to this particular point, perhaps no great harm is done. It is not entirely clear wherein justice is subserved by giving a state immunity that "the king can do no wrong."

But Justice Harlan, in his lone dissenting opinion, says that the decision establishes a dangerous precedent, and certainly those who didn't want the authority of the states merged in the authority of the federal government will heartily agree with him. The supreme court held that the penalties provided by the rate law are so severe that they tend to prevent the railroads from resorting to the courts to test the law, since the only way to do it is to subject an employe to risk of imprisonment. Yet violation of the rate law is made a misdemeanor, the smallest offense known to the law, and certainly the state would look foolish if it enacted a law and provided no penalties by which it could be enforced.

The decision is important because it tends to break down the authority of the states and increase their domination by the federal government. It is still more important because it shows that the supreme court, not content with rendering statutory law nugatory, has in this case practically destroyed a part of the Constitution itself.

The decision did not directly involve the 2-cent pasesnger rate law, but since that also provides penalties for its violation, indirectly the holding kills that measure as well, if the railroads choose to attack it, altho they had practically accepted its provisions.

In view of such decisions as this, it is absurd to call anarchists and social revolutionists the only formenters of revolution.

The Way To Resume Is To Resume.

"The way to resume is to resume." This was, we believe, the dictum of John Sherman in regard to the resumption of specie payment after the civil war. It was considered as the terse, courageous statesman like summing up of the proper national attitude in the face of a grave situation, says the Duluth News Tribune.

It is often so quoted, but never was more apropos than just now in the face of continued industrial stagnation. It should be adopted by those who represent the great industries of this country instead of the hesitating, cautious, so-called "conservative" attitude which they are maintaining.

The present situation is grave it is rapidly becoming worse. Men are getting hungry and hungry stomachs are a menace, always to the law, to peace and to safety. The time has passed for scolding and for revenge. It has passed for theorizing on the responsibility for present conditions, that can best be left to the historian.

It is also past for nursing grudges and for mutual upbraiding. The time has come now to resume, to ive men work, to stem the increasing tide of idleness and to put in action once more, that great market which consists of employed labor.

There can be no satisfaction in throwing hungry men in jail and there is less humanity in punishing hungry men for acts of reprisal for fancied wrongs. An empty stomach has no conscience and no one can pretend to insure the acts of thousands nearing the starving line when the time comes that patience ceases to be held as a virtue.

Those who control the country's purse strings also control its great enterprises. They have profited enormously in the past ten years. They cannot wait now for a certainty of profit before setting the wheels of industry turning and giving idle labor employment.

They must realize not only their responsibility as trustees of the country's weath, but the presence of a danger which involves them and their properties as well as the general public. History constantly repeats itself and by history we should learn wisdom and not be blinded by selfish hatreds nor nursed sores.

There can be no excuse in the United States for bread riots; there is no excuse for idle tens of thousands. But we have the latter and the former will follow as an inevitable consequence unless condiitons are changed.

No sore tooth was ever cured by biting it, no face was ever made more satisfactory to the wearer by removing the nose. It is time to stop both being mad and being afraid, and to adoppt Sherman's shibbolethh. "The way to resume is to resume."

Looking To Minnesota

California is turning to Minnesota for direction in agricultural matters. As yet no experimental farm or agricultural college exists in that state. This is surprising. It is pleasing to find that agricultural authorities there have accepted the Minnesota agricultural college as a model. In agitating for the establishment of a similar institution in California it was asserted that Minnesota has answered the question, "Does science applied to agriculture pay?" Paul V. Marvis, writing in the North Pacific Rural Spirit, says that by adopting the scientific views of Professor R. A. Moore, Minnesota was able to overcome the greatest of all obstacles, that of climate, and raise itself from a state which could raise no corn at all to a state ranking second in corn production per acre. It has been decided to have an experimental farm in California, and an agricultural college similar to the institution located at St. Paul. Over 800 acres of land have already been purchased for this purpose.

Where Are They Now

L. A. Russell, a Cleveland, Ohio, lawyer who died recently, became fairly well known twenty or so years ago thru a legal opinion he gave Tom Johnson. Johnson had just read "Progress and Poverty" and was impressed by the argument. He took the book to Russell for an opinion on its logical and legal merits. The result of Mr. Russell's reading was his own conversation to the single-tax doctrine and the confirmation of Mr. Johnson in the opinions he had become inclined to from the first reading. "Progress and Poverty" reads as well as ever, yet where are the single taxers now?—Minneapolis Journal.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Aside from the governorship, there seems to be no contest before the republicans of Minnesota, except for attorney general and railroad commissioner. Nominations for these positions are seldom made on the merits of the candidates, often serving as consolation prizes for gubernatorial and other candidates or factions, who were defeated in the early stages of the convention's balloting. Even more often they are results of trades made with the crowd that dominates a convention. We ought to have a state wide primary election.—Warren Register.

Taft is "it". The campaign waged in behalf of the big secretary has routed the reactionaries and the Taft manager is now asking the republicans to organize for the election. The excitement regarding the nomination has all died down and there is no longer any question of who will be the republican candidate for president.—Aitkin Republican.

Among the successors to Judge Lochren of the Federal Bench who are being mentioned prominently is Judge C. L. Brown of the State Supreme bench of Minnesota. Judge Brown is a jurist of recognized ability and comes from a family of jurists. His father, Judge J. H. Brown was one of the pioneer district judges of Minnesota and his uncle, L. H. Brown was for years district judge at Shakopee. Judge Brown would make as good timber for Judge Lochren's position on the federal bench at St. Paul as any man yet mentioned, and has an exceptionally strong following in Northern Minnesota where he is recognized as an able conscientious and fearless judge.

CONDUCTING INVESTIGATIONS ABOUT EARLY FIFE WHEAT

The sensational denouncement of a particular kind of wheat, known in this locality as Eary Fife but going by different names elsewhere, such as Red Russian, Early Rissian, Velvet Chaff and Rhinoceros, has attracted considerable attention among millers and grain growers about here. S. S. Stadsvoldt has caused extensive investigation and testing to be made here of the flour from this wheat, but results thus far of experiments made have been rather puzzling the bread produced here belying the reports from the Minneapolis milling center of its inferiority. At this writing Mr. Stadsvold states that he cannot as yet attempt either to discourage or encourage the seeding of this Early Fife wheat, but hopes to give a more definite statement upon the matter by another week. — Fosston Thirteen Towns.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Crookston People Stands the Test

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and the merit alone will stand the test of time

Crookston people appreciate merit, and many mouths ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills they do still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Benj. Champagne, of 322 Spendley St., Crookston, Minn., says: "I can just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did six years ago. At that time they proved of great benefit to me in banishing a dull, annoying backache which clung to me despite my earnest endeavors to get rid of it. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I procured a box at the Wallace drug store. I found relief from the first dose or two and soon the pains in my back were entirely removed. The difficulty with the kidneys was also ended and I was improved in every way. Up to date the relief has remained permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

MAKE IT YOURSELF

Tells Our Readers How to Mix Best Rheumatism Cure

A well known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless, prescription, which anyone can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one-ounce Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers, if asked to.

THIEVING LAND LOCATERS MAY LAND IN GRIP OF THE LAW

OFFICIAL EYES ARE ON SEVERAL WHO ARE UNPRINCIPLED

From Wednesday's Daily—

The United States government is keeping a sharp lookout for "locaters" who deal sharply with their clients. A number of cruisers in the north country who have been accused on various occasions of dealing unfair with their customers are in the limelight and the next move they make will cause them to be brought into court to answer for their wrongdoing.

"If the men who file on homesteads would only be confidential with us, we could help them out in a great number of cases," said an attache of the U. S. land department who was in Crookston yesterday. "On various occasions we have told men who were seeking homesteads to look out for certain fellows who were locating them, as they were crooked. In nearly every instance the prospective homesteader would become angry and as much as tell us that we did not know what we were talking about. Of course when they come to prove up their claim and find that they have paid several hundred dollars for nothing they wish that they had taken our advice."

"It is an easy matter for a locater to fool the average man who wants to take up a homestead. The general public, as a rule, knows absolutely nothing about the lay of land, directions or locations. When he is taken out and shown a tract of timber he can be handed any kind of a description and he cannot say whether it is right or wrong. Several times our attention has been called to instances where three or more men have been located on the same claim by the same cruiser and none of them had the right description.

"This kind of locater usually shows his victim a nice bunch of timber with a river flowing thru it, and he bites hard right away. He pays his good money, thanks the cruiser heartily for securing such a nice tract of pine for him and goes on his way rejoicing But when he comes to prove up he finds himself defrauded, he gets very sore.

"Other locaters, who are not quite so bad, pick out homesteads for their clients and then watch every move to see that they live up to the very letter of the law. Any time that they do not they locate, another customer on the same claim."

$10,000 IN LAND DEALS—Wm. McLean today completed a deal for $6,000 whereby the southeast quarter of thirteen in Grand Forks township was conveyed by him to Wm. John Neil. John C. Brien conveyed for $4000 the northeast quarter of ten in King township to E. G. Froirak.

BOUQUET FOR LANCTOT—W. A. Lanctot of Crookston, clerk of court of Polk county and one of the most popular residents of the "Queen" city spent yesterday in the city, renewing acquaintance with some old friends and making some new ones. Mr. Lanctot was one of the pioneer settlers of Polk county and his name is a household word over there. He was city clerk of Crookston and has always been prominently identified with that city's interests. Mr. Lanctot has promised to visit Bemidji often during the coming summer, when he can enjoy the healthy ozone of the pines during the warm weather.—Bemidji Pioneer.

FERTILE GETS ILLINOISIANS

CARLOAD OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS ARRIVE IN SOUTH COUNTY CITY

PROSPERITY GATHERS A NEW HEADWAY IN FOUR MILE RADIUS

From Wednesday's Daily—

Last Saturday five cars of household goods from points in northern Illinois arrived at the switch in Fertile and ten more cars are expected at once. It is estimated that more Illinois farmers have settled about Fertile since last harvest than any other place of like size in the northwest.

Several farms have been bought by Illinoisans with cash and they are making business like arrangements to raise the same crops they raise in Illinlis as suits the soil. Among the farms recently conveyed are, the Kent farm west of town, K. J. Sandvig farm Skauge farm, J. S. Nichols and the Roy Nichols farm, the Torvestad and the Ames farms.

Strom brothers of Capron, Illinois, have purchased a quarter section in 31 town of Garden and have brought from Illinois a steam breaker. The land is wild land and they intend to seed it all this year. Another family from Illinois is that of Myron Brackett who has bought a farm near town.

Fully Two hundred families from Illinois people have immigrated into the valley in this immediate neighborhood since last harvest and their presence will aid much in the sentiment for diversified farming that is gaining so much headway in these parts.

WOULD FIGHT DEMURRAGE LAW

GREAT NORTHERN INTIMATES THAT TEST SHOULD BE MADE

W. R. Begg, general solicitor of the Great Northern road, has written to Attorney General E. T. Young, claiming that the reciprocal demurrage law passed by the last legislature is invalid.

The railroads have always claimed that it has no force with respect to cars destined for interstate shipments but Mr. Begg goes further and declares that, even if the law is confined by state courts in its construction to intrastate shipments, it is invalid because it places a burden on interstate commerce, requiring carriers to discriminate against it and in favor of local shipments, under penalties for failure to supply the local shippers promptly.

No test case has ever been brought The roads have plenty of cars now, and claims for demurrage are hardly ever heard of. It is apparent, however, that the Great Northern, at least, is really to contest any claim that may be brought under the demurrage law.

JOE NELSON TO PORT ARTHUR

Joseph Nelson, well known conductor on the Great Northern who has recently made a trip to Port Arthur has resigned his position with the G. He has several pictures of the harbor at Port Arthur with him and brings down an optimistic glimpse of that developing country.

HEATWOLE'S PLATFORM

ALBERT LEA EDITOR SECURES A STATEMENT FROM POLITICAL WAR HORSE

COVERS BOTH STATE AND NATIONAL QUESTIONS IN HIS PLATFORM

From Wednesday's Daily—

Editor C. S. Edwards of the Times-Enterprise of Albert Lea wrote Joel P. Heatwole of the Northfield News asking him for a statement as to his views in important political issues, and in answer Mr. Heatwole, who is mentioned as a candidate for governor submitted the following which should be considered as his platform:

All men to stand equal before the law.

The rights of the citizen must be respected and protected.

Enforcement of all laws.

A state government in the interests of the people.

County local option.

Retail liquor license in which a brewing company, wholesale liquor dealer or distiller has an interest to be revoked.

Corporations engaged in wholesaling malt, spirituous or vinous liquors interested in retail licenses to forfeit their charters.

Freight rates prescribed by the legislature or other competent State authority should stand until decided otherwise by the courts.

Public service corporations should not tax the people in freight and passenger rates beyond a fair rate of interest on the physical valuation of the property.

All telephone companies should be compelled to make connection under an equitable tariffic arrangement.

The opposition of railroads and other corporations who expect special executive and legislative favors at the expense of the people is to be expected in a campaign for good government.

Permanent improvements of public service corporations should not be charged to the expense or operating account.

Stock issued in excess of the actual physical valuation of the property of a public service corporation to be forfeited to the State.

Fair freight rates so that factories and labor may live and prosper in the interior villages and cities.

State supervision of freight rate classifications.

A sharp reduction of express rates.

A public utilities commission with full jurisdiction over all public service corporations.

The State has the right to regulate the business of public service corporations which begins and ends within its borders.

Human effort is entitled to pay commensurate with the labor performed and labor is entitled to equality of opportunity.

Labor and capital are entitled to their just dues, no more, no less; and labor should be protected against discrimination.

Safe guard the deposits in all financial institutions under State supervision.

Combinations to monopolize public offices should not be tolerated.

State development that means a square deal for every section of State Promises to the people should be held inviolate.

Imprisonment of jury fixers.

Divorce the judiciary from politics.

A thorough organization of the Republican party in every election district in the interest of good government.

No candidate should permit the use of a dollar of corporation money in his behalf. Few individuals and no corporations contribute money for political purposes without expecting handsome returns. And the people pay the freight.

A prison sentence for a public official who violates his oath and betrays the people.

Public office should be a position of honor and trust and not a place for a puppet who can be used as the plaything and tool of corporations.

The people not the corporations, should govern.

The progressive policies of the present vigorous Roosevelt administration should be continued and every tendency toward re-action should be strenuously opposed.

Taxes to be paid on a fair and honest assessment of all property owned and no less.

In conclusion Mr. Heatwole says: "Why should not the above be written into the State Republican platform? The people have the right to require that a man seeking public office define his position unreservedly. My dear Mr. Edwards, do you know any reason why any man should object to taking the people into his confidence in matters of public interest?"

VALLEY LANDS IN BIG SALE

SENATOR WORKS PULLS OFF A BIG DEAL AT $40 PER ACRE

ANOTHER TRACT IN ANDOVER TOWNSHIP GOES FOR $30 PER ACRE

From Thursday's Daily—

While Senator S. D. Works was in the city yesterday he pulled off for the Central Minnesota Immigration Company of Mankato one of the biggest deals in Valley land for some time. Section 35 one mile and a half south of Euclid in Euclid township near the junction of the N. P. and G. N. north line was conveyed by J. A. Spies of Palo Alto County, Iowa, to the company above mentioned for a consideration of $25,600 or $40 an acre. The deal has been pending for some time, but an error in the papers prevented the recording of them until they were corrected.

For the sum of $4800 H. S. Allen of Hamilton County, Iowa conveyed the southwest 160 acres of section 36 in the town of Andover six miles south of Crookston, to Fred Phillips now of this community, recently of Eagle Grove Iowa. The deal was made last fall practically, but the papers here have just been filed.

The two deals represent the two largest of recent months. They will be farmed, small portions by diversified farmers.

NO FLOWERS AND NO FINE CLOTHES

GIRL GRADUATES AT DULUTH MUST BE SIMPLE AND SWEET

Principle Charles A. Smith of the high school. yesterday, announced to the graduates that at the class night and commencement exercises, they would have to dress plainly, and that no show of finery or extravagance would be tolerated.

The flowers, he said, would be given the pupils by the board of education, and the parents would not be allowed to send them any bouquets.

The object of this announcement is to protect the children of poorer people, who cannot afford to purchase expensive outfits for their sons and daughters, or expend large sums for flowers and other luxuries so often exhibited at these functions.

For a few years this rule has been in vogue, and has greatly reduced the amount of show which has been made at these exercises. The children of the rich had formerly been dressed in expensive clothes, decked with jewelry and have been laden with the most beautiful flowers.

The children of the poorer people, of course, dressed plainly, and had few ornaments or flowers. They have been greatly embarrassed and have felt their position keenly.—Duluth News Tribune.

LASSO WOLVES FROM A TREE

A THRILLING TALE FROM CROOKSTON COLONY NEAR GRACETON

MESSRS. E. J. KEATING AND BERT ANDERSON CLIMB TREE FOR SAFETY

From Friday's Daily—

"If you are going into the woods when the wolves are plentiful and their prey is scarce, you should be armed with a rope and an ax. They are the best weapons you can have."

So spoke E. J. Keating last evening in relating his experience while on an inspection trip to his land near Graceton recently. Letters from other Crookstonites at Graceton corroborate his story.

"Bert Anderson and I were walking thru the woods at an early hour in the morning, when we were suddenly face to face with four large hungry looking wolves. We had no guns and were at a loss to know what to do. We had never seen any wolves before running wild in the woods, and did not expect a visit from them.

"Anderson had upon his back a large pack sack in which he had some food, blankets, a rope and a hatchet. The sack was tied over his shoulders and was hard to remove. We realized that something had to be done in mighty short time. The first thing we thought of was to climb a tree. When we did so we began to breathe easier, but then came the thoughts of home.

"The wolves wouldn't go away. They encircled the tree, barking and howling loudly. We could not conceive of any way to get rid of them for many hours.

"Finally Anderson thought of a scheme. He got the sack open and took out the rope and hatchet while he mad a loop at the end of the rope. Lowering the rope, one of the wolves made a grab at it, and Peterson twisted it catching the beast in the loop. We hauled him up and I struck him with the ax, killing him. We were fortunate enough to get the others the same way.

"We took the wolves to camp and skinned them and will have the pelts tanned and made into rugs for our homes up there. The Crookston colony at Graceton is nothing if not resourceful."

And the Cass Lake train pulled out before Mr. Keating could tell the second chapter to the story.

MRS. MARION RUSSELL WIDOW OF R. P. RUSSELL PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Marion Russell, widow of the late R. P. Russell and a continuous resident of Minneapolis for more than sixty years, died yesterday at her home in that city. She went to Minneapolis in 1847 with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Luther Patch, and Rev. E. D. Neill, the historian, gives Mrs. Patch and her daughters Marion and Cora the credit of being the first resident white women in St. Anthony. The Patch family came originally from Locksport, N. Y., where Marion Patch was born in 1829. The family lived in Wisconsin several years before coming to Minneapolis.

Marion Patch was married to R.P. Russell, Oct. 3, 1848, and theirs was the first wedding in St. Anthony. The early settlers lived in log houses, but Mr. Russell, who had opened a store in a log structure, felt rich enough to build a frame house which was built the same time as the Godfrey house, now the oldest house in Minneapolis.

The Russells moved from the East Side into Minneapolis about 1855. The Russell homestead was located at Hennepin avenue and Twenty-eighth St., now ocupied by the new West high school.

The brick house built in 1873, was at that time regarded as a palace and was for many years one of the landmarks of Hennepin avenue. Mr. Russell who took the second claim in the territory now contained in Minneapolis died in 1896.

The surviving sons and daughters are Mrs. W. C. Colbrath, Duluth; C. M. Russell and E. E. Russell, Los Angeles; R. P. Russell, Colorado Springs; Fred Russell, Denver, Col.;

Alex Collins and Pat Martin, well known local baseball stars who have played in Crookston teams for the past seven years, have been bought in by Dave Winnie of the Lansford N. D., team and will depart for that place in a few days. The Lansford team was one of the strongest in the Dakotas.

SLASHES HER THROAT WITH HUSBAND'S RAZOR

From Thursday's Daily—

Reports were received in the city today of a sensation at McIntosh in which Mrs Albert Rice was the star actor. According to reports she attempted suicide by the razor route and slashed her throat horribly. The deed was committed in the barber shop of Eric I. Updahl where her husband works and medical was summoned at once. The gaping wound was sewed up and tho the young woman was very weak from loss of blood it is believed she will recover unless complications set in.

It seems Mrs. Rice went to the barber shop and insisted that her husband and go out with her. This he refused to do and the police were sent for to remove her from the shop

Before the arrival of the police she grabbed a razor and slashed her throat, cutting thru her collar. The police took her in charge and she soon subsided.

It is the theory of some that she did not intend to kill herself but was running a large sized bluff on her husband. One report is to the effect that she is a trifle rattlebrained and her actions yesterday would confirm this report.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice are a young married couple and the course of true love does not run without a few ripples in their case.

FRISKED OF $5,122 BY BLACK AFFINITY

"Frisked" of $5,100 in certificates of deposit on Fargo and Ellendale, N. D., banks and $22 in cash, Louis Anderson appeared at the police headquarters at Fargo at 10 o'clock last evening in a cold sweat. He told of having been enticed by a colored woman he met on Fourth street and Second Avenue north into an alley back of the Anderson blacksmith shop. It was there that he was touched—and he discovered his loss a short time afterwards.

He gave Captain Dahlgren a description of the woman he had associated with and a hurried trip was made to the hollow district. At the Red River hotel he identified Cleo Hargrison as the woman he had been with. She was taken to the police station where she will be held pending a complaint. She refused to give any information, holding that she is innocent. The banks were notified this morning and it is probable that the man that picked a colored woman for his affinity will lose nothing more than the $22 in cash.

Dashed to Death.

Calumet, Mich., March 21—A loaded skip was dashed several hundred feet to the bottom of No. 6 Osceola shaft when the cable attached to it parted, killing one man and severely injuring two others. John Samanski is dead and Frank Bodette may die. The three men were working down at the bottom of the shaft when the cable attached to the car broke and they had no opportunity to escape.

Thawing Dynamite Kills Two.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 21.—Two persons were killed outright and three others seriously injured at Los Tanos, on the El Paso & Southwestern railroad yesterday by an explosion of seven sticks of dynamite which were being thawed in a stove.

Mediators Finish Work.

St. Louis, March 21. — Recommending that striking members of the brewery workers' labor organization return to work and that the brewery owners reinstate all the men without prejudice, under the contracts previously signed, the state board of mediation and arbitration last night concluded its investigation into the walkout of Tuesday which closed down the twenty-four breweries.

Embezzlement Charged.

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—Alonzo F. Shriner, chief deputy surveyor in the St. Louis customs house, was arrested last night on a warrant charging embezzlement and failure to deposit government funds in his custody. An embezzlement of $353.34 is alleged.

STOCK ROOTS

Press Bulletin No. 72—By A. J. McGuire, Northeast Experiment Station, Grand Rapids, Minnesota

Stock roots under ordinary field conditions yield from 10 to 15 tons per acrde; from 350 to 550 bushels. When the soil is very fertile, and given extra care, they may be made to yield as high as 30 tons, or 1000 bushels per acre.

The cost of growing roots, taking everything into consideration such as value of land, cost of machinery, seed labor, etc., need not exceed $25 per acre, or from $1 to $1.75 per ton.

Two acres of stock roots are grown on the Experiment Farm every year They are grown in a rotation with barley, clover and peas.

They are sown with a garden drill in rows 24 inches apart. When the plants appear above ground they are gone over with a wheel hoe, and later with a horse cultivator every week thruout the growing season.

When the plants are about two inches high they are thinned out, a common hand hoe being used for this purpose. The stock carrot is thinned to 8 inches, and the rutabaga and mangle to 12. Thinning the plants early with the hoe, lessens the hand thinning later. With the plants well apart they are much easier kept clean and their yield is greater than when grown thickly.

In pulling the roots in the fall they are laid even in the row with the tops all one way. The topping is then done with a corn knife, cutting the tops of two or three with a single stroke.

The roots that are fed early in the fall before they are put in the root celalar may be fed tops and all thus lessening the labor.

In storing the roots for winter a cellar is necessary, and should be in conection with the barn for convenience in feeding. Roots that are fed in October, November and the fore part of December may be piled on the ground near the barn and covered with straw and litter sufficiently to keep from freezing.

In storing the roots in a cellar care must be taken to remove as much of the dirt as possible to avoid heating. The more free from dirt the better they will keep.

In feeding carrots and mangles to stock it is desirable to cut them but not necessary. When the fall work is rushing they may be fed whole, but later when time is ample it is advisible to cut them.

Mangles, sugar beets, stock carrots and rutabagas have been compared on the Experiment Farm. On high well drained soil and a favorable season, mangles give the largest yield but on low ground and in a cold wet spring are apt to fail. This is also true of the sugar beet. Stock carrots have never failed to produce a crop. Rutabagas are also very hardy but objectionable for dairy cows.

Taking all conditions, the stock carrot is recommended for this section of the state. Rutabagas may be grown for sheep, pigs and young stock, but either the stock carrot or mangle for dairy cows.

A sandy loam soil is best for roots It should be well manured. In preparing the seed bed harrow thoroly immediately after plowing as the soil is most easily pulverized at that time It is also well to plank or roll it before seeding as the garden drill is difficult to work in uneven ground. A garden drill is the first thing that should be secured in preparing to grow roots. With a garden drill an acre can be sown in half a day. A good drill may be bought for $8 or $10. Two or more farmers may buy one in co-operation to good advantage

In seeding sow plenty of seed. The surplus may be thinned out easily.

For carrots or rutabagas sow from 1 1-2 to 2 pounds per acre for mangles 15 to 20 pounds.

The time to plant will depend upon the season, from May 10 to June 10. Carrots and rutabagas may be seeded quite early with out danger. Rutabagas may be sown as late as July and a good crop secured, but earlier planted is safer.

Grow roots. The money you spend on one ton of bran or shorts if invested in an acre of roots will produce from four to five times as much feed.

Live stock of all kinds need some succulent feed in winter to be healthy When roots are fed there will be no need for expensive stock foods and medicines. Grow roots. They have a food value not only in themselves but also in the effect they have on other feeds fed in connection with them, making them more digestible and nutritious.

NABBED AT DOOR OF FREEDOM

A. L. PARSONS SECURED BY VIGILANCE OF SHERIFF'S OFFICE

FORGED DRAFT ON MERCHANTS NATIONAL HERE TEN MONTHS AGO

From Friday's Daily—

Deputy Sheriff Orin Daniels returned this morning from Stillwater and the Twin Cities whence he had just taken Frank Walker, recently sentenced by the district court. The deputy of the Polk county offices had in his charge this morning A. L. Parsons, wanted at East Grand Forks on a warrant signed by Dick Butler for forgery of a draft on the First National of that place. Parsons was sentenced from here about ten months ago for one year and has ever since that time been closely watched. His sentence was shortended by good behavior.

Crookston Forger Caught Elsewhere

Ed Falkner who last June was sentenced to the county jail here for forgery and when freed from prison went down town and forged checks for about forty dollars on Louis Gonyea, departs for parts unknown, is now in prisons at Stillwater. He was sent there from Minneapolis where he was caught at the same business. A warrant is pending here for his arrest.

More Prison Social Notes

Dude Smith sent from Crookston on the charge of assault of a woman in a cab in East Grand Forks where he was a cab driver, is now a trustee driving the warden's team for state prison.

DEATH COMES TO MISS A. CHRISTIE

TALENTED RESIDENT OF SUPERIOR SUCCUMBS AFTER LINGERING ILLNESS

The following clipping from the Superior Department of the Duluth News Tribune will be read with much sorrow in Crookston as Miss Alice Christie with her sister Martha have visited in Crookston often in the past and have many warm friends and admirers here. The News Tribune says:

"After a lingering illness Miss Alluna C. Christie died at her home, 1123 Villard avenue early yesterday morning. The funeral will be held from the residence at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The services will be conducted by Rev. U. S. Villars and interment will be a. Greenwood cemetery. She was 40 years old and the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Lute Christie who were among the pioneer settlers of the East End. She was compelled to take to her bed last October and altho she rallied at times her death was not unexpected.

"Miss Christie with her parents came to Superior in 1882 from Winnebago City, Minn., where she was born. Mr. Christie engaged in the newspaper business and for 14 years Miss Christie was associated with her father in publishing the Superior Times. For four years after her father's death which occurred 12 years ago, she had charge of the paper.

"During her residence here she took an active part in church work, and a large circle of friends received with deep sorrow and regret the announcement of her death. Miss Christie is survived by four sisters and one brother. They are, Mrs. L. D. Newton, Misses Alice, Martha and Isabelle and Henry Christie."

Dr. W.W. Russell, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Carrie E. Lovejoy, Minneapolis.

The agent of the American Express company at Peekskill, N. Y., yesterday wired the express agent at Bismarck, N. D., to forward the body of Joseph Bassanella to that point, the charges having been guaranteed at that point, and the body will be sent tomorrow. It is understood that relatives of the man live at Peekskill. Bassanella escaped from the penitentiary there last Friday and Saturday afternoon was shot by officers of McLean county while resisting arrest after he had fired six shots at them. He was shot in the brain and before his body fell to the ground he was shot twice again, so rapid was the fire of the automatic revolvers.

Once in a while an actress makes good for her press agent.

THE OREGON R. R. LAND

DISPATCH FROM WASHINGTON SAYS GOVERNMENT IS GETTING BUSY

LEGISLATION ASKED TO TAKE SOME 2,000,000 ACRES FOR THE RAILROAD

From Friday's Daily—

Quite a number of the residents of this section are interested in the Oregon railroad lands, and therefore will be interested in the following dispatch from Washington:

"That the California and Oregon Railroad, a Harriman line, is in danger of losing about 2,000,000 acres of land in California and Oregon, embraced in its grant from the government, is indicated in hearings now being held before the House committee on public lands.

"The department of Agriculture today supplemented the request of the Department of Justice that the House committee pass the Senate resolution authorizing the Attorney General to proceed against the company. The proceedings will seek to bring about a forfeiture of its title to lands on the ground that it has violated the terms of the government grant.

"B. D. Townsend special agent of the Department of Agriculture, told the committee that Harriman in a public speech announced that he and his companies would hold indefinitely the lands granted to them in order to make a big profit, despite the fact that the lands should not be withheld for any purpose but should be sold in tracts of 160 acres upon application of homesteaders."

EDUCATIONAL CONTESTS PLANNED

COMMERCIAL CLUB DONATES $50.00 TO INTEREST CHILDREN IN FARMING

Prof. Dunton of McIntosh is planning to hold a meeting in each of the school districts in the town of King this county for the purpose of interesting the young people in a corn and a pig raising contest. The commercial club has donated $50 to be used in this educational work. The Farmer an agricultural paper published in St. Paul is publishing a series of simple lessons in elementary agriculture adapted to the use of the country schools. This work should be begun in every one of our country schools. Isn't it about time we stopped talking about interesting the boys and girls in the farm life and begin to do it?

ESCAPED DEATH NARROW MARG

HUFF RESIDENCE CORNER ASH AND ROBERT STREETS BURN

FAMILY ESCAPE THRU BOYS DISCOVERY OF FIRE DOWN STAIRS

From Friday's Daily—

At three o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the dwelling on the northeast corner of Roberts and Ash occupied by Peter Huff and family by the 15 year old son Louis Huff just in time to save the life of his mother and himself. The boy awoke, smelled smoke and descended the stairs to find the lower floor enveloped in flames. He and his mother made their escape from the house before the fire had cut them off from the stairway, and turned in an alarm at 3:10 a. m.

The firemen found the house a mass of flames and fought for two hours before they had the upper hand of it. Nothing in the house was saved and the building will perhaps be estimated a total loss. Mr. Huff had a quantity of furniture stored in an adjacent building which was not injured.

Mr. Huff was absent in Grand Forks and found out nothing of the fire until informed of it by the Journal representative at the train this morning.

The building was owned by George Carpenter and was insured for $1200 The contents were insured for $2000. It is believed that the fire caught from an air tight heater on the lower floor.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

Lobskaus From The Roseau Backwoods.

By "BACHELOR"

Motto: Whatever you wish or want, or do, Reject the old and choose the new.

And that is exactly what we fellows up here in Roseau county are going to do,—we will "choose the new".

"Roseau is Up in Arms" appeared in big headlines in your paper a short time ago, Mr. Editor, and now I am going to take you into my confidence and tell you why. In your paper it was stated that we want to cancel the Great Northern right of way because the company will not put rails on the grade this year, but between you and me, Mr. Editor, the real reason lays much deeper than that But, let me explain myself.

Did you fellows down there in Crookston ever hear of the vacuum tube—the new invention that is destined to wipe all the railroads off the face of the earth? No, hardly. For news of the highest importance you better look to us, for we up here, we are the fellows who keep abreast of the times.

I do not suppose that the Queen City hall of fame is decorated with the picture of Joseph Stoetzel. Perhaps you never heard of him. In any event I will tell you who he is, and then you will know. Joseph Stoetzel my friends, is the inventor of the vacuum tube and he lives in Chicago. And now, my dear Crookston readers are you getting interested in the new invention and wish to know something more about it? I should think you are and I am now going to tell you almost all I know about it myself.

The vacuum tube is going to replace all the railroads in the country and the day is not far distant either. Mr. Stoetzel has already made several experiments and he assures the world that his invention is a real go. He has made many trips through his tube at the rate of three miles a minute,—and that is going some, is it not? But he promises a much greater speed than that. When fully completed we can travel over this country at the rate of nine miles a minute. We can leave Roseau in the early morning and reach Crookston before we get our shoes laced, proceed to Chicago for breakfast and arrive in New York for dinner. When vacuum tubes are stretched over the country you Crookston fellows can have your breakfast tables supplied with oranges picked in California the evening before and your wives will be enabled to decorate the table with flowers which bloomed in Florida only a few hours earlier. In point of speed the vacuum tube will even outclass the much renowned seven league boots.

Do I hear some of you laugh? You better not. These are not the times to shrug ones shoulders in distainful contempt whenever science brings forth claims that to laity looks fabulous. Greater wonders by far are worked in our day than any of the miracles recorded in the holy writ. And while I am writing these paragraphs I have laying before me an actual photograph of the invention. Then, what is it?

The Vacuum tube, socalled, is a huge pneumatic tube, wherein cars, conveying passengers and freight, is propelled by air—natural air, such as we breathe. In science air is known as a fluid the weight of which produces a pressure of something between 14 and 15 pounds upon each square inch of the earth's surface. This pressure Mr. Stoetzel has been able to utilize for motive power in his tube. No coal needed for steam no electric current required—no expense in pulling the cars. This is cheap enough. At first people were afraid to accompany Mr. Stoetzel in his trips thinking that they might suffocate inside the tube. But it proved absolutely safe. The car moves just as fast as the air propells it and in spite of the high speed the traveller sits comfortably in an atmosphere that to him seems as calm as t he most beautiful summer night within his memory.

By this time, Mr. Editor, I suppose you commence to realize why we up here in Roseau do not want any more of the Great Northern and its nasty smoky outfit. Altho we may have to say it ourselves, we are up to date in this neck of the woods and such antiquated things as railroads do not go with us any longer. Nothing short of the vacuum tube will satisfy our fancy. And if the Journal had understood the advanced state of affairs up here the news item above referred to would have been written differently.

If you people down in Crookston wish to keep abreast of the times you better make a bargain with Tom Harris or A. A. Glenn to move your city up to Roseau where you at least will have the opportunity to be on top of the earth. And by the time you arrive here, we will have the vacuum tube ready for your convenience. I for one would like to see you move, and for the sake of laying before you some inducement to do so, I now present all of you what Mr. Stoetzel himself says in comparing his invention with the old railroads:

"I see at present two ugly lines of steel upon which run horrible black engines, filling the air with a roaring and hissing, polluting the atmosphere with filthy black smoke, and drawing noisly behind them a string of groaning, crashing, clanking, creaking cars Thousands of acres of land wasted in right af way, rails broken, trains ditched, thousands killed.

But what a change is near at hand! Puff-f-f! Silently the tube trains are whisked away under the ground. No noise, no smoke, no dirt nor collisions nor wrecks or grade crossing accidents. No waste of land, for above the electric lighted tubes wave fields of wheat and corn. No delays, no washouts, no tieups, no fires destroying lives and property."

Such are the glad tidings that now come from Chicago. No wonder Mr. Editor, that we in Roseau county do not want any more Greenbush extensions.

Oh, yes the days of the old-fashioned railroads are numbered, and, like the Babylonian monarch of old, our railroad kings have seen the handwriting on the wall. They know that their property will be worthless and that all the railroad bonds will be good for nothing except as basis for money.—Hence the Aldrich bill.

The Aldrich bill has been styled "a measure of expediency." Why, all such measures in which the big captains of industry and finance are interested are claimed to be measures of expediency. That is not new. It is as old as the railroads. And the means and the manner employed in passing such bills have also in return been most significantly styled "to railroad them thru." How the Aldrich bill is being "railroaded thru" we do not know much about—not even in Roseau County. When they get our representatives down to that secluded, political bullpen called Washington we do not hear any more of what they are doing. We are not permitted to know any more than it suits the interests to let us know thru the big dailies they themselves control. Our representatives are taken so far away and shut up so securely that they are entirely separated from their constituents. It is nice for the interests to have the capital city so far removed from the people and from the center of the country is it not?

From what has leaked out through the press a close and critical observer can notice two important propositions in the said Aldrich bill. One of those propositions is to make railroad bonds the basis for currency and the other and by far the most important, is to make congress surrender its constitutional right to issue and control the money of the country to some banks, particularly to John P. Morgan Co. Suppose then, that the bill does pass and becomes a law and suppose also that Stoetzel's invention provees all he claims for it what do you think will happen, my dear friends? A quarter of a billion dollars based on worthless bonds would make it necessary to tell us every day in the week that our money "is good in Jurope." Yes sir.

But, if congress does surrender its power to issue and contrul the money, the dear people will not know it for a long time; neither would such an act be without a parallel or precedent in history. For something more than 200 years ago England imported a foreign man and woman (William and Mary) and made them king and queen of all the Britons and parliament enacted a declaration of surrender of power to them in the following language:

"The Lord's spiritual and temporal, and Commons, do, in the name of the people aforesaid (meaning the people of England) most humbly and faithfully submit themselves their heirs and posterity forever, and bind us, our heirs and our posterity, to them their heirs and posterity to the end of them."

I quote the above from the English parliament for the benefit of our congressmen, so that they—when the surrender is made to Morgan & Co., —will be enabled to couch the conveyance in such humiliating phrases as the occasion merits.

HANS SAMUELSON ADMIRES JOHNSON

To the Crookston Journal:

With regard to the organizations of the so-called Bryan volunteers which was started by the call published in your paper of Friday the 13th inst., I wish to state that I did not sign that call in person, and only had general information about it over the telephone from one of the persons interested in getting it up. While I am a great admirer of William J. Bryan I am also an admirer of Governor Johnson and I do not wish and did not intend to be a party to any movement in opposition to Governor Johnson. I think that Governor Johnson's personal qualifications and service to the democratic party in this state entitles him to the respect and consideration of all democrats in Minnesota.

Yours respectfully,

—Hans Samuelson.

GIVEN SLIP BY HIS "AFFINITY"

TENSTRIKE MAN HAS AN EXPERIENCE WITH RED LAKE FALLS DRESSMAKER

DUG UP COIN AND CAME TO CROOKSTON WHERE FAIR ONE MADE GET-A-WAY

From Thursday's Daily—

Henry Thompson of Tenstrike has lost all faith in woman kind, and believes Cupid is about the most wretched shot on record. While his experience did not cost a fortune, only about $150, he is mad, madder than a March hare. It seems he became enamored of a dressmaker of Red Lake Falls and day before yesterday repaired to that city to meet his affinity. The young woman was willing to cast her lot with his—but she had a few debts about town which must first be squared. Henry dug down into his jeans and produced six crisp $10 bills and the debts were squared.

Then there were some hats and other necessaries that must be forthcoming at once and Henry dutifully dug up about $40 more.

Then the two came to Crookston and engaged apartments at a leading hotel. Henry of course had the check to the young woman's trunk, the two intending to leave night before last for Tenstrike—at least Henry did, the young woman evidently having other intentions. During the forenoon the two did some more shopping at Henry's expense. That afternoon the young woman feigned weariness and said she would take a nap while Henry took a stroll about the city. Henry carlessly left the check for the trunk on the bureau in his room.

His affinity stole in while he was absent and swiped the check, ordered a hack, had the trunk taken to South Crookston and boarded the train for Fargo or some point further on.

Henry returned and found his affinity missing. He grew suspicious and discovered that the trunk was also missing. Henry raved. He swore that all women were false, he vowed he never wanted to see another woman—and after missing his first train took the next one back to Tenstrike a dejected, distrustful man.

His affinity has not yet been heard from, but is probably opening dressmaking parlors in some distant town.

CLOSE CALL FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

The mixture exployed filling the room with flames Young Tilton and Miss Barton took refuge in a small pantry and endeavored to break open the window. They were unable to do this and Tilton made a dash thru the flames to the outside and broke open the window, wrapping Miss Barton in an overcoat and taking her thru the window. Both of the younger people were badly burned altho Mrs. Tilton escaped with but minor injuries. The house was saved only thru the heroic work of the neighbors.

OBJECT TO OVERTIME

RAILROADS ASK CONFERENCE ON NEW TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE

RAILROADS WILL CANCEL ALL THE OLD AGREEMENTS MADE

Nearly all the northwestern railroads have served notice of cancellation of existing schedules relative to the pay of telegraphers and have asked for a conference respecting a new agreement. Several such conferences will be held during the next two or three weeks and there may be a struggle between the telegraphers' order and the railroads regarding pay for overtime.

It is said to be the purpose of some of the railroads to disregard overtime in so far as it affects the pay of telegraphers. Under the present schedule overtime is paid for pro rata, but the men receive not less than 25 cents on hour. The roads may try to wipe out overtime pay altogether on the ground that the men cannot justly demand it.

Telegraphers' pay is by the month. Before the passage of the new law the officials working day which must be completed before the time accrued, consisted of twelve hours. Under the new law the day consists of nine hours and overtime will be greatly diminished by the operation of the law. It is only in cases of emergency and in certain kinds of stations that the operator can work more than nine hours and emergency cases must not arrive more than three times a week and then not to exceed four hours at a time. Emergency is only creator of overtime now. As the working day has been decreased to nine hours the railroads feel that they ought not to be asked to pay for overtime.

The cancellation of the schedules or agreements between the telegraphers and the railroads was made necessary because quite a number of the rules and regulations are contrary to the new law. It is asserted by the railroad managers generally that they do not propose reducing the pay of operators, unless the abolition of over time may be regarded as a reduction.

GOVERNMENT HANDS OVER PATENTS

98 OF THEM PASS THRU CROOKSTON LAND OFFICE

The Crookston office of the United State Land Office has received from the government ninety-eight patents to land under this jurisdiction and these are being delivered to the proper owners thruout the north country. By these ninety-eight patents as many parcels of land pass into the hands of private owners and become taxable property. The stringent homesteading laws under which these patents have been obtained guarantee as far as can be possible that every man is a bona fide settler and resident.

O.E. ERICKSON PLAYS DETECTIVE

O. E. Erickson the well known traveling man of this city is receiving considerable notoriety in Duluth. He thought he was on a murder scent but don't like the boys to talk about the experience now. The following story of his adventure is taken from the Duluth News Tribune and is true:

"O. E. Erickson a guest at the St. Louis, went to bed early the other evening and had dozed for a spell when he was awakened by harsh language. He listened intently and plain as could be he heard a man in the next room say: "I'll kill you for that!" The words were uttered with all the wicked tone and emphasis of which a human being is capable. Mr. Erickson wondered if he should interfere. He was sure that somebody was about to be murdered. He thought of telephoning the office but that would take time. Mr. Erickson leaped out of bed and started for the door. He had resolved to prevent the commission of a terrible crime. Clearly it was his duty. Perhaps the victim was some innocent and defenseless woman. Thoughts such as this flashed thru his excited mind, and then he heard voices again from the room.

"Naw! Naw! don't say it that way; say it this way!" and the voice repeated in hissing tones: "I'll kill you for that!"

Mr. Erickson paused. A relieved grin spread over his face, and as he crept back into bed he muttered:

"It's some of those darned actors rehearsing. My, but they gave me a turn worse than a rarebit dream."

DEEP CRACKS FROM ECZEMA

Could Lay Slate-Pencil in One—Hands in Dreadful State—Disease Defied Remedies and Prescriptions—Suffered Seven Years.

FOUND A PERMANENT CURE IN CUTICURA

"I had eczema on my hands for about seven years and during that time I had used several so-called remedies, together with physicians' and druggists' prescriptions. The disease was so bad on my hands that I could lay a slate-pencil in one of the cracks and a rule placed across the hand would not touch the pencil. I used ——, ——, —— Skin Lotion, —— Remedy and others externally but I did not use any internal remedy, and while some gave partial relief, none relieved as much as did the first box of Cuticura Ointment. I made a purchase of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my hands were perfectly cured after two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of soap were used. I now keep them on hand for sunburn, etc., and use Cuticura Soap for shaving. I could write a great deal more in reference to my cure but do not want to take more of your time. William H. Dean, Newark, Del., Mar. 28, 1907."

CHILD SUFFERED

With Sores on Legs. Cured in Two Weeks by Cuticura.

"My little daughter suffered with sores on her legs all last summer. Her feet were sore, too, and she couldn't wear her shoes. I think she was poisoned by running through weeds but the doctor said it was eczema. I tried several remedies but failed to find a cure. Then I sent for Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her in two weeks. I find Cuticura the best I ever tried for any kind of sore and I hope I shall never be without it. Mrs. Gertie Laughlin, Ivydale, W. Va., Apr. 25, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Telegraphing Made Easy

F. T. Vail, formerly chief operator of the "Soo Line" at Minneapolis, now the chief electrician of the International Vailograph Co. with an aggressive and pushing organization at his back, is heralded as the latest great inventor in the telegraphic field.

As is generally known, a telegraph operator "talks by dots and dashes" made with a key that opens and closes the electric circuit. To make dots and dashes is nerve racking work. In rapid sending it is estimated that an operator makes 30,000 nerve movements an hour. Mr. Vail has invented a machine that makes this mere child's play, as the Vailograph makes the dots. A large number of telegraph operators and other people with money to invest are buying stock in the company, which has recently installed a factory at Minneapolis and will sell its product all over the world. Parties seeking a safe investment will find it to their interest to write the

AWFUL DEED OF INSANE POLE

ANTON MRNAK WHO PASSED TRU CROOKSTON MONDAY DISEM BOWELED HIMSELF

WAS ENROUTE HOME FROM THE MINNESOTA WOODS—DIED AT FARGO THIS MORNING

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

Yesterday morning on the G. N. passenger near Fargo Anton Mrnak was found in the toilet room of the car, in a pool of blood, completely disemboweled. He had slashed himself horribly while he was temporarily insane.

Mrnak passed thru Crookston Monday evening, and acted so queerly that the train crew and passengers were attracted and watched him clesely. At Grand Forks he was arrested because of his antics, but as he did not seem violent his money, $63 was given to Conductor Wright for safe keeping and he was allowed to continue his journey to Mandan.

Mrnak is a Polander and has a wife and several children at Mandan. He was 45 years of age.

A message from Fargo this afternoon states that Mrnak died shortly before noon today.

CHILGREN THE MODEL OF THE NORTH

FORMER CROOKSTON ATTORNEY SETS RECORDS IN NORTHERN WOODS

Albert Chilgren, a well known attorney and prominent citizen of the city, is establishing a record on his claim a few miles north of Williams where he went last fall to recuperate his failing health. Jas. Boulger, formerly of Gladstone, Mich., was in the city today with Adolph Sorenson, for six years a settler north of Williams, the former of whom is making commutation proof on a claim about two miles north of Chilgren's. They say the Crookston man has cleared away two acres of heavy timber at one place on his claim and made many other improvements at other points. These were done without assistance. Mr. Sorenson says that is a record for that country.

The two visitors state that the contractors on tie work and other railway timbers have more than filled the enormous contracts they took at the beginning of season and the weather has in no way hindered the transportation of logs. Among these contractors were Malloney Bros., of Stephen, Minn., and Cones and Norquist of Roosevelt.

OLD VALLEY BARBER PASSES AWAY

WILLIAM W. EAGLE OF CROOKSTON, FORMERLY OF FERTILE DIED TODAY

William W. Eagle, among the best known of the pioneer barbers of this section 40 years of age passed away this morning at his residence on Front St., after an illness of two weeks with typhoid fever. Deceased was formerly located at Fertile for many years, and after removing to Crookston assisted at the St. Marie parlors on Main and then purchased quarters in the basement of the Rauch Block corner of Main and Second. Mr. Eagle leaves a wife and five children, the eldest fourteen years of age. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge. The remains will be taken to Fertile this evening and the funeral will be held Friday.

BUY MORE LAND AT HUOT DAM

The Crookston Water Works Power and Light Co., have just completed a deal for the purchase of several hundred acres near their proposed 30,000 horsepower dam at Huot, about 10 miles up the Red Lake River from this point. They have been purchasing rock from the farmers who have been hauling to the dam site all winter and active construction work will begin net summer. They now own about 3,000 acres near Huot which includes all the land that will be over-flowed when the dam is constructed. For the last pieces they had to pay fancy prices as some of the farmers got "next" before all the options were secured, and as a result got twice what their lands would have brought ordinarily, knowing the company would be forced to purchase.

GOOD NEWS FROM NORTH

BANKER MELGAARD OF ARGYLE TALKS OF RECENT FARMERS INSTITUTE THERE

OVER 300 FARMERS PRESENT AND ALL GREATLY INTERESTED IN DIVERSIFYING

From Tuesday's Daily—

H. L. Melgaard of Argyle one of the leading bankers of Marshall County, who is also interested in about a dozen other banks in the northern counties of the state, was in the city yesyesterday and in discussing conditions in the Red River Valley said to a representative of the Journal:

"Never since I have been in the Red River Valley, which numbers over a score of years, have I noted a greater degree of optimism among the farmers. I say farmers advisedly, for it is but within the past year or two that we could properly call them farmers. They were formerly wheat raisers and not farmers in the broader sense of the word.

"Last week we had a farmers' institute at Argyle, and though we have a commodious hall it was entirely inadequate. There were over 300 farmers present and the way they fired questions regarding clover raising and other pasture grasses, and dairying was certainly gratifying.

When time came for final adjournment they hung on and all seemed loath to leave the hall. They gathered about the institute leaders and plied them with all manner of questions, and later gathered in knots in stores and other places and talked diversified farming, exchanging views etc., displaying an unprecedented interest in all branches of farming.

"What makes this condition of affairs so promising is that a year or two ago it was impossible to get the farmers to attend an institute of this kind. The business men would persuade the few farmers who happened to be in town to attend the institute perhaps, but they displayed no interest and were of the opinion that all talk of diversified farming was theoretictl and not practiced. Now they are of a different opinion. Within the next few years the Red River Valley from one end to the other will be one of the richest diversified farming sections of the United States. The start has been made and permanent prosperity is certain."

RED HOT TIMES IN PARNELL AND BELGIUM

TOWNS IN MARKET FOR ROAD GRADER—AGENTS WARM UP

Saturday was a warm day in Parnell and Belgium, for the town boards of those respective towns are planning to purchase a road grader and the agents of the Russell and Austin Western people were on the ground with the merits of their machines. The Parnell meeting was pulled off at two o'clock and the Belgium board a little later. Agents Walter Stone, Scotland, Johnson and Clements with headquarters of the Crookston were followers of the meetings. The grader was not purchased.

DOES NOT FAVOR EXTRA SESSION

Senator A. D. Stephens when interviewed regarding the decision of the U. S. supreme court which invalidates the Minnesota R. R. rate laws passed at the last session, said he would not favor a special session of the legislature to pass new rate laws as the regular session will come but a few months after a special session could be held. If the railroads declare present rates off and attempt to establish rates higher, the Railroad and Warehouse commission can fix rates they believe are reasonable after investigation, and get the matter into the courts again in that way.

SOW ALL THEIR LAND TO OATS

MANAGER JOHN LISTON OF IRVINE LUMBER CO., LOOKING AFTER FARMS

SAYS AMERICAN LUMBER COMPANIES ARE THICK IN CANADIAN PINERIES

From Monday's Daily—

John Liston, manager of the farms of the Irvine Lumber Co., arrived in the city last evening from Davidson, Canada, which is located about midway between Regina and Prince Albert, where the company has a 3,000 acre farm, 1200 acres of which will be seeded to oats this year which was broken last year. The company has a half section at Euclid, and 640 acres east of this city, and 800 acres near Towner, N. D., all of which will be seeded to oats this spring, the company making it a practice to raise their own feed, using the horses required in the logging camps in the winter to operate the farms in the summer.

The past winter the Irvine Lumber Co. has banked millions of feet of logs for the Prince Albert Lumber Co at Prince Albert. The Prince Albert Lumber Co., is practically the same as the Thief River Falls Lumber Co., headed by D. N. Winton and others, who have secured millions of feet of choice pine adjacent to Prince Albert where they have a large mill and will run day and night shifts and expect to start within the next two weeks.

Manager Liston states that logging and lumber companies which until a couple of years ago did business exclusively in the pineries of Minnesota and Wisconsin are now thicker than bees in the great Canadian timber belt, and that thousands upon thousands of the American lumber jacks find work there. Millions of feet of the Canadian pine will not be available till logging railroads are constructed as there are no streams with in hauling distance of the great majority of the Canadian pine.

With few exceptions there is no hope of getting these railroads for a decade or more, and many who have taken Canadian timber claims find there is no market for their land, and will not be for some time to come except in cases where there are streams down which the logs can be floated, as the railroads will have all they can do for years to complete main line construction and leading feeders.

Mr. Liston will look over the Irvine farm near Crookston for a day and tomorrow will go to Euclid from where he will take the N. P. for the farm near Towner, N. D. Yesterday he looked up his many friends in Crookston for a few hours' chat. Mr. Liston is well known thruout this section, having been a resident of East Grand Forks for years and served terms on the city council at that place.

OREN SIMMONS HOLDS RECORD

HAS BEEN TOWN CLERK OF RUSSIA TOWNSHIP FOR PAST 27 YEARS

Oren Simmons, the town Clerk of Russia Township, Polk Co., located just six miles south of Crookston has served in that capacity for 27 consecutive years and is of the opinion that he has held the same office continuously longer than any other man in the state of Minnesota. He was just elected for his 28th term and is pardonably proud of his record. Next to him comes Henry Gendron of Gentilly township who has served for 20 consecutive terms.

Not only this, but he has taken the Journal for the past 29 years and when in the city last Saturday, paid another year in advance and says he will take it for 29 years longer if he is able to read that long, which judging from his rugged appearance he will do—and more too.

UNCLE SAM PINES FOR SETNOGRAPHERS

FOR THE PHILIPPINES AND THE CANAL ZONE—GOOD WAGES

Girls, here's a chance to take a trip to Panama or across the balmy Pacific to the Philippines. If ordinary work in a hot, stuffy office has grown irksome, if you begin to feel that your nimble fingers are not pounding out as large an income on the typewriter as you think you're entitled to, just get into touch with your Uncle Samuel. Under certain conditions he will pay all your expenses to the south seas, where the breezes blow soft o'er spicy isles.

The government wants stenographers and wants them badly and is willing to pay the price. An attempt will be made to recruit them in the northwest March 29, when an examination will commence in the Minneapolis federal building, under the supervision of J. M. Schumaker of St. Paul, of the civil service department.

As special inducement to members of both sexes who may prove themselves eligible for employment, they are given to understand that office hours are from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and that they are allowed a leave of absence of thirty days each year on full pay. The salaries for departmental service range from $840 a year to $1,200 tho a majority of the stenographers and typewriters are started at $900.

Those who go to the canal zone will draw $1500 a year. Berths in the Philippines pay from $1,200 to $1,400.

500 CORDS ON THE ROSEAU

PREPARATIONS MADE TO MAKE 1908 GREATEST DRAINAGE YEAR

CONTRACTS TO FINISH ON LAST YEARS' APPROPRIATIONS—LABOR

From Monday's Daily—

Capt. Jas. A. Beard of the big Roseau dredging project has gathered five hundred cords of wood on the banks of the Roseau, Jerry Sherwood of Litchfield who secured the lower sixteen miles of the project has gathered hundreds of tons of coal along his route down the river and widespread preparations have been made by every dredging and ditching company to push their work this year. More ditch work will be completed this year than ever before both in county and state and judicial district.

More ditches are underway than plans and appropriations for the year will show for there and many constructions to be made on contracts the time limits for which have already expired altho money is set aside for them. The regular amount of ditch work for the year is above that of other previous years. In Polk county alone there are ten ditchhes whose contracts called for their completion before January 1, last but which will be completed under the coming season's business.

Dred and ditch men are just coming to understand and organize their work as it has peculiarities in this northern country nowhere else existing. The drainage board and the county commissioners and other bodies in charge of the pubic's end of the jobs are bringing a little more pressure to bear this year than before and it is probable that from now on the percentage of uncompleted contracts at the end of every ditching season will become smaller and smaller.

There are nearly twenty dredging machines in the state and will probably be that many before July 1st. The prospects that frost will be out of the ground early this year notwithstanding an open winter will aid in getting under headway quick and general fuel and other preparations will keep things moving thruout the year.

NO TRACE FOUND OF FISHER ROBBERS

Marshall O'Brien of the village of Fisher spent Saturday night in Crookston trying to locate the gang that broke into Kile's General store, Hamilton's Hardware Store, Widenhoefer's jewelry store and the saloons of Albert Jance and Carl Vinje of Fisher last Saturday morning rifling the tills of about $50 in change and helping themselves to about $500 worth of merchandise in the five places. He is of the opinion that as no attempt was made to blow any of the safes that the work was done by amateurs There were no strangers in Fisher the night before barring a number of men dressed as lumber jacks and who it was supposed had just returned from the lumber camps.

Without doubt it was some of the men dressed as woodsmen who pulled off the deal, but Marshal O'Brien had no description by which the men could be identified by officers, tho he believes he would recognize any of the men if he saw them. He found none of them here tho every saloon and hotel of the city was thoroly searched.

EIGHT HOUR LAW INSPIRES CHANGES IN MANAGEMENT OF STATIONS

TWENTY-FIVE ON THE NORTHERN DIVISION TO LOSE LIGHTNING JERKERS

Owing to the eight hour operators' law twenty-five stations on the Northern Division of the G. N. have been or will soon be cut down from an operator's station to the care of a stationmaster or a custodian while one or two will be cut out altogether.

The stations to be affected are, Argyle, Sandridge, Angus, Shelly, Beltrami, Rustad, Borup, Perley, Climax, Nielsville, Comstock, Northcote, Donaldson, Middle River, Euclid, Mentor, Felton, Lockhart, Georgetown, Kent, Hendrum, Kennedy, Hallock, Kragness and Humboldt.

The stations where operators have already been cut out are Euclid, Angus Donaldson, Kennedy, Humboldt, Perley, Mentor, Rustad, Sandridge, Shelly and Kent.

In some cases this means a reduction of salary with perquisites that the operator gets at his station of from as high as $90 to $40 per month at each station. The matter will cause widespread dissatisfaction both on the part of the operators and the residents of the villages affected.

TODAY'S STORM IS NO JOKE

D. [illegible] ST SNOW OF WINTER ON [illegible] IL 1ST—EIGHT [illegible] HES

COMMERCIAL BUSINESS IMPEDED—SEEDING DREAMS FADE FOR A TIME

From Wednesday's Daily—

The northwest is in the grasp of the most severe blizzard of 1908. Three rural mail carriers of the six that go from Crookston tried to make their way out on their routes but it is hardly probable that they will get very far. The trains have not suffered very much as yet but there is little telling what the drifts of snow may do to traffic.

The storm descended so unexpectedly that lack of preparation for it delayed the facilities of the city and it was not until late this morning that the walks were cleared in the residence sections of the city. Reports from cities up and down the Valley show that the blizzard was general. April Fool day ushered in a touch of winter and the dreams of seeding in the next week now a glimmering go. The fall is about eight inches.

City people who could not get to their homes with ease this noon flooded the uptown restaurants and hotels, taxing the facilities of these places which met the forced expansion with success. The railways will undoubtedly have to put out additions to their operating forces.

TOOK FENCES DOWN TOO SOON

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific officials are doing some very quiet but vigorous swearing this morning owing to the fact that all snow fences were ordered down a few days ago and practically all of them were taken down. As a result all the cuts are nicely filled today and trains correspondingly late.

MINNEAPOLIS ENGINEER HERE

ELLIS DUTTON REMARKS WELL OF CROOKSTON'S MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

Ellis Dutton, city engineer of Minneapolis arrived in the city yesterday from Grand Forks where he had been visiting and remained over the day been visiting and remained over the day here with City Engineer Carroll to view the work of this city. Mr. Dutton is on a professional junket thr uthe northwest, going from this city to Winnipeg last night. This is his first trip in the northwest and he is agreeably surprised at the remarkable improvement of Crookston and surrounding cities.

TWO TOWNS AFTER RAILROAD CROSSING

T. H. Aakhus, chairman of the town board of the town of King, accompanied by Christ Matteson of the town of Lessor arrived in the city this morning from McIntosh, the former of these on official business connected with the project of a railway crossing over the Great Northern right of way between the sections of 36 in King and 31 in Brandsvold. There is no road on this line but farmers think they would be convenienced if a road is provided for them there and are pushing efforts to gain same.

An Insidious Danger

CLAIMS HUBBY ROBBED HER; WANTS HOMESTEAD

Maggie Odegaard Tells Pathetic Tale Of Cruelty And Robbery.

Maggie Odegaard a woman 49 years old, contests today the claim of Iver Mikkelson in the town of Badger Roseau on the basis of a tale of marital woes and inhuman robbery.

In the summer of 1902 Maggie was a toiling servant girl who with frugality and industry had saved $1200 of the world's wealth. On July 4th of that year she was married to John E. Kleppe who had filed on a claim (NE 1-4, town 161, range 42) in the vicinity of the village of Badger in Roseau county. On August 7th, 1907 after five years, Maggie Odegaard was granted a divorce in the Roseau county court on the grounds of inhuman treatment and that her husband committed unnatural crimes and revolting practices.

She was at that time granted $300 alimony and one third interest in the homestead of Kleppe, so goes the charges. In addition to this the Roseau county court gave her a lien for $1200 on the claim of Kleppe in return for her savings which he had taken to his own use and the improvement of the claim. One week after the granting of this divorce Kleppe relinquished his claim to Iver Mikkelson his nephew who had just arrived from Norway for the very purpose of taking this claim, so states the documents. Now comes Maggie Odegaard to contest the claim of this newcomer to the homestead which she and her husband occupied.

Attorney Jas. Montague represents the plaintiff in the case and Attorney Eric Haggen looks after the interests of Ivar Mikkelson.

Tom Durgin, well known livery man at Badger and justice of peace, August Johnson, Andrew Wilkstran, Erik Erikson and C. E. Clive who are witnesses and officials in t he case are in the city.

FOULKES CLEARED; JUDGE APOLOGIZED

Winnipeg, March 30.—George E. Foulkes the United States secret service agent, was today acquitted of the charge of kidnapping Albert E. Tolton a British subject across the boundary line at Emerson.

The court based the discharge on the integrity of the accused American and on his honesty of purpose as guardian of customs. The judge held there was no evidence that violence had been used.

Judge Cameron apologized on behalf of the Canadian government at the inconvenience to which Foulkes had been subjected.

It came out in the evidence that Tolton weighed 180 pounds and Foulkes 126 pounds and much amusement was created when Tolton told how he was taken bodily across the line by the United States secret service man. Tolton was accused of smuggling grain when he was accosted by Foulkes in the course of his investigation.

Judge Cameron's judgment is such a complete exoneration of the American agent that it is worthy of note. The court said: "I find the evidence somewhat conflicting and confused and not sufficient to support the indictment. As to the facts of the case it would seem to me to be out of the question to hold that there has been any threats, duress or force used by the accused. I would find that Tolton, the Canadian farmer, went across the line without the use of threats duress or force. This man signed a document in United States territory that he went to that territory of his own free will. Moreover it strikes me that the return of Tolton to Minnesota the next day after the alleged kidnapping, without any violence or threats, permits the legitimate inference that he was there the evening before of his own free will.

"In conclusion I would find that the actions of Foulkes were acts of persuasion and that there were no exhibition of force under the terms of the statute, and that Tolton accompanied him across the boundary without resistance. I have no hesitation in saying that Foulkes is not guilty. I discharge the prisoner."

GREAT FAITH IN POTATOES

LARIMORE MAN HAS GREAT SUCCESS IN RAISING "SPUDS"

GETS BIG RETURNS FROM CROP AND LARGE WHEAT YIELD FOLLOWS

From Wednesday's Daily—

J. P. Pfifer of Larimore, was here a short time ago attending to some business matters with Messrs. Brown and McPhee of the Red River Valley Land Co. Mr. Pfifer for the past few years has been extensively engaged in raising potatoes. In 1906 he had a large acreage and the crop netted him $43.73 per acre and he states the crop was not very good at that. On top of this, however, he raised 31 bu., per acre of wheat from the same land and did not even drag the land before he seeded it last spring, and he sold the wheat for $1.04 per bushel which made a very nice profit.

Mr. Pfifer believes that the northwest should produce several hundred percent more potatoes than in the past, as the crop is not only very profitable, but that it leaves the land in excellent shape for a bumper wheat crop because of the cultivation.

LAW MAY BE KNOCKED OUT

RAILROAD ATTORNEYS CLAIM MINNESOTA DECISION AFFECTS DEMURRAGE LAW

A DEMURRAGE CLAIM TURNED DOWN BY THE GREAT NORTHERN

From Monday's Daily—

Railroad attorneys claim that Minnesota's reciprocal demurrage law has been knocked out by the decision of the United States supreme court on the employers' liability law. In that decision the court declared the whole act of congress invalid because it assumed to regulate the whole railroad business, not only interstate but intrastate business. According to the decision, congress went beyond its authority in assuming to regulate commerce within state lines therefore the law is void.

The claim that Minnesota's reciprocal demurrage law is void is based on the fact that it imposes a penalty for failure to furnish cars when ordered, and does not distinguish between cars ordered for shipment within the state, and those ordered for intersttae business. The railroads have always declared the law invalid as to interstate business, and have been ready to contest claims presented of that character. They have, however, paid without protest several claims on cars wanted for shipments within Minnesota.

Now they take the stand that the whole law is void. A demurrage claim for a Minnesota shipment was turned down by the Great Northern a few days ago upon the ground that under the employers' liability decision, the whole demurrage act is void, for the same construction is placed upon both acts.

BRUTAL MURDER NEAR KENMARE

A WELL KNOWN FARMER WAS SHOT DOWN AND ROBBED BY HIS HIRED MEN

ARRESTS FOLLOWED AND CONFESSION TO CRIME WAS SECURED

From Wednesday's Daily—

Gus. Johnson a prominent farmer living five miles south of Kenmare N. D., was foully murdered and R. S. Noah and Patsy Coyle are lodged in the Ward County jail charged with the crime.

Three weeks ago Johnson engaged Noah to work for him. Last Tuesday Noah came to Kenmare and informed the citizens that Johnson had been suddenly called to Sweden by the death of his mother and that his goods and stock had been turned over to Noah for disposal. On that trip he claimed to have engaged Patsy Coyle who left the Bismarck penitentiary a week ago after having served a year's sentence in connection with the Newport robbery last year.

Suspicion Aroused

Noah disposed of two loads of grain at Kenmare and one at Kennaston. Sunday a Mr. Johnson a neighbor of the murdered man became suspicious as his friend had said nothing to him about his departure. The sale of the grain and the horses looked strange to him and he asked for an investigation. The two men were arrested and taken to Kenmare, where a preliminary hearing was given them on the charge of stealing wheat. In the meantime Postmaster Dodds, of Kenaston made a thoro investigation of the house. On the floor he found a piece of new linoleum which aroused his suspicion. This was torn up and beneath it was found blood stains over the trap door leading to the cellar. In the cellar was found the body of Johnson showing unmistakable marks of violence. The two men were immediately placed under heavy guards in the Commercial hotel at Kenmare. Special police were sworn in and they guarded the hotel at every entrance. When the news of the murder was spread abroad there was instant talk of lynching and it was rumored that a crowd of farmer neighbors of the murdered man were on their way to the hotel.

Help from Minot

The sheriff was summoned from Minot and arrived on the night train with his deputies and the men are now lodged in the county jail. Johnson has been living near Kenmare for some time and is a well known and respected citizen. His wife from whom he was divorced was living on a claim about two miles from her husband with her daughter.

State's Attorney McGee in his official capacity interviewed the prisoners this afternoon and secured a complete confession from Noah. It seems that Noah shot Johnson in the back of the head while he was sleeping, threw the body in the cellar, the bed back of an outhouse and then expected to cover up his crime long enough to sell the goods and get out of town.

CAMPAIGN FUND GRAFTERS' TRICK

FEDERAL OFFICIALS ARE ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE SOME CASH

THEY ARE VIOLATING LAW IN SOLICITING FROM U. S. OFFICIALS

From Thursday's Daily— ...

Agents of certain political organizations are taking some long chances in going out to collect campaign funds from federal officials.

News has come in from several directions that traveling representatives claiming to stand for a Taft committee or organization of some kind have gone to postmasters and other federal officials in the state, asking them to contribute to a campaign fund in the interests of the war secretary. The heads of the Taft organization in Minnesota say no one has been authorized to collect any funds. The work being done for Taft is done voluntarily, and the fund must be collected for some other purpose, not stated.

Apparently the collectors do not know that it is a penal offense to solicit campaign contributions from federal appointees.

Another form of the campaign fund "graft" was reported yesterday. A man claiming to represent the county option interests blew into a Minnesota town and approached the postmaster for a contribution. He said it was to be used to get control of the legislature for county option, and elect a speaker who favored that reform. It is suspected that this is another case of a fund being collected for one purpose, but ostensibly for one very dif-

HEIRS WERE NEGLECTFUL

CLEARWATER COUNTY HOMESTEADER'S BROTHER FAILED TO IMPROVE

U. S. LAND OFFICE REJECTS — 12 MILES NORTH OF SHEVLIN

From Thursday's Daily— ...

Ole Overland, as an heir of Knut O. Overland, offered proof in support of the homestead entry of Knut O. Overland deceased. The proof was rejected at the land office in this city for the reason that it appeared that the deceased never lived upon the land and the heirs particularly the brother failed to commence the cultivation or improvement of the land until last June. This will mean that the homestead entry will be canceled either by contest or by reason of the epiration of the seven years after entry with out proof. The entry expires next May and the time elapsing after the commencement of the improvements and cultivation on the land by the heirs up till May, when the seven years from the date of entry expires, will be too short a time for the keeping up of the cultivation and improvements to entitle the heirs to make proof.

The land is about twelve miles north of Shevlin in Clearwater county.

It is very easy for the heirs of a deceased person to hold the homestead after the death of the entryman said Judge Montague today. It can be held merely by caring for and cultivating the land, without any residence but the acts of care and cultivation should commence within a reasonable time after the death, and if carried on for a sufficient length of time, so that when added to the time during which the entryman before his death complied with the law, proof may be made. Otherwise the entry must be canceled.

This land will be lost thru the carelessness of the heirs.

BRYAN FORCES HAD FULL SWAY

REFUSED TO PASS RESOLUTION COMMENDING GOV. JOHNSON FOR WORK DONE

W. J. Bryan was endorsed by the democrats of North Dakota in state convention assembled yesterday at Grand Forks without a dissenting vote, as the choice of the party in this state as a candidate for president, by the unanimous adoption of the report of the committee on resolutions. The Johnson supporters were not even allowed the comfort of having the Minnesota governor named as the second choice of the convention. In several of the addresses made during the convention, Gov. Johnson was mentioned and his name always evoked cheers from the convention. One of the speakers suggested that the Bryan enthusiasts could magnanimously afford to declare for Johnson for second choice but the suggestion was not adopted and the sentiment of the convention in favor of Bryan was indicated by the enthusiasm manifested whenever his name was mentioned.

SENSATIONAL HNDCAR RUNAWAY

Yesterday section foreman, Carlson of Harold station, and well known good fellow about these parts arrived in the city with his wife and another lady who in turn was accompanied ferent.
by one of the section hands at Harold employed under Mr. Carlson. The party went up town intending to take the freight south. In some manner the men folks separated from the ladies and the headquarters at the station when the freight arrived showed the presence only of Mr. Carlson, his wife and the girl. They waited until they missed the freight and then, much put out, put the handcar on the tracks and headed for Harold station Mr. Carlson at the helm of the sturdy ship.

An hour later the belated section hand hove to, to find the young lady of his heart missing. The bystanders on the platform informed him of the departure of the car bearing the Harold station people and he started on a run down the track to rear his signal of distress in hopes that the hand car might be sighted. The last seen of the gentleman he was doing a slow and disgruntled saunter about four miles south of the city.

THE G. N. AGENT LEFT IN A HURRY

QUICK CHANGE WORK SEEMS TO BE THE STYLE AT MIDDLE RIVER

Earl Retrie, the agent for the Great Northern at Middle River, left suddenly for points unknown last Saturday. He closed up the depot and walked to Newfolden where it is thot he took the flyer to Winnipeg. He was not short in his accounts or did not owe the people of Middle River anything, but was wanted for some crime in Pennsylvania, his former home, and the authorities had located him at Middle River.

Of the affair the Middle River Pioneer says:

"Middle River has a change of depot agents about as often as the moon changes. Agent Earl Retrie left unceremoniously last Saturday night for parts unknown. It seems he had been in trouble before coming here, for which there was an indictment hanging over him, and he was warned last week by confiding friends to vamoose from here to avoid arrest. Whatever he may have been formerly he proved to be while here, a competent and obliging agent and an all around good fellow and he left many friends who regret the fact and manner of his departure.

"The auditor arrived Monday and took charge of the depot and Tuesday a new agent in the person of H. C Moore appeared upon the scene."

NO BLOOD WAS SPILLED

KRAG-JORGENSON RIFLES AND COLTS REVOLVERS FIGURED IN CLASH

CANUCK DOCTORS FAILED IN ATTEMPT TO VACCINATE THE CROOKSTON BUNCH

From Thursday's Daily—

There came near being a few quarts of blood being spilt at Noyes on the Canadian boundary Wednesday morning when Canadian physicians boarded the train, headed by Dr. Renault and proposed to vaccinate all the passengers from Minnesota claiming that small pox was so prevalent in this state that vaccination was imperative in order to prevent the spread of the disease in Canada.

It happened that there was a party of five on the train from Crookston three of whom, A. P. and John Sandberg and J. N. Kirsch, former publisher of the Crookston Daily Journal were enroute to their claims near Graceton, Minn., and Conductor J. S. Gould of the G. N. and Thomas R. Johnstone, a traveling man, who were enroute to Winnipeg on business.

They got their heads together and revolted when they found what was up When the officials reached the berth occupied by A. P. Sandberg they ran up against a snag. Sandberg was going prepared to remain on his claim several months and among other things had a Krag-Jorgenson rifle and a 44 Colts revolver as companions in his berth.

The physicians wanted to examine his arm or see a certificate to the effect that he had been properly vaccinated recently.

"You bloomin' Englishmen get away from my bunk and let me go to sleep or I'll do a stunt at vaccination myself" said Sandberg who is of a very nervous temperament and is at the same time a disbeliever in vaccination "and if I do there is no question but what it will 'work' all right."

The physicians insisted till finally Sandberg sat up in his bunk and beating a tatoo on his rifle with his revolver told them to come on and vaccinate all they wanted to—providing they liked the looks of his arsenal.

The Canadian arm poisoning artists tackled the others and found that they were also armed for a bear hunt and gave up. By this time the occupants of the slepeing car were all aroused and finding that the physicians had been bluffed by the Crookston men they all joined in the revolt with the result that no one in the car was vaccinated.

The result was that after the Winnipeg flyer had been held for over half an hour the physicians allowed it to proceed with nothing accomplished but the satisfaction of a row.

It seems that they have become imbued with the idea that Minnesota is over run with small pox and the traveling men are up in arms over the annoyance which they are being put to at Noyes every time they cross the boundary by the physicians who insist that they be vaccinated. Some of them go armed with certificates of vaccination, which is all the Canadian inspectors require, but others have not been vaccinated and cannot secure the certificates, and neither will they submit to vaccination, and this means a disagreeable row every time they cross the border into Canada. It appears that all that is necessary is to put up a good strong bluff and the Canadian doctors will back down.

MILLING COMPANY WINS ITS SUIT

Judge Watts this week decided the case of the city of Thief River Falls against the Red Lake Falls Milling company in favor of the latter. The case was started last summer when the defendant milling company removed its elevator into the fire limits of Thief River Falls contrary to the provisions of a fire ordinance. The ordinance reads that building of other than fire proof material shall not be erected within the prescribed territory. Judge Watts holds that this does not prevent moving of frame buildings into the fire limits. The case will undoubtedly be appealed to the supreme court in the hopes that this body will put a more liberal construction upon the ordinance. As the matter now stands, anyone wishing to avoid the ordinance could erect a building outside the fire limits and then remove it within the fire limits. This was not the meaning the city council intended the ordinance should have when it was passed a little over two years ago.

When a man can support his family well generally they are ashamed of him for having no artistic ideals.

DYNAMITED BY MISCREANT

CLEARWATER LAKE DAM NEAR NEVING DESTROYED YESTERDAY

LOGS FLOATED OFF AND MUCH DAMAGE DONE TO NEARBY BUILDINGS

From Friday's Daily—

The Clearwater lake dam, at Neving, Clearwater county, was blown out last night by some miscreant who had some imaginery grudge against the owner of the dam. This dam was built with proper fishways, and has been but little used the past three seasons excepting for the power required to run the waterworks for the Neving buildings and irrigation ditches. It was one of the old land marks having been first constructed in 1879 and rebuilt in 1894.

Certain parties expected to build a flour mill and sawmill at the dam the coming season which would have been a great convenience for the settlers in that section of the country. How the blowing out of the dam will effect the project it is impossible to say at the present time.

The mail carrier from Neving postoffice, reports the explosion that blew out the dam caused such a severe shock that all the windows in Robert Neving's home, barn and outbuildings were broken and considerable other damage occurred around Mr. Neving's place.

The mail carrier states that suspicion rests upon one of Mr. Neving's neighbors as having been the party who blew out the dam and that an investigation has been started in an attempt to locate the damblower.

It is reported that the S. P. K. Lumber, Cedar & Tie company sustained considerable loss thru the explosion by the flood of water which was let out when the dam was removed and which carried away a large quantity of logs belonging to the company which were banked on the river below the dam.

WANTS SCHOOL FOR HIS CHILDREN

FORMER WOODSIDE, POLK COUNTY FARMER, RETURNS FROM ALBERTA

A. Peterson who in 1902 moved from Woodside township in Polk county where he had a farm to a Canadian claim in Alberta, has been figuring "how in thunder" he can return to God's country, take up a claim and send his children to school.

He wants to take a claim about 8 miles out of Pitt in Beltrami county near Beaudette, but learns from attorneys and the land office that he cannot live on his claim and in Pitt where there is a school, too. The government takes no cognizance of the education of the children when the school is distant. The government rather relies on the settling up of the country in two or three years in order that they may have a school for themselves.

But Mr. Peterson has five children four of them of school-going ages (13, 10, 8 and 6 years respectively) and as they have not been getting school advantages in Alberta they have already been neglected, he considers, in this respect too long.

Mr. Peterson was in the city investigating the matter today and will return this evening to weigh the matter with Mrs. Peterson in Alberta before making any move or decision. Mrs. Peterson has not liked the Canadian country on account of the absence of neighbors and wants to come back to old Minnesota hence this trip of Mr. Peterson. It is probable that they will fix out the matter some way and return to God's country.

FARGO SONS OF NORWAY TO BUILD

The Fargo lodge of the Sons of Norway have taken the first steps towards the erection of a building for that organization. A deal was closed yesterday by W. J. Lane and the purchasing committee of the lodge, whereby the latter becomes the owner of seventy-five feet of land fronting on Broadway just north of the Great Northern tracks, the consideration being $2,800. This lot extends back from Broadway to Roberts street and forms an excellent site for the erection of such a building.

It is not the intention of the organization to build this summer, but it is possible that by the summer of 1909 work will be started.

AN OLD TIME JAMBOUREE

BRYAN AND JOHNSON FOLLOWERS CLASHED LAST NIGHT AT DEMOCRATIC RALLY

JAMES MANAHAN WAS ACCUSED OF DOUBLE DEALING—HOT SHOTS EXCHANGED

From Friday's Daily—

James Manahan of St. Paul extricated himself with care from what appeared last evening to be growing into a discussion of Martin O'Brien of Crookston and John A. Johnson.

The Crookston College hall was jammed to the doors the flank of the crowd being held down by James Maybury, Judge Montague, Nap Bray and a few other good Republicans who had dropped in to see the excitement of the evening. They were not disappointed. Following the address of Mr. Manahan which appears at the conclusion of this article, Gus Schmidt, the Broadway painter, started the ball rolling by rising in the audience and bringing forth the name of John A. Johnson linked with Martin O'Brien, state committeeman from the Ninth District who proposed the resolutions before the state central committee in St. Paul a short time ago endorsing Johnson for president.

In this connection Gus Schmidt proposed that all the Johnson followers in the hall stand. Mr. Manahan referred to the connection of Martin O'Brien with the matter and said he considered it a discourtesy to propose to him, an outside man, to attempt to divide the house on a question with which a local man's name had been connected. He wished the gentleman would with draw his motion which Mr. Schmidt did. The Johnson men tried to push a division again but were swamped in general disorder.

Praised Martin O'Brien

Mr. Manahan then voiced his appreciation of Mr. O'Brien without stint. As he had said nothing concerning Johnson and O'Brien in his address, he did not care to associate the discussion of Mr. Bryan to the prejudice of a local man. J. E. Morrisey then added to the sensations of the meeting by pressing forward again the name of Johnson amid applause from the Johnson group that had gathered on the north side of the hall.

Object to Johnson's Friends

Mr. Manahan said the objection to Johnson was Johnson's friends. He stated that the state oil inspector's office was now showing a gross manipulation of state moneys, and that during his (Mr. Manahan's) appearance before the state railroad and warehouse commission Johnson withdrew his support when Mr. Manahan attempted to examine Jas. J. Hill president of the Great Northern. He associated the work of Dick O'Connor whom he termed an infamous politician of St. Paul, with Johnson's boom in North Dakota from which convention at Grand Forks Mr. Manahan had arrived in this city. This started the ball rolling as far as Jas. E. O'Brien was concerned and he launched a charge at Mr. Manahan.

Charges Against Manahan

"Is it not true," he said "that you told Jim Hill that you would drop the presecution of the railroads in the state, if that gentleman offered you a position in the Great Northern legal department?"

"That is untrue," returned Mr. Manahan.

"I can prove that," rejoined Mr. O'Brien, adding that Dick O'Connor would state that his charge was true.

"Dick O'Connor does not dare to make that statement in public," said Mr. Manahan.

The meeting took on still further a tinge of the bloody and scarlet but with no further developments, Mr. Manahan holding the fort to general enthusiasm.

L. E. Gossman who presided at the meeting read the introductory address referring to his previous populistic views and adoption of the democratic party in 1896 under the leadership of Bryan.

Did not Organize

After the meeting in the Sathre hall a number of Democrats gathered about Moran and Gossman's office in the Fournet block where it was understood, but not announced in the excitement, that a meeting for organization would be held. The meeting however was not held. There were about twenty-five present from out of town, the bulk of them coming from Warren, Stephen and the north line, a few from the Greenbush line, the Cass Lake line, Fertile and a number from Ada. Jason Weatherhead of the Norman County Herald, J. E. Bouvette of the Kittson County Enterprise, Dr. DeMars of Hallock, Wm. Hesse of Donaldson and E. M. Engebert, a banker at Bronson, announced candidate for the Denver convention and pledged for Bryan. The other Bryan candidate has not appeared. The organization of the Bryanites thruout this district will be undertaken by mail.

Mr. Manahan said in substance:

Every one should take an interest in politics. This is not a privilege, it is a duty. I do not urge this as a duty to the government so much as a duty to himself. A man must protect himself and those dependent upon him and he cannot do this unless he takes an active and intelligent interest in the laws. Few people realize how important law is, and how directly it concerns the affairs of every individual Lots of men say "I have no time for politics I must attend to my business." Such a man does not understand his own business; he does not realize that no matter what his business is the Government is a partner in it. He does not know that laws more than labor determine how much of this world's goods shall come to any man.

Laws Measure Wealth or Poverty

Laws more than labor measure a man's wealth or poverty. For the laws fix the channels into which flow the fruits of the earth and the products of toil. Men of great wealth, captains of industry, presidents of railroads, and the like understand better than the ordinary man that the government, its laws and their enforcement, is the most important partner in their business and so they always are master politicians and always see to it that in the government and in the laws they have a partner friendly to their special interest. Captains of industry are always master politicians the ordinary business man, the farmer and the laborer do not realize the truth of this and go on from day to day and year to year toiling aimlessly and somewhat fruitlessly never quite being able to understand why it is so hard to get ahead.

A Stern Duty

Consider for a moment what are the things that all men want and the conditions that make the securing of these things difficult and you will appreciate the force of my statement that it is every man's stern duty to himself to take an active part in law and goverfnment. Food, shelter and happiness are the essential things. Land and the right to till it, food and the chance to earn it, homes and the right to defend them, are the things that earnest men and women demand and secure for one another by government. The difficulty of securing food clothing, shelter, and homes lies absolutely in the burdens of taxation. Perhaps some of you think this a far-fetched statement and are saying to yourselves "taxes don't bother me I don't pay any." Remember the direct tax you pay to your treasurer is the insignificant part of your burden of taxation. You must not forget that there are two other forms of tax heavier by far and in a form that you can not dodge the payment.

The Indirect Tax

The indirect tax imposed on all consumers by the tariff law and the transportation tax imposed on all producers and consumers by the railroads. You cannot measure the amount you pay every year of indirect taxes, everything you buy, the food you eat, the gowns you wear, the material with which you build, all are increased in cost and sometimes almost doubles as a result of the tariff ta and the monopolies that are formed and trusts organized under its protection.

But the transportation tax imposed by the railroads as common carriers is the heaviest burden of all. This tax absorbs nearly all that is left to the ordinary producer after he has paid his direct taxes, the cost of living reasonably, and the indirect taxes imposed by the tariff.

Freight Rates

I have not the time to go into a detailed illustration of the unreasonable burden of the freight rate tax levied and collected by the railroads. One illustration will serve as good as a dozen. I inquired of the agent at the depot this morning as to the rate on coal from the head of the lakes to this city and was utterly astonished to learn that it costs every householder in this town two dollars and ten cents per ton for carrying every ton of hard coal and two dollars per ton for every ton of soft coal that has to be burned in order to keep from freezing to death in this inclement country. Let me demonstrate that this rate is nothing short of extortion At a hearing in St. Paul last winter the general officer of the Northern Pacific testified that they hauled coal from Duluth to St. Paul for the Milwaukee company, under a contract, which enabled them to make a fair and reasonable profit. We compelled them to produce this contract in court and we found that the rates on coal from Duluth to St. Paul under which they, under their own sworn testimony made a fair profit was just forty cents per ton. The distance is one hundred and fifty miles.

Applied Locally

The distance from Duluth to Crookston is two hundred seventy-two miles If you apply the rate enjoyed by the Milwaukee system it would make the rate to Crookston less than seventy-five cents per ton. You are paying two dollars and ten cents per ton which is a dollar and thirty-five cents per ton more than these general officers of the railroad company testified enabled them to make a fair and reasonable profit. A dollar and ten cents per ton would of course enable them to make more than a fair and reasonable profit, but suppose they charged a dollar and ten cents per ton instead of the present rate it would a saving of a dollar for every ton burned in this section of the country every winter; perhaps that would not save each individual so very much five or ten dollars apiece, it would mean thousands of dollars to this community every winter and I think it would make the burden of life lighter to many industrious men and from the saving perhaps the home could be made more cheerful and the children happier. That is only one item It is fair to say that the imposition of the railroads in this respect outrageous tho it is, is no worse than on other commodities bought and sold by the people of the Red River Valley. The rates are too high, the railroads make too much money they earn unreasonable dividends on watered stock they accumulate millions of surplus; they use that money to sway elections, to intimidate and corrupt legislatures and influence men in office.

The People Awakening

During recent years the people have begun to realize that the railroads were imposing on them, the shippers association of this state for several years has been agitating the question and doing great public service. It was our Association and not any office holder in this state that compelled the enactment of laws reducing these rates and forced the Commission to make the reductions that have been made. As a result of the work of our Association the commodity rate bill was passed last winter. The railroads took the matter into the Federal Court and enjoined the state. The Supreme Court of the United States a few days ago declared the law no good. It was a mighty victory for the railroads. It was an awful blow to Minnesota. It emphasized the stern crisis confronting the people of the United States. Shall we have a centralized government administered by a few powerful interests and concentrated into a few hands or shall we have a representative government of the people themselves in their respectiv states. The paramount issue is, "which shall govern, money or men, who shall lead, wealth or moral; who shall fill offices of trust, patriotic and liberty loving men or the feudal serfs of corporate capital?"

Danger in Indifference

The danger lies in the indifference of men. Some are ignorant of the effect of laws upon their own rights. Some who are getting along fairly well themselves are fearful that matters might not be improved in their personal affairs even if a change in the laws might help some other class of producers; others think they can safely intrust questions of this kind to the men they elect to office. This is a mistake. Office holders will never go beyond the demands and the knowledge and the patriotism of the voters who elect them. In a representative government, men in office reflect those who elect them, and therefore, if we want good laws and an honest administration of them the voters themselves must take an intelligent interest in making these laws and an active interest in seeing that they are enforced. They must do this for self protection. The rail roads and trusts, the system, take an active interest every day of the year in politics and politicians.

Scores Dick O'Connor

Yesterday, Dick O'Connor of St. Paul, the political boss of that city and the political representative of Jim Hill, was in Grand Forks trying to direct the action of the State Democratic convention of North Dakota.

Why was he there? That convention stood unanimously and unreservedly for the great commoner of Nebraska. The democracy of North Dakota want W. J. Bryan for President because they know as all men know that in this stern contest between man and money he stands for the rights of men as being more sacred than the rights of money. The system the railroads and trusts do not want Bryan to be president for that very reason, and so if it were possible yesterday O'Connor would have neutralized the work of the applause of the New York World and Wall Street had he succeeded in wounding Bryan. He failed in North Dakota and he will fail in Minnesota because the rank and file of men everywhere in this country are determined to protect their own rights and stand by those who have stood by them.

MOVEMENT NEARS END

PULPWOOD SHIPMENTS GOTTEN OUT IN RECORD BREAKING TIME

TOTAL OF 7,000 CARS SHIPPED FROM NORTHERN MINNESOTA

From Thursday's Daily— ...

By the end of the present month the shipments of pulpwood out of Northern Minnesota will be practically at an end. The movement for the season will break all previous records After next Tuesday March 31, there may be a few scattering carloads arriving but only a few.

The total shipments for the season will be about 7,000 cars. Last season the total ran a little below 5,000 cars, and that was considered a pretty good showing. The entire movement this winter has occurred in a remarkably short time. It was not on in earnest until January and the fact that it will be over with by the end of March brings all the shipments within a period of three months.

Probably last month saw the heaviest pulpwood movement of any similar period in the history of the city. In the neighborhood of 2,500 cars of the product were sent on their way to the mills. The March movement will not be quite so heavy, but it is expected it will pass the 2,000 mark. Last year the end of the pulpwood shipping season did not come until ell along in May, owing principally to the fact that there was a car shortage, and it was difficult to get the railroads to handle shipments promptly.

A BIG PRICE IS PAID FOR CREAM

31½ CENTS PAID BY THE FOSSTON CREAMERY FOR BUTTERFAT

The returns for the output of the Fosston Farmers' Cooperative creamery during the month of February established a new record for that month there, the patrons receiving the above named price for every pound of butter fat brought to the creamery in the second month of the year. It is a handsome return, aside from the actual cash received, for it does credit to the dairymen of this vicinity for the care they have taken to furnish the cream in good condition, as well as to the buttermaker for the excellence of his work, as it is only thru intelligent and painstaking attention to the work from the commencement to the last that the highest prices are realized.

Buttermaker Lidenberg reports a gratifying increase of business this spring and a promising outlook for a much greater output this season than in any previous year. The season is early but last week 33 tubs of No. 1 butter were manufactured at the Fosston creamery.

AGED EUCLID FARMER WALKS 15 MILES

WALKS FIFTEEN MILES INTO THE CITY—HORSES ARE NOT SHARPSHOD

Claus Gossman, a well known farmer about five miles west of Euclid and who is far past the half century mark, walked into town this morning and transacted business in the city. His horses were not sharpshod and he did not want to force them on to the slippery roads which have frozen after the recent thaw. The old gentle man is white haired and has spent many years in the valley.

EXTRA SESSION IS UNLIKELY

RAILROADS CONCEDE THAT RATE LAWS ARE NOT INVALID

REHEARING MAY YET BE ASKED STATE'S COUNSEL IS DELIBERATING

From Saturday's Daily—

Attorney General Young held another conference late yesterday with his counsel in the railroad rate case to determine finally what action shall be taken.

It still seems likely that a rehearing will be asked for, but the railroad attorneys are conceding that the supreme court decision does not invalidate the commodity rate law entirely. They have practically admitted that it only hits the penalty section. From a railroad standpoint, there is no question about the wisdom of this. If it should turn out that the law is wiped out as a whole, consequence would be an extra session, with all sorts of dangerous possibilities to the railroads.

Possibilities of an extra session of the Minnesotaa legislature on the rail road rate question are waning. If one should be called, it would probably not be until after the supreme court has elucidated the opinion which was filed Monday.

If a rehearing is asked for, which is now probable the court will be asked to clarify the situation and declare the status of the state law. The state will, of course, ask for a complete rehearing, but it may be restricted by the court to this one point.

The extra session hinges on this question. If the law stands, even stripped of its penalty then the federal court has still to determine whether the rates are confiscatory, and nothing would be gained by a legislative session. If the whole law is knocked out, then it will be in order to assemble the legislature to pass a new one and resume the fight.

As this question cannot be determined for some weeks, the extra session possibility is deferred indefinitely.

$15,000 DEAL. AT THIEF RIVER

THE BAKER-WILCOX PROPERTY BOUGHT AT A GOOD ROUND SUM

An important real estate deal was closed in this city last Friday whereby Mary Brunnette, of Fargo, N. D., became the owner of the Baker-Wilcox property, paying $15,000 cash for the same. The property is in the shape of an L, and the first floor is occupied by Robertson's Bazaar. It has a frontage of 25 feet on LaBree avenue which extends back 80 feet and then joins Third street, having a frontage of 25 feet on this street. The second story of the building is partitioned off into two modern flats and the building yields rent of $1,560 a year. The building, was built a couple of years ago by C. A. Baker and Ed Wilcox.

The new owner is quarter blood Chippewa and recently disposed of her pine allotment on the White Earth reservation. She is well pleased with her purchase.—Thief River Falls News.

DOCTOR ADVISED USE OF CUTICURA

After Other Treatment Failed—Eczema in Raw Spot on Baby Boy's Face Lasted for Months—Cried with Pain when Washed.

ECZEMA WAS CURED AND HAS NEVER REAPPEARED

"Our baby boy broke out with eczema on his face when one month old. One place on the side of his face the size of a nickel was raw like beefsteak for three months, and he would cry out when I bathed the parts that were sore and broken out. I gave him three months' treatment from a good doctor, but at the end of that time the child was no better. Then my doctor recommended Cuticura. After using a cake of Cuticura Soap, a third of a box of Cuticura Ointment, and half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent he was well and his face was as smooth as any baby's. He is now two years and a half old and no eczema has reappeared. I am still using the Cuticura Soap; I think it is the finest toilet soap I ever used. I keep my little girl's hair and face cleansed with it too. I am so thankful for what Cuticura has done for us. Mrs. M. L. Harris, R. F. D. 1, Alton, Kan., May 14 and June 12, '07."

STATE IS AFTER $221,706 TAXES

ATTORNEY GENERAL E. T. YOUNG WILL TRY TO COLLECT IT

HELD BACK BECAUSE OF DISPUTE IN GROSS EARNINGS RATE

From Thursday's Daily— ...

E. T. Young attorney general has in his hands for collection drafts to the amount of $221,707.28, representing overdue indebtedness to the state from various sources.

The largest single amount is $132,622.90 charged against the Great Northern railway company on account of gross earnings taxes. This is the difference between the 4 per cent levied by the state and the 3 per cent which the company contends is all that it should be required to pay on all that portion of its property that formerly was the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba road.

An item of similar origin is $26,699.26 against the Chicago Great Western for a portion of its 1907 tax and there are overdrafts against the Wisconsin, Minnesota & Pacific for $24,363.78 and the Mason City & Fort Dodge for $4,879.92, which, it is said, have not been paid because the Chicago Great Western, of which they are subsidiary lines, is in the hands of a received.

Claims Against Counties

Of the aggregate amount, $7,241.42 is in claims against twenty-six of the counties of the state that have not paid their taxes on liquor licenses in to the fund for the establishment of the new state farm for treatment of inebriates. The law provides for a tax of 2 per cent on the amount collected from liquor licenses in each county.

The town of Morris has protested against this tax on the ground that the law is unconstitutional, and the state's claim against that town has been taken into the courts. It is supposed that the general delay is for the purpose of awaiting a decision of the test case.

A Signiticant Statement.

The following extract from the weekly letter from Henry Clews and Co., of New York is specially significant to the people of this section. The Journal has contended continually that the agricultural sections of the country, specially the Red River Valley was in excellent shape, and Clews is of the same opinion as the following will indicate:

"Nevertheless it is reasonable to hope that the extreme depression following the panic will disappear sooner than expected. We are promised an early spring and as there has been an abundance of moisture during the past month, conditions are favorable for a good planting season. Our agricultural classes felt the panic but slightly, and in all probability will have another profitable season because of the relative scarcity of agricultural products. Of the things which grow from Mother Earth, there is scarcely an important surplus to be found anywhere."

Out Of The Running

There is a considerable number of people who still persist in counting President Roosevelt as a candidate for the nomination on the Republican ticket for president at the convention the coming summer. While we wish he were to be, there is now no question but what he has withdrawn and will under no circumstances accept the nomination.

He has not changed his views since the following statement which he issued to the people, last December upon the occasion of the call for the meeting of the National Republican Convention which will be held in Chicago. At that time he said:

"I am deeply sensible of the honor done me by the American people in thus expressing their confidence in what I have done and have tried to do. I appreciate to the full the solemn responsibility this confidence imposes upon me, and I shall do all that in my power lies not to forfeit it. On the 4th of March next I shall have served three and a half years, and these three an a half years constiwhich limits the president to two whichlimits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form, and under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

Same Old Game.

It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks and the old dogs of Republican politics in Minnesota have reached the mangy and toothless stage. No wonder they think, even after two lessons that they can manage the coming state campaign as they have managed state campaigns time out of mind.

The agile politicians have adopted themselves to nominal rule of the people in the direct primaries, but they do not propose to take the trouble to abandon machine rule where they are under no compulsion. All entreaties to them to allow choice of delegates to conventions in state primaries have fallen on deaf ears. They cling to the old rotten caucuses packed and manipulated by themselves.

Everywhere we hear the familiar story of political leaders getting together in conference to count the noses they can dispose of and bid back and forth for state offices among themselves. They make the nomination of the state ticket a game of auction pitch, only with bewildering combinations never heard of in that innocent diversion.

Every candidate brings his bag of delegates in possession or anticipation to offer as his qualification for this or that nomination. Candidates for the same office bid for it in a market of which the people never hear and the outbidden retire.

Candidates for different offices compare their tale of delegates with one another and dicker to get the most for the least given in the trading combinations by which conventions dispose of places supposed to be filled by the choice of the people.

This ancient and fish-like practice has had its day in Minnesota. It has given us a democratic governor. A few years more of it will give us either the direct primary or Democratic incumbents in other state offices.

Minnesota's Great Possibilities.

Now that it is absolutely certain that the creamery zone is extending further and further north into regions of still greater possibilities in butter production, and that before long Minnesota will be producing 100,000,000 pounds of butter annually, it is interesting to point out that there is a butter famine in England, and ask the question how far can Minnesota benefit from the conditions which prevail there? The English butter trade is entirely in the hands of foreigners. The imports from different countries have shrunk from different cause, and it is estimated that no serious recovery can take place this season, and that by Aril 1st the shortage in imports will have reached 12,500 tons. The total imports of butter to England is 500,000,000 pounds annually, valued at something like $50,000,000 and the countries which furnish it are mainly Denmark, Siberia, New Zealand, Australia and Canada.

The result of this famine is that butter is fetching one dollar a pound retail in London, and is being sold wholesale for 32 cents a pound in the large cities of the privinces. Walter C. Hamm, the American Consul at Hull, seems to think that an effort should be made to capture as much of this trade as possible. There is not the slightest reason why Minnesota should not enjoy as much of this trade as Denmark, and draw from Great Britain $20,000,000 annually. The market is open. Minnesota has more complete dairying conditions than any other state. There is still plenty of room for development. Consul Hamm states that if anything like the intensified methods of farming in use in Denmark prevailed we could easily supply all the butter which England requires and do it at a good profit.

According to one authority the imports of butter from the United States into England consists mostly of what is known as "renovated" butter. Such butter is largely in use in England. While it may be described as pure butter it is chiefly butter which has been collected from outlying districts It occasionally happens that some of the consignments become slightly ransid in transit. When it arrives at its destination at the central receiving depot, it is all mixed together and melted down. The sour milk is run off and new milk churned into it. It is then sold as "renovated" butter, and, unfortunately, has not acquired the best reputation. The price obtained for this butter ranges from $29.19 to $31.62 a hundred pounds. The Danish and Colonial butters fetch about $34 a hundred pounds. With the more general adoption of diversified farming, and the growth of creameries in all parts of the state, it is clear that Minnesota will become the great dairying state of the future. It should certainly be able to successfully compete with far away Australia or New Zealand in supplying butter for the English market.

Sandstone Courier: Those who know seem to think that there will be something doing in the political line in this district in the near future The Republicans at the Head of the Lakes have been urging Clarence B. Miller to become a candidate for representative from this district. Mr. Miller made an enviable reputation in the state house of representatives last year, where he was recognized as the best speaker in the legislature With the support of St. Louis county he is sure of making a very interesting race.

Austin Transcript: It's the same old song we have heard just before election for years. Congressmen are talking of revising the tariff after next election, just as they did two years ago and four years ago. The voters should get wise and elect new men who will keep their pledges. Reelect the present congrgessman and two years from now we will be identically where we are today.

The successful man gets no sympathy, but he gets all he needs, at that.

How We Get Our Presidents

How do we get our presidents? We have two great groups of voters who aver that they have undying principles for which they feel called upon to do battle. These call themselves the republican and the democratic parties. The republicans get together and nominate a man; the democrats do the same, and then all the states vote. For president? No, the nominee for president is not mentioned on either ticket. The method on either ticket. The method is indirect. The people of each state vote for a set of electors provided for by the constitution. These men meet and vote for the president, and when a majority favor a certain candidate he is declared elected. The election is held in November, but the voting for president is not until the following February. The electors constitutionally have the right to vote for whomsoever they please, but actually they vote for the nominee of the party which put them on the state ticket. The president while thus constructively the choice of a majority, is really the choice of a plurality of one of the great parties. For many years the presidential candidate was named by a caucus of the legislature in each state. Andrew Jackson invented the national convention plan, which is now used by all parties. The result of this national convention plan is that the president is named really by a body not known to the law. Neither political party has any federal legal standing. Neither has any legal standing in many of the states. They make their own rules about the election of delegates, but when the national convention is held and the nominations are made the electors are morally bound to vote for the nominee.

This makes the act of electing delegates to the national conventions, the real choice of a president. At least it narrows choice down to one of two men, both of whom are the nominees of private, unofficial bodies. Nor is there much evidence that these delegates represent a majority of the members of their respective groups. Very seldom a majority of either party votes in the caucuses to choose delegates. The caucuses are more or less in the hands of the politicians and the people do not turn out to them as they do to an election. The independent voters, by thousands, abstain from voting in either caucus. They wait until the nominations are made for them and then take their choice. It seems an absurd way of getting a president, but it is the only way we have at present. It looks as tho there should be some legal forms thrown about the nomination of a president and that measures should be taken to hold the primaries in all the states in such a way that all the people will have a change, at least, to record their choice in the first proceeding of naming a president of the United States.

$50,000 FOR WATERWORKS

BONDS AT EAST GRAND FORKS YESTERDAY CARRIED BY LARGE MAJORITY

INSTALLATION OF MUNICIPAL PLANT THERE ONLY MATTER OF TIME

From Tuesday's Daily—

A waterworks plant for East Grand Forks is now only a question of time for the proposition to bond the city for its construction was carried in the election held yesterday by a substantial vote over the necessary two thirds. In only one ward was the opposition pronounced enough to have any effect and that was in the First where the ordinance failed to pass by one vote. In all the other wards, however, the opposition was practically nothing and the promoters of the plan feel greatly elated over the result. The total vote on the plant, 423 is a large one. The vote was rather light up to 3 o'clock, but after that time the polls were busy places.

The question voted on as it appeared on the sample ballot, read as follows:

"Shall that certain ordinance entitled: 'An ordinance providing for a system of waterworks and authorizing the issuance, negotiation and sale of negotiable coupon bonds to provide payment of the same,' duly passed by the city council of the city of East Grand Forks, Minnesota, on the 28th day of February, 1908, authorizing the said city to issue, negotiate and sell 'waterworks bonds' of the city of East Grand Forks in the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) be ratified?"

LONG JOURNEY FROM RUSSIA

MADALENA SCHOWE ARRIVES IN GRAND FORKS AFTER YEAR AND A HALF

In November, 1905, Madelena Schowe daughter of Jacob Schowe, of Grand Forks started from their former home in far off Russia, with other members of the family to come to the father who had preceded them. Yesterday Madalena arrived in Grand Forks after having been one year and five months in getting there, owing to the action of the authorities. The girl was first detained for several months in a hospital at the German boundary by the authorities on account of trachoma, a disease of the eye, with which she was afflicted. The others of the family were permitted to continue their journey with the promise that Madalena should follow them as soon as her eye trouble was overcome. She was finally allowed to proceed, but was again stopped by the United States immigration authorities at Baltimore and placed in a hospital there for treatment. Her father was notified and a demand made upon him for the expense of maintaining her in the hospital at the rate of $31 per month. This amount he managed to provide until a little over a month ago, when his resources were exhausted, having been at a large expense in getting his family here. He made known his trouble to State's Attorney Wineman and the latter drew up a subscription paper, which was circulated with a liberal response to provide another month's treatment and to avoid having the girl deported. She was then discharged as cured and arrived at Grand Forks yesterday.

BUYS A FINE FRUIT RANCH

A. C. Wilkinson who with Mrs. Wilkinson has been touring the western country for the past few months have finally located at North Yakima. Mr. Wilkinson has purchased a fine 20 acre fruit ranch. Yesterday J. M. Stephens finished loading a car containing Mr. Wilkinson's household goods and other effects in this city which were started on their way for the new location in the west. Mr. Wilkinson is very much pleased with the outlook at North Yakima and will divide his time between looking after his ranch and attending to his law practice. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson are well acquainted with a great many Polk county people who have located in and about North Yakima and have felt perfectly at home there since their arrival.

ARE CHARGED WITH FELONY

GEORGE THAYER AND JOHN SAMUELSON HAD THEIR HEARING YESTERDAY

FORMER HELD TO GRAND JURY CHARGED WITH DYNAMITING DAM

From Wednesday's Daily—

Before Justice Loen at Bagley yesterday, George Thayer and John Samuelson were given a hearing on the charge of having blown the dam at Neving Tuesday night of last week, the crime constituting a felony.

The testimony adduced showed that Thayer went to the store of Halvor Halvorson at Neving the day previous to the blowing up of the dam and secured a quantity of dynamite which was left in the store.

The next day John Samuelson went to the Neving store and asked for the dynamite that Thayer had ordered. Samuelson also got eight or nine caps and the dynamite and placed them in a gunny sack, taking them away with him.

After the dam was blown some of this fuse and a portion of the gunny sack were lodged in the broken structure.

The next morning after the explosion, tracks were seen leading thru fresh snow from the dam towards the homes of Thaper and Samuelson.

It is said that Thayer had made threats to blow the dam. No threats are credited to Samuelson.

Thayer was held to the grand jury and was released on giving his bond in the sum of $500. Samuelson was not held to the grand jury and ordered released.

County Attorney E. T. Teitsworth appeared for the state in the case and E. E. McDonald of Bemidji, representing Mr. Neving, owner of the dam, while Chester McKusick of Bemidji acted as counsel for Thayer and Samuelson.

SWORN STATEMENT IS NECESSARY

ALL PERSONAL PROPERTY HOLDERS ARE AFFECTED BY NEW RULING

Every personal property holder in the entire state is required to furnish the assessor with a sworn statement showing a full list of his personal property items, or the county auditor can not grant the $100 exemption provided by law.

This is a recent ruling of the state tax commission, and the attention of county auditors is now being called to this matter before the assessors begin their work on May 1st.

The Commission holds that county auditors cannot issue certificates to assessors whose books do not show that they have complied with the law in all its requirements. This means that the assessors must have their books complete in every detail before they will receive any compensation for their work.

CHANCE FOR ALL IN MINNESOTA

To men who are willing to help themselves Minnesota offers a golden opportunity.

On a 160-acre tract in northern Minnesota any man with two good arms and an outlay of $8.50 for tools can do any and all of the work.

Minnesota offers good openings for energetic and willing workers on its mixed timber lands.

—J. J. Opsahl.

Mr. Opsahl who is a member of the state legislature from Bemidji, has great faith in the opportunities offered by timber lands in Northern Minnesota.

"When a 160-acre tract of land purchased for $800 will yield a profit of $5,000 for the removal of the standing timber and then leaves the purchaser with 160 acres of fertile farming land, it is hard to discover a good reason for a man continuing in the army of the unemployed," wrote Mr. Opsahl in a letter to George Welsh, state commissioner of immigration. Mr. Opsahl has had just such an experience with a "quarter" section in Itasca county. The information will be prepared for distribution, with other evidences of the opportunities offered settlers in this state.

The average man's way to economize is to quit spending money on one thing and begin to spend it on another.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT IN RAILROAD CONDITIONS

REPORTS OF INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION SHOW THAT WESTERN RAILWAYS HAVE ENJOYED GENERAL INCREASE IN BUSINESS AND GIVE NO REASON FOR DISQUIET AMONG THE PEOPLE—RAILROADS GET $14,000,000 MORE FOR LAST SIX MONTHS IN 1907 THAN FOR LIKE PERIOD IN 1906 NOTWITHSTANDING THAT COUNTRY EXPERIENCED FINANCIAL FLURRY—DURING LAST THREE WEEKS THERE HAS BEEN GENERAL UPWARD TENDENCY IN EARNINGS OF ALL RAILWAYS IN COUNTRY

The general improvement in the railroad and industrial situation is indicated in reports of the important railway systems to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Figures available to the commission indicate also that the general condition of the country is improving materially, with the prospect that it will soon be normal or better.

These railroad reports show that while the "October panic" caused the railroads to suffer to some extent, particularly in the East and Southeast, the loss was by no means so serious as generally has been supposed. Western roads suffered little. In the east there was not only a falling off in the revenues, but inability to obtain ready cash for improvements.

Loss Not Serious

Franklin K. Lane, of the interstate commerce commission has made careful analysis of the figures submitted by the railroads themselves. Asked what loss the railroads had sustained he replied that the railroad situation the country over is not imminently serious.

"From the figures available to the commission," he said, "It does not appear that the revenues of railroads have fallen off to the extent that generally is believed.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission calls upon the carriers for monthly reports of their revenues and operating expenses. Such reports began with July last.

Increased $14,000,000

During the three months, July, August and September, the total operating revenues of these roads," continued the commissioner, "amounted to $399,000,000; for the panic months of October, November and December the total revenue was $376,000,000. The freight revenues of the systems named were for the first quarter $264,000,000 and for the second quarter $259,000,000. The freight revenues for November were larger than those for July or September.

"These systems during the last six months of 1907 received from passenger and freight revenues a total of $775,000,000 which is $54,000,000 more than they received for the same period in 1906, and their net income from operation in 1907 was $14,000,000 more than in 1906.

Laws no Jeopardy

"These figures certainly do not indicate that, either owing to legislation or the panic, the railroads as a whole have been put in financial jeopardy. It is true that during 1907 there was a great increase in operating expenses owing to the general increase in wages; but the larger volume of traffic and greater revenue yielded a larger net return to the railroads.

"These figures show that the panic so far as it affected the railroads, extended only slightly beyond Chicago. If we take the transcontinental roads reaching to the Pacific coast, we find that every one increased its gross operating revenues during the last half of 1907. The net income was in some cases increased and in others slightly decreased. The net income of the Western lines was: Santa Fe $13,000,000; Northern Pacific $18,000,000; Great Northern $13,000,000, and Southern Pacific $41,000,000 for the six months.

Not Disquieting

"Therefore viewing the country as a whole, the outlook for the railroads as shown by their own figures, is not so disquieting, and these figures, it must be remembered, include at least two months after the panic began in New York, during a greater portion of which time banks would not make loans or discounts and railroads in many parts of the country would not receive checks in payment of freight.

"Altho returns for January have not been tabulated, it is probable that they will show that conditions have been worse than in December; but it is also to be borne in mind, that January is generally the slackest month during the year and February is also poor.

"There can be no question but that within the last three weeks there has been a strong upward tendency in freight revenues. A greater volume of traffic is moving today than at any time in the last two, and perhaps, three months.

"Figures of the American Railway association show that there is a smaller surplus of cars at this time than at any period since October 30.

"This promises an early return to more normal conditions, and railroad men generally are more optimistic than they have been since the Knickerbocker Trust company closed its doors."

A FEW FACTS ABOUT RAISING OF CORN

THE CHARACTER OF THE SEED IS A MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR

The cost of growing and harvesting an acre of corn is between $10 and $12. It therefore takes 35 or 40 bushels at the average price of 30 cents to cover cost of production.

The yield of corn depends, first, upon fertility of soil; second, method of tillage and cultivation; third, character of seed corn; fourth, weather conditions. Three of these factors can be controlled by the farmer. Character of seed is the most important factor of all.

One 10 oz. ear per hill will give a yield of 28 bushels per acre; two 10 oz. ears per hill gives a yield of 56 bu., and three 10 oz. ears per hill will give a yield of 84 bushels. The average yield of corn in Minnesota is about 30 bushels per acre,—we are growing about one third of a perfect stand.

The corn grower who can control the stand of corn is the successful grower, and with a "nearly perfect stand" can secure 50 to 75 bushels of corn per acre with average methods of clutivation. The stand of corn depends upon the quality of the seed corn.

The Hand That Rules The World.

Would you be one of the employers or one of the servants? It is a question for you to decide.

Without money you are forced to put in your time working for others. With a growing bank account you will soon be able to command your own time and labor and also that of others.

Don't wait for Fortune to put a purse in your hand but start a bank account and build up your own success. You can do it.

"What is that button you have on?" she queried.

An old gentleman walked up to the pretty girl attendant at the office room of a daily newspaper in Crookston a few days ago and said:

"Miss, I would like to get copies of your paper for a week back."

"You had better get a porous plaster," she abstractedly replied. "You get them at Hillard's second door west.

Bishop Potter, at an ecclesiastical dinner in New York, read a Cooperstown schoolboy's essay on "Clergymen" The essay which created much amusement, was as follows:

"There are 3 kinds of clergymen bishups recters and curats, the bishups tells the recters to work and the curats have to do it. a curate is a thin married man but when he is a recter he gets fuller and can preach longer sermons and becums a good man."

That his horse went dead and his mule went lame.
And he lost six cows in a poker game
Then a hurricane came on a summer day
And blew the house where he lived away;
And an earthquake came when that was gone
And swallowed the land that the house stood on.
Then the tax collector, he came round
And charged him up with the hole in the ground.—Abilene (Kan.) Reflector.

There is one railroad official in town who has learned that there is danger in adhering too regularly to "forms" in correspondence. It has been his habit for years to look over all orders or letters prepared by either himself or his assistants to be sent out from his department and then sign his name immediately after the word "approved." which the stenographer, that the regular form may be fulfilled, invariably typewrites on all such papers.

Not long ago the official wrote a brief personal letter to a friend, dictating it to his stenographer. At the close of the letter he told of the death of a relative of his wife. The letter then ended up like this:

"She died night before last. Approved." After which he signed his name.

It was on getting a reply to the letter with his friend's comments on same that the railroad man decided to adopt a new form.

Wedings is a union, something like a laber union, for cards is used and it makes members get in and hustle to pay their dews. A weding needs thre people two men and one woman; one of these men oter be a minister, but a justice of the piece or a alderman can be used if a preecher ain't handy.

Sometimes a man has a turribal time finding a girl to mary, but this being leep year she sees him first and their aint anything to it after that. Befour a feller can get maryed he shud study his girl's father's politicks This helps some, and so does going hoam early at nite, which holds down the lectrick lite bils. Even fathers of girls in love don't overlook a bet like that.

Nother thing to be reckolectid is that a man shud settil up befour he tries to settil down. These last fellars is the ones which keaps the goant bill colektors from the famlee speaking tube. National Ownership of Trusts

(Edwin Markham in "Success Magazine".)

Competition is war, and Professor Ross would sanction a permanent war in human affairs. This alert and searching critic points out thru many pages of evils of our fifty-year franchise laws, our iniquitous tariff schedule, our excessive railway charges, our grabbing of public mineral lands, our corrupt sale of canals and gas plants, our fake meat inspection, our Niagara grabs, our cynical denial of protection to labor; and yet for all this he has no cure but a public opinion, speaking thru "a transfigured individualism."

Surely Professor Ross is a dreamer, a man with a plan far more Utopian than the radicals, who demand that the nation shall own the criminal trusts. We have been trying to rule by "transfigured individualism" since the Ark was on the stocks. Pleading with the plunderer is a method that has failed since Pharaoh, the ancient monopolist, cornered the corn. Dependence upon "a transfigured individualism" has ever been the patriot's hope and despair. The fact is that individuals, however earnest, are so intent on their private struggle for bread that they have little time for watching thieves who make it their whole business to plunder all the people all the time. I see no way out of this state of affairs but in the gradual transfer of the great public interests and utilities out of the hands of individuals into the hands of the people. When these great interests become the peoples' interests, the people will be forced to look after them and direct them in the spirit of the common welfare.

A HEAVY LOSS FOR A THIEF RIVER LAD

Two dogs played havoc with a flock of 156 chickens owned by Gynther Tessum the eleven year old son of O. Tessum of Thief River Falls the first of the week. The chickens are kept on the Tessum farm, just west of the G. N. turn table at that place. The tenant on the farm has been absent for a couple of weeks, and there was no one at home to protect the chickens. How many the dogs killed is not known, but 59 dead chickens have been found in the yard and woods in that vicinity and the rest of the chickens can not be found. LENGBY BUSINESS MEN WANT A MARKET DAY

A mass meeting was held by the citizens of Lengby last Saturday night to consider the advisability of holding a monthly fair or market day at Lengby. All present were of the opinion that the time has come when something of that sort is necessary in order that the farmers may have a place where they can come together every so often and exchange what they have to sell and at the same time get better acquainted with each other and have an opportunity to discuss topics of general interest. A committee was appointed to work up the proposition and arrange to hold the first fair, or market day, as early as practical.

EARLY FIFE FLOUR PROVES SATISFACTORY

Since the publication of our last issue a large number of tests have been made of the flour manufactured from the wheat known as "Early Fife" about which there has been considerable controversy of late and these tests have shown to be fully up to standard in point of excellence. After the very thoro investigation which has been made at the Fosston Elevator & Flouring Mills and outside, S. S. Stadsvold can discover no important reason for discouraging the continued growing of this kind of wheat by the farmers about here, the only possible objection to it being the fact that it may not produce quite as much flour to the bushel of grain as some of the other kinds but the difference is scarcely noticeable.—Fosston Thirteen Towns.

LUMBER WILL GO HIGHER—The following, slipped from an exchange should be of interest to anyone who contemplates building. The price of lumber, other building material and labor in the Red River Valley is lower now than it has been for years, and the question arises, how long will such conditions last? Statistics show that all manufactures of lumber are curtailing their output, which means a scarcity before another year goes by with a very normal demand. A scarcity always tends towards higher prices and it might be business policy to take advantage of the present market.

The precise location of the proposed station is to be determined by the United States fish commissioner. Inquiry at the Twenty-Five Thousand Club shows that no action has yet been taken in the matter of this open proposition but Mentor is being suggested for a campaign for this station. LOST ON THE PRAIRIES

ED THOMPSON A PIONEER WANDERED FOUR HOURS NEAR THE CITY

HOWLS OF WOLVES AND WILDCATS FINALLY RESULTED IN GETTING TO CITY

From Saturday's Daily—

Ed Thompson for 30 years a resident of Crookston, who knows every foot of road thru this section or thought he did, was lost for six hours last night in the town of Parnell, and his friends have a since made life miserable for him. He must have driven in a circle during practically all of the time. About 1 o'clock in the morning the howl of wolves and snarling of wildcats made his hair stand, and giving the horses free rein he applied the whale bone to the horses, not attempting to steer them and in less than an hour he was in the city.

The party with him wore out a pair of shoes peddling the news about the city, and Thompson could not be found with a search warrant today.

FINGERS WERE BADLY CRUSHED

A STEPHEN YOUNG LADY MAY LOSE THE END OF ONE

Miss Nellie Falkeid, daughter of Mr and Mrs. E. Falkeid of the Stephen Hotel met with a painful accident yesterday at the school house there. BUSINESS IS PICKING UP

C. R. WINSLOW SAYS MERCHANTS ARE BUYING VERY FREELY NOW

DEPLETED STOCKS ARE BEING REPLACED BY FULL LINES—OPTIMISTIC

From Saturday's Daily—

C. R. Winslow, of the wholesale grocery firm of Finch-Winslow-Carlisle of this city is very much pleased with the commercial outlook in the Red River Valley the coming summer. In an interview last evening he said: "Business has been slack since the first of the year with all wholesale houses till a week or two ago. Since that time business has been picking up rapidly. Stocks were depleted but the merchants are now all over their scare and are buying freely because their increasing business warrants it. They have discovered that the farmer has more cash this spring than he has had for many years past. I can see no reason for pessimism in the northwest this year, and we look for the best business we have ever enjoyed, and other wholesale houses will find it the same in this section. Every indication points to a busy and prosperous year.

Frank Truax of St. Paul Park, captain of the government steam dredge Warroad at Lake of the Woods and well known up and down the Rainy River country, has been notified that he had been left $1,500 from the estate of Mrs. Strait, whom he saved from death years ago. The woman was about to be run down by a runaway team when Captain Truax dashed into the street and saved her from injury. He had forgotten the incident and never supposed the woman even knew his name until he received word of the bequest.

COLONIZING UP NORTH

BIG BUNCH OF CROOKSTON PEOPLE LOCATED NEAR NORTHERN BOUNDARY

PROPOSE TO DEVELOPE THEIR LAND AND IMPROVE PROPERTY AT ONCE

From Monday's Daily—

Crookston has gone into the colonizing business on a small scale, perhaps, but very effectively. Beginning about three miles south of Graceton between Warroad and Beaudette on the Canadian Northern several settlers have taken up homesteads many of whom went there from this city. The government land district there opened to settlement July 1st last consists of ten towns which are a part of the former Red Lake Indian reservation. The country is chiefly known as one of continuous swamps but cruisers have long brought into the settlements that line the Canadian Northern stories of the excellent land that may be found on the big sand ridges that traverse the interior from southwest to northeast.

Character of Land

These ridges run from Thief River Falls on the Great Northern and the Soo and are well defined. The country had generally been supposed to be swampy to the northern shores of the Red Lake. South of Roosevelt about five miles an immense floating bog about four miles across gives one a bad introduction to a trail that continues after it reaches the timber thru a cedar swamp about three miles wide crossed only by an arduous and winding trail poorly blazed.

This muskeg was considered impassable until after the homesteaders began to come in after July 1st last. However after one crosses the last cedar swamp a gradual rise mounts upward, until intertwined sandridges of rich sandy loam covered with the vegetable mold of centuries, the settler found himself in a new land.

A Dry Route Found

Means were lately discovered to reach this interior by way of Graceton by a short and dry route. It was along this way that about one hundred and fifty people of Crookston and neighborhood found their way to claims which they have taken up and are rapidly improving.

One of these settlers, Albert Chilgren, formerly a well known attorney of Crookston who went to this country in ill health is setting a record for the entire north country in the omprovement of his claim. All of the Crookston people are proving far above the usual homesteader in the energy which they are devoting to the development of the country. Crookston people are kept well in touch with their advance thru their continuous letters to their friends and relatives at this point. One of the great aids in finding a market for their work of the winter season has been the placing of enormous railway timber and tie contracts in this territory by Canadian companies.

Work in Harmony

The settlers have banded together aided and expedited work by their common origin and long friendship and built broad roads, founded two schools and erected stores and other places of business connected with the development of a community. They are marketing their timber products thru an agent in Graceton and have made themselves a nucleus about which clusters the activities of the settlers in that vicinity.

The recent meeting of home steaders at Beaudette, engineered by Attorney C. R. Middleton, formerly of Crookston, was gathered mainly thru the efforts of the Crookstonites in their reasonable antagonism to the withdrawal of federal lands, included in the recent drainage bill, from homestead final proof.

Administration Committee

Last Wednesday they selected an administrative committee composed of former Alderman Keating and Messrs. Rauch, Bowen, Anderson and Harris, all formerly of this city. With the building of railways into Warroad on the proposed Greenbush extension the country will gather much new impetus by the directness of communication it will gain with the outside world.

THE SECOND ENTRY LAW

GENERAL PERMISSION FOR SECOND HOMESTEAD ENTRY EXTENDED PUBLIC

IF LOST, FORFEITED OR ABANDONED HOMESTEAD WITHOUT CONSIDERATION

From Monday's Daily—

The Crookston land office today received from the Department of the Interior at Washington copy of the most sweeping act providing for second homestead entry that has ever been passed by congress.

This act of February 8, 1908 allows a person otherwise qualified to make a second homestead entry where such person has made and lost, forfeited, or abandoned a former homestead entry prior to the passage of said act and such former entry was not canceled for fraud nor abandoned or relinquished for a consideration.

The person appiying to make second homestead entry under this act must file in the local land office an application to enter a specific tract of public land subject to homestead entry, accompanied by his affidavits executed before an officer authorized to administer oaths in homestead cases, stating description of former entry by section, township, and range numbers (or number of entry and name of land office where made); date of entry; when he lost, forfeited, or abandoned the same; that it was not canceled for fraud, and whether he received anything for abandoning his claim or relinquishing the entry. This affidavit must be corroborated by the affidavit of one or more persons having knowledge of the facts relative to the abandonment of his claim or the relinquishmen of the former entry, which corroborated affidavit may be executed before any officer authorized or administer oaths, and having an official seal.

A former act allows a second homestead entry to a person otherwise qualified who, prior to the date of the act, made homestead entry and commuted same under certain provisions but such second entry is not subject to commutation.

The act of May 22, 1902 allows a second homestead entry to a person otherwise qualified who prior to May 17, 1900, made and perfected a homestead entry, paying therefor the price provided under the law opening the land for settlement, but to which land had he not perfected title prior to the date mentioned, he would have been entitled to receive a patent without payment under the "free homes act." Said act does not allow commutation unless proof submitted on land first entered shows five years' residence.

HAS FAITH IN RED RIVER VALLEY

OLD RESIDENT RETURNS AND BUYS ANOTHER FARM NEAR WARREN

Rev. J. P. Schell, says the Warren Sheaf, who sold his farm in Sandsville a year or two ago, and removed with his family to western North Dakota, is again to become a resident of this vicinity. A few days ago he made a deal with The People's Trading Co., whereby he becomes the possessor of the W. H. Porter farm of 320 acres in town of Boxville, Marshall County. The fact that Mr. Schell has been engaged in farming here for 25 years and after having sold out and been away a year is anxious to return and invest again in land near Warren, is about as good an advertisement as this country can want. One of Mr. Schell's sons, Walter, we believe, will be back to run the farm this summer.

SENSATION IN COURT

NOTE HANDED TO JUROR AT BEMIDJI CAUSES A SENSATION

THERE MAY BE FURTHER SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS IN NEAR FUTURE

From Tuesday's Daily—

The jury in the case of the State vs Tollef Peterson and Mike Shea at Bemidji (charged with the crime of grand larceny in the first degree) returned a verdict of guilty, Sunday at 11:10 a. m., after having been out nearly twenty hours.

Considerable of a sensation was caused in the courtroom when Judge Spooner told the jury that he had been informed by one of the members of the jury had been approached improperly.

Asked directly by the judge if he (the judge) had been correctly informed, he was answered in the affirmative by Mr. Phelps, member of the jury, who stated that a man at the Remore hotel, Saturday, just after dinner handed him a note and immediately left the hotel. Mr. Phelps stated that he put the note in his pocket, believing it to be a message from his family; later he had decided to give the note to the court, that being the proper place for it.

The note was handed to Judge Spooner, who ordered it placed in the custody of the clerk of court for safe keeping. The judge then told Mr. Phelps to keep a sharp lookout for the man who gave him the note. Mr. Phelps stated that he could not be positive as to the identity of the man but that he would be on the lookout.

Peterson and Shea were arrested on the direct charge of having stolen a sum of money from a lodger at the Lakeshore hotel, while the latter was rooming at that place.

R. C. Bryant who lodged at the hotel testified that he had been knocked thru the window of his room in the second story of the hotel, to the pavement below being stunned by the fall. The lodger according to his own statement, re-entered the hotel and gave Peterson and his associate Shea, a sound thrashing, they being later arrested and after a hearing, held to the grand jury which body returned an indictment against both men.

BASEBALL IN THE NORTH COUNTRY

"Spooner, Baudette, Northome, Big Falls and Bemidji and many other surrounding towns," says the International Falls Press, "will have a good team each, and a meeting is called for the purpose of determining what kind of a line-up will be necessary for us to have to win the pennant."

LEMEN COMES FROM EAST

PIONEER ANGUS FINANCIER BEARS TALE OF JOHNSON FROM EAST

VIRGINIA ACTIVELY AGAINST BRYAN—INDIGESTIBLE SECURITIES ON MARKET

From Tuesday's Daily—

W. Lemen, pioneer wheat buyer and financier of Angus, Minn., bears a tale of Johnson sentiment and interest thruout the east, and at the same time a story of the depression of indigestible securities thruout Maryland West Virginia and Virginia which states he has visited. The eastern banks have been taking securities as collateral for some time and find that they are unable to put them on the market.

The Johnson sentiment and interest is well developed thruout the entire east thru educational influence of the magazines and periodicals of the day. In West Virginia and Maryland there are no active efforts in Johnson's behalf, but the democrats are tired of being on the under side every four years and look elsewhere for relief. In Virginia however the adherents of Senator Daniels, whose dissensions with Bryan have already become public property, are actively fighting the Nebraskan.

Mr. Lemen is the oldest wheat buyer of Angus and neighborhood, coming to this country in 1879 and settling in the north line city. He departed from here last December and has been meanwhile visiting relatives and friends thruout the three states mentioned besides visiting in New York City and Illinois. He stopped off at Staples, Minn., and is inspecting cut over lands near that point belonging to Illinois parties with the intention of purchase.

BEMDJI DRUGGIST WAS INDICTED

HAS BEEN HELD FOR DEATH CAUSED BY A MISTAKE N A PRESCRIPTION

George T. Simpson, assistant attorney general who represented the state has received word from Bemidji that an indictment had been found against Frank A. Mayo a druggist there for permitting a prescription to be put up without a registered pharmacist being present.

Mayo's clerk, Raymond Roberts put up a prescription Sept. 16 for a boy named Carl Ackerberg. It was supposed to contain one-tenth of a grain of strychnine, divided in six powders. The boy took one powder and died in forty minutes of strychnine poisoning It is claimed that each powder contained six-tenths of a grain.

This is the first indictment of the kind ever brought in the state.

STEPHENS TO RUN FACTORY

BUILDING AND LOTS AND MACHINERY GO FOR $10 EACH

SUBJECT TO MORTGAGE—UNMORTGAGED PROPERTY GOES FOR $450

From Monday's Daily—

If the sale of the factory is confirmed the factory will be put in running order and the product will be on the market in a short time.

The sale of the factory and equipments of the American Biscuit Co., took place today with W. A. Marin as auctioneer. About twenty were present in the offices of the defunct biscuit company in Sampson's addition where the sale was made.

There were three bidders on the unmortgaged property while the building and lots and the mortgaged machinery had only one bidder in the mortgagor V. L. McGregor, represented by A. D. Stephens.

The bidders on the other property, consisting of the small staples that go to make up the factory's facilities which was not subject to mortgage was sold for $450 to V. L. McGregor. The price bid for the building was nominal, $10, subject to the mortgage of $3440; the machinery went for the same nominal price, subject to $1410.

There was some dispute over the oven as to whether it is a part of the building, being built into it, or an accessory chattel. It is included both under the building and under the machinery in the bankruptcy lists.

Cakes lie around half spilled in boxes on the upper floor and dust covers everything, it having the appearance of having been abandoned in an undue haste.

FARMERS ARE ALL PREPARED FOR WORK AND SOME NOW SEEDING

FEW MORE DAYS OF WARM WORK AND ALL WILL BE BUSY

From Tuesday's Daily—

While the weather was not so warm today as it might have been, still the breeze dried off the fields nicely, and quite a number of farmers are dragging on the sandy fields, and a few are seeding. If the weather continues favorable for a few days more work will be general on all the fields and work will be concluded earlier than for a number of years past.

Brevik Seeding

H. J. Brevik of Rome will commence seeding tomorrow. He has one of the high class farms of his vicinity, and goes in for mixed farming.

Looking After Farm

Deputy Revenue Collector Guy Aubol left this morning for his farm near Warren, one of the best in that section, where he will look after preparations for seeding. He has always seeded Scotch Fife wheat but this year will seed blue stem, which he bought last fall. He raised a fine barley crop last year which he sold at top prices early in the season, and his land is in great shape for wheat this year, the portion not cropped last year having been summer fallowed.

Start Work Today

Spring work on the big A. S. McCanna farm, located near McCanna this county, will be commenced about tomorrow. The ground is now in shape for seeding, and it is expected that the force of men will be started Tuesday in the work of sowing. The same condition prevails in several sections of the county, and by the end of the week, spring work will no doubt be general in all parts of it.—Grand Forks Times.

WILL THE SOO BUY GREAT WESTERN?

AGAIN THE USUALLY WISE ONES HAVE IT THAT THERE'LL BE A DEAL

The story that the Soo road will acquire the Chicago Great Western was heard again today in the local financial gossip. Its revival was probably due to an advance to 114 3-4 for Soo common on the New York Stock Exchange.

Last October when the financial disturbance was affecting stock values Soo sold down around 60. Its recovery thereafter was steady. Very recently, on the day the directors met here and increased the dividend rate from 4 to 6 per cent, the stock ranged between 97 3-4 and 105. Last Saturday's range was up to 114 and today the advance was still on.

When A. B. Stickney met the committee of English stockholders in London and the conference broke up which resulted in the appointment of a receiver for the appointment of a receiver for the Chicago Great Western the report followed that English investors in Great Western who were also holders of Canadian Pacific securities and necessarily closely informed as to Soo affairs, because of the ownership of the control of Soo sommon by the Canadian Pacific, would work for the acquisition of Great Western by the Soo, nothing official ever was forthcoming either from the general offices here or from Montreal.

The persistence of the rumor is regarded as significant. Many Canadians and New York financiers look upon such a deal as quite likely to come about.

HOMESTEAD GOES TO SON

Andrew Amundsen proved up on land near Lillo postoffice this morning at the United States land office here. The homestead was filed on by his father June 27, 1901 and his father died June 2 1904 followed by his mother Dec. 1st 1907. Under the law upon the death of an entryman, the widow, if any, may make proof; if no widow, the surviving son may make proof,

YOUNG TOM CAUGHT TRAIN

A GREAT RUSH FOR BEMIDJI TRAIN THIS MORNING BUT WAS LEFT

BEMIDJI TRAIN HELD AT CARMAN AND WENT OVER ON SPECIAL ENGINE

From Tuesday's Daily—

Tom Shevlin Jr., furnished amusement at the Great Northern train this morning to a large number of people. He came up from St. Paul this morning on the Great Northern flyer and was headed for Bemidji. In some manner he forgot that the train for Bemidji left at 8:30 instead of 9:05 as formerly, and about the time the train was steaming out, Shevlin Jr., was steaming down Second Street.

By actual count Tom made the run from the Hotel Crokston to the depot in 31 seconds but as he dashed across the depot platform the train dashed across the Robert street crossing.

Shevlin Jr., talked to himself between puffs. Then he talked to the ticket clerk. Then he talked to Agent Bell. He next paced the ticket office like a caged lion.

Chapter 2. Shevlin Jr., said he had to go to Bemidji. No mistake about it.

Chapter 3. Commodore Withey had the engine detached from the Greenbush train and Shevlin Jr., jumping aboard was hurried to South Crookston where the train for Bemidji was held till his arrival.

Chapter 4. Shevlin Jr., arrived at Bemidji safely and gave no interview to the Pioneer as to his early morning experiences.

THE CUTTING OF STATE TIMBER

IS THE CHARGE AGAINST FOURTEEN FARMERS UNDER ARREST

Fourteen farmers were taken before Justice R. H. Medicraft yesterday at Roseau charged upon complaint of E. C. Cooke special agent for the state, with having wrongfully cut and removed from 17,20 and 21, town 162, range 38, which are state lands tamarac, spruce and balsam logs. In each case the examination was continued. The charge is one to be considered by the grand jury in case the defendants are bound over by the justice after examination. If indictments are returned by that body, trial will be had in the district court.

ESTABLISHED DITCH NO. 72

OPPOSITION EFFECTS NOTHING—BUT MAY GET WIDENED OUTLET

Opposition to ditch 72 was mowed down yesterday afternoon and that construction was established and bids will be advertised for immediately. The final hearing was the most exciting since the No. 5 controversy at Erskine two years ago. Ditch 12 one of the outlets of proposed 72 may be widened as a result of a probable move by the opposition to 72. Those voting for the establishment were Rindal, Eklund and Thorson; those against Ben Clements; not voting Driscoll.

Want Ditch in Hammond

G. H. Emmick and Emil Skrivseth, farmers of Hammond town were before the county commissioners today with a petition for a ditch thru Russia and Hammond town. The proposed ditch begins at the Northeast corner of section 17 in Russia running due west on the section line ending at and emptying into ditch 28 at the northwest corner of section 13 town of Hammond. The first hearing was set for May 14th next.

Western Canada Reports Show Work Will Start in Ten Days.

Winnipeg, Man., April 7.—Reports of seeding prospects from all over Western Canada, recently received, indicate an outlook unusually bright. Spring work will start in ten days. Winter wheat in Alberta is well advanced and is showing up green in several localities.

About the time a man gets on to the hang of the furnace Fourth of July heaves in sight.

WAS WORTH THE PRICE

ANDERSON, PLUMMERITE OF MATRIMONIAL AGENCY FAME, PHILOSOPHIZES

LATE EXPERIENCE WORTH $100 PAID FOR IT—LONG HISTORY

From Tuesday's Daily—

John A. B. Anderson of Plummer, Minnesota, better known on account of his recent grievous flurry into matrimonial life, is in Crookston today to prove up on his claim near that city.

Mr. Anderson appeared before the clerk in the land office for the purpose of deposing as to his residence and other matters connected with his life on his claim as required by government. When asked, if he was a married man, he said:

"Well, that is—why, yes, I guess I was—some."

"Are you married?" repeated Clerk Pat Fearon excitedly (who is).

"That is not my latest impression," bubbled over John who was getting a good deal of fun out of it himself, "but I am I guess."

"Oh, I see," said Clerk Fearon in a low, soft sympathetic voice as if he had discovered some sad, morose history that had come in and shattered John's life. And he had.

A Milwaukee Belle

For John Anderson last fall went into the matrimonial ring and went down on the mat on the eve of his very wedding day. He wrote a Milwaukee lady or she wrote him—John forgets just which now in the maze—and she went to Plummer and they met and loved at the depot platform among the milk cans of the Plummer co-operative creamery. All was milk and honey. The preacher did the "love thee onue another" stunt and kissed the bride.

Then commenced the fireworks. As a result the lady departed that evening and John who had hiked a few miles that morn himself went back to commune with the moose, porcupine and wild geese in the woods. So there was a skeleton in John's closet. Action is pending for divorce now.

"It was worth the price to be schooled," said John this morning, "I paid a hundred dollars, but I don't want it back."

—and Skeletons

It appears that the lady who appeared before John as Miss Jessie Sperry was known in Milwaukee as Mrs. Berry and was the wife of a Chicago railway man of another name. "So there was some skeleton in her closet too", says John emphatically.

John A. Anderson is a mighty nice fellow, well educated and pleasant, a little brief in stature, but full of cussedness yet, just in prime marriageable condition right now, but with a good deal of that "schooling" that you get in a flurry in high life and appreciative of it.

"It was worth the price, remember" quoth John good naturedly as Clerk Fearon tried to get him onto other subjects.

BUYS FINE FARM IN FANNY TOWNSHIP

NORTH HALF SECTION 22 GOES TO PARSONS OF WESTBROOK

F W. Parsons of Westbrook, Cottonwood County, Minnesota, late last night completed papers conveying to him the north half of section 22 in Fanny township about ten miles west of Shirley The farm was sold by Herman Mechler thru the Purvis Land Co., of Crookston. Mr. Parsons will farm the land this year. The consideration was $12,800

Vacations

The time to take a vacation is before one is exhausted. If one is discontented during his vacation, he should take it, none the less, as a matter of duty, not expecting to enjoy every moment but contenting himself with the anticipation of greater pleasure in the resumption of his duties. In the meantime we suggest the daily use of a good malt tonic, such as golden grain belt beer. Taken at mealtime it will nourish your nerves, enrich your blood and invigorate your muscles Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

TILT WITH DITCH MEN

COMMISSIONERS HOLD SESSION IN CROOKSTON AFTER THE GLOAMING

D. A. STUART OF WINDOM HOLDS FORT OF EUCLID DITCH CONTRACTORS

From Tuesday's Daily—

After one of the most exciting sessions of the year at their offices in the county building on the hill, the commissioners of Polk county held a late night session in the lobbies of Hotel Crookston yesterday.

It was a pow wow of peace or battle with Commissioner Clements brandishing the tomahawk and blithesome Commissioners Rindal and Eklund smoking the pleasant pipe of peace. Before them sat Treasurer D. A. Stuart of the Standard Drainage Co., of Windom, Minn., one of the largest dredge companies in the northwest and doing more business in Crookston neighborhood than any other concern. Diplomatic and subtle the treasurer suavely parried with short sword the thrusts of Clements or clinched with him and sought for throttle hold.

A Little History

In the spring of 1907 the Standard Drainage Company, as only bidder, took the Euclid ditch 66 about six miles west of that city, at 16½ cents a yard. They brought from southern counties a floating dredge which they placed on the work, but on account of lack of water they accomplished nothing. This dredge they sold to Bondsman Austin and it is now on judicial No. 4 in the east county. The next and immediately following move was to place a straddle or dry digger on the work. As however these machines require some water to float the hull and none was found, this too proved a failure. The machine was taken off and nothing more done that year. The contract expiration time of completion of ditch was last fall.

Threaten to Re-sell

The county commissioners as led by Commissioner Clements maintain the company has wasted time in working on ditch, the ditch should be resold and the company on the Euclid ditch should be disciplined as an example to other contractors on Polk County work what happens to the man who does not finish his contract on time.

The Company's Stand

D. A. Stuart maintains that no time has been wasted, that the company was advised by the engineer of the ditch and surrounding farmers along the proposed ditch line that water had been for years in the coulee down which the ditch proceeds, up to the armpits, that they had acted on that advice as the only reliable information on which to conduct their business and that on that account they had brought floating dredges from the south, that these machines proved ineffective on account of weather conditions and acts of nature over which they had no control, that they were making every effort this year to complete the ditch with teams and that the contract given them by the county provided in their behalf that they would not be responsible for conditions of nature that arose and prevented them in their work The dredge company has already spent $2000 on the job. They were hindered completing the ditch last year by the interference into their business of an owner of a few acres along the ditch line.

Suggest Hold Up

Commissioner Clements believed the ditch could be sold for less money than the company were doing it for, notwithstanding there was only one bidder that was not afraid of the job when it was let first. However the commissioners decided that they would not hold up the ditch company at this time and the matter rests now in the hands of County Auditor Hoffard whose plans are those of conservative leniency as long as the company shows good faith.

A Hard Proposition

The Euclid ditch job is known as one of the hardest ever let in this county. The thick and gumbo nature of the soil with the fluctuating stages of water has been a matter of fear to all contrctors. For this reason it is desired to finish the ditch as soon as possible

The average man would soon acquire a lot of money if he could sell his get-rich-quick schemes at 10 cents each.

The more livings a man can earn the more he has too for otherrs.

GEORGE GERGIN A SUICIDE

HIS REMAINS WERE FOUND YESTERDAY ON THE M. & I. TRACKS

THE REMAINS WILL BE BURIED BY THE COUNTY OF BELTRAMI

From Wednesday's Daily—

The remains of George Gergin were found yesterday noon on an old skidway near the M. & I. track, one-half mile south of Funkley.

From papers and a note found on his person, it is determined that it was a clear case of suicide.

Gergin was last seen in Funkley on the 28th of March. He was a lumberjack and had but a few acquaintances in this vicinity and his not being seen after that did not cause any alarm whatever as it was supposed that he had gone to some other part of the country.

Deputy Coroner J. P. Lahr went to Funkley last evening and returned this morning with the remains.

The body of Gergin will probably be buried at the poor farm some time tomorrow.

From the note which was found on the person it seems that Gergin has been playing in hard luck for the past month, being unable to find work, for in his note he asks that the authorities bury him without looking up his relatives or permitting anyone to know where he is. He states that he is acquainted with B. Thompson and Louis Jones of Tenstrike.

LIGHT SPRING FLOODS ARE INCONVENIENT

PROF. ROBERTSON SAYS COUNTY NOT KEEPING PACE WITH THE STATE

Professor Robertson of the State Experimental farm north of Crookston appeared before the county commissioners this morning stating that several small bridges over lateral ditches had been destroyed on account of the flow of water the last two or three days. Ditch No. 60 (known as the Experimental farm ditch) has not been completed and ditches constructed by the state to drain its lands are the concentrating point of water from miles around and unable, of course, to handle it.

J. C. Sabin came down from the north line yesterday and speaks of the flow of water over the fields north, chiefly on account of the blocking of the lower streams by ice. With the warm weather the flooded condition will disappear. In few instances is it of sufficient consequence to cause any local apprehension.

WANT ROADS IN NORTH COUNTRY

BEAUDETTE HOMESTEADER WHO WILL REMAIN ON CLAIM REMARKS

Edward Thompson, a homesteader about six miles southwest of Beaudette in northern Beltrami county is proving up on his claim today and will return to continue his home on his quarter of section. He states that the improvements needed most in that country which were much agitated by a protest meeting at Beaudette last month against certain provisions of the drainage bill, are roads. The belief prevails in that section of the country that road construction as the primary object will do more good to the country than any other effort. The roads will leave a ditch on each side and that will give all the drainage necessary at present. Mr. Thompson believes however there are some places where big systems will do much to drain swamps.

A Common Mistake

Many women mistake kidney and bladder troubles for some irregularity peculiar to the sex. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and makes women well. Miss Carrie Harden, Bowling Green, Ky., writes: "I suffered much pain from kidney and bladder trouble until I started to use Foley's Kidney Remedy. The first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely well." For sale by all druggists.

DEFENSE IN FAWCETT CASE

JENNIE DUNNING OFFICE GIRL, IS WITNESS IN BEHALF OF HER EMPLOYER

GRAND FORKS SENSATIONAL TRIAL IS NEARING A CLOSE

From Wednesday's Daily—

Judge C. F. Templeton at Grand Forks yesterday overruled a motion of the defense that the court direct the acquittal of Dr. John W. Fawcett who is being tried for performing an illegal operation. This motion was based on the claim of Attorney F. B. Feetham that the state had not made out a case.

When the motion was overruled Attorney Feetham outlined his defense and called Pearl Schaefer as the first witness. She has been a roommate of Miss Jennie Dunning, employed as doctor's assistant in the office of Dr. Fawcett. They occupied a room adjoining the office of Dr. Fawcett, over the Stanchfield clothing store. Miss Schaefer claimed to have heard a conversation which went to show that Dr. Fawcett was not guilty of the charge filed against him.

Testifies for Doctor

Miss Dunning who is regarded as the most important witness for the defense, testified that Lillie Schmochel was not operated on by Dr. Fawcett as he had, in the presence of Miss Dunning, warned the girl against such an operation. This advice was given on the occasion of the first visit of Miss Schmochel. On the occasion of the second visit Miss Schmochel was very ill and she was sent to Swanson's hospital, East Grand Forks.

Yesterday forenoon the state called a Mr. and Mrs. Brown to prove that Dr. Fawcett had performed such an operation on another occasion. Coronel Rounsevell testified as to the facts in the Schmoechel inquest and Sheriff Hanson gave evidence relating to the impossibility of getting service on Dr. McManus wanted as a witness by the state.

INVESTIGATE DEATH AGAIN

OFFICIALS NOT SATISFIED WITH FIRST REPORT OF STEENERSON TRAGEDY

Officials of the steamboat inspection service have directed a second investigation into the death of Benjamin G. Steenerson, son of Congressman Steenerson, who was drowned at Newport, R. I., about a month ago. This is an independent investigation, instituted under steamboat inspection laws and is for the purpose of determining whether the master and pilot of the tug on which Steenerson was a passenger, managed their vessel properly after Steenerson fell into the water. The first investigation was not conclusive as the evidence developed was not such as officials thought ought to have been brought out.

A request was therefore made on the navy department for transcript of the record of the investigation made by ocers at Newport station of the marine corps, with a view of examining witnesses who appeared at that examination. The captain of the tug has appealed to Congressman Steenerson to intercede with the authorities here, but the congresman refused If found negligent in the management of his vessel the master of the tug may lose his license.

TWICE CURED OF SKIN TROUBLES

First Case a Rash Which Itched and Stung—Threatened Ten Years Later With Blood-Poison in Leg—But Both Times the Sufferer's

RELIANCE IN CUTICURA PROVED WELL-FOUNDED

"About twelve or fifteen years ago, while living in West Virginia, I had a breaking-out, and it itched and stung so badly that I could not have any peace because of it. I saw three doctors and they did not agree on what it was, so one of them gave me something that he called medicine, but I called it soda water. I might just as well have washed in rain-water. Then I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent and began to get better right away. They cured me and I have not been bothered with the itching since, to amount to anything. About two years ago I had la grippe and pneumonia which left me with a pain in my side. Treatment ran it into my leg, which then swelled and began to break out. It got in pretty bad shape, so I went to a doctor. He was afraid it would turn to blood-poison. I used his medicine but it did no good. So I sent for another set of the Cuticura Remedies. I used them three times and cured the breaking-out on my leg. Now I won't be without Cuticura. J. F. Hennen, R. F. D. 3, Milan, Mo., May 13, 1907."

JOHN REED COULD NOT RESTRAIN AMATORY TENDENCIES

WRITES FROM HIS HOME AT EDGERTON, WISCONSIN, YESTERDAY

From Thursday's Daily—

John Reed, wanted in this city for departing coincidently with the disappearance of the valuable snare drum belonging to the Crookston band could not keep back his feelings for Miss Josie Stark a waitress in the Palace hotel, from Red Lake Falls and was yesterday night located by the police as a result.

A letter was received from Edgerton, Wisconsin where Reed claimed his home to be and the police began rapidly to cover the trail, locating the missing gentleman this afternoon at that place. He will be held awaiting action of authorities.

Many a man who toots his own horn imagines that he is the whole band.

THE RUSH OF SETTLERS

BRANCH LINE TRAINS ARE DOING A LAND OFFICE BUSINESS

17 HEADED FOR GREENBUSH AND 20 FOR THIEF RIVER FALLS TODAY

From Friday's Daily—

The rush of settlers to the Red River Valley is now on in full blast, and every branch line train leaving Crookston bears a good big delegation. This morning the train for Greenbush was packed with new comers, 17 being booked for Greenbush and 20 for Thief River Falls, intermediate towns being equally well represented.

This movement has been on in full swing for some time past, and indications point to a continuance of the movement for several weeks. The land men state that there will be a bigger immigration this season than has been experienced for several years past, and that the new comers are coming prepared to farm right, bringing more dairy stock than has ever been shipped to the Red River Valley in any single year in history.

The newcomers are also well fixed financially and will make a most desirable class of residents. Practically every section of the valley is getting its quota of new comers and scores of farms that have not been operated during the past few years will be farmed this year.

ATTY. COLLINS WITHDRAWS

FROM THE RACE FOR THE NOMINATION FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

City Attorney Collins of East Grand Forks whose name has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the office of county attorney, has decided not to make the race, preferring to continue in his present position as city attorney of East Grand Forks. Finlayson, who is a candidate for the county attorneyship, is the only candidate for county office from the west end of the county who will seek the republican nomination at the county convention and the outlook is good for him to capture the plum.—Grand Forks Herald.

BROKEN SADDLE AND BENT FRAME ON GREAT NORTHERN ENGINE

Freight engine 993 passed thru the city this morning for the Carman yards and eventually to the shops at St Paul with a broken saddle and a frame badly bent as a result of a collision at Noyes yesterday. The Great Northern men were in no way responsible for the collision.

This afternoon at the residence of her brother, Mr. Paul Carpenter at McIntosh, Miss Laura Carpenter was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Clarke, Jr., of Duluth in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends including Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Carpenter of Crookston, Mr. Carpenter being a brother of the bride. The bride is well known and very popular in Crookston having made her home with her brother here for several years during which time she attended the high school. The groom is a well known resident of Duluth where he is chief deputy in the office of the judge of probate of St. Louis County. Scores of friends will unite in extending wishes for a pleasant and prosperous future for the happy couple who will leave soon for Duluth where they will make their future home.

The Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clark will arrive in this city this evening and will be entertained by relatives at the home of Mrs. B. L. Crowe, 501 Cowing St., where a repast will be served. Tomorrow night the newly wedded couple will be guests of honor at a reception held at the home of George F. HAND CRUSHED IN FEED MILL

BYGLAND FARMER HAS FOUR FINGERS CRUSHED IN A HOPPER

THUMB IS LEFT AND IT IS HOPED THAT THIS MAY BE SAVED

From Friday's Daily—

Albert Thorson a farmer of Bygland, Minn., a few miles south of East Grand Forks, had the four fingers of his right hand crushed off in a feed mill yesterday forenoon. Thorson had dropped something into the hopper and when he endeavored to locate it his fingers were caught between the rollers and crushed off. His thumb was left on the hand and it is hoped that this may be saved.

Mr. Thorson was taken to the Deaconess hospital at Grand Forks yesterday afternoon and an effort will be made to save his hand. At first it was considered possible that it would be necessary to amputate the hand at the wrist. Thorson had had experience with the feed mill but forgot about the danger of putting his fingers in the hopper.

CONTEST NOT DULL ROUTINE CASE

RACY FEATURES OF BADGER TOWNSHIP CASE COME BEFORE COURT

The contest case brought by Mrs. Maggie Odegard against Ivar Mikkelson before the land office here was completed last night at ten o'clock and is now before the land office court for settlement. The case took on a racy atmosphere as it proceeded it appearing that not the lady but Kleppe brought the action for the divorce August last. SONS OF NORWAY AT TWIN VALLEY

Thirty prominent Norwegians of Twin Valley and vicinity came together at Andrew Engeset's office last Friday night and held a preliminary meeting for the purpose of organizing a branch society of the order of Sons of Norway. The organizer Mr. C. Peterson of Minneapolis acted as presiding officer and Dr. E. Haugseth was elected temporary secretary. Last evening the first regular meeting was held and name adopted and various officers elected and installed. Invitations were extended to the members of the order at Lake Park, Fargo Crookston, Fertile and Halstad to be present at the time of the organization and we have learned that several of these branches have already accepted the invitations and a large gathering is expected. The following committees were appointed to report at the social meeting:

Committee on name:

A. K. Rude, J. F. Heiberg and Haldor Hanson.

Committee to draw up by-lays:

Andrew Engeset, M. E. Dahl and M. E. Hammer.

Hall Committee:

Reception Committee:

Dr. H. H. Halvorson, Lars Knutson and Henry Midthune.

This last committee was instructed to arrange for a spread and otherwise entertain the visiting brothers so as to make their visit here as pleasant and enjoyable as possible. An enjoyable evening and a large number took advantage of this opportunity to become members. This order has already a large number of branches organized in Minnesota, North Dakota South Dakota, Wisconsin and in various states on the Pacific coast. The aim of this order is similar to those organizations among all other nationalities in this country, namely: to cultivate more social virtues and brotherly feeling among the Norwegians in this country.—Twin Valley Times.

NO HEARING FOR MANAHAN

RAILWAY AND WAREHOUSE COMMISSION HAS TURNED HIM DOWN

ATTORNEY GENERAL YOUNG BELIEVED THE PLAN INADVISABLE

From Saturday's Daily—

The railway and warehouse commission will not grant James Manahan of St. Paul a hearing on his application to be heard relative to alleged excessive coal rates between Duluth and St. Paul and alleged excessive cattle rates.

Attorney General Young has advised the commission that in view of the muddle that has arisen relative to Minnesota rates, it would be inadvisable to go into the matter further at this time.

Acting upon this advice, Mr. Manahan's petition for a hearing will be denied.

Politics are said to be playing a strong part both in the application for a hearing and for its refusal. Immediate action was probably hastened by the announcement in The Tribune that Mr. Manahan would address a meeting at New Ulm Friday night, called by the Minnesota Shippers' and Receivers' association, at which he planned to handle the commission without gloves. The meeting of the shippers' association at New Ulm is one of a series which the association plans to hold in various parts of the state, and which will probably work in the interest of the candidacy of J. H. Grass for membership on the commission.

WILL RAISE MANY POTATOES

WELL KNOWN EUCLID FARMER BELIEVES THERE IS MONEY IN SPUDS

Henry Weideman, the well known Euclid resident and one of the old timers of the Red River Valley has decided to engage extensively in the raising of potatoes this year, and will plant at least 40 acres. Potato raising in Minnesota is rapidly growing to be one of the leading industries, and where conducted on the proper basis has proven very profitable. In addition the cultivation of potatoes leaves the ground in excellent shape for a bumper crop of any variety, being considered better for the land than a crop of corn. A number of others in this section will raise from 5 to 25 acres of potatoes this year. and Crookston promises to be a big shipping point for spuds next fall. Potatoes for several years past have been one of the leading and most profitable products of Clay County.

Even the man who lives upright isn't apt to die in that position.

It's a good deal easier to get engaged than it is to get disengaged.

SPIES ARE BUSY AGAIN

CONDUCTORS ON TWO PACIFIC SYSTEMS ARE VERY WRATHY

OVER THE "SPOTTER" SYSTEM WHICH IS BEING INSTITUTED BY BOND CO.

From Saturday's Daily—

The passenger and freight conductors and passenger train auditors in the employ of the Northern Pacific road have been notified that from April 1 they are bonded in an eastern surety bonding company and that the cost of their bonds will be deducted from their salaries in four equal payments. The bond required of a passenger conductor is $1,000 and of a freight conductor $500. The auditors are required to put up a bond similar to that of the passenger conductors. The men affected by this new order got their notices yesterday and while they say little about it they are not pleased. The bonding system is in effect on the Great Northern and has been for some time.

It is said trouble is brewing with the trainmen of both the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads.

This system of espionage they say has become a reproach to the business and a source of fear to even the most upright and honest men in the service.

Do Not Like System

"It is a disagreeable thing to feel that you are being watched by spotters and the danger is ever about you that some spotter will make a false report implicating you," said a conductor of one of the roads yesterday. Just such things have been done by spotters either thru malice against some particular employe, or just to make the company think the informers are earning their money. I don't blame the company for wanting to get good service and honest returns in every particular, for it is entitled to it, but it is a pity that they cannot devise some means of accomplishing results without robbing every honest man wearing a conductor's uniform of his self-respect.

"The honest as well as the dishonest employe is at the mercy of the spotter. If the spotter for some reason of his own takes a notion to hand some conductor a package, what is there to prevent. The spotter may not make his charge stick but the suspicion of the company is aroused, and the situation is embarrassing and bad just the same."

It is reported that the Great Northern has lately extended the spotters system to such on extent that it is a matter of general comment in nearly all departments.

SENATOR WORKS PURCHASED 20 HEAD OF HORSES YESTERDAY

WENT TO EUCLID TODAY TO CONFER WITH MANAGER VONDERBECK

From Friday's Daily—

Senator S. D. Works left this morning for Euclid where he will confer with Manager Alfred Vonderbeck who will have charge of all the Works farms in this section this year.

Senator Works spent yesterday at Bemidji where he purchased 20 head of horses which arrived here this morning and will be used in the operation of the Works farms the coming year. Senator Works will have every acre of his lands in this section put in crop with the exception of what will be summer fallowed, as he does not believe in letting land lie idle.

His example will this year will be followed by many other outside land holders whose lands in many instances have not been farmed during the past year or two, and this will result in a much larger acreage thruout the valley than has been sown for a number of years.

The Red River Valley would be better off if more land in this section was owned by men with the progressive tendencies displayed by Senator Works.

Time To Do Something

The president wants four, and he wants an anti-trust bill amending the present Sherman act. Prospects at this time are not bright for any of these measures at this late day in the session. The house may pass an amended anti-trust bill, but it will never get thru the senate. The senate. The senate has passed the Aldrich currency bill, but that measure is doomed in the house.

A private poll of the house has been taken by the leaders and it develops that more than half of the members are opposed to the Aldrich bill.

The opinion prevails that a compromise will be effected by the appointment of a currency commission to report to the next congress.

It will be generally regretted in Crookston that such a condition of affairs exists as it means that there is practically no hope of having the appropriation for the Crookston Federal Building increased as it was hoped would be possible.

Crookston is specially interested in the determination that unless President Roosevelt gets approximately the legislation he desires at the hands of congress, it is said on high authority that he will veto the omnibus public buildings bill which is to be framed up this week. In that event there will be a pretty lively fight between congress and the white house which will be precipitated when the naval appropriation bill comes up. It is the present program of the republican leaders of the house to limit the extension of the navy during the current year to two battleships of the first class type.

In New Field

According to the latest official information received the Standard Oil is making arrangements to develop into the greatest butter making concern in the world. Always on the lookout for some process to enrich its shareholders, and able to apply the latest developments of scientific research its chemists have solved the problem of manufacturing butter from tar and crude oil. This is going a good step in advance of manufacturing vaseline from petroleum, and after all, the step from vaseline to butter is most a matter of flavor and color. This new commodity—it would be scandalous to call it butter—has already been placed on sale in New York, and declared by some New Yorkers to be superior in texture, sweeter scented, more delicious in flavor, and more grassy in quality than the rarest kinds of creamery butter.

At the recent buttermakers' convention at Saint Paul one of the delegates asserted that few people east of the Mississippi knew the taste of good butter, having been so accustomed to bad. The inference is therefore that the taste for good butter in New York is sadly perverted, if it can accept the Standard Oil quality manufactured from tar and petroleum.

It is essential that the Minnesota buttermakers thru their associations should keep a watchful eye on the octopus or they may lose some of their best markets through the indifference or ignorance of the butter-buying public. Of late the dairy and food department have been active in Saint Paul. They have been investigating into the methods of "imitation" farmers who have been representing to innocent housewives that they are from the country, and getting them to take oleomargarine as the best creamery butter. Owing to the efficiency of the St. Paul police these pests have been gotten rid of. Still there seems plenty of work ahead for the butter makers' association in Minnesota, now that Standard Oil has gone into the buttermaking business.

The Reformatory Idea

In an interview with The Herald recently Frank L. Randall superintendent of the St. Cloud state reformatory vividly contrasted the ancient idea of handling criminals and convicts with the more enlightened modern idea.

"There was a time," said he, "when men were simply locked up in insanitary surroundings, and public sentiment countenanced the abuse of criminals and convicts. If they withstood tuberculosis and other diseases, they were finally let loose again to prey upon society. The reformatory idea —the modern idea of penal institutions—is that there should, first of all be a just reason for imprisonment, and then that the imprisonment should be with the purpose of reforming the prisoner."

The term "penitentiary" applied to most state prisons, has its root in the idea of punishment and pain. This is a relic of the days when imprisonment was for the punishment of erring members of society. The idea of punishment still lingers in the public mind, but except in rare and extreme cases, it is as anarchronistic as the whipping post and the stocks.

The duty of society toward the man who is convicted of crime is not to make him suffer for his offense, but to turn him, if possible, into an honest and productive citizen. In the first place it is becoming well understood that in a very large majority of cases, society itself is directly at fault for the existence of a criminal class. Where it permits noisome slums to exist, in which poverty, degradation and sin are the weeds that crowd out the virtues, it is fostering a breeding ground for bad men and bad women. Its guilt in permitting the continuance of a degree of poverty and debasement which breeds criminality makes it responsible for the care of the logical fruits of such hothouses of evil. Its first duty should be to eliminate the conditions that make for crime; its second duty is to treat criminals thus produced upon a reformaatory and not a punitive plan.

The old system of handling convicts degraded men and women and confirmed them in criminal ways. It embittered them against society, which punished them for the logical results of its own negligence. It forced them down the hill instead of pulling them up.

Thus the fixed sentence is giving away to the indeteminate sentence, which leaves to prison authorities the decision as to release. Prison conditions are designed to make men better, instead of making them worse. The duty of the prison authorities is to uplift their charges, not to crowd them down. The old-time prison graduated trained criminals; the modern prison aims to turn out citizens.

It is a big problem, and does not always work out ideally; but modern tendencies, as expressed by Mr. Randall, are along the right line. The prison is not a place for punishment, but a place for regenerating men and women who have strayed, because of heredity or environment, into evil ways.—Duluth Herald.

The Liability Law

The house yesterday passed the employers' liability bill applying, however, only to common carriers. It is a measure to relax the common-law rule regarding the non-ability of the employer for accidents caused by the negligence of a fellow servant. It also modifies the law regarding contributory negligence. The principle in the bill is that there is a liability on the part of the common carrier whether there is contributory negligence or not, but as a compensation to employers the amount which may be recovered is scaled down as the contributory neglect rises. This is a necessary modification to protect employers from raids on their treasuries by suits without any, or with little merit.

The grain of the bill follows the recommendations of the president that something be done to equalize conditions as between employer and employee. He argued that in any event the employee bore too great a proportion of the cost of the accident. He gave his life, his career, or his earning power, while the corporation never even in the most deserving cases gave more than a slight contribution from its treasury.—Minneapolis Journal.

ANTI-BRYAN MEN IN NEW ALLIANCE

CONFERENCE IN NEW YORK AIMS AT COMBINATION TO DEFEAT THE NEBRASKAN—ALLIES DRAW STRENGTH IN THE SOUTH AND EAST—"BLUE-EYED WILLIAM" SHEEHAN AND DAVID B. HILL DIRECT ANTI-BRYAN COUP

An anti-Bryan campaign with enough strength behind it to make it serious to the Nebraskan's chances of nomination has been started in New York. A conference, attended by several prominent western democrats, and by many from eastern and southern states, was held there, reaching both an end and a decision last week, it develops.

It was held under direction of William Sheehan, "Blue-Eyed William" who with David B. Hill, endeavored successfully to make Alton B. Parker, the democratic nominee in 1904, and unsuccessfully to make him president.

Tired of Long Wait

The names of the men at the conference are being kept secret. Those present not only do not care to have their own names made public, but wish to "protect" others in the conclave. The heaviest representatives were from the south and the east.

It is to the south that the anti-Bryanites look for power with which to stop the Nebraskan's hitherto unchecked progress towards the nomination.

They represented that the south would like, above all things, to elect a democratic president and enjoy a distribution of federal patronage. They have no confidence in Bryan's ability to win, and look upon his nomination as a signal for another return to the wilderness for four more years of wandering about and feeding on roots.

South to Meet Johnson

The east shares the feelings of the south regarding the desirability of the result to be obtained, and several of the largest states, including Pennsylvania and New York, are holding out for uninstructed delegates

This movement comes coincidently with the beginning of active campaigning for Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, from the Chicago headquarters opened at the Grand Pacific hotel Thursday. Johnson himself will be in Chicago Tuesday morning with a party of Minnesota officials and citizens on their way south. He goes to Pittsburg Landing for the dedication of a Minnesota monument, and will visit Louisville both going and returning on his return he is to make a political speech in Louisville, and will be in Chicago again Tuesday April 14.

This trip altho touring only the edge of the south, will serve to introduce him, in a way, to the southerners.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

The New York World publishes the following:

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad company in an interview given to the World, told what he thought of Governor John Johnson of Minnesota as presidential timber. Concretely expressed his opinion of the governor was:

"Governor Johnson is a great man—in Minnesota."

Stories that the Great Northern's president and the powerful railroad interests of which he is chief are behind Johnson, despite the way he has made them jump hurdles in Minnesota, have been most insistent. In a recent magazine article it was written:

"It would be pleasant to announce that James J. Hill and all the northwestern railroad interests are bitterly opposed to Mr. Johnson. In truth they are not, and it is impossible to think of a more curious and instructive fact. So far has the warfare gone against corporate interests that they would rather take a man of Johnson's record of anti-corporation legislation than another man that might do worse."

"What do you think of that?" Mr. Hill was asked.

A Most Successful Governor

"There is nothing in that; nothing at all" snapped Mr. Hill. "I know Johnson only as governor of Minnesota. He has been most successful, I should say. His administrations have been popular. He has made some good appointments in the judiciary; appointed some good sheriffs and other officers."

"You speak of him distantly, Mr. Hill. Current publications would lead one to imagine you were on the most intimate terms of friendship with Governor Johnson."

"There is nothing in those stories. I don't suppose I have met Governor Johnson more than once or twice—probably at a dinner or a club, or some place like that," said Mr. Hill. "He is a good, respectable man, who has the respect of the people of Minnesota. His rise has been rapid—from a poor boy to a newspaper man and then state senator and on up to where he is now."

"Mr. Hill, don't you think such radical measures as the Minnesota and North Carolina rate bills simply result in putting state control of public corporations back about fifty years?"

"State control!" snorted Mr. Hill. "Do you know that the railroads of this country have done more for it than the railroads of any other country under the sun; that they have done more for the people than any railroads on the face of the earth?"

"That's all right, but the state control that was meant is the kind that would let the railroads make decent returns on their investments, but would see to it that they gave honest service to the public."

Almost Like Russia

"Umph! Bureaus! This country is becoming more and more like Russia every day It's almost there now. Soon we'll have a government absolutely by bureau."

"Now let us talk about Johnson again, Mr. Hill. What do you think of him? Is he another Cleveland?"

Mr. Hill's rugged face softened and he looked out of a window seemingly into a great distance.

"No; there is but one Cleveland. He was a great president. He is a great man. But few know what a great rugged, simple man he is. I was off fishing with him once for two weeks and I shall never forget that time. When we would return to the camp for the night he would be singing hymns in that great big voice of his that sounded like a lion's roar."

"Well, Mr. Hill, we're back to Johnson again. Do you think that men like Johnson and Roosevelt put us back by forcing laws on the books that most lawyers know will never be sustained by the courts?"

"We're in the courts now," said Mr. Hill half smiling. "I have never made it a practice to try my railroad cases in the newspapers, and I should not care to say anything now."

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.
(New York Press)

One thing a woman is sure of, is there won't be any chapped knees in heaven.

Another man is a scoundrel for doing what is a pardonable fault when you do it.

Because a man has a bank account doesn't mean he has real money there any more than a woman's shape shows she has a real figure.

There's hardly any satisfaction greater than thinking what a lot of trouble your friends get in because they don't ask your advice.

Most people are under such suspicion that the easiest way for them to make you think they are practicing deception is to be frank with you.

POTATOES

Press. Bulletin. No. 73—By A. J. McGuire, Northeast Experiment Station, Grand Rapids, Minnesota

Potatoes will be one of the main market crops for Northern Minnesota.

The soil and climate is especially favorable to their growth.

Under fair conditions they yield from 175 to 225 bushels per acre.

The cost of growing them need not exceed $25 per acre.

The market price the past five years in this section of the state has averaged 69 cents per bushel.

Four acres of potatoes are grown on the Experimental Farm every year They are grown in rotation with wheat, clover and fodder corn. The ground is manured lightly for the fodder corn and again for the potatoes.

The Carmen No. 1 potato is grown exclusively on these four acres. Other varieties are grown on small plots and in comparison with the Carmen, but none have been found to yield so well, or as satisfactorily in general as the Carmen.

The Carmen is a white potato, oval in shape and medium to late in maturing. It is quite firm in texture, good flavor, keeps well, and is one of the best selling potatoes on the market.

The Carmen No. 3 potato is frequently inquired for in comparison with No. 1. They are practically the same.

For an early potato the Early Sunlight or Early Ohio is recommended.

The past year modern potato machinery was used on the Experimental Farm. The Aspinwall planter and sprayer, and a Hoover digger. These "makes" of potato machinery are not recommended as better than others, as they were not used in comparison with other "makes." They proved practical and satisfactory; however, and for growing potatoes on a large scale potato machinery is recommended. From 3 to 4 acres can be planted or dug in a day. The sprayer sprays four rows at a time and a four or five acre field can be gone over in a quarter of a day.

For a potato digger to work at its best the field should be quite free from weeds and grass, also of stones.

In the growing of potatoes there are a few general rules that are profitable to follow:

Select good seed Get a good variety, and keep it pure, and stick to it till you are sure of improvement by changing. By selecting the best potatoes for seed every year it becomes a better variety. Small, inferior seed tends to run out the crop.

Scabby seed produces scabby potatoes, and not only this but infests the soil, so that potatoes on the same ground within the next two or three years will be effected. For this and other reasons potatoes should be grown on the same land but once every third or fourth year. Scab may be destroyed on seed potatoes by treating the seed with formaldehyde. One quart of formaldehyde in three-quarter of a barrel of water. Put the potatoes in sacks and submerge in the barrel for two or three hours. This formaldehyde is a poison and potatoes treated in it should be used for seed only. Formaldehyde can be bought at any drug store. It is cheap and the treatment takes but little work and should be used whenever there is any sign of scab.

A sandy loam soil is best for potatoes. It should be high land or well drained as potatoes drown out quickly on wet soil. In the rotation potatoes do best following clover. The soil cannot be too rich. The yield may be increased from one-third to one-half thru barn yard manure.

On the Experiment Farm the potatoes are planted in rows 30 inches apart, and 18 inches apart in the row.

After planting the field is harrowed thoroughly every week till the potatoes are up and then cultivated every week or ten days thruout the growing season.

The past two years the vines were sprayed for blight tho the disease was not prevalent to any marked extent.

The treatment used was Blue Vitoral 5 libs., quick lime 3 lbs., doissolved in 50 gallons of water. This is known as Bordeaux Mixture and may be used for various kinds of blight.

In spraying the potato vines with this treatment pars green was also used with it to destroy the bigs.

In growing potatoes it is advisable to grow the same variety throughout the neighborhood. Where one or several carloads can be shipped of the same variety of potatoes it commands a much better market. This cannot be done where every farmer grows a different kind.

In storing potatoes there are a few points that are well to consider. To keep well, potatoes should be mature, and as dry as possible when put in the cellar.

Use small bins to allow circulation of air, and provide for good ventilation thru the roof. Dry, cool air is necessary. The cooler the cellar can be kept without freezing the better. A thermometer hung in the root cellar is of advantage.

As yet there are not sufficient potatoes grown in Northern Minnesota to supply the home market. Hundreds of carloads are shipped into Duluth and Superior and the mining towns from other sections.

The growing of potatoes to supply this home market may be developed to advantage of all.

Farmbers should co-operate, grow a uniform grade of potatoes, and aim to put only a high grade of potatoes on the market. Keep the small potatoes at home.

As good potatoes can be grown in Northern Minnesota as anywhere in the country and it should at least supply its own market.

EMMA GOLDMAN HELD AT NOYES STATION

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

H. A. Rider of Little Falls connected with the Winnipeg District of the United States Immigration Department, departed north this morning on the St. Vincent train for Emerson and Noyes on the international boundary line where trouble is brewing for the leader of the Anarchist world, the "Queen of the Reds."

Unless Emma Goldman proves that she is an American citizen she will never again be allowed to enter the United States.

The "Queen of the Reds" who was recently in Minneapolis, has just delivered a lecture in Winnipeg. On her way back to the United States she was stopped at Noyes on the border between Canada and the United States by the United States immigration officers. She was returned to Winnipeg.

The action of the immigration office is on the order of the attorney general, issued to the Winnipeg authorities, for the exclusion of all anarchists and undesirable aliens. It is the most decisive step that the United States government has ever taken for the exclusion of this class of people from this country.

Claims Citizenship

She claimed that the fact that her father was a naturalized citizen made her a ward of the government.

Miss Goldman was born in Russia and left there when she was 12 years of age.

Escorted to Noyes

The Canadian government today at Winnipeg instructed the police officials to escort Emma Goldman to the boundary. If the United States government refuses to allow her to cross she will be sent to Russia altho she claims to be a United States citizen.

It is known that the Goldman woman has been under government surveillance for several months. Her every movement has been watched by the government officers. Months ago it was determined by the immigration authorities to arrest her on her return from Europe but she evaded the officials and reached the United States surreptitiously.

More Trouble

Emma Goldman was taken suddenly ill and was unable to deliver her scheduled address at Winnipeg yesterday. She made a speech Sunday and as soon as she is well she will be arrested for violation of the Lord's day act.

TRAMPS BUT NO CRIME

150 TRAMPS FLOODED CARMAN YARDS OF GREAT NORTHERN LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

SPECIAL AGENT BRITT SAYS THE TRAMPS ARE NUMEROUS BUT LESS CRIME

From Wednesday's Daily—

Special Agent Tom Britt of the G. Northern who arrived in the city this morning from the east to attend to routine business duties while here, states this morning that he has not seen as many tramps in this country for many a year. The railways and the railway crews are almost literally swamped with the gentlemen of leisure who seem to be going about with no particular objective point but with a general drift toward the west.

Chief of Police Eck is authority for the statement that he found almost 150 tramps in the Carman yards last Sunday night. According to the Chief's picturesque language, "They were so thick they couldn't sit down."

The city jail which by philanthopry of the police is thrown open to the homeless for the nights lodging has had up to fifteen inmates almost every night.

The general closing up of wage establishments of the East is in the main responsible for the flooded condition of the tramp world, and they are moving west on the outlook for employment and a little pleasure.

No Crime

Notwithstanding this there is less crime considering the numbers tramping than at any other previous period of recent years. Mr. Britt who is widely acquainted with this branch of railway administration and the general conditions of crime says that the men are all good fellows and causing little trouble and he does not expect that they will cause much as the development of towns and businesses along the Great Northern system need thousands of workmen.

THE MEETING WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

Addresses Yesterday Afternoon at the Horticultural Convention

Proved Highly Interesting And Will Result In Much Good.

From Saturday's Daily—

The annual meeting of the Red River Valley Horticultural Society held yesterday at the school of agriculture was a success beyond all anticipation of even the most enthusiastic. The morning program was given in the issue of the Journal yesterday and a resume of the afternoon program is published in this issue.

A Special Feature

One of the special features of the meeting was the exhibt of the different stages of germination of practically all the grains raised here, which was prepared by Prof. Harrngton who explained the exhibit to those present Some most valuable points were brought out in this connection.

Inspected Experimental Farm

During the noon hour and at other intervals during the day the many visitors inspected the sights at the Experimental farm, and the exhibits of the industrial departments of the School of Agriculture aroused much interest. Supt. and Mrs. Robertson are entitled to much credit for their successful efforts to make the meeting of yesterday a success.

The afternoon session of the closing exercises of the State Agricultural School yesterday and the annual meeting of the Red River Valley Horticultural society were perhaps the most interesting and combined the deepest studies of the men who spoke.

In particular must be mentioned for its general interest the remarks of Prof. A. D. Wilson of the St. Anthony School of Agriculture and the address of Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston.

Senator Stephens's Address

Mr. Stephens spoke of the primary ambitions of the youth of the country In this connection he compared the results of the life of Linnaeus, the great systematist of the vegetable world, and Napoleon, the historic conqueror of Europe one hundred years ago whose name is on the tongue of every boy and girl. He compared these two figures with advantage to the botanist who without destruction elevated the life of the world. These remarks he addressed in a general way to the assembly. Then turning to the students he referred to the matters to which they had listened with such interest and hoped that as they were about to leave school they would return to the school the advantages it had bestowed upon them by speaking of it heartily among their friends and relatives when they returned to their homes thruout the Valley and elsewhere.

One of Senator Stephens' most pertinent remarks was as to the force of the Valley Horticultural Society when before the legislature of the state at St. Paul on account of its widespread and well known reliable organization. He believed that if farmers in their several communities would so organize as this society has done they would gain the same, if not more recognition and have a higher and more forcible position in the directing of the legislation of Minnesota.

To those who had remained over three months in the school would be clearly evident what place in life and education the school struggled to fulfill.

Mr. Wilson's Address

Mr. Wilson spoke directly on the organizing impulses that should be felt among the rural communities of the Valley for their own good and advancement. He mentioned co-operative communities with which he had been acquainted and the success with which each one of its members generally met. In the extent which families of a community met together, agitated the common questions of farming that confronted them and co-operated with each other in effort and practical farming so much more would they be ultimately benefited by the position. He stated that size was not an element of these co-operative communities. In fact the most successful he had ever known was one in which they had to meet.

The Boys and Girls

Prof. L. P. Harrington in new phase spoke of his usual authority and feeling on the help that should be extended to the boys and girls of the farm in order that they be attached to it as their home and not as a place of abode from which to remove at first advantage. He mentioned the efforts that were being made to interest the boys and girls in the social and financial advantages of modern farming.

Prof. Harrington urged the preparation for a county fair and he believed that the young people of the valley should force it upon their respective counties to hold a county fair. He urged the matter on Polk county in particular on account of vast size and wonderful resources.

Professor Harrington has given to every one of the departing students this year a quart of No. 13 Red corn and one apple tree which the students were to take home, plant, take care of and watch the results. When next November the results were all in prizes were to be awarded to the best among the lot.

Education of the Girl

F. T. Hazeltine gave a rousing address to the assembly on the education of the girl. Mr. Hazeltine stated that the girl that bakes bread well was good enough to be any man's wife. He believed that less attention was being devoted to this part of education than should be.

Prof. Harrington again came to the rescue in this instance pointing out that to all those who would see a visit to the ladies' hall at the state farm would reveal beyond a shadow of a doubt that at the state schools at least attention was being devoted daily to the preparation of the girl for the responsibilities that would devolve upon her in after years.

Landscape Gardening

Mrs. A. A. Just read one of the most entertaining papers of the day on landscape gardening which took up the beautiful and practical results that could be obtained by a proper attention to the development of that side of the farm. With attention and taste the farm could be made the beautiful estate which flower gardens and pleasantly placed trees make of the country seats of famous or energetic men in t he east and elsewhere.

Good Suggestions

C. E. Brown of the state farm mentioned the proper place of poultry in the management of the farm and gave practical advice as to the profitable growing of fowls of all kinds, in especial turkeys and chickens.

Oscar Wick nurseryman of East Grand Forks specialized on the growth of strawberries and the other bush berries of the farm. He gave instructions as to the proper preparation of beds and the planting of the roots.

Enjoyable Features

Among the pleasant features of the program was the excellent rendition by Mrs. Chesterman of this city of a humorous sketch. Miss Hazel Wilkinson delivered an exquisite little recitation and a rhyme sketch of humor by Robert Erlandson. Mrs. C. G. Schroeder with Miss Fern Lancaster, accompanist, sang an excellent and appropriate song and Albert Malm gave one of the most humorous sketches of the day.

From Over The Valley

LOTS OF CLOVER IS TO BE SEEDED

Altho clover and timothy seed is unusually high priced, especially clover, it is surprising what an enormous amount of seed is being shipped in this spring. One firm alone sold over 500 bushels of clover and timothy. Several other firms have sold almost as much, in addition to what individual parties have shipped on their own account. If there is anything that indicates a change for better farming, this does. It means that in a few years we will have clean fields and more profitable farming.— Hallock Weekly News.

RED LAKE COUNTY WOODMEN HOLD MEET

The Woodmen of Red Lake county held a convention at St. Hilaire this week and elected Ira C. Richardson of Thief River Falls as a delegate to the state camp, which meets at Duluth next month. Henry Hennemuth of Red Lake Falls was chosen alternate, and Thief River Falls decided upon as the meeting place next year. A committee consisting of Messrs. Richardson, Salley and Jackson was appointed to confer with the other fraternal insurance lodges of the county relative to the organiation. It is quite likely the project will be successful, and in that event the picnic will be held in June or July probably at Red Lake Falls. The Red Lake Falls camp was represented at the convention by Sam'l Gibeau, Henry Hennemuth, James Hance, Thomas Crompe and Joseph Salley.

TARALSETH COMPANY BRANCHING OUT

Ralph Taralseth has bought out the hardware business of Olson & Christenson at Alvarado. He and Iver Winberg have spent part of the week at the latter place invoicing the stock and getting the transfer made. Mr. Taralseth will get an experienced man to run the business and give the town a first class hardware store. D. S. Christenson one of the former proprietors, will probably remain in the town and engage in another line of business.—Warren Sheaf.

MAKE A DESPERATE FIGHT FOR LIFE

Martin Berg, of Winger, who received a gun shot wound some time ago and came near loosing his life in consequence, submitted to a second operation, which was performed at McIntosh by Drs. Neraal and Olson. The patient is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances, but will probably have to submit to yet another operation before he fully recovers.

H. L. FLAGEL GOES TO CREAMERY AT GULLY

H. L. Flagel, who recently resigned his position as buttermaker at the North Star Creamery has, we understand, accepted a position with the Trail Creamery near Gully. Mr. Flagel is a first class buttermaker, and will, if he does justice to himself soon make for the Trail Creamery a reputation that will put it solidly on its feet.

ON STONE AND TIMBER

UNUSUAL PROOF MADE THIS MORNING AT U. S. LAND OFFICE

HENRY COOK OF GERMANTOWN GETS STONE AND TIMBER CLAIM

From Saturday's Daily—

Henry Cook of Germantown an inland postoffice on the southern boundary of Marshall county, made final proof today under the stone and timber act on the NE quarter of NE quarter section 25, town 164, range 37, which is a fractional township next to the Manitoban boundary line about ten miles northwest of Warroad the Canadian Northern railway bisecting the town. He made affidavit, filed Dec. 5 1907, and brings as witnesses Fred Elima, Jay Payne and Frank Cook of Germantown and J. D. G. Clover of Warroad. This is the first stone and timber claim in the United States land office here for some time.

Timber and Stone Land

The timber and stone act passed by congress some years ago applied to all those public lands in the United States not ceded by Indians and provided that in such cases as affidavit with corroborating witnesses was made that a specified eighty acres in these public lands was not fit for agricultural purposes it could be purchased for four dollars an acre without residence.

The most of the land within the jurisdiction of the United States land office at Crookston is ceded Indian lands and is not subject to stone and timber entry. However there is a territory in this district yet containing isolated tracts subject to stome and timber entry.

The boundary of the Red Lake Indian Reservation on the northwest edge begins a short distance north of Thief River Falls and just skims the northwest edge of Mud Lake, running due northeast thru the postoffices of Pencer and Falun and a little west of Casperson and Cedar Bend ending on the bay about five miles north of Warroad. All public land northwest of this line where subject to stone and timber requirements may be entered as Mr. Cook got his eighty along the international line.

SIMONS PRES. OF TWIN CITY BANK

Mr. Simons has large interests in this country, especially at Red Lake Falls, Plummer and Brooks in banks at which places he holds whole interests. He moves with his family to St. Paul.

THE COST OF BUILDING LESS

PRICE OF MATERIALS LESS THAN FOR SOME TIME PAST

MANY WILL BUILD HOMES THIS SUMMER IN CROOKSTON

From Saturday's Daily—

There has, within the last few months, been a great reduction in the price of building materials and from the present prospects there will be a further reduction later on. Lumber has decreased in price considerably within the past year and one man in the city who shipped in two carloads of the material said that it is $8 less on the thousand feet than it was a year ago. Other classes of lumber have gone down in price from $3 to $8 and this fact is stimulating residence building.

Many people are digging up their plans which were put away when lumber went skyward, and are again making preparations to erect homes of their own.

However the larger lumbermen deny the fact that there is a reduction in the material in the general market and say that it is only the small firms who wish to get rid of their stock that are making these cut prices.

OFFICE OF CITY AGENT ABOLISHED

G. N. CUTS DOWN FORCE IN MINOT—INCREASE OPERATOR EMPLOYES

The Great Northern continues to reduce its force of employes wherever it can be done. At Minot the office of city passenger agent has been abolished. W. Dodds has been in charge at Minot. It is explained that the company was obliged to increase its force of operators and in order to keep down the expenses at Minot cut off the city passenger agent. This course is rather surprising in view of the fact that the Soo is a strong competitor for business at Minot.

V. A. Greer, of Crookston was again in town Monday. Mr. Greer has leased the hotel and will take possession of it on April 6th when he will be here to stay. He has also leased the Dills building for a real estate office. Here's hoping he will succeed in bringing in an army of actual settlers.—Middle River Pioneer.

THE CROWN SHEAF OF ALL SUCCESSES

IS WHAT MIGHT BE TERMED ARGYLE'S SECOND MARKET DAY ATTEMPT—OVER 1,000 VISITORS THERE—EVERYONE WAS PLEASED AT THE TREATMENT THEY RECEIVED AT THE HANDS OF PROGRESSIVE ARGYLE CITIZENS

From Friday's Daily—

Argyle's second market day, Saturday, March 28th, was the crown sheaf of all previous successes, in as far as the general purpose of the occasion was intended and never before in the history of Marshall county has such a splendid crowd of farmers congregated for the purpose of transacting business and meeting with the business men for one day of social intercourse.

The day was perfect not warm enough to make it soft under foot not too cold for comfort, and all sports with the exception of horse racing were pulled off as per schedule. It was deemed not advisable to race the horses on account of the icy roads and this attraction and the purse provided therefore will be reserved for some day in the early spring when the roads are in better shape.

At eleven o'clock a. m. State Engineer Geo. W. Cooley of St. Paul was announced to give his good roads talk in the city hall. Mr. Cooley was introduced by Representative D. Robertson who in his usual cheerful manner made the farmers and their guest feel quite at home with one another and by the time Mr. Robertson had concluded his introductory address, the spacious hall was almost filled to the doors.

Mr. Cooley is not an eloquent speaker and he didn't come with a basket full of bouquets to cast at the farmers but on the other hand, he was loaded with good sound logic and he was not slow in telling his audience just where they made the great mistakes in road construction.

At the conclusion of the talk Mr. Cooley met a number of the farmers and while the orchestra discoursed sweet music, the guests partook of a free lunch which was served by Chef Marsh assisted by several of the young ladies of the city. The crowd once fed and the inner man satisfied (which by the way was an immense undertaking) they hied themselves to different parts of the city where amusements and bargains stared them in the face at every turn. Every store had its attractions, every man, woman and child had a smile and a word of good cheer for his neighbor.

The free auction took place as per schedule.

The outdoor sports were enthusiastically contested and while business was carried on in the stores—horse trades being made on the street corners and lively bidding going on at the auction—others were taking in the contests for prizes.

Guessing contest—on length of pole—Mesdames K. Hunstad of Wright, D. Roy and Alec Parent of Middle River were tied for first place and the money was divided.

Men's carrying race—Martin Knutson and O. Tvestol took first money and C. Dundas and J. Cromwell, took second.

Boys' race, under 14 years—J. Craik 1st, Swanson 2nd.

Ball throwing contest for girls—Julia Johnson, 1st, Mrs. P. Johnson, 2nd.

Bun eating contest—Aime Dufault 1st, A. Legault, 2nd.

Girls' foot race—Maude Craik, 1st, Eva Regimbal, 2nd.

Boys' foot race—Louis Picquette, 1st, Ed. Gustafson, 2nd.

The business men of Argyle are more pleased with the success of the day from a business point of view, and while as they say, the profits were very small and the actual gains very meagre, yet the amount of stuff disposed of was enormous and the fact that everybody went home feeling satisfied for having taken advantage of the bargains, is considered ample satisfaction on the part of the business men of the city. The stores went to no end of expense to please their patrons; extra clerks were provided and in some instances elaborate lunches were served at the expense of the proprietors, and all to make the farmers feel that it was their day—their turn to profit and the citizens turn to foot the bills.

These market days are yet in the experimental stage in Northern Minnesota and there are a great many things to learn about them yet, but we venture to say that with such co-operation as is being voluntarily offered by the farmers of Marshall county to the business men of Argyle, it is but a short time until we will have attained the best methods for the successful carrying out of these events. Let us announce the next one early and let us—farmers and business men—get together and devise plans to make the next one the best on earth. We can do it.

Let us invite the farmers to meet with us at the Commercial Club rooms some day soon and arrange for the next one some time after seeding. As the season advances there will be more stuff to offer at the free auction and the farmers will have more produce to put on the market.—Marshall County Banner.

Penned and Pilfered

Does any man acknowledge he is a fool? When Carlyle made out the English to be "mostly fools" did he consider he might be one himself? Did he know that the scientist would certainly think him a fool for terming Darwinism "the gospel of dirt"?

An apologist for fools suggests, in the Atlantic Monthly that "every man is a fool to some one else." Is there then, no earmark? Is wisdom merely relative and judgment simply a matter of your immediate environment?

No. Even the apologist for fools cannot leave the matter in the air. "The chief mark of a fool is indifference to results." We are foolish where we rush in, following instinct, seeking sensation, disregarding the danger signals, the "busy" signals that say "Keep off the grass."

But the fool is not so much the man who breaks the rules as the man who doesn't know he should not break them. And his smiling indifference in a world where caution tends to cowardice and virtue to mere negation is indeed enough to encourage us to say: "Strange! strange! that we are not all fools, when the profit is so great." A remark essentially foolish.—Bemidji Pioneer.

And Murray Taylor the wicked cuss who edits the Deer River News says:

"You may hive the stars in a nail keg, hang the ocean on a fence to dry put the sky to soak in a gourd, unbuckle the belly band of eternity and let the sun and moon out, but don't think you can escape the place on the other side of purgatory if you don't pay for your home paper."

RUSSIA FARMERS MAKE NO MOVE

DITCH 72, TWENTY MILES LONG IS TO COME UP NEXT MONDAY

Because farmers in the town of Russia have done nothing in connection with their protest against ditch 72 as laid out by the engineer the county commissioners will take definite action on the establishment of the ditch next Monday April 6th. The ditch as planned runs thru the towns of Grove Park, Tilden and Godfrey, starting near Mentor and emptying in Onstad and Russia. Farmers in Russia protested against the establishment of the ditch December 30th last because it was alleged that the water would be emptied on them too fast and they wished to make provision for another ditch to be the outlet of this one. The hearing at that time was therefore adjourned. They have done nothing in the matter since.

HORSES KNEW THE WAY—Clyde Goodwin was an arrival from Angus last evening and today hired the same livery rig used by Harry Miller of Angus last Sunday. He wanted the same team, he said, because they "knew the way." As he drove from the city he stated that he was headed for a point about three miles south of town and would probably make his first stop at a school house.

FATHER WAS SURPRISED — A fine son arrived this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gramer Lincoln Ave. Mr. Gramer was at Fertile and a telegram was sent him but he had already left for Crookston He arrived here and spent the morning attending to business with N. WILL OPERATE FARM—Theodore B. Noesen, who recently closed out his shoe business in Crookston, has removed with his family to their fine farm in the town of Fairfax which they will operate this summer. While Mr. Noesen did well in business, he decided that prospects were still better on the farm this year, and as he is a thoroly practical farmer there is no question but what he will do well.

WAS NOT WELL PLEASED — Adolph Hilst is not very well pleased over the result of his teaming operations in the lumber woods this winter He sent up a fine team of horses and they were in excellent flesh. One of the span was returned practically skin and bones and on top of it all he has not as yet received a cent for their services. His team was hired by the Coolidge-Schussler Co., which operated camps near Floodwood, and his contract called for payment on the first of each month. Mr. Hilst who spent yesterday in the city arrived in Crookston 14 years ago April 2nd, and recalled old times with Henry Krogman who was the first person he spoke with on his arrival here after about a month spent enroute from Germany. His steamer took just three weeks to make the trip and was reported lost.

WILL REST HIS WING—Alex Collins, one of the star twirlers for the Crookston amateur ball team last year, and who showed up in splendid form the porepart of the season, but who injured his arm in pitching a 17 inning game at Grand Forks and following it up by pitching a game at Grafton the next day, announces that he will not play ball the coming summer, as he believes his game "wing" needs a rest and hopes to have it in good shape a year hence. The report that he was to play at Lansford, N. D., this year was erroneous as he will not play there nor any where else the coming season.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT—A young rail road man who had lost his position recently owing to the cutting down of employes in all departments called at a well known resident's house just before noon today and stated that he was hungry, but wanted to work for a meal. He tackled a woodpile and after finishing his dinner stated that he would like to finish sawing about three cords of wood piled in the yard as he did not like to beg for food. He was given the job, as his spirit of willingness to work appealed to the business man who gave him the work. Too often it is the case that men who apply for something to eat do not care to perform any labor for it. Any man who really wants to work does not have to beg for a meal.

A THIRTY DAY SENTENCE—Andrew Anderson was assessed the usual fine for drunkenness yesterday in the municipal court at East Grand Forks. When the sentence was imposed Andrew was "sassy" and used obscene language, whereupon the court imposed a 30-day sentence in the county jail, to teach him some respect for the majesty and the dignity of the law.

They state that there is no snow left on the plowed fields, and that a few days of warm weather will put the land in good shape for seeding operations.

STEPHENITE HERE— Chas. Nelson a well known business man of Stephen arrived in the city last evening and is spending the day here attending to some business matters. He says things are opening up well at Stephen and both farmers and business men look for a good season. There is a good acreage plowed, and the farmers are in good shape generally.

DUKE OF CLEARWATER—S. C. Bagley who now resides on a farm near Fosston but who for many years in the early days was among the biggest logging contractors in Northern Minnesota, for whom all the early day residents have worked in the woods with their teams, arrived in the city last evening. He gained the title of "The Duke of Clearwater" in those days and the title clings to him still.

WILL ENTER POLITICAL ARENA—Clyde Goodwin the well known prohibitionist of Angus spent yesterday in the city attending to some business matters and also looked after some personal interests a few miles south of town. It is understood that he decided last evening to take a hand in the politics of Polk Co. But did not definitely anounce whether he was a candidate for superintendent of schools of Polk Co., or president of the Polk County Sunday school association. At last reports he was looking up the necessary qualifications of the latter office. He reports it quite damp underfoot at Angus.

DETERMINED TO END LIFE

MRS. ALBERT RICE MAKES ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO SHUFFLE OFF

SWALLOWED AN OVERDOSE OF CARBOLIC PILLS—CHICKENS CROAKED

From Saturday's Daily—

Mrs. Albert Rice of McIntosh, who has gained much undesirable notoriety during the past few weeks owing to her capers is again in the lime light.

About two weeks ago it will be remembered that she slashed her throat with a razor in the barber shop at that place in which her husband was employed. This attempt at suicide was preceded a short time before by an attempt at hanging.

To cap the climax on Friday she again made an attempt to shuffle off by taking a handful of carbolic pills. Had she taken one or two she would have succeeded, but because of the number she swallowed her stomach was turned and the poison served as an emetic, and deathly sick she rushed to the back yard and vomited up the poison.

A physician was called and in a short time Mrs. Rice was as well as ever.

Since her husband left her following her attempt to take the razor route to the next world, Mrs. Rice has been stopping with her parents at McIntosh, and it happens that they had a fine bunch of thorobred chickens. The chickens were in the back yard when Mrs. Rice let go of her carbolic pills and quickly devoured them. As a result about 15 of the chickens were suddenly ushered into feathered heaven.

The next route Mrs. Rice attempts to leave this world over will be awaited with considerable interest.

FINE PEN OF THOROUGHBREDS

NEAL CROWLEY WILL ENGAGE IN BUFF ROCK CHICKEN RAISING

This morning Neal Crowley received a magnificent pen of Buff Rocks from the High Croft Poultry farm at Wayzatta, which is owned by Judge D. E. Hale, one of the best authorities on poultry in the entire United States The pen consists of four hens and a cock, and the grand father of the cock was sold for $300 some time ago and could not be bought for that price now.

A relative made Mr. Crowley a present of the pen and he will begin the raising of thoroughbred poultry at once. He will set all his eggs this year which another year will give him a fine flock of as highly bred birds as can be found in the country, and he will figure prominently in the poultry shows of the northwest in the future.

THE TURNQUIST STORE ROBBED

THIEVES ENTERED BY FRONT DOOR WITH A SKELETON KEY

ROBBED TILL AND HELPED THEMSELVES TO GROCERIES AND CONFECTIONS

From Saturday's Daily—

Unknown thieves last night gained entrance to the general store of P. G. Turnquist, robbed the till of about $5 in small change stole a five pound can of coffee, a coffee pot, about half a case of cookies, the double kind with frosting between and other goods.

Mr. Turnquist when seen this morning stated that he could not tell the extent of the pilferings. The thieves did not take any great quantity of any certain line, but could easily have taken a few pounds or packages of mostly anything in the store and it could not be noticed, and the thieves might also have taken a few pairs of shoes, dry goods etc., which could not be detected unless some employe had taken particular notice of the stock last night.

The can of coffee and coffee pot were found in the rear of the store this morning by employes of the Cleveland House, and several cans of goods were found just outside of the front door, which would indicate that the thieves had been scared away.

The key used to open the door just turned the lock sufficiently to permit of the opening of the door, but the proprietor could not insert his key this morning and after attempting to get his key in for about five minutes discovered that the door was not locked.

While there have been no arrests made, suspicion points very strongly to certain quarters, and it is probable that the guilty parties will be rounded up before many days.

Presumably the same band entered Ole Fylling's store on South Main street by way of a window which they broke and stole two Knickerbocker watches, two Midgett Ingersoll watches, one Smith and Wesson revolver, one Bulldog revolver and one wood chisel.

NEXT DOOR TO DOUBLE TRAGEDY

BERT A. LEIN TELLS OF THRILLLING AFFAIR IN ST. PAUL

Knights of the grip in the city last evening were entertained by Bert A. Lein representative of the carpet department of Finch, Van Slack & McConnville of St. Paul who was formerly employed by the New Store with a graphic story of the double tragedy at St Paul last Saturday evening. Mr. Lein ocupied a room in the Clarendon just next to the one in which the tragedy occurred, of which startling stories were heralded over the country in press dispatches and despite the fact that he smelled smoke some, he don't want to go thru the same experience again.

He was aroused by the cracks of a revolver which snuffed out two lives and the excitement that followed was something intense

Mr. Lein is well known in this territory having at one time resided in both Crookston and Grand Forks and his many friends are elated that he succeeded in dodging the bullets that were flying promiscuously about the building.

SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

Mix This Simple, Helpful Recipe at Home and Try It, Anyway.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority, who writes in a New York Daily paper, as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

RECKLESS RIDER GONE

BUGGY SMASHED SATURDAY EVENING AND CHILDREN ENDANGERED

WILD WEST RIDER COULD NOT BE FOUND BY THE AUTHORITIES

From Monday's Daily—

Saturday evening a young man named James Johnson, who has for some time past been in the employ of Henry O'Neil was in the city riding in on horseback. He got feeling pretty good while here and after taking his horse from the livery barn he rode up and down the streets at breakneck speed.

On South Main street he ran into a buggy belonging to James Headly, smashing one of the wheels and endangering the lives of the children in the buggy.

The rider later dismounted and tied his horse near the city scales, and the police took the horse to Bjoin & Carlson's livery barn.

Henry O'Neil happened to be in the city and after finding the horse notified the officials and a warrant was sworn out for the man but he had flown before the officers reached the O'Neil farm.

Henry O'Neil however paid for having the buggy repaired, and the children very fortunately escaped injury.

SEEDING IS UNDER WAY

WILLIAM BENNING NEAR HAROLD STATION SEEDS OATS TODAY

DRAGGING AND OTHER WORK GOING ON GENERALLY IN FEW DAYS

From Monday's Daily—

William Benning, a German-Iowan farmer living near Harold Station about 6 miles southeast of here, commenced early Saturday morning to drag his field preparatory to planting a crop of Early Gentian Oats which he is putting underground today.

Work is being done generally today among the farmers of the north valley Reports from the north indicate that seeding is starting there today in all places where condition of ground is favorable. Fields plowed last year have dried and thawed out well by this time.

Early Gentian Oats Cure

William Benning, the first farmer in this vicinity to begin seeding operations came to this territory March 16th last year. He brought with him from Iowa eighteen sacks of Gentian oats and from this crop last fall secured 700 bushels of oats. Mr. Benning plants these oats from eight to ten days ahead of his wheat or as soon as he can get into the field in the spring. This throws the oat harvest ahead of other grains.

Mr. Benning states a cropping of land with his early Gentian oats destroys wild oats the first year and yields a crop. This is one of the most important considerations in the Valley among those farms where weeds and wild oats have secured a footing.

ATTACKS RATES ON SLEEPERS

MANAHAN FILES COMPLAINT ON SLEEPING CAR RATES TO THE PEG

DECIDE WHETHER CHARGE EXCESSIVE TO FARGO AND THE PEG

From Tuesday's Daily—

Whether the Pullman company is charging exorbitant rates for the accommodations furnished in its sleeping cars is a matter which will soon be given a thoro investigation by the interstate commerce commission. Word has been received from the commission that the suits brought by George S. Loftus against the Pullman company and the Great Northern road, in which complaint is made that the rate charged for berths between St. Paul and Chicago, St. Paul and the Pacific coast and St. Paul and Duluth are too high and should be reduced will be heard on May 20 in Chicago.

A preliminary hearing of the question involved was held in St. Paul several months ago before a representative of the commission and the cases were continued so that they might be heard by the whole commission. One of the main contentions of Mr. Loftus is that the rate for upper berths should be made half that for lower berths.

Attorney Manahan will file an amended complaint, which will attack the sleeping car rates to Fargo, Grand Forks and Winnipeg.

CONDITIONS EXCELLENT

W. B. ROY SAYS NORTHWEST IS IN EXCEPTIONALLY FINE SHAPE

MERCHANTS ARE BUYING BETTER THAN IN OTHER SECTIONS

From Wednesday's Daily—

W. B Roy, the sales manager for the Samuel Cupples Wooden Ware Co of St. Louis, who has his headquarters at Fargo, spent yesterday in the city negotiating for the sale of a few car loads of goods to the Finch-Winslow-Carlisle Co., departed on the flyer this morning for Winnipeg. In speaking of the conditions in this section Mr. Roy said to a representative of the Journal:

"There is not a section in the entire United States where the conditions are as favorable today as they are in North Dakota and Northern Minnesota. The financial depression was certainly not felt as much here as in other places and the business interests have was experienced.

"This, of course, is due to the solid foundation of the prosperity upon which the northwest is built. The land, properly farmed, is inexhaustible

"On top of this, and fully as important, the farmers are getting into the stock business and the butter and eggs being marketed has directed a steady stream of gold to this section from the centers of population.

"The farmers here have more money now than they have had for many years past, and this is why the merchants of the Red River Valley are buying heavily now while merchants in other sections of the country are hedging and cutting their orders down to the minimum."

HOME FROM SWITZERLAND

GEO. FOX HAS RETURNED FROM A VISIT TO HIS OLD HOME

FINDS FEW CHANGES DURING A QUARTER OF CENTURY'S ABSENCE

From Monday's Daily—

Geo. Fox returned yesterday from a three months' trip to Switzerland, Germany and other foreign countries, and is again domiciled at the Cleveland House where he is telling Otto Burkhardt about his trip.

Mr. Fox reports that the lack of orders from the United States for all kinds of manufactured goods is making business there very quiet and many people are out of employment or working on short time.

Mr. Fox brought Otto Burkhardt a very fine present in the way of a steel for sharpening carving knives, a brand that cannot be secured in this country, and one of the very finest that is manufactured. He also brought a unique hand modeled Swiss cottage and many many other relics such as merschaum pipes, knives, Swiss watches and other things.

He reports a very rough voyage, specially on the return trip, and was thoroly glad when he got back to the United States. He is better satisfied with the Red River Valley than any where else, and is smoking the pipe of peace at the Cleveland House with genuine satisfaction.

UNION MEN COMPLAINING

SAY G. N. IS VIOLATING "PERSONAL RECORD" CHAPTER

W. H. Williams, state labor commissioner has referred to Attorney General Young a complaint received by him from officials of the International Association of Machinists to the effect that the railroads are requiring applicants for positions in that line to fill out personal record blanks covering the past 10 years. The complaint is specificially against the Great Northern one of the blanks bearing the signature of President Louis W. Hill, of that road, being referred to by the writer, Thomas Van Lear business agent of district No. 32

Until a short time ago he states, the men were only required to give their record for the last four years, but now they are required to tell when and where they have been employed in the past 10 years, and if not employed to state the reason. The union men look upon this as a means of forcing the men to disclose their connection with any strike in which they may have been involved.

The code prohibits any employer from requiring a personal record for more than one year and as some doubt has been expressed as to the constitutionality of this law, the matter has been referred to the attorney general

GRUESOME TRAGEDY

Mysterious Double Murder in New York's Tenderloin.

New York, April 15.—The Tenderloin produced another tragedy yesterday, as grewsome and mysterious as others that have made certain sections of the city notorious. When the police reached the scene Kate Pelter had been strangled to death, Vito Della Radia, once a companion of the woman, was dead with his throat cut, while Charles A. Berger, who occupied the flat where the killing was done, was bleeding from wounds in the side made by a bread knife. Berger will probably live. He told the police that he discovered Radia robbing the flat; that the latter attacked him and then killed himself. He disclaimed knowledge of the woman's death. Berger is under arrest at the hospital.

Importation of Strikebreakers at Chester, Pa., Causes Serious Rioting.

TOW[illegible] UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Thousands of [illegible] and Sympathizers Charge Po[illegible] Are Subdued by Fire [illegible].

Chester, Pa., April 15.—A strike of conductors, motormen and other employes of the Chester Traction company, followed by the importation of about 150 strikebreakers and the summoning of a detachment of the state constabulary to assist the local police in preventing violence, precipitated a series of clashes between strike sympathizers and state police yesterday. The state police were stoned and several officers and civilians were hurt, though none dangerously.

The events of the day have aroused the entire populace, and the town is practically under martial law.

Mob Charges Police.

The trouble started when a mob prepared to stop the running of cars by strikebreakers. The first car out of the barn was stoned and every window in it broken. This absolutely tied up every line of cars in Chester. While the strikers held themselves in readiness to prevent the operation of cars, a detachment of twenty state police came upon the scene. Their appearance aroused the ire of the strikers and the officers were stoned and rushed by the mob, but were finally driven back.

Several times thereafter the mounted police were compelled to charge the crowds and there were incipient riots, but the worst disturbance came at nightfall, when the strikers, augmented by several thousand men and women, charged the mounted police.

Turn Hose on Mob.

Some one turned in an alarm of fire and the engine came clanging through the crowded streets, driving the people right and left. The firemen were instructed to turn the water on the strikers and they were finally subdued. Half a dozen arrests were made.

The situation, while serious, is believed to presage no great trouble, and an effort will be made to-day to arbitrate the differences with the strikers. The strike was precipitated by the traction company announcing a 10 per cent reduction in wages.

Minnesota Governor Is Principal Speaker at Jefferson Banquet in Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., April 15. — Gov. Johnson of Minnesota was given his first formal introduction to the Democrats of Kentucky at the banquet of the Jefferson club here, where he delivered the principal address of the evening. The welcome accorded him was an enthusiastic one, 500 diners sitting down at tables in the Sellbach Hotel Roof garden, while the remainder of the garden was filled with auditors by the time the speaking began. A number of Kentucky Democratic leaders were present, although pronounced political flavor was mitigated somewhat by the presence of Gov. Willson, Kentucky's Republican executive, and a party of friends. Gov. Willson delivered the address of welcome, and introduced his fellow executive to those present.

Gov. Johnson's speech, while rather brief, touched upon Democratic principles and the development of the Jeffersonian doctrines by present day deeds.

Gov. Johnson and party arrived late Sunday night from Shiloh battlefield, and after the banquet last night left in a special train for Chicago, en route to St. Paul.

CORLISS AND HEDBERG ELECTED DELEGATES

It Was A Case Of Playing Both Ends Of The District Against The Middle.

E. J. Herringer Of Norman County Nominated As Presidential Elector.

Delegates to the National Convention — E. E. Corliss, Fergus Falls; John Hedberg, Roseau.

Alternates—O. A. Netland, Dan Patterson, St. Hilaire.

The vote stood, Corliss 83; Hedberg 80; Kaiser 64; Huntoon 67.

E. J. Herringer of Norman County nominated as Presidential elector.

From Wednesday's Daily—

A swarm of delegates to the Ninth District Republican Convention met at the court house at 10:15 this morning and the call was read by John Peterson and Dr. G. S. Wattam of Warren was unanimously elected temporary chairman of the convention and J. W. Carl of Mahnomen Co., temporary secretary. On motion the following committees were named:

Resolution—R. J. Montague, Louis Hanson, A. G. Anderson, E. A. Nelson and Edward Valentine.

Credentials—D. W. Meeker, F. S. Lycan, O. U. Wamperstein, J. W. Eastman, and D. Robertson.

Permanent Organization — J. H. Grass, Dr. N. M. Watson, Dr. Bjoreby H. L. Falk and Martin Widsten.

A recess of ten minutes was taken prior to the naming of the committees:

G. A. E. Finlayson of East Grand Forks, Polk county, introduced a resolution when the meeting again convened to the effect that the candidate to the Chicago convention announce himself for Taft before he be eligible for selection by the convention.

A division immediately occurred.

Bell of Roseau and Anderson of Fergus Falls objected and stated it should be referred to the resolutions committee. A. Kaiser of Bagley said he believed the resolution could be made to read as Bell desired it and Finlayson made that change. For a moment Bell withdrew, but on consultation with Anderson of Otter Tail on the floor he again proposed his amendment to the original motion that the endorsement of Taft be referred to the resolution committee.

Braggans of Marshall spoke for referring the resolution to the committee. Montague of Crookston said it would be either Taft or LaFollette at this district convention and wanted that matter adjusted at the first of the convention. Senator Stephens of Crookston spoke along the same lines pointing out that if opposition to Taft appeared in the convention here it would be developed by opposition papers as not unanimous for Taft which Taft's friends wished it to be and which he believed it would be.

Anderson of Fergus pushed the motion to refer it to the committee on resolutions.

The vote was 86 to 61 in favor of referring to the committee the counties voting as follows: Voting aye—Roseau, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall Norman, Otter Tail, Red Lake and Wilkin. Voting no—Becker, Beltrami Clearwater, Clay and Polk.

The Convention met at 2:19 this afternoon and the committee on permanent organization reported in favor of making the temporary organization permanent which was adopted. The committee on credentials reported no contests and the list of delegates appearing below was seated.

Pending the report of the committee on resolutions Mr. Corliss of Fergus Falls addressed the convention briefly and was followed by Judge Montague who was glad to see a live convention, preferring defeat in a convention of that kind than victory in a convention where no life or interest was shown.

After the selection of G. A. E. Finlayson as Asst. Secretary Mr. Huntoon of Moorhead made an address and was followed by A. Kaiser.

The Resolutions

The resolutions were read and adopted. Summarized the Roosevelt policies and emphatically endorsed Taft as his successor, expresed belief in the policy of protection and commended the work of Senators Clapp and Nelson and Representative Steenerson.

CONGRESS WARNED BY PRESIDENT

Vetoes Rainy River Project and in Vigorous Style Explains His Reasons.

MUST CONSERVE RESOURCES

Interest of All People Pleaded in Support of President's Stream Rights' Policy.

Washington, April 15.—In a special message vetoing a dam bill, President Roosevelt yesterday warned congress that there are pending in this session bills which propose to give away without price stream rights capable of developing 1,300,000 horse-power, the production of which would equal annually the production of 25,000,00 tons of coal. The president urged in vigorous terms the establishment of a policy, such as the filibustering minority in the house demands, which would safeguard the granting of bridge and dam privileges, and require the grantees to pay for them.

He definitely announced a future policy on his part with regard to prompt utilization of construction privileges by refusing his signature to a bill giving an additional three years to the Rainy River Improvement company of Minnesota within which to build a dam in the Rainy river.

Policy Is Set Forth.

"In place of the present haphazard policy of permanently alienating valuable property," said the president, "we should substitute a definite policy along the following lines:

"First—There should be a limited or carefully guarded grant in the nature of an option or opportunity afforded within reasonable time for development of plans and for execution of the project.

"Second—Such a grant or concession should be accompanied in the act making the grant by a provision expressly making it the duty of the designated official to annul the grant if the work is not begun or plans are not carried on in accordance with the authority granted.

In Interest of Public.

"Third—It should also be the duty of some designated official to see to it that in approving the plans the maximum development of the navigation and power is assured, or at least in making the plans these may not be so developed as ultimately to interfere with the better utilization of the water or complete development of the power.

"Fourth—There should be a license fee or charge which, though small or nominal at the outset, can in the future be adjusted so as to secure a control in the interest of the public.

"Fifth — Provision should be made for the termination of the grant or privilege at a definite time, leaving to future generations the power or authority to renew or extend the concession in accordance with the conditions which may prevail at that time."

Mrs. Bergman Satisfies Second Jury That Landlord Misused Her.

Duluth, April 15.—Mrs. Olga Bergman of Hibbing was yesterday awarded $4,750 for a kiss. This is a reduction of $250 from the verdict at the first trial.

She was a tenant of Jacob Kitz of Hibbing and declared that he stole a kiss from her by force one day when he came for the rent. Mr. Kitz set up a defense that he was being blackmailed, but two juries have found that Mrs. Bergman was kissed against her will and fixed the damages.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS

House Dashes Hopes of Naval Officers for Increased Pay.

Washington, April 14. — Unlooked-for progress was made by the house yesterday in the consideration of the naval appropriation bill. When it was laid aside for the day it had been one-half disposed of, and the advocates of the four battleships proposition were aligning themselves in preparation for the fight on that subject, which probably will occur to-day. The hopes of the officers of the navy and marine corps for an increase in pay were dashed to the ground when, on a point of order by Mr. Madden of Illinois, there was stricken from the bill the provision for such increase.

The brief session of the senate yesterday was devoted to the transaction of routine business.

TO CURB THE POWER OF COURTS

Senate Bill to Meet Conflicts Between Federal Courts and State Officials.

Washington, April 15. — To meet conflicts between federal courts and state authorities, such as have arisen during the past year in Minnesota, North Carolina, Alabama and other states, the senate committee on the judiciary yesterday reported a bill directing the method of procedure in cases where an effort is made in the federal courts to enjoin state officials from enforcing state laws. The bill is a compromise between measures introduced by Senators Overman, Bacon and the late Senator Bryan of Florida, and was reported by Mr. Overman. It has created much attention at the hands of the committee and is intended not only to lessen the frequency of injunctions in such cases, but to modify and soften the process when it is resorted to. It prohibits any one federal judge from granting such an injunction, but requires that all applications for such orders shall be heard by at least three federal judges, two of whom shall be circuit judges, while the third may be either a circuit or a district judge. It also requires at least five days' notice to state authorities and grants appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

Platform Adopted

The Republican County Convention of Polk County, Minnesota in convention assembled at Crookston, this April 9th, 1908, do hereby adopt the following as a declaration of its principles:

1. We declare our firm allegiance to the principles of the Republican party as expressed in its last national platform.

2. We heartily approve the administration of Theodore Roosevelt as president in his strenuous enforcement of the law and in upholding the rights of the people, and in extending the honor, dignity and prestige of the United States among the nations of the world.

3. We fully endorse the acts and conduct of Hon. Knute Nelson and Moses E. Clapp our United States Senators and especially commend the untiring and successful efforts of Hon Halvor Steenerson our Representative in Congress in behalf of the people in his district; for the extension of the rural mail routes and the bringing about of a more equitable administration of the public land laws in the interest of homestead settlers deserves special commendation.

4. We heartily endorse the candidacy of William H. Taft as the Republican candidate for president of the United States and that in the adoption of these resolutions, each person selected as a delegate whether to the state or district convention is pledged to use all honorable means to secure the nomination of William H. Taft as the candidate of our party for President.

YOUNG WILL FIGHT; MAKES A STATEMENT

Attorney General Edward T. Young has bid defiance to the "interests". In a letter to the Duluth Herald, published today, he declares that the rail roads, the steel trust and the liquor interests cannot scare him out of the race for governor.

The letter is called forth by stories that Young would withdraw because he could not win against the opposition of corporations, who had put their "O. K." on J. F. Jacobson.

It will cause a political sensation, and will no doubt spur Young's friends to activity. Up to date his campaign has not been pushed, but now that the issue is drawn and the attorney general has given his "dare" to the liquor interests and the corporations the battle will become hot all along the line.

Text of the Broadside

Mr. Young's letter is as follows:

St. Paul, April 7, 1908.

"Editor Duluth-Herald, Duluth, Minn.—Dear Sir: In your Sunday edition you published an article headed 'Young is to Quit the Race for the Governorship.' You say that I am going to withdraw, realizing the impossibility of winning against the combined opposition of the railroads, the liquor interests and the timber barons. You say that I am up against a stone wall, because, in addition to Jacobson's personal following, there is Dunn's report and the support of that strong faction that does as Dunn says and without which no man can succeed.'

"You say further: 'Next the corporate interests have tied up with Jake. Here is Dar Reese representing the liquor interests; Ed Smith of Minneapolis, representing the railroad interests; Tom Shevlin of Minneapolis, representing the lumber interests; Lee Willcutts and W. W. Rich representing the federal machine, all openly supporting Jake. All of these have been fighting Jake in all previous history, but now when they had to choose between Jake and Young, they chose Jake. Young had to fight his battles alone.'

Has Not Been Alone

"You do me a great injustice, Mr. Editor, when you say that because I have no corporate support, I have been fighting my battles alone and you also do me an injustice by saying that I am going to withdraw from the fight thru fear of the opposition of these interests. I have had to fight those interests and many others for the last three years in court, trying to uphold the rights of the people, and I am not afraid to fight them again in a republican convention. Instead of the fight for the gubernatorial nomination being over it has only just begun.

Has Realized Condition

"The fact that the liquor and corporate interests are opposing my candidacy has been known to me and to everyone in this capitol for some time As attorney general I have made the saloons obey the law as to closing at night and on Sunday. I have diligently prosecuted the timber trespassers, and have recovered many judgments against them, recently one in the supreme court against Tom Shevlin's company for over $16,000. James J. Hill is reported to have said recently in a speech in Minneapolis, that I had injured the state by interfering with his efforts to inflate his stocks. The opposition, therefore, of these interests, and of the group of politicians and newspapers that are habitually controlled by them, was to be expected. It is known that they have all united in this campaign, and that Bob Dunn, the favorite of Tom Shevlin and the timber 'interests,' has been appointed their general agent to take charge of the campaign against me. He has openly declared that he was going to 'skin' me.

Believes Party is with Him

"But, Mr. Editor, I beg to advise you that Bob Dunn, Dar Reese and Tom Shevlin do not constitute the republican party and it is not necessary to secure their favor before becoming a candidate for governor. The republican party is on the square. It stands for the regulation of railroads and the preservation of the timber and other property of the state. The republican party approves of the crusade against lawlessness which I have conducted, and I do not believe it is in this campaign, going to 'skin' me in order to please the interests that are opposed to law enforcement.

"The 'bandwagon' in the republican party is controlled by the people and not by the 'interests.' Bob Dunn and his assortment of 'interests' are not going to be allowed to take possession of the party machinery or dictate its policies or candidates; nor is Dar Reese going to be able to put the liquor interests in the republican saddle.

Won't Bow to Dictation

"I am a candidate for the republican nomination and am going to present my candidacy to the convention when it meets. I am positively not gonig to withdraw because the interests have agreed to prevent my nomination. The governorship is not going to be put up at auction and sold to the highest corporate bidder. The republicans are not going to tolerate corporate or liquor interference in their convention, but are going to make the nominations solely with a view to promoting the cause of good government. Yours truly,

—E. T. Young."

COST ESTIMATED AT ABOUT $250,000

POSTMASTER STEENERSON HAS RECEIVED ESTIMATES OF COST OF GIGANTIC DAM AND WATER POWER PROPOSITION NEAR CLIMAX—THE PLANS AND PRELIMINARY BLUE PRINTS PROVIDE FOR EVERYTHING BUT THE LOCK NECESSARY TO KEEP THE RED RIVER OPEN TO NAVIGATION

Postmaster Elias Steenerson has received blue prints and an estimate of the cost of the proposed dam and water power on the Red River near Climax in which, together with Knute Aker and others he is interested.

The Ambursen Hydraulic Construction Co., from whom the blue prints and estimates were received, estimate the cost of the proposed dm and water power at $250,000 and they consider the project entirely feasible.

Their plans however do not take into consideration a lock for the passage of boats in order that the river can be kept open to navigation, and in this particular will have to be revised. The scheme for the dam resulted from the agitation in conection with street railways and an interurban line connecting Grand Forks, Fargo and Crookston, and the necessity of cheap electric power. There is an immense power available near Climax and it is simply a matter of time before it is developed.

Following is the letter from the Ambursen Hydraulic Construction Co., one of the largest and most reliable in the United States:

Boston, Apr. 6, '08.

Mr. Elias Steenerson,
Crookston, Minn.

Dear Sir: I am sending you, under another cover, blue print of about such a layout as we would consider for the Red River project. You will note that this includes a power house, log sluice and movable crest and a core-wall and earth embankment on each end.

With regard to the estimate I have worked it out as closely as possible in view of my general knowledge of the situation. It looks to us as if the maximum cost of the whole thing would be about $250,000. In this I have included a cofferdam at $20,000. This is a pretty large figure but if the bottom of this river is as soft as I understand it, it will probably be quite a job to hold the water

I have also included $3,000 for liability insurance on workmen and all questions like buildings, shanties, office, etc. I have also put in a general contingency fund of $20,000 for the unknown contingencies.

I do not wish to have you consider that this estimate is a binding one but as representing my best knowledge at present. When you go ahead with the plan I should wish to get on to the ground and make a very careful examination before submitting a final estimate. I do not think, however, it will vary very materially from the figures above given but is likely to vary in one direction as the other.

Awaiting your further favors, I am

Yours very truly,
Ambursen Hydraulic Construction Co.

President.

COUNTIES PICK TAFT DELEGATES

SOLID DELEGATION FROM MINNESOTA INSTRUCTED FOR WAR SECRETARY IS CERTAIN—COUNTY CONVENTIONS HELD — DELEGATES TO STATE AND DISTRICT CONVENTIONS NAMED AND MOST OF THEM INSTRUCTED

From Saturday's Daily—

In the county conventions which were held Thursday throughout the state for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Republican state convention to be held in Minneapolis next Thursday. Taft has made a clean sweep. He will have the solid twenty-two delegates from this state and they will be instructed to vote for him first, last and all the time.

He will have the state convention and every district convention by overwhelming majorities. There will not be enough delegates opposed to him in the conventions to make a noise.

The hopes of the La Follette people were shattered. Their hopes of strength in the Fifth congressional district, Hennepin, having gone glimmering at the primaries Tuesday night, they still talked of strength in the Seventh and Ninth, yet every county in both districts that had reported last night was for Taft.

Program for Thursday.

When the state convention meets at Minneapolis next Thursday it will elect F. B. Kellogg of St. Paul, W. W. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis and E. B. Hawkins of Duluth as three of the four delegates at large. The fourth will come from either the First or Second district. W. B. Parsons of Winona will have the indorsement of his district. Two districts in the Second instructed for Senator F. E. Putnam and one for Frank Hunt of Mankato.

In the First district every county reported Taft instructions except two, which reported indorsements without instructions. Senator A. S. Campbell of Austin and Dr. J. H. Adair of Owatonna were indorsed for district delegates and will be the choice.

In the Second district there are three counties to hear from, one for Taft without instructions and the rest instructed for him. T. C. Collins of Windom will be one of the delegates and the other will be either F. W. Betz of Fairmont or George H. Somerville of Sleepy Eye.

In the Third there are three to report, five instructed and one for Taft without instructions. C. M. Buck of Faribault and G. J. Bradley of Norwood received several indorsements for district delegates and will probably be elected.

The Fourth and Fifth districts went solid with Taft instructions. The fourth instructed for W. B. Webster and G. H. Sullivan for delegates, and the Fifth elected W. H. Eustis and Otto E. Greeley as delegates.

Eight districts in the Sixth instructed for Taft, one indorsed him without instructions, one elected Taft men, one gave no instructions and one has not reported. Senator C. J. Gunderson of Alexandria and Senator S. F. Alderman of Brainerd were indorsed by several counties for delegates and probably will be elected.

Has Second Chance.

In the Seventh thirteen counties instructed for Taft and one is yet to report. Redwood, however, made La Follette second choice.

Six counties in the Eighth reported Taft instructions, and the others have not yet reported. Anoka indorsed Senator C. J. Swanson of Fridley for district delegate, and St. Louis indorsed J. B. Cotton of Duluth. These will probably be the team.

Mille Lac county's delegation to both conventions will be headed by R. C. Dunn of Princeton. Mille Lac is solid for Taft.

The Ninth reported ten counties instructed for Taft and three have not been heard from.

TAFT'S STRENGTH WORRIES ALLIES

Washington, D. C., April 9.—The anti-Taft element which is known here as the "Allies" are becoming desperate. Today their press bureau gives out statements to the effect that several country newspapers in Minnesota are violating the postal laws by issuing Taft supplements. A letter received by Postmaster General Meyer is here given:

"Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir: It has been brought to my notice that campaign boomers for methods which I believe to be at least Secretary of War Taft are using not compatible with postal rules and regulations, and I therefore respectfully request that you investigate at least 'Supplements' to small newspapers, which are being distributed lavishly throughout the west and particularly thru Minnesota. The supplement is nothing more or less than advertising, much of which seems to be in use during this campaign. I quote to you a headline in the supplement which is a distinct sheet and not attached in any manner to the paper in question, the News of Canby, Minn., of the date of Friday March 27. The headlines follow:

Writer Quotes Headlines

" 'Taft the logical candidate,' 'Boom sweeps the country,' 'The one man fitted by ability, experience and sympathy.' and so on; 'Enviable roll of noteworthy deeds of statesmanship,' 'Mounting Taft Bandwagon,' 'Most notable journey ever taken by an American official,' 'Long cherished ambition is thrice brushed aside; high sense of public duty promotes Secretary Taft three times to decline elevation to the supreme bench of the United States,' and so on. In addition there is a large two column picture of Secretary Taft.

'I quite now at random, a few of the sub-lines in the bodies of the articles 'boom is spentaneous,' 'hardest worker in administration,' 'victory a foregone conclusion.'

"I am inclined to believe that as this can be construed as nothing but advertising, it is an infraction of the postal clause which prohibits the addition of an attached supplement to a newspaper, which does not contain anything but advertising matter.

"Trusting you will look into this matter at once, I am, very truly yours, —J. A. Miller."

When called to the attention of the Taft managers here Frank Hitchcock former first assistant postmaster general smiled and said that the "Allies" are pretty hard up when they resort to such tactics.

WAS DELIRIOUS WITH ECZEMA

On Chest, Back, and Head—Pain, Heat, and Tingling Were Excruciating—Nerves in Exhausted Condition—Sleep Badly Broken.

CURE BY CUTICURA SEEMED LIKE MAGIC

"Words cannot express the gratitude I feel for what Cuticura Remedies have done for my daughter, Adelaide. She is fifteen years of age, and had never had anything the matter with her skin until four months ago, when an eruption broke out on her chest. The first symptom was a redness, and then followed thickening and blisters, which would break and run matter. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but instead of being checked, the disease spread. It showed itself on her back, and then quickly spread upwards until the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and what with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. She became run down in health, and at times was very feverish, languid, and drowsy, and occasionally she was delirious. Her nerves were in such a low state that she could not bear to be left alone. In spite of the cold weather she would insist on having her bedroom window open, and would lean out on the window-sill. She did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first, and I really do not know what we should have done if we had not read how Cuticura cured a similar case. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, and before the Ointment was three-quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Her hair is coming on nicely, and I still apply the Cuticura Ointment as I find it increases the growth wonderfully. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, 1, Ongar Place, Brentwood, Essex, England, Mar. 8, 1907."

TOWNS IN FOR TROUBLE

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES INDIVIDUAL CANNOT HOLD TWO OFFICES

TOWN CLERK AND ASSESSOR HAVE TO SEPARATE IDENTITY

Seven towns thruout Polk county as well as other towns in other counties of Minnesota are facing a change in the officers which they elected at the last township election, the change coming from Attorney General Young in the Capitol at St. Paul.

In seven towns of Polk county early in March (Esther, Wm. Pape; Brislet, George Anderson; Grove Park, Louis W. Borchert; Helgeland, Christian Anderson; Nesbit, Jas. Gilmour; Northland, Arne G. Bratvold; and Queen, H. M. Dahlholen) the same gentleman was chosen town clerk and assessor. By the opinion of the attorney general of the state this will have to be changed. In acordance with this notice three towns have already thru their boards appointed an assessor (Esther, Erick Hagen; Helgeland, Albert J. Pederson; Queen, H. S. Lade.) The other towns have not yet been heard from.

One of the officials connected with the offices in question writes that the double position only created enemies and he was glad the attorney general ruled as he did.

GREAT NORTHERN IS CONVICTED

IS FOUND GUILTY IN CIRCUIT COURT OF GRANTING REBATES

The Great Northern Railway company was convicted of granting rebates to the American Sugar Refining company by a jury in the United States circuit court in New York yesterday. Penalty will be imposed by Judge Holt.

The shipments of sugar on which the rebates were paid were made to Ioux City, Iowa, in 1902. The rebates were paid in 1904.

The trial was begun before Judge Holt and a jury yesterday, and was completed during the day, including arguments of counsel. The evidence was confined to the proof of a few necessary facts, and then rested entirely upon the questions of law involved. Judge Holt charged the jury and his interpretation of the law strongly favored the government's contention. ad the case been a civil one, and not a criminal action, the court said it would have instructed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the complainant, but, being a criminal action, the law did not permit such instructions.

SENATOR NELSON INTRODUCED FISH HATCHERY BILL FOR ALEXANDRIA

NOW NORTH DAKOTA COMBINATION MAY PUT IT AT MAPLE LAKE

From Thursday's Daily—

Private communication was received in this city this morning from Washington revealing a little of humor in the discussion and uproar about the fish hatchery bill for Northern Minnesota introduced by Senator Nelson into the United States Senate.

The Crookston supporters as noted in last night's Journal have secured a combination with Grand Forks interests at Maple Lake whereby citizens there will secure the support of the North Dakota delegation at Washington for the placing of the fish hatchery at Maple Lake. This will perhaps be more than Senator Nelson bargained for.

For the Senator, tho the bill does not state location, intended the hatchery for his home town of Alexandria which is surrounded by a series of beautiful lakes. That is the statement in the letter received here this morning.

Perhaps the Senator estimated that Alexandria would be lost sight of in the uproar that has arisen among several of the cities in the northern part of the state to get the hatchery, and Alexandria would find her way softly to the front when the hatchery was put in. However with the support of the North Dakota delegation Alexandria may lose out and "never get her name mentioned for the presidency" as the recipient of letter here stated today.

SERVICE STRIPES FOR G. N. OFFICIALS

ONE STRIPE DESIGNATE EACH FIVE YEARS OF FAITHFUL SERVICE ON ROAD

A movement is on foot among the combined employes of both the dining and sleeping car departments of the Great Northern to institute a system of service stripes for faithful service one stripe to designate each five years' service. This system has been in practice on several of the eastern roads and has created a feeling of loyalty of the employes to the company, besides being a source of pride to the wearer.

It is well known that the employes of these two departments come more in touch with the traveling public than any other departments of the railroad and are certainly entitled to some credit for their faithful work and service.

This small recognition of the good service of the employes in both of these departments would greatly lend to create a feeling of loyaltty of the employes to the company and would command a great deal of respect from the public and is a favor that the employes are entitled to, it is urged.

THREE WOMEN BEHIND CURTAIN

CONVERSATION BETWEEN DR. FAWCETT AND LILLIE SCHMOCHEL

AS TO REFUSAL OF DOCTOR TO PERFORM OPERATION AS REQUESTED

From Thursday's Daily—

It is expected that the defense in the case of the state vs. Dr. John Fawcett at Grand Forks will close its case today. All day yesterday was taken up in the examination of witnesses for the defense and it was regarded as a fairly good day for the doctor. Miss Jennie Dunning, assistant in the doctor's office, was excused after cross examination by the state. In her testimony she stated that $25 had been paid by Lillie Schmochel on the occasion of her second visit to the office. This was not the ordinary fee in the office, she stated, the usual charge for consultation being $1. The fee paid by the Schmochel girl insured her attendance until she had recovered.

Behind the Curtain

From the testimony yesterday it appeared that there were three women behind a curtain, which separated the doctor's office from that occupied by Misses Dunning and Shafer as a sleeping room, on the occasion of the visit of the Schmochel girl. Miss Shafer Miss Bolton and Mrs. Belt were there and heard the conversation of Dr. Fawcett and Miss Schmochel.

Miss Bolton did not remember the date but heard all the conversation in which the doctor refused to perform a criminal operation. Until a week ago she did not mention the matter to Dr. Fawcett. Mrs. Belt gave similar testimony to that of Miss Bolton.

No Hearsay Testimony

Mrs. Geo. Swanson who conducts the hospital in East Grand Forks in which Miss Schmochel went from the office of Dr. Fawcett, was sworn but the court shut out all hearsay testimony and she did not get a chance to give evidence of any great importance.

Dr. J. E. Engstad was called as a witness on the part of the defense. Today Dr. J. P. Kirk, of East Grand Forks, is on the stand for the defense.

Cheaper Means ot Communication

No less than five bills relating to the investigation and regulation of telegraph and telephone companies are now before congress. Their provisions range all the way from government ownership to reduction of rates and prohibition of the franking privilege now enjoyed by national legislators

The service by the new telegraph company, the Telepost, is the inspiration of a number of these proposals The Telepost will carry messages for a cent a word between all points,, delivering by messenger in the usual way. Our "teleposts" delivered at destination thru the mails the rate is half a cent a word It will also carry free the filing time and time of arrival at the receiving office.

Members of congress to whom it has been demonstrated that a profitable business can be done at these rates say that they will press for reforms until some action is taken.

The bill fathered by Senator La Follette calls for a thorough investigation of the telegraph , companies, with a view ultimately of taking them over as a part of the postal service. A step in this direction has already been taken in the adoption by the Telepost of the plan to make postmen the messengers for the delivery of telegrams. This plan would apply only when the sender's purposes are satisfied by delivery any time during the business day.

Significant Statements.

Gov. Johnson said several things at the monument dedication at Shiloh last Friday, things that will cause people who heard them, or who have since read them to stop and think a minute. The Journal published the first paragraph from his address before, but will repeat it with others for further consideration:

"In this hour where there seems to be a disposition to depart from the established forms, when there seems to be a desire upon the part of those in authority to abide in a central bureaucracy rather than in a representative democracy—it becomes you and me to protest against any departure whatsoever from the government which came to us from the constitutional convention of 1787, and those amendments which have been made to it by specific will of the people.

"Our government is divided into three separate and distinct co-ordinate branches—the legislative, the executive and the judicial. Danger will surely come to this republic when any of these departments of government attempt in the slightest degree to usurp the functions of the other.

"Very recently there has come from the highest judicial tribunal in the land a decision of vital interest and concern to the American people, because it has established a principle, as stated by one member of the court, which would work a radical change in our governmental system and would inaugurate a new era in the American judicial system and in the relations of the national and state governments. It would enable the subordinate federal courts to supervise and control the official action of the states, as though they were dependencies or provinces. It would place the states of the Union in a condition of inferiority never dreamed of when the constitution was adopted or when the eleventh amendment was made a part of the supreme law of the land. If this is the result of this decision it is to my mind one of the unhappy incidents in the history of our republic, because the very theory of our government is based upon the right of the states to control absolutely their own domestic affairs.

"What this government needs is not more power. What it needs to-day is to so distribute the privileges under the government that all citizens will have equal opportunity.

"America has been called the land of opportunity. But American opportunity should not mean a granting of special privileges to any class, but should afford all alike the means for culture, education, prosperity and contentment."

Old Age Pension In Canada.

In planning progressive legislation for the benefit of the wage earners, Canada is rapidly adopting the new ideas that are making Australia and New Zealand famous thruout the civilized world, says the Minneapolis Daily News.

The Canadian government is taking cognizance of the fact that men grow old, and that when they are no longer able to keep pace with the break neck speed of our modern industrial system they ought not to be thrown upon the scrap heap like so much junk.

Many reasoning, fair-minded men have become imbued with the idea that if it is right to pension veterans who unfortunately are compelled to kill their kind and destroy wealth, it is doubly right to reward those veterans who produce wealth, preserve peace and steadily upbuild a higher civilization.

Thus our peace-loving Canadian neighbors propose to enact legislation providing pensions for the aged. It is hoped to encourage thrift and saving among working people, and to insure the beneficiaries an annual income after they reach the age of 0 or 65 sufficient to keep them from actual want

It is estimated that by the payment of an annual amount of $13, beginning at 20 years of age the beneficiary will become entitled to an annuity of $120 for life when he has reached the age of 60. If the beneficiary prefers to wait for his pension until he is 65 years of age, he will then be entitled to $200 per annum.

The contributors' savings will be paid into the local postoffices whereever they may reside. These savings will then be given compound interest semiannually; from the government at the rate of 4 per cent.

A goverment annuity will not be made in favor of any person other than the actual annuitant, nor for a larger sum per annum than $400. Where a family is desirous of assuring itself more than $400 yearly there is nothing to prevent the wife taking out an account in her own name as well as the husbad.

These government pensions or annuities will be absolutely inalienable —that is they cannot be capitalized or sold to anyone else, an dthe law will provide that the money that a family derives from them cannot be seized for any purpose whatever.

Should the annuitant be unable or unwilling to keep up his payments until he has reached the age of 60 he will be allowed to withdraw whatever money he has paid in with interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum. Of course annuities will cease with the death of the beneficiary.

VICTIMIZED BY LAND LOCATORS

Numerous Settlers Induced To File On Timber Claims Which Were Worthless.

Letter To Land Office From Defrauded Persons Details The Incident.

A letter received by the United States land office gives an interesting illustration of the methods of timber locators who induce people to file on claims under the timber and stone act by fraudulent representations. Complaints of the kind are numerous and the department has for some time been seeking methods of preventing the operations.

The letter is from Park Rapids, Minn., and sets forth that in July last year a firm of locators there took a party of twelve people from Park Rapids to locate them in towns 8-17 and 67-17 where they said they had estimates of valuable claims. They represented the letter claims, that about three years previously they had worked for a lumber company in that district and had located the claims and secured estimates. They said they had secured new estimates more recently and found the original estimates correct.

Taking the statements of the locators for granted the letter says the people entered into agreement with them, filing on the claims. In February of this year a reputable estimator was sent to the claims and he found that they contained less than 20 per cent of the amount of timber represented. The revelations, the writer of the letter claims clearly show fraud.

NIELSVILLE

Activities toward seeding are very noticeable at Nielsville these days. In fact a number of acres have already been seeded on the higher lands along the coulie. But in a few days spring work will be in full blast, owing to the drying influence of the warm winds.

Ole Brekke, Henry Simon, Adolph Spokely and a few others donned their sporty garments last Friday night and boarded the evening train for Fargo where they "took in" pugilistic and wrestling matches given there that evening. They returned Saturday morning well pleased with the evening's sport.

Sunday evening a temperance lecture was given at the Nielsville Hall by Miss Lavina Raakke of Newfolden. It was well attended and all listened very atentively to the convincing arguments hurled forth. This was the second of its kind during the past fortnight and shows how thorolly this element is canvessing the state.

A special school meeting has been called for Monday the 20th of April for the purpose of considering whether or not the school term should be lengthened a month so that the 8th grade may attend and keep in thoro review for the state board examinations the last of May.

A leap year dance was held at the Woodmen Hall of Climax last Saturday evening. A number of the young men of Nielsville took advantage of the occasion, and now they are seen with some extra smiles as a result. The ladies of Climax are good entertainers as one can gather from the numerous compliments our gallants bestow upon them.

There are rumors in the air that our genial and painstaking station agent, Mr. Riersgaard formerly of Crookston has a promotion in store in the near future and Nielsville will be sorry to lose him but all join in in wishing him success for the future.

Mrs. B. Kolstad, Miss Hoiland and Mrs. C. Halsa and daughter Hilda spent Monday at Crookston on business but on returning in the evening they were almost compelled to proceed to Shelly as Jim Hill's black mare tried to run away 'ere all had alighted.

Lien & Reep have a carload of potatoes ready for shipment to Bemidji. Many carloads have been shipped during the year and those raising same, claim to make it pay better than raising wheat.

The ladies' aid will meet at Carl Paulson's Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Brodland will hold services at the church Thursday morning, Friday evening and Sunday morning at the usual hours.

WANT QUARANTINE AT MCINTOSH

A COUNCILMAN THERE WANTS CROOKSTON ORDINANCES ON SUBJECT

A letter has been received from a city councilman at McIntosh on the east line asking city officials of Crookston for a copy of the ordinances and city regulations regarding the establishment and maintenance of quarantine. There is sentiment for quarantine law in McIntosh as well as a number on the other side and they want to se just what the regulations amount to before making move.

Dr. C. E. Dampier, city physician, report for the quarter show 69 cases of quarantine this last three months. Perhaps over half of these overlap on account of quarantine for signs of disease and fumigation quarantine on same party. 52 of these were for measles, 16 for smallpox and 1 for consumption.

HOME NEWS

Of Interest to Everyone in Crookston

In every newspaper in the country you will read statements made by people living in out-of-the-way places, who are supposed to have been cured or derived great benefit from some wonderful remedy or "cure-all". But here in Crookston we only publish statements made by Crookston people —the testimony of your friends, neighbors and fellow-townsmen.

Noel Herbert(carpenter, of 338 Hunter St., Crookston, Minn., says: "My back pained terribly and totally unfitted me for any exertion, there being times when I had to be helped about. I at last heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and immediately procured a box at S. A. Wallace's drug store. I started using them and it was not long before I noticed that my back was gradually getting stronger. My trouble son entirely left me and I have not felt a vistage of it since. Doan's Kidney Pills are a most valuable remedy and I give them my endorsement with the hope that others may be convinced of their merit."

The above statement was made by Mr. Herbert in 1898 nearly six years later Dec. 2nd, 1904 he added:

"Doan's Kidney Pills so completely relieved me of kidney trouble six years ago that there has been no return of it. It is a pleasure to again endorse them."

$10,000,000 LOSS CAUSED BY FIRE

One-third of City of Chelsea, Mass., Is Obliterated by Fierce Conflagration.

10,000 PEOPLE MADE HOMELESS

Four Lives Are Lost and Over 500 Dwelling Houses and Public Buildings Destroyed.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—In apparently insignificant fire, which started among rags on a dump in the city of Chelsea yesterday, was fanned by a northwest gale into a conflagration which obliterated nearly one-third of the city. Five hundred dwelling houses and public buildings were destroyed, 1,500 families were driven from their habitations and 10,000 are made homeless. Four lives are known to have been lost, one a woman, having shot herself in frenzy over her inability to save her property. From fifty to a hundred were injured.

Loss Nearly $10,000.

Accurate estimate of the loss is impossible. The city solicitor estimates it at nearly $10,000,000. The fire, which was the worst Greater Boston has known in many years, raged before a forty-five-mile gale for more than twelve hours, defying the utmost efforts of the combined fire departments of Chelsea and several nearby cities and a large detachment of Boston firemen and apparatus.

The fire area, which was in the form of an ellipse, a mile and a half long and half a mile wide at its broadest part, extended diagonally across the city from a point near the boundary between Everett and Chelsea to the waters of Chelsea creek.

Hard Fight for Firemen.

It was useless for the firemen to attempt to check the onrushing flames before the gale, and their main efforts were to prevent a spread of the fire on the other side. Their last stand was taken at Chelsea Square late in the afternoon, and for hours a doubtful battle was waged. At 9 o'clock word was passed that the firemen were winning, and with renewed energy the contest was pressed. At 10:50 official announcement was made by Chief H. A. Spencer that the fire was under control.

The great majority of the buildings were of wood and were completely destroyed, but structures of other material were almost as quickly and thoroughly incinerated by the fierceness of the blaze.

Licked Up by Flames.

All the banks, more than three-quarters of the churches, half of the business blocks and nearly all the school houses, were wiped out. One hospital and a day nursery were destroyed. In the turmoil many of the sick and infirm found difficulty in obtaining assistance and several of them had narrow escapes.

Late in the afternoon the wind had carried burning embers across Chelsea creek, and buildings in East Boston caught, but extensive damage there was prevented by prompt and energetic work by the firemen.

Militia on Guard.

The force of national guardsmen called out early in the day to patrol the streets of the burned section was increased last night by the arrival of Company L of the Fifth infantry, Company B of the Eighth infantry and the Fifth corps of coast artillery. A marine guard of a hundred men, under Capt. Charles Shill, was also on duty. Four squads of marines were placed to protect valuable safes in the ruins of different buildings. A detail of seventy-five policemen from Boston was stationed at various entrances to the city, with orders to prevent anybody from coming in with the exception of firemen, policemen, soldiers and newspaper men.

TWICE BETTER THAN PANAMA

MINNESOTA AND ITS COUNTIES WILL OUT-PANAMA THE PANAMA

MINNESOTA LAND WHEN DRAINED WILL EQUAL ILLINOIS' BEST

From Tuesday's Daily—

By August 1st 1908 the state of Minnesota and its counties will be excavating two times as much earth as the United States government on the Panama canal. At that date there will be fifty dredges in active operation on projects within the state, each averaging a capacity of 35,000 yards of earth a month and over, meaning an average monthly excavation of approximately 2,000,000 yards or twice that of the Panama canal.

There are 29 machines on county projects, including judicial district contracts, and 17 machines on state projects. On May 1st next the state will let contracts covering 572,000 yards in Steele county, 212,000 yards in Nicollet county and 523,000 yards in Kandiyohi county and May 15th next the state will let contract for 394,000 yards in Itasca county. These contracts will call for from five to eight machines all of which will be enabled to get on their work and commence operations by June 1st.

A report will shortly be issued by state officials covering every phase of this immense drainage prospect and these figures will fall short of the facts that that report will bring forth It is well to note the conservatism of the above figures of one of the best drainage authorities in the northwest in that an average dredge continuously working can throw out 1,000 yards of dirt in 10 hours, or, considering no stops for repairs or washing boilers, 60,000 yards per month.

Of the dredges on county work Jerry Sherwood of Litchfield has 7 in the central part of Minnesota about Willmar neighborhood, O. F. Doyle of St. Cloud has 5, Franc Construction Company of Albert Lea have 4 near that city, Fill and Shirley of Omaha Nebraska have 3, Foley and Gleason of Chicago have 2, Northern Construction Company of Chicago 1, the Standard Drainage Co., of Windom 2, and Hulbert of Chicago 1. Four machines are actually being shipped now to other county projects.

Of dredges on state work Ward Bros of Audubon, Iowa, have 3 in St. Louis County, R. A. Elzy of Marshalltown, Iowa 2, Standard Drainage Co., of Windom 3, Jerry Sherwood of Litchfield 2, Arpin Bros., of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin 3, John Kohler of Frazee 1, and A. G. Wahl of St. Cloud 1.

The very largest surface ditch ever constructed in the state or the northwest is the Rice Lake and Moscow project near Albert Lea which is 35 miles long, having a 20 to 60 foot bottom and 35 to 90 foot top excavation. This is being built by 2 or 3 machines of the Franc Construction Company.

Drainage men of this state earnestly believe that the conditions that prevail in Minnesota are a parellel of those that existed in Illinois when twenty-five years ago land within 25 miles of Chicago could be purchased for $35 per acre and which now cannot be purchased for $150 per acre.

Water which now proves detrimental in many places to the growth of this state will prove to be its greatest agricultural resource and to have been the element that gave to Minnesota her stores of fertility. With the insurance of an annual drop such as Illinois now enjoys on account of her past activity in drainage land in Minnesota will get to the top notch and that will not be many years at the enormous strides that are being taken in the ditching world.

DUNHAM STILL AT HIS WORK

TWO MORE FORGED CHECKS REACH MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK

DEPUTY SHERIFF DANIELS FAILED TO FIND DUNHAM NEAR WINNIPEG

From Tuesday's Daily—

Deputy Sheriff Orin Daniels returned from Winnipeg last evening from near Winnipeg where he had been advised that E. A Dunham, the industrious Crookston forger was located in a lumber camp. Dunham was not there and had not been. Deputy Daniels during his trip however made the discovery that last Sunday Dunham had been seen i na certain town in Canada and apparently had plenty of money with him.

Two More Checks

That Dunham is still in the check forging busines is certain as two checks have reached the Merchants National Bank written on the same kind of checks to which Dunham forged the name of J. S. Gould and others before leaving the city.

One check for $50.50 was drawn in favor of the Edmunton City Hospital Alberta, and was signed by S. E. Best and endorsed by A. Butchert, as secretary of the hospital.

The other was for $125 drawn in favor of S. E. Best and signed by C. C. Hoch and endorsed by J. G. M. Sloan.

"Best" is without doubt Dunham, both the check and the fact that Hoch's name was forged to one of the checks bearing out this theory.

The Soo is making enormous purchases of real estate in Duluth and Superior for their terminals and we expect to derive a great deal of benefit when the road is completed.

GREAT NORTHERN MAKES SETTLEMENT WITH HEIRS OF H. W. McCULLOUGH

STIPULATION IN SUIT FOR $5,000 IS FILED BY LITIGANTS IN COURT

From Wednesday's Daily—

A settlement by stipulation has been made in district court at Grand Forks in the case of Father E. J. Conaty, as administrator of the estate of Henry W. McCullough, vs. Great Northern railway. The stipulation provides for the payment of $2,000 in settlement in full of the claim for damages made by the plaintiff in behalf of the minor heirs, Edward, Louis, Charles and Albert W. and a married daughter, named Mrs. Alice Sorenson children of the deceased and the widow who was not living with the deceased at the time of his death, having deserted and abandoned him some time previous thereto, according to the plaintiff in the action.

The suit was brought to recover $5,000 damages for the death of Mr. McCullough in a wreck on the Great Northern Hannah line between Park River and Hannah. He was employed as a car repairer at the gravel pit and was riding on the forward end of the train when it ran into some cars which had been left on the track. The engineer who regularly had charge of the engine allowed his fireman to handle it on the evening on which the acident occurred. The fireman did not stop his engine until it was too late. At the time it was considered probable that had the regular engineer been in charge there would have been no accident.

REGULAR SPRING VISITATION

SUPT CASEY BUSY AT PRESENT WITH SCHOOLS IN WESTERN POLK

Supt. of Schools Thomas Casey left this morning for Fisher and from that point will visit a number of schools in western Polk. He will spend the greater portion of his time from now on making his regular spring visit to the schools, and has already covered a considerable portion of the county. Yesterday he visited the schools at Eldred and vicinity and from west of Fisher will work north. The roads are in first class condition for this season of the year and make his work much easier than ordinarily.

Primary Education

The bulk of primary education is provided at public cost. We are proud of our "common schools"—tho they are far below what from an ideal standpoint they should be. No teacher is physically or mentally competent to give instruction to forty children, which is the average size of a division in the public schools. Under such conditions individual instruction is largely impossible. To the tired brain worker nothing is more grateful than a glass of golden grain belt beer at mealtime. Have it on the family table and enjoy its benefits. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

BRYAN FORCES ARE ROUTED IN NEW YORK

New York, April 15.—The first day of the democratic state convention closed with defeat of those delegates committed to the candidacy of Wm. J. Bryan. The committee on resolutions late last night adopted a set of resolutions to be reported to the convention when it reconvenes, providing for an uninstructed delegation to the national democratic convention at Denver. When the state convention organized the Bryan men offered a resolution instructing delegates to be chosen for Mr. Bryan. It was referred to the committee on resolutions, which met last evening, and in turn referred the Bryan resolutions to a sub-committee heard the appeal by Augustus Thomas, president of the Bryan progressive democratic league which fathered the resolution, and then by a vote of to 1 decided to report to the full committee recommendations against an instructed delegation. The sub-committee's report was adopted by the committee on resolutions by a vote of 28 to 4. The minority report of the sub-committee calling for an instructed delegation was defeated by a similar vote. Nineteen members of the committee on resolutions were absent when the vote was taken.

The Bryan men declared later they would carry the fight to the floor of the convention. When the committee on resolutions met last night immediate consideration was given to the report of the sub-committee which declared that the best interests of the democratic party would be conserved by sending an uninstructed delegation to the national convention.

HELD UP OFFICIALS AT POINT OF GUN

From Thursday's Daily— ...

H. A. Rider who passed thru this city yesterday from his home at Little Falls on his way to Emerson found other and more important business awaiting his hand than Emma Goldman ,who goes on her way unhindered now.

Yesterday at one o'clock secret service official Rider at the point of a gun held up in the streets of Emerson, American side, Herbert Wright, Canadian customs official and son of O. Wright, mayor of Emerson, Man. Wright was arrested on the charge that he attempted to smuggle into the United States Margaret Pierson an alleged immoral woman of Winnipeg after she had been turned down on that charge by the United States immigration officials at the international boundary line.

Rider hustled Herb Wright under the gun and handcuffed to Soo train on which he was taken to Thief River Falls, last night and hauled before United States Commissioner L. G. Browning. Wright was put under $500 bail and returned with his father who accompanied him, to Emerson. The case was continued until next Saturday morning when it will again come up before Browning at Thief River for trial and ultimate disposition.

The excitement at Emerson today is at fever pitch. The unexampled and daring action of the bold United States secret service agent astounds the Canadian officials.

There has been for some time an underground current of retaliation with U. S. officials since the arrest last February of U. S. Revenue Collector Fowlds on the charge of kidnapping a wheat smuggler from Canadian to American side. Fowlds was discharged by the Canadian judge with complete exhoneration.

NEGLIGENT APPLICANTS FOR REBATE OF TAXES UP AGAINST IT RIGHT

From Friday's Daily—

Tax paying citizens of Polk county as well as other counties of the state will no more get the ear of the board of county commissioners for their complaints of excessive taxes, unless grossest injustice can be shown prima facie.

It has been the custom of last hour people to come before the county commissioners for abatement of taxes just before they are due. And applications for rebates were sometimes pushed thru hastily without proper knowledge of facts.

The town board of review first and the county board of equalization second furnishes sufficient resources for the oppressed by taxes. And the oppressed by taxes has months in which to discover any injustice before the last resource short of the county board has been closed to him.

The assessors will receive blank notices that the Polk county board will not abate taxes except in cases of gross injustice after January 1st next. These wil be sent out to citizens of Polk county.

The Minnesota tax commission supports this stand of the county board in its last report.

CANADIANS STARTLED

BOLD ACTION OF U. S. DEPUTY MARSHAL RIDER DEPRESSES ACTIVITY

WRIGHT HELD WOMAN IN EMERSON THREE DAYS—SMUGGLED TRUNK

From Friday's Daily—

Reports from the International border today say the countryside is aroused and gossips in low, mysterious whispers tell about the appearance of a United States deputy marshal upon the streets of Emerson with a gun and the holding up of Herbert Wright, Canadian customs official, ultimately handcuffing him and taking him to Thief River Falls.

Crimes against United States government custom laws with which Canadian customs officers at the International border have intimately connected themselves in the past may be shaking their skeletons in the closets of the dominion government at this hour when the diplomatic machinery of the States is beginning to grind.

For the cool, daring hold up by Rider of Wright at Emerson has set all Canada agog They think this arrest was in retaliation for charges of kidnapping leveled at Customs Collector Foulkes last February but it is impossible to see how the United States officials could proceed otherwise under the premises, tho the incident of last February may have made U. S. officials a little keener-eyed.

Deliberate Act

For Herbert Wright kept Margaret Pierson at Emerson for three days after she had been turned back by U. S. immigration officers at the border on the grounds of being an immoral character. Then Wright smuggled her trunk thru the line and took the woman herself to Orleans, a station on the Soo, where she embarked and went to Thief River Falls. There she became an inmate of the red light district, and she was later arrested there. She confessed, implicating Wright, and was again deported. The warrant for the arrest of Wright was straightway made out at Thief River Falls and sent to Emerson to the United States offices there. H. A. Rider deputy United States marshal went thru Crookston to Emerson Wednesday and there on that warrant arrested Wright at the point of a gun, hand cuffing him and taking him on the Great Northern to Warren and from Warren to Thief River Falls on the Soo where the trial was had before L. G. Browning, United States Commissioner.

Wright has confessed his implication in the matter. He is put under $500 bonds for re-appearance and returns with his father, O. Wright mayor of Emerson, to that city.

No wonder Canada is agog. It was too quick for the slow moving red tape of their official career.

Diplomatic Questions

Now the question is what will Wright do and what part will diplomatic matter play here. For Wright must meet incoming trains in the pursuit of his duties on the American side. Is a Canadian custom official liable for arrest when pursuing his duties?

CARELESSNESS IN ADDRESSES

MISTAKE FREQUENTLY MADE BY TRAVELLING MEN MIGHT BE AVOIDED

A postoffice inspector and the official stated recently that he did not believe that traveling men generally understood one feature of the postal regulations, and that was that letters in an envelope bearing a hotel card could not be returned to the writer, of they were uncalled for, unless the name and address of the writer was on the corner as well as the hotel card. Such letters always went to the dead letter office, after the receiving office had made all reasonable efforts to find the party addressed. He thought that if travelling men understood ,this rule they would generally place their own name and address on the envelopes.

Another thing which causes some complaint is the fact that very few see the advertised list of letters. Congress now makes no appropriation available for publishing these lists. and they are simply posted in the lobbies of postoffices and very few people think to look on the bulletin boards to inspect these lists. After having been thus posted if there is nothing to indicate on the envelope they are bundled off to the dead letter office in Washington where they are opened and examined and some of them find their way back to the writer in this way.

Itis a remarkable thing though that with all the letters written and placed in the mails, and the careless way that many of them are addressed, what a small percentage comes back to you thru the dead letter office.

RECIPE FOR RHEUMATISM

Directions to Prepare Simple, Yet Remarkable Home Mixture

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after a while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

ANARCHIST WORST ENEMY OF MANKIND

President Urges Congress to Pass Law to Wipe Out the Deepest of Crimes.

MUST SUPPRESS 'RED' PAPERS

No Federal Statute to Prevent Teaching of Violence Through the Postal Service.

Washington, April 11. — In one of the shortest messages which he has yet transmitted to congress President Roosevelt yesterday called the attention of that body to the necessity for further legislation on the subject of anarchy. With the message he transmitted a report reviewing the legal phases of the question by Attorney General Bonaparte. The president says:

Is Enemy of Mankind.

"When compared with the suppression of anarchy every other question sinks into insignificance. The anarchist is the enemy of humanity, the enemy of all mankind, and his is a deeper degree of criminality than any other. No paper published here or abroad should be permitted circulation in this country if it propagates anarchistic opinions."

Besides his direction to the postmaster general to exclude from the mails such publications as La Questione Social, President Roosevelt, in a letter to Attorney General Bonaparte asking for an opinion on the legal phases of the subject, says he has had the particular case called to the attention of the governor of New Jersey by Secretary Root that the governor may proceed under the state laws.

Bonaparte's Opinion.

The opinion of Attorney General Bonaparte, which the president transmits to congress, embraces a discussion of the whole subject from many legal angles. His first conclusion is that the article in question, which advocates the use of arms and dynamite in annihilating police and soldiers that anarchy may prevail, constitutes a "seditious libel" and is undoubtedly a "crime at common law."

He declared that there is no federal statute which make ssuch publications an offense against the United States and that the federal courts consequently have no jurisdiction in the matter. That there is full power in the possession of congress to make such publications criminal the attorney general asserts, and quotes Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court and Mr. Justice Field as authority.

Loneliness Kills Indian.

Minneapolis, April 11. — Homesickness is responsible for the death of Red Owl. the old Sioux brave who passed away in a Minneapolis hospital where he had come from his labors as a missionary at the Cheyenne agency in South Dakota two weeks ago. CANADIAN OFFICER HELD TO FEDERAL COURT

CUSTOMS OFFICER H. H. WRIGHT HELD FOR TRIAL TO FEDERAL COURT AT FERGUS FALLS BY U. S. COMMISSIONER L. G. DOWNING OF THIEF RIVER FALLS THIS MORNING—CHARGED WITH AIDING THE ILLEGAL ENTRY INTO THIS COUNTRY OF WOMAN OF IMMORAL CHARACTER

From Saturday's Daily—

This morning at Thief River Falls United States Commissioner L. G. Downing held Herbert H. Wright, the Canadian Customs officer at Emerson to the Federal Court at Fergus Falls under $500 bonds on the charge of having aided the entry into this country of Margaret Pierson, alias Margaret French who also carries several other aliases, who had been declared an undesirable citizen by the U. S. Examining Board a few days before Wright is claimed to have smuggled her across the Canadian border to Orleans from where she went to Thief River where she was arrested Tuesday.

Wright was nabbed by Special Agent Rider Wednesday at the point of a gun and taken to Thief River.

Mr. Wright in an intervief with the Mr. Wright in an interview with the phone today said:

"I have nothing to say for publication. I am not guilty. The facts will come out in the trial at Fergus Falls if there ever is one."

Mr. Wright was represented by Attorney P. H. Konzen of Hallock and the only witness was U. S. Immigration Inspector Smith who was the one who caused the arrest.

There has been hard feeling between the officials of the two governments ever since the arrest of Revenue Collector Fowlds of the U. S. by a Canadian official some time ago on the charge of kidnapping.

The woman at the bottom of this case was returned to Canada and is now at her home in a small place near Winnipeg.

START SEEDING NEXT MONDAY

MANY FARMERS ARE ALREADY SEEDING OR HARROWING LAND

WORK WILL BE GENERAL MONDAY ACCORDING TO REPORTS RECEIVED

From Saturday's Daily—

On Monday next seeding will be on in full blast in the Red River Valley Many farmers are at work today and those who are not are getting in shape for seeding Monday next and the grain will be rushed into the ground from that time forward:

The conditions for seeding this spring are ideal, and unless heavy rains follow the crop will be put in under most favorable conditions. There is practically no water on the land, what little having resulted from the last snow being dried up by the heavy winds of yesterday and the day before.

The ground is mellow and works up fine and if there is no interruption to work the crop will be in the ground in good season and the conditions in every way point to a prosperous season.

While it is too early in the season to be absolutely certain of anything the fact remains that every condition is favorable at the present time. The farmers as well as the business men in this section have good reason to feel optimistic.

Will Seed Monday

The Berget boys started out this morning to harrow and drag their land south of their home preparatory to seeding Monday.

Seeding Today

F. M. Slyter of the town of Andover near the Fairfax line is working in the field and will seed this afternoon or Monday.

Farmers Seeding

Several farmers over between the rivers south of East Grand Forks began seeding yesterday and they will all be at it by the first of the week of the weather remains favorable.

At State Farm

Harrowing will start Monday at the state farm. No work has been done extensively so far on account of low ground, but even the worst spots will be dry by Monday and seeding operations under full headway.

Working at Euclid

Robert Balfour was in the city last evening from Euclid, returning home this morning. He states that dragging is in progress on the Currie farm east of Euclid and that other farmers are busy. Work will be general in that section the first of the week.

Harrowing on Tiegeson Farm

On the Tiegeson farm in the town of Andover men with teams and harrows are out in the field and preparing their lands for the seeding to take place today or Monday. Preparations are on thruout that part of the country and they are quite well advanced.

PAY COUNYTY FIRE HEROES

$88.15 GOES TO POLK COUNTY RESIDENTS FOR THEIR WORK

CASEYS AND DONAHUES OF PARNELL KEEP UP FAMILY REPUTATION

From Saturday's Daily—

Certain residents of Polk county received money from the state today in payment of services they have rendered for the extinguishment of prairie and forest fires. Under state law citizens who take part in fire fighting upon being corroborated by witnesses will receive pay for their services.

There are 38 people so included for the winter just past. One of these fire heroes or heroines is a woman, Mrs. Ida Arhaug of Helgeland town, who received 75 cents. Ole Morud in the same spread of flames received $9.90, the highest amount on the list. Next comes R. H. Linaberry of Parnell town with $8.50. Pat Kelly well known resident of Gentilly drew $4.50 and A. L. Engen of Helgeland gets $6.15.

The Caseys and Donahues in Parnell town, however, are the ones that are supporting the family reputation. These natural born fighters of fire are on the list two or three times.

The people of the city see much of the glamor of the fire laddy who fights the other people's fires with all the appliances known to science and before an admiring crowd, but the man who faces the sweep of flames across the open, deserted prairie, miles from any appliance whatever and before the doorway of his own and his neighbor's homes does not not often get before the eyes of the people.

BAD FIRE AT OSLO SATURDAY

THREE COLD STORAGE PLANTS WERE TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

GASOLINE ENGINE REFUSED TO WORK—500 TONS OF COAL TOOK FIRE

From Monday's Daily—

The cold storage agencies of the Minneapolis Brewing Co., Minneapolis Brewing Co., Anhauser-Busch Brewing Co., and Val Blatz Brewing Co., and 500 tons of coal belonging to the Soo railway company were destroyed by a fire Saturday night at Oslo which caused a loss of $25,000.

The coal is still afire but there is no further danger of destruction. A special train was sent from Thief River Falls with the department of that city. The Soo depot was saved. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Little damage would have been done but for the fact that the gasoline engine of the fire department would not work and the firemen were compelled to stand and watch the buildings burn, but managed to protect other property excepting the coal.

PLAN A BIG POULTRY SHOW

From Monday's Daily—

The officers of the Red River Valley Poultry Assn. held an important meeting here Saturday evening and after looking over the financial condition of the association which were found in excellent shape decided to give Polk County one of the best poultry shows ever given in the Northwest next December.

Because of the healthy conditions of the finances of the association the officers decided that the next show can be put on without asking financial aid of the business men.

The members and officers of the association desire to thank the people at large and the business men of Crookston for their support since the organization of the Red River Valley Poultry association and hope to receive it in the past, and to thoroly merit it.

The officers are specially gratified that they will be able to put on the next show in December without soliciting financial aid from the business men who in the past have always responded so generously.

The officers of the asociation are President, T. J. Couch, Grand Forks; Vice President, W. F. Peterson and Secretary, J. W. Lewis, Crookston.

President Couch expressed his pleasure over the condition of affairs and paid Crookston a high compliment for the support given to the Association in the past.

HUNDREDS OF ACRES LEASED

ROSS AND HENRY WILL TAKE 60 HEAD OF HORSES TO ANGUS SOON

WILL PASTURE HORSES THERE AND SEED ALL LAND THEY CAN RENT

From Tuesday's Daily—

Ed Henry, of the firm of Ross and Henry, loggers at Kelliher, was in the city this morning enroute to Angus where he will negotiate for the lease of the large Winchester farm just east of that village, the fine farm buildings being just a half mile from town.

Much of the farm is fenced in and Ross and Henry will without doubt lease it because of the fine pasturage for 60 head of heavy horses which they have been using in the logging camps the past winter.

They will farm the balance of the land, and as much more as they can lease in that vicinity, as 60 good horses can farm a considerable acreage.

It is also the intention to put up several tons of hay, and that location is close to much fine hayland a little farther east. The horses will be driven down from Kelliher, as the roads are good and the trip over land with the roads fine as at present can be made cheaper than by rail as it would take three cars to carry the horses down.

DREDGE HELD BY THE ICE

DREDGE MOORED TO BANKS OF ROSEAU NEARLY GOES TO BOTTOM

MEN WORK IN ICY RIVER AND SAW ICE AROUND THE MACHINE

From Monday's Daily—

Captain Jas. A. Beard of the Standard Drainage Co., of Windom, Minn., in charge of the big Roseau river state project, managed an under water fight for the rescue of the huge dredge near Duxby in Roseau county when he arrived there to begin preparations for the coming ditching season. The hull of the dredge had become imbedded in ice and refused to rise of water during present spring thaw. As a result the water had filled the hull and was beginning to get into the machine rooms. Neighboring farmers were caled in to help his assistants free the boat from its predicament. The cold water full of floating ice was entered for a time by each man who worked a saw that had been driven thru the submerged ice and then warmed up again by a fire that was built on the bank. The hull was pumped out by hand and after the ice had been sawed out around the boat the dredge again rode on the water. The crew worked day and night. The big two yard dipper will dump its first load of dirt on the shore in the morning of April 16th next.

From Tuesday's Daily—

Contractor M. Sullivan will leave Wednesday for Euclid with his entire ditching outfit including a large number of men and 8 or 10 teams will rush the big Euclid ditch which has been hanging fire for the past three years to completion.

The Standard Drainage Co., took the contract for what is known as ditch 66 three years ago and first attempted to do the work with a floating dredge and this would not work on account of insufficient water.

Next a dry digger or walking dredge was tried, but there was not even water enough for this.

Finally the dredge scheme was abandoned and last fall the contract was subyet to M. Sullivan but rains came on and it was too wet for wheeled scrapers to accomplish much. Conditions are ideal this spring and work will be rushed to completion by Contractor Sullivan.

HORSE FELL IN ICY WATER

DAVID GERBER CAME NEAR LOSING A VALUABLE ANIMAL AT KEY STONE

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM THAT SECTION OF POLK COUNTY

From Tuesday's Daily—

David Gerber one of the well known farmers near Key Stone came near losing a valuable horse a couple of days ago. He was filling a water tank from a ditch when one horse crowded the other one over the embankment and it fell into the water.

Mr. Gerber labored for some time to help the horse out but finally rode to the Simon Aeschlimann home where another team and chains were secured and the half drowned horse was finally rescued. It was a very chilly bath but after a good rub down the horse seemed as good as new. Mr. Gerber was naturally a little excited when it looked as tho he was to be out a valuable horse, and it made his friends smile to hear him state later that he was not frightened at all, just the horses were excited.

Key Stone Notes

Miss Helen Riedesel enjoyed a very pleasant visit with her friend, Miss Laura Ramstad at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann last Sunday.

It seems that as soon as spring opens a boy's first thought is to remain true to his favorite game of baseball as was the case in this vicinity last Sunday when the boys met for the sake of choosing a captain for their baseball team this coming season. David Gerber was chosen and there is no doubt but what there will be a number of good games next summer.

Lewis, Lydia and Persida Aeschlimann and Miss Laura Ramstad visited with Miss Helen Riedesel at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Vavrina last Sunday evening.

Miss Alma Horn drove to Grand Forks last Sunday and visited with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zeltwenger and baby of Euclid spent last Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gerber.

Miss Laura Ramstad and her pupils of District No. 30 are planning on beautifying the school grounds by plainting flowers which they hope will be attracted to people passing by.

A number of the young people took advantage of the nice weather last Saturday evening by driving over to the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gerber where they spent a very delightful evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann left for Stephen to visit for several days, with their old Illinois friends who are living at that place.

Arthur Arnold will work for John Vavrina, and David Gerber for Barney Tiedemann the coming season.

The farmers in this vicinity are very busy cleaning their grain which they expect to seed soon if this weather stays.

Mr. Henry Ehnen and Mr. Everet Capes enjoyed a very pleasant drive last Sunday afternoon.

Louis Osterloh one of the most prominent farmers near Angus transacted business near here last Thursday.

Edward Brantl drove to Grand Forks Sunday.

Notice has been received at Grand Forks from Jamestown of the death of William Koehler who was committed to the asylum in Yankton, on March 1st 1884, and on April 1, 1886 was transferred from the Yankton asylum to Jamestown. Koehler was one of the oldest patients in the Jamestown asylum and his term is believed to be longer than that of any other patient sent from Grand Forks county. He was committed to the asylum by Burke Corbet, who was then judge of probate. Mr. Corbet is now practicing law in California. Dr. Samuel W. Rutledge, now dead, brother of Editor Rutledge of the Bemidji Pioneer, was the physician in the case and M. W. Scott, since deceased, was a member of the board. Sheriff James A. Jenks who died years ago was a brother of the late C. H. Jenks, former superintendent of the Great Northern here, and took Koehler to the asylum at Yankton.

NO CIVIL CASES FOR COURT JURY

The present term of the district court is going down into history without the trial of a civil case by jury. Four of the five cases set for jury trial Monday were continued Tuesday morning. The fifth case was that of Kitts & Olson vs. C. G. Erikson, an action to collect a note given in payment for a horse. The defendant claimed breach of warranty. The attorneys negotiated and agreed that the case should be tried before the court, and the civil calendar was clear so far as jury cases were concerned.—Fergus Falls Journal.

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA

Itching, Burning Skin Disease Routed Without Use of Injurious Drugs

Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world in the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the eminent skin specialist of Chicago.

Dr. Dennis in his own office practice, discovered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple remedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch, sald rheum, and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure

This compounded D. D. D. Prescription positively takes away the itch at once—the instant it is applied to the skin. This vegetable liquid does away with deleterious drugs so long used in an attempt to doctor the blood whereas modern science has determined that eczema is first and all the time a skin disease.

If you want to know more about the merits of D. D. D. Prescription, call at our store. We vouch for this remedy.—S. A. Wallace.

E. A. DUNHAM IS FACE TO FACE WITH JUSTICE

From Monday's Daily—

E. A. Dunham the erratic individual who has been keeping the wheels of justice moving for some months past is face to face with justice now and has no pleasant prospect.

Leaving here in January after forging checks on fellow associates, forging checks in Winnipeg, Edmunton and Calgary and other points in north western Canada, then marrying the woman who had nursed him for 12 weeks while he was at the point of death when he had another wife and child living in Crookston—all this will be a combination that will give the former Great Northern brakeman on the Northern Division an entrance into prison that will keep him there for a good portion of the rest of his natural life.

Dunham is yet suffering from the pleurisy pains for which he was operated on at The Edmunton City Hospital and is weak from the effects.

Dunham appeared before Judge Wilde, this morning at ten o'clock, entering the doorway thru crowds of railway men who are much interested in the case. His preliminary hearing is set for ten o'clock next Wednesday morning the 22nd.

Stranded in Crookston

At the Grand Central Hotel in this city, striving to hide herself from public gaze by registering herself as "Miss Charlotte McCallum, Stephen, Minn.," is the woman, once trained nurse in The Edmunton City Hospital whom Dunham married after she had nursed him back to life after twelve long weeks of sickness. Charlotte McCallum is a woman of honorable sentiments and character, disenchanted with the ingrate of whom she has fallen victim.

She knew Dunham as S. E. Best and they were married April 11th last by Reverend E. E. Marshall of the McDougall Methodist church at Edmunton. Dunham became intoxicated on that day and they came back to Winnipeg and remained in that city two days. Then to St. Vincent, the police and prison—a short bitter honeymoon that. Charlotte McCallum is now stranded in Crookston without money. Her parents are dead.

Dunham with all his put-on has been in crime too long to be a crude man. He knew that all the thru trains out of Winnipeg were being closely watched. He knew that if he took a local train out of the Peg he would not be observed, and then at Emerson he could take the Soo into the Cities or go by other directions into Mexico and bury himself there. He makes no secret that that country was his destination.

"Hello There, Baldy"

What erratic condition of the mind lead him into St. Vincent, Minnesota is a mystery. He had told Miss McCallum he was running a train on the St. Vincent line. When they dismounted from the train on the off-station side, former railroad associates on a sidetracked freight train hailed him, "Hollo there, Baldy." "By G—d there's Dunham" said another.

On this train was Deputy Sheriff Heard of Kittson county. He observed this off-station dismounting from the train and followed with his eyes the parties. He overheard the conversation of the railroad men. He instantly shoots into the telegraph station at the St. Vincent station and wires "Sheriff, Crookston, Forger Dunham in St. Vincent, Do you want him. Advise, Bert Heard." It was the case of a live man and a live wire.

The sheriff's office at Crookston did want Dunham. They hard a warrant sworn out for him April 13th last.

Deputy Sheriff Louis Gonyea Jr., and M. M. McLaughlin, whom Mr. Gonyea specially deputized at the G. N. Station when he departed, brought Dunham back.

Marries and Tries

Judge G. C. Wilde of this city, who officiated four years ago at the wedding of E. A. Dunham the Great Northern brakeman who turned check artist and was arrested and brought to this city last Saturday night, to Miss Millette, will today or tomorrow officiate at the ceremony of binding him over to the Grand Jury on a charge of forgery, and the evidence is so conclusive that he will be indicted on five or six different counts.

When Dunham was brought to the city Saturday evening by Deputy Sheriff Louis Gonyea from St. Vincent where he was arrested the night previous, there was a crowd of 400 or 500 people assembled to meet him. In the crowd was one of the Millette boys, a brother to the wife Dunham had deserted. As Dunham was being escorted to a hack Millette made a lunge at Dunham, and had it not been for vigorous action by Deputy Sheriff Gonyea, Dunham would have received a terrible beating as the crowd was in sympathy with Dunham's wife, who is left with two little children and no means of support. Dunham was hustled into the hack, the driver lashed his horses and the prisoner was soon behind the bars in the county jail.

Not a Word

Dunham refuses to say a word. He has not yet secured counsel, and it is not probable that he will have any except the one appointed by the court The cases of forgery are so clear against him that it is possible he may enter a plea of guilty and take his sentence rather than to lie in jail for several months before getting a trial at the June term of court, and receive a heavier sentence than he would be apt to get now.

Dunham has a bad record in St. Paul. He served 60 days at the workhouse for touching a man for $85 in a saloon about 6 years ago and also served a pen sentence for a gun play.

LADY IS TAKEN AMONG FRIENDS

Miss Charlotte McCallum has found no inhospitable and unsympathetic sameness to Crookston. Yesterday she went among friends. Mrs. C. H. Denniston called at the Grand Central Hotel yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the lady accompanied her when she departed. Miss McCallum is a highly trained nurse and is in no wise dependent on others, if she secures a proper start. She queried the management of the Grand Central concerning a position.

GOOD DRIVERS ARE A SCARCE ARTICLE

Ran Smith, of the livery firm of Smith & Sinclair of East Grand Forks returned home last evening after spending a couple of days driving thru the country about the city in search of some good driving horses, but was unable to find any that he wanted that were for sale. The firm wants five or six more good toppy drivers but they seem to be very hard to pick up, as the farmers who have the right sample are not anxious to sell.

DREDGE JOB FOR POLK CO.

LATERALS AT HEAD DEMAND ENLARGEMENT OF CAPACITY OF DITCH

18-MILE STATE DITCH TO BE AMONG LARGEST IN THE STATE

State drainage engineer George A. Ralph met yesterday at the commissioners rooms in the court house and aided in preparation of papers by which farmers and merchants in the southern part of Polk county will petition the state drainage board for such an enlargement of the state drainage canal now running thru the towns of Liberty, Reis and Scandia as will make it among the largest in the state.

The ditch starts in the northwest corner of section 28 in Liberty town, running almost due west to the southwest of 14 in Scandia town where it empties into the Sandhill river and thence into the Red.

The enlargement of the ditch, which as planned will require the work of a steam dredge, is necessary on account of the enormous increase of laterals at its head and of which it is the outlet. The residents along the lower part of the ditch line have suffered inconvenience, if not damage, by the influx of water from above.

Among those present in the commissioners' room while Mr. Ralph drew up the papers were Gust Christianson of section 22 in Scandia, E. W. Johnson, H. Johnson, C. C. Heath, and H. O. Budd of Beltrami and L. Johannessohn of 21 in Reis town. F. E. Wood of Pipestone, representing the Macalester ditching company was also in the room.

GOT RID OF SOME BAD MONEY

THREE $10 BILLS OF "WILD CAT" VARIETY PASSED AT BAGLEY

Three men who are supposed to have gone to Bagley from Cass Lake or Grand Rapids, pulled off a successful stunt of getting rid of "bad money" there Saturday afternoon, and succeeded in passing at least three $10 bills of "shady value," making their get-away before their deception was discovered and their arrest determined upon.

It appears that the three men made purchases of several business men, including Hans Hanson tendering in payment therefor $10 bills, which from a hasty glance looked all right. Later the merchants scanned the money received more closely, with the result that it was found that the bills were "bogus," being flimsy imitations of "good money."

When the game was discovered the perpetrators had made good their escape and no trace of their whereabouts could be found.

The bills which were used by the strangers were what is known as the old "wild cat" money, and were issued (apparently) by the Merchants and Planters bank of Georgia at Savannah.

The police are endeavoring to locate the pasers of the money.

MAN 127 YEARS OLD IS DEAD

"NIGGER LOU" WILLIAMS ANSWERS CALL AT G. F. COUNTY POOR FARM

OLDEST MAN IN NORTHWEST DIED ON SUNDAY LAST

From Tuesday's Daily—

"Nigger Lou" Williams, the oldest man in North Dakota died early Sunday at the Grand Forks county poor farm and hospital at Arvilla where he has been for several years. Williams had been seriously ill for several days and his death was not unexpected. He had been growing feebler year by year but was able to be about and look after his chickens up to the last few days of his life. He was particularly fond of chickens and the fowls were each known to him by name and responded to his call.

William's face was like parchment and seamed with the wrinkles of years. His eyesight was rather defective but he had a wonderful memory for his friends and recognized them easily when he heard their voices.

Used Tobacco and Liquor

Williams smoked from youth until a few years before his death. He drank liquor in moderate quantities. He quit tobacco during his last year because he believed it to be bad for his health.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the poor farm and many of the old timers mourned the demise of the cherry colored man, the oldest that North Dakota has ever known.

J.F. BANTA LOST HEAVILY FROM BIG PRAIRIE FIRE

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

Yesterday afternoon a fierce prairie fire burned the granary on the farm of J. F. Banta, one mile east of Shirley, together with four stacks of grain, and his house and barn were only saved thru the valiant efforts of Chas. Solberg and John Dunn of this city who arrived on the scene after the granary containing all of Mr. Banta's seed grain was a mass of flames.

Mr. Solberg was driving out to purchase a horse of Mr. Banta and Dunn accompanied him. They whipped up their team when they saw the fire and worked like beavers to save the residence which caught fire in a dozen different places.

There was no ladder by which the house roof could be reached and Mr. Solberg taking an ax crawled to the garret and chopped a hole thru the roof and extinguished the flames with water carried from a nearby slough by Dunn after a desperate fight. Once they gave up but when they found neither house nor contenns were insured they renewed the battle with the flames and finally won the fight against great odds.

Refuges in Potato Patch

Mrs. Banta and the children fled to a potato patch for safety, but were nearly suffocated by cinders and smoke. Mr. Banta removed a portion of the furniture, thinking the house was surely doomed. Frequent trips to the barn were also necessary to put out incipient flames which the wind fanned fiercely.

A Hard Blow

In addition to losing his seed wheat and horse feed Mr. Banta lost three loads of barley which he had just hauled from Miller and Hanna's ware house in this city one load together with the wagon being burned at the side of the granary. His loss is about $1000.

What makes the loss still more severe is the fact that last summer Mr. Banta lost practically all his crop by hail.

In fighting the flames John Dunn had his hands terribly burned, and Chas. Solberg also has several fine blisters as relics of the thrilling experience. Had Solberg and Dunn not been on hand all the buildings would have gone up in smoke.

School House Burned

The same fire burned the school house in District 268 to the ground. It is located just across the road from Banta's and nothing could be done to save it. Miss Dorothy Mullen who boarded at Banta's had her trunk in the school house and it was burned with contents.

Other fire Losses

During the past three days more damage has been done by prairie fires than during any spring for the past 16 years. Reports of losses are coming to the city every day, the loss on hay stacks in meadows being particularly heavy and in addition a large number of farmers have lost their buildings.

One of the heaviest losses occurred yesterday in which J. H. Porter of Huot, about 10 miles east of this city was the loser. Porter has operated the Huot Creamery for the past few years and resigned this spring. Yesterday he was moving his household goods and family from Huot to a farm a mile and a half distant from that place. A prairie fire swept to the buildings on the farm, destroyed the house, four barns, all the hay, the members of the family escaping with the clothing they had on their backs and one wagon load of household goods. Everything else was burned, and the members of the family barely escaped with their lives. One barn, standing off to one side was all that escaped the flames.

James Martin 5 miles north of Crookston lost two big stacks of hay and barely saved his buildings.

Geo. Trafton, residing east of Winters also lost several stacks of hay. Geo. Radi, near Fisher came near losing his farm buildings, the wind fanning a fire which had been smouldering in a manure pile in the barn yard and which was supposed to have been extinguished.

W. H. Brown of Nesbit township has a timothy field sewept by a prairie fire, losing some hay and barely saving several other stacks.

Yesterday afternoon a fierce prairie fire swept over the town of Hammond and men, women and children had to turn out and fight the flames in order to save the elevators at Kittson.

Another fire started on section 12 and it required hard work to save the few buildings at Russia station.

Everything is as dry as tinder, and the gale that blew Sunday, Monday and Tuesday made it impossible to control flames that ordinarily could be stopped with a few furrows.

If the winds continue and no rain falls there will be further losses by fires, as a spark from a passing engine is certain to start in the grass where it lodges.

MAKE IT YOURSELF

Tells Our Readers How to Mix Best Rheumatism Cure

A well known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless, prescription, which, anyone can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one-ounce Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers, if asked to.

INCREASE IS 20 PER DAY

R. T. BUCKLER ON BURNHAM FARM BELIEVES IN VALLEY SHEEP

SHEEP ARE HEALTHY AND CAN BE FED CHEAPER THAN IN ILLINOIS

From Thursday's Daily—

R. T. Buckler, the well known farmer who purchased the Burnham farm west of the city on the south side of the river is getting into the sheep business extensively and an average of 20 lambs are arriving every day at this season of the year. Mr. Buckler is thoroly convinced that the Red River Valley is an ideal sheep country.

He states that the sheep are very healthy here, and that they can be pastured here cheaper than they can be on lands held at from $100 to $150 per acre in Illinois or Iowa.

Mr. Buckler paid a good price for his land but he stated yesterday that it could not be bought for $20 per acre more than he paid for it, and this in the face of the fact that the four years during which Mr. Buckler has been here are the poorest the valley farmers have had to contend wiht in the past twenty.

Mr. Buckler is one of the best boosters in the Valley as for the reason that he does things — he practices what he preaches—and any one visiting his farm can see a practical demonstration of what can be accomplished when right methods are adopted.

And there are getting to be more and more farmers of the Buckler type in this neck of the woods.

THE OLDEST MAN IN THE RED RIVER VALLEY DYING

LOU WILLIAMS AGED 127 YEARS NEAR DEATH—FOR YEARS HE WAS EMPLOYED ON RIVER BOATS IN SUMMER RUNNING FROM FISHER TO POINTS TOWARDS WINNIPEG—TELLS INTERESTING TALES OF SLAVERY TIMES— NO HOPE FOR HIS RECOVERY

From Thursday's Daily— ...

"Nigger Lou" Williams, aged 127, the oldest living resident of the Red River Valley is dying at Arvilla, according to information received in Grand Forks today. He had been enjoying fairly good health until recently, when he became seriously ill and is it believed he cannot long survive. He has had a long and interesting career. For years he resided in Grand Forks and Crookston and in the early days was employed on the Red River steamboats running from Fisher down the Red Lake and Red River. Finally he became old and feeble and was taken to the Grand Forks county poor farm at Arvilla. There he has been contented and happy.

His fad for the past few years has been chickens and at the county farm he has quite a number of them. He has a name for each fowl and held interesting talks with them while feeding them.

As is usual with colored folks he has a fondness for rather stylish clothes and when he came in from Arvilla on a visit he wore a silk hat presented to him by a more prosperous friend.

Employed by McCormack

Thirty years ago Williams was employed by Captain M. L. McCormack who is now a resident of St. Paul, as coachman. Then he could remember many details of his life and he related how in slavery times the slave owners took away his first wife. Latter they took away his second wife. Although 97 years old Williams worked for Captain McCormack on the boats in the summer and on the shore in the winter. James Hanrahan of Grand Forks knew Williams 50 years ago and he is positive that Williams is 127.

Williams was a great lover of horse races and in former days when Crookston held race meets was always on deck and was known to every horse owner and when he was flush would back his pick to his last penny.

Nobody said a word except the Hennepin and Ramsey delegations who manipulated things to their own complete satisfaction. There was no one had the nerve to put in a dissenting voice. They handled things so nice. They "magnanimously permitted the second and first districts to caucus and propose a man," concluded Mr. Ives.

WHERE IS CASH WHICH RASMUSSEN POSSESSED?

From Friday's Daily—

What has become of John Rasmussen's gold? Is it hidden some where about his farm south of Euclid where he died, or has some one made away with it?

This is the question which the neighbors and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Getting of Elgin, Illinois have been trying to solve for the past few days. Rasmussen was a bachelor 50 years of age who died last Saturday on his farm 12 miles north of this city of Bright's disease. He was cared for during his illness, which was serious for only about a week, by John Schipper, the son of a neighboring farmer. He has no relatives in this country excepting Mrs. Getting, a niece, who with her husband and daughter arrived Wednesday from Elgin to attend the funeral and take charge of the property.

It was known that the old man had considerable money about the house at all times, but the exact amount is not known. It is known however, that as treasurer of the school district in which he lived he had $400.

Not a penny of it can be found.

In addition it is thought that he had at least $1000 of his own money on the premises but a search high and low has failed to reveal a single cent.

The deeds to his land were found, together with letters which showed that he had received interest money on large loans he has out near Willmar, Minn., dated about the first of the year, but the notes due him cannot be found and no evidence of any kind as to the amount of money he has out at interest excepting what is indicated in the letters in which the interest money was enclosed from the various parties.

Mr. Getting and Mr. Schipper were in Crookston yesterday and returned last evening to prosecute the search for the missing money. One theory is that Rasmussen has buried his treasurer some where on the farm, and another theory is that some one knew the hiding place of the money in the house and made away with it after the old man lost consciousness or after he died.

The fact that it cannot be found has created a sensation, and rumors are afloat that the treasure plant if it is located contains more than a fair sized fortune.

It now developes that John Rasmussen also has two sisters in the old country, or did have a short time ago.

MONTANA TOWN WIPED OFF MAP

Loss Caused by Breaking of Hauser Dam Will Reach Several Millions.

THOUSANDS OF CATTLE LOST

Traffic on Great Northern Between Helena and St. Paul Tied Up; Will Rebuild Dam.

Helena, Mont., April 17.—With the little town of Craig wiped entirely off the map, thousands of head of cattle and live stock drowned and scores of valuable ranches greatly damaged, the loss from the flood caused by the breaking of the great seventy-foot dam at Hauser lake Tuesday, it is conservatively estimated, will reach several million dollars. In view, however, of the contract between the Helena Power Transmission company, owners of the dam, and the Wisconsin Bridge and Iron company of Milwaukee, the latter company, it is said, will be liable for all damage resulting from the flood.

Dam Will Be Rebuilt.

After making a careful examination of the site yesterday, since the water has receded, A. H. Cerry, Jr., general manager, is of the opinion that the wrecked structure can be rebuilt at a cost of probably less than $250,000. That the dam will be rebuilt at once and the construction of the third dam at Wolf creek, which was approved by Secretary of War Taft Tuesday, will not be delayed, is assured by a telegram received in Helena yesterday from Former Governor Samuel T. Hauser, president of the Helena Power Transmission company, who is now in New York.

Last night the indications were that the water has receded during the day sufficiently to prevent any great damage at Great Falls.

The river is becoming normal at Craig and Cascade, and no further damage is anticipated.

Miles of Track Flooded.

Butte, Mont., April 17. — Graet Northern Agent Stewart of Wolf Creek reports to the local office that the track from Wolf Creek east as far as he can see is flooded to a depth of three feet and that for three miles or more it is completely washed out. Twenty-eight miles of track are under water. The washing out of this stretch of track between Wolf Creek and Cascade will tie up practically the entire traffic of the Great Northern between Helena and St. Paul.

ELEPHANT RUNS AMUCK

Fire Stampedes Herd and the Leader Kills One Person and Injures Several Others.

Riverside, Cal., April 18.—As a result of a fire which started early yesterday afternoon at the Standard Oil company's storage tanks, a herd of elephants was stampeded, L. J. Morsley lies at the city hospital fatally burned and Miss Ella Gibbs, a church deaconess, is dead. A sullen boom marked the explosion of the large oil tank.

A circus, three blocks distant, was about to open for the afternoon performance. The herd of elephants became uncontrollable and they dashed to the east side of the town, knocking down fences, outhouses and despoiling orchards that lay in their path. In a short time, however, all but the largest of the elephants were rounded up. The leader of the herd then changed his course and entered the center of the city, one mile distant. He entered the court of the Glenwood hotel. Miss Gibbs was in the yard in front of the house. The elephant pinned her against the house between his tusks, threw her to the ground and trampled upon her, crushing her chest so that she died. The animal then proceeded to the doorway, the guests running panic-stricken indoors. D. P. Chapman was knocked down and had several ribs broken and was otherwise injured.

Before being rounded up at a down town public stable, the animal trampled on another man and seriously gored him with his tusks.

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA

Itching, Burning Skin Disease Routed Without Use of Injurious Drugs

Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world in the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the eminent skin specialist of Chicago.

Dr. Dennis in his own office practice, discovered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple remedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch, sald rheum, and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure

This compounded D. D. D. Prescription positively takes away the itch at once—the instant it is applied to the skin. This vegetable liquid does away with deleterious drugs so long used in an attempt to doctor the blood whereas modern science has determined that eczema is first and all the time a skin disease.

If you want to know more about the merits of D. D. D. Prescription, call at our store. We vouch for this remedy.—S. A. Wallace.

PRESIDENT'S PLAN IS TURNED DOWN

Program for Four Battleships Is Voted Down in House by Decisive Vote.

BATTLE STUBBORNLY FOUGHT

Naval Committee's Program for Building Two Battleships Finally Prevails.

Washington, April 16.—By a vote of 199 to 83 the house of representatives yesterday decided against the president's program for four battleships and adhered to the recommendation of its committee on naval affairs for two vessels of that type. This reult was reached after a debate which lasted for four hours and was received with applause. The entire session was devoted to a consideration of the navy increase provision of the naval appropriation bill. As this increase was provided in the last section of the bill the measure was practically concluded with the disposition of the provision.

Battle Is Hard Fought.

The provision for battleships was the chief subject of interest, the committee's recommendation for two ships of that type prevailing by a decisive vote after a hard fought effort to increase the number to four.

The increase was opposed by Mr. Tawney, chairman of the committee on naval affairs; Mr. Willetts, a minority leader, and others, and was advocated by Mr. Hobson of Alabama, who declared that in relation to the increase of old nations four battleships would only keep the American navy abreast of other great navies.

Longworth Gets Into It.

Mr. Longworth of Ohio in a vigorous speech told the house that the president was more interested in this increase than in any other question before congress, and as practically all of them had in the last election declared that they had supported him this was a good opportunity to live up to that declaration.

An amendment by Mr. Tawney to reduce the number of new battleships to one was voted down by an even more decided majority than was Mr. Hobson's proposition for an increase to four.

A provision for two fleet colliers of sixteen knots and of 12,500 tons capacity, costing $1,800,000 each, was adopted.

Amendments were adopted that one of the battleships and one of the colliers shall be built in a navy yard.

The bill as it stands authorizes expenditures of $107,873,000.

The senate devoted its entire time yesterday to considering bills on the calendar. Among the measures passed was one suppressing betting on races and games of various kinds in the District of Columbia.

MRS. RINDLAUB GETS $30,000

TOGETHER WITH DECREE OF DIVORCE FROM DR. RINDLAUB OF FARGO

ALSO GETS $75 PER MONTH FOR MAINTENANCE OF THE CHILDREN

From Thursday's Daily—

Judge Charles F. Templeton of the district court at Grand Forks, yesterday granted a divorce in the noted divorce case from Fargo in which Dr. John Rindlaub was defendant. The court upholds the contention of the plaintiff as to cruelty, but disallows the claim that he was addicted to the use of opium, as asserted by Mrs. Rindlaub. The court finds that the charge of the doctor being a slave to the use of the drug was not established by the evidence in the case.

The plaintiff is allowed alimony in the sum of $30,000, the custody of three small children, the oldest being four years, and $75 per month for the suport of the children until further orders from the court and $1,000 attorney's fees.

To Deed Back Residence

The court orders that Mrs. Rindlaub deed back to the doctor their handsome family residence on Eighth street south, Fargo, which the doctor had given her as a bridal present. The residence is valued at $30,000.

The court further ordered that Mrs. Rindlaub is to have the custody of the children but Dr. Rindlaub is to see them each Sunday and have them with him two months of each year, after they reach the age of 4. The arrangements regarding the custody of the children and the amount of their maintenance is subject to further orders of the court.

In Fargo it is not thought the decree will be satisfying to either the plaintiff or the defendant. It is understood the plaintiff anticipated at least $50,000 alimony and the residence, and the defendant expected the custody of one or two of the children.

CLAIM PERSONAL TAXES OPPRESSIVE

C. W. W. P. & L. CO., OBJECTS TO A $50,900 VALUATION ON PROPERTY

The Crookston Water Works Power & Light Co., has objected thru its attorneys Rome G. Brown and Chas. S. Albert to a valuation of $50,900 on its personal property and makes answer to those taxes as "partial oppressive and unfair." The state board of equalization last year raised their valuation and the company claims that County Auditor Hoffard of Polk was not legally and officially notified and county can base no taxation on that. The company states that it has no "stocks and bonds, no vehicles and no royalty or patent rights," the items to which it takes exceptions.

H. L. GAYLORD WANTS DAMAGES FOR INJURIES TO HIS WIFE

H. L. Gaylord has filed a claim against the village of Fertile for $3000 for damages by injuries sustained by his wife, who on March 18 slipped and fell on the cement walk in the rear of Holten & Carlson's block breaking her left arm. It is claimed by Mr. Gaylord that the sidewalk was covered by a coat of ice by reason of melting snow running off the roof of the building, across the walk, freezing and making the same unsafe for pedestrians to travel. The matter will come up at the next meeting of the council and if not favorably acted on Mr. Gaylord will appeal to the courts.

JOHN SCHMIDT LOSES CASE TO ZELLA B. CONNOR ON A CONTEST

LAND WAS NOT CONTIGUOUS BUT ONLY CORNERED ON HIS HOMESTEAD

From Thursday's Daily—

John Schmidt who has been living on his homestead near Detroit since proving up some time ago, is at the United States Land Office today inquiring as to his loss of a forty acre plot of government land on which he had filed and which had been lost to him thru a contest in which he had defaulted.

Schmidt filed and proved up on an eighty acre tract near Detroit and later, according to provisions of law, filed on a forty acre plot that cornered on his original entry and homestead. He did not live on this new selection, thinking the law justified the entry, if he lived on the original adjoining plot.

Nevertheless Zella B. Connor another homesteader near him brought action in contest on the grounds that the plot of ground did not lay contiguous and collateral to the original claim and therefore was not eligible to that law which provides a homesteader may file on such property and prove up without residence. The local land office decreed in favor of the woman, Schmidt not appearing. Now he is in the city to see what can be done.

Calgary, April 18. — One of the worst snow storms in the history of the Canadian Pacific railroad occurred this week near Albert canyon, in the Cascade range, sweeping away two boarding cars filled with Japanese laborers and carrying them down the mountain side in a roar of thousands of tons of snow, ice and rock, which carried before it debris of every kind. A Readjustment Due.

It has long been felt that railroads have framed their schedules to benefit Chicago rather than Saint Paul in facilitating the movement of stock and produce in Minnesota and the Northwest. It is now likely that before long this injustice to St. Paul will be removed, and more equitable schedules come into operation. This matter is receiving the attention of William Magivny, President of the Saint Paul Union Stockyards, and pressure is being brought to bear on the different railroads to have it properly adjusted. With the growth of the packing industry at South Saint Paul it is of increasing importance that deliveries from all parts be made more promptly. Better schedules are required from South Dakota, "stop off" facilities are needed on trains at present running thru Saint Paul; and, in fact, the time has come, owing to the rapid expansion of the live stock business for the railway companies to readjust their schedules in the interest of farmers and live stock producers throughout the Northwest anxious to avail themselves of the Saint Paul markets.

Closer Scrutiny.

The feelings of treasurers of charitable organizations all over the United States are likely to be rudely shocked as the result of the declarations made last week by William H. Allen, an official of the New York bureau for municipal research, at a meeting of the reform department of the Chicago Woman's Club. It is part of his job to see that the financial affairs of churches and philanthropic institutions are more closely scrutinized than has been customary, and it is expected that some embarrassing disclosures will follow. Mr. Allen declared that if the percentage of peculations of officers—"borrowing" and the like—from the funds of churches the Y. M. C. A, the Y. F. C. A., religious missionary societies, hospitals and similar institutions could be compared with the percentage of grafting in city governments, it would be discovered that private "graft" far exceeded that from public purse. A still more concrete attack upon existing conditions was made in the report of a committee on public accounting of charities, which has spent a year investigating the status of private and public institutions. The committee found that institutions of all sorts, charitable and reformatory, some run under the name of great churches, were managed by private boards and with no outside supervision of any description as to methods and results and expenditure of funds. Thru its chairman, Mrs. George Bass, the committee suggested, plans which would prevent the possibility of pilfering from such funds. A rigid investigation is being made, based on the facts disclosed.

Mitchell, A Maker of History.

With the arrival of the day when the history of the great labor organizers of this country can be written with as proper a deference to calm analysis and perspective at that of the great organizers of commercial combinations, and vice versa it is likely that the name of John Mitchell will occupy a prominent place on the beadroll, says the Rochester Post and Record.

A few days ago the continued assaults of stubborn ill-health forced him to abdicate the leadership of the coal diggers of the United States and Canada, whom he has commanded for a period of ten years. The man is human. He has made his mistakes. But the drift of his power has overwhelmingly been toward the permanent betterment of the condition of the men depending upon him for leadership, and he has done the thing, largely, without the chicane of the demagogue or the blatant and flannel-mouthed art of the agitator who sought to make personal headway by arraying class against mass, and its opposite.

He has just been the human, wise, tolerant and far-seeing friend of his people; and they knew it. So that when he came to tell their delegates goodbye at the convention in Indianapolis, recently, the scene was one of the most remarkable exhibitions of emotion which are not maudlin, when strong men are speechless for tears. The delegates, after he had invoked the divine blessing upon them, passed in line to shake him by the hand. The farewells were inarticulate, mainly.

Here and there a grizzled miner, whose face was furrowed and whose figure was bent by years of toil underground, framed the word "John" and went on his sorrowful way.

But chiefly, the demonstration was that of strong, elemental men, whose grief and appreciation find vent in silence rather than insufficient speech

Mitchell has been constructive. Conditions in the coal mining regions, everywhere, are vastly better for his incumbency. Higher wages are paid; the men lead cleaner lives; he has taught them the lesson of self-respect. Nor has he neglected to show them the rights of the "other man."

We live in that strange and readjusting age demanding such constructive, temperate yet aggressive men as Mitchell. It is not fulsomeness, nor laudation nor overlooking his faults, to say that this young-old man has contributed to making of American history.

Cannot Understand It

Probably no man in the state has been more admired for his personal qualities, his intellectual attainments or his great legal knowledge and ability than Dan Lawler of St. Paul. And there has been no greater disappointment than he has caused by his campaign for the mayorality of the saintly city. Instead of coming out squarely for the enforcement of law and for a higher moral standard he has adopted a directly opposite course. His action is incomprehensible to those who looked for better things from him —Rochester Post and Record.

POLITICS

Alton B. Parker is going to Denver as a delegate-at-large without the least fear that if the convention becomes deadlocked it will turn to him as a compromise.

No defeated candidate for president ever left less of a hole where he went down than Alton B. Parker. He was voted a candidate without a redeeming feature. He was a failure. And yet Parker is not a small man. He is an able lawyer. He was a splendid judge. In New York state he was accounted a shrewd politician. Yet he failed miserably as a candidate to arouse any enthusiasm among his following. Judge Parker saw the handwriting on the wall from the beginning. He was never deceived as to the probable outcome of the voting. He accepted the inevitable gracefully until toward the clase of the campaign, when he was betrayed into some ill-digested statements.

He knows today that he can go to a national convention and be accounted just a plain delegate. It was not his fault that he was not elected. He was not rejected. His party was rejected. The people wanted Roosevelt and they got him, and would have gotten him whomsoever the opposing party nominated.—Minneapolis Journal.

DRY WEATHER CAUSES MANY PRAIRIE FIRES

Owing to the extremely dry weather of the present spring forest and prairie fires are doing a lot of damage in a great many places. The country in the vicinity of Barnesville has been visited by two or three destructive prairie fires during the past week and several of the Journal's correspondents have reported small losses in different townships of this county. In the town of Paddock, the Nevela school house caught fire from a burning meadow and was destroyed and Mr. Nelson's residence in the same township was also burned. Wadena county has fared still worse, and the inhabitants of the entire township of Rockwood are reported to have spent the greater part of the week fighting fires. The buildings on a number of vacant farms are reported to have been destroyed. R. A. Kennedy of Leaf River lost 60 tons of hay. Rain is badly needed, and fires are likely to continue to give a good deal of trouble until some falls.

KENNEDY MAN TALKS OF CONDITIONS IN SWEDEN

Ole S. Lindgren, of Kennedy, returned from Sweden Wednesday where he has spent the winter. Mr. Lindgren had a very enjoyable trip. In speaking of the conditions in general he stated that the financial flurry we had in this country last fall has effected that country a great deal, as some of the papers in this country pictured the financial conditions really worse than they were and the results have been that the immigration from Sweden to this country in the past six months has decreased considerable. On account of work not being as plentiful as in the past the immigration from the Unietd States to Sweden and other foreign countries is unusually heavy. Speaking of farming Mr. Lindgren prefers Kittson county, altho the farmers here do not make as much money per acre as they do in the old country, still the farmers are not so crowded here but have plenty of room and best of all, opportunities which are limited in older countries. There it takes from three to four men to take care of a forty acre farm. Dairying being the principal feature of farming and a profitable business. A good milch cow is worth from $90 to $125. A hog weighing 200 pounds would bring from $30 to $35. All grain than a farmer raises is fed to stock. All farm produce is at very high price. A good horse will bring from $300 to $400. So taking all thru for a man who owns a small farm there can make a comfortable and easy living. But if you have not the money there is no place like here to make it.—Hallock News.

VEGETABLES

Press Bulletin No. 74—B. A. J. McGuire, Northeast Experiment Station, Grand Rapids, Minnesota

The growing vegetables may be recommended in Northern Minnesota on a commercial scale as well as for the home garden. The yield and quality of vegetables grown in this section of the state can hardly be surpassed. There is also an extensive market in the cities at the head of Lake Superior and the mining districts, but for the farmers not tributary there is difficulty in securing it. It is supplied largely by wholesale shippers from other districts. This market rightfully belongs to the farmers of Northern Minnesota and it may be obtained by co-operation among the farmers and it is only in this way that it can be. Wholesale dealers want vegetables in carload lots, and vegetables of a uniform grade and quality.

Where a community of farmers would make vegetable growing an issue, and aim for uniformity, and cooperate in shipping, they could command a market for all they could grow.

For the farmer with only few acres under cultivation, vegetables, when they can be marketed, is the most profitable crop that can be grown

On the Experimental Farm all the common garden vegetables have been grown successfully with the exception of melons. Tomatoes and cucumbers have generally required a little extra care in the way of protection against late and early frosts to insure their maturity, and also the navy bean which is somewhat uncertain in ripening at this degree of latitude (47 1-4). With these few exceptions the growing of vegetables has been exceedingly satisfactory.

Vegetables do best on a sandy loam soil in fertility and humus the better. a heavy application of stable manure every year is essential to the best growth of most vegetables. The ground should be manured and plowed in the fall, as fall plowing not only gives the best results in growth, but it also kills many destructive insects that live in the soil during the winter. It should not be harrowed till spring but the earlier in the spring the better, which will help to retain the moisture and kill weed seeds.

In laying out the garden it will be found more satisfactory to plant everything in rows than in the old-fashioned way of beds, and the rows far enough apart to permit of horse cultivation. The garden needs frequent cultivation, not only to keep it free from weeds but to retain the soil moisture. More can be done with a horse cultivator in an hour, than all day with the hoe. The cultivator does not dispense with the hoe, but it greatly lessens hand work which is much more expensive.

Questions are frequently referred to the Experiment Station regarding the best varieties of the different vegetables for this section, and also the seed firm that handles the best grade of seed. Both these questions can be answered only in a general way. There are many varieties of most vegetables that do equally well and there are also several seed firms that handle practically the same grade of seed. A safe rule for the beginner is to use the well known varieties that have been on the market for several years, and the new stock that appears in every spring catalog only in an experimental way, if at all.

With some vegetables it is well to discriminate in early and late varieties. In tomatoes, cucumbers, beans squash and pumpkins early varieties to the extent of what will be used when mature, and late varieties for winter use, and late shipping.

In planting, tomatoes, celery, early cabbage, and cauliflower should be started in hot beds. Late cabbage is also started in this wey, but it may be sown directly in the garden, very good results having been obtained thru this system on the Experiment Farm.

The vegetables that command the best market in the fall for shipping are cabbage, carrots, beets, turnips and rutabagas. For the summer and early fall market, onions, peas, radish lettuce and cucumbers. These are the most staple products and safest to grow in a commercial way.

The successful sale of vegetables depend largely upon their quality, appearance and the way they are put up. Size alone does not indicate quality or make a product a good seller. Smoothness, uniformity and freeness from dirt and bruises in handling are quite as important as size. A great deal may be learned about vegetables at an agricultural exhibit, by observing the vegetables that take prizes, when a competent judge is in charge.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Crookston Citizen Shows How to Cure Them

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Crookston people testify to permanent cures.

N. L. Nelson, sheet metal worker, of 303 Jackson Avenue, Crookston, Minn., says: "Backache and kidney complaint were constant annoyances to me for years. The aching in my back was not continued, but the cause was always there, and it required only a little exertion or a cold to bring on a severe attack. I was suffering more than usual when I was induced to go to Wallace's drug store and get Doan's Kidney Pills. Their use promptly took the pains out of my back and helped me generally. I want to give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for working this wonderful cure."

BUTTERMAKER GIVES PATRONS SOME EXCELLENT ADVICE

Lars Leffler buttermaker at the Hendrum creamery, gives the patrons of that institution some pertinent suggestions in the Hendrum Review. Among other things Mr. Leffler says: "Farmers bring in the cream as fresh as possible this season. It will make up to two cents a pound difference on the entire output if they do. In order to get the highest price on the New York market the butter must score 92 or better. In scoring the flavor counts 45 per cent, and the flavor is almost entirely dependent on the condition of the cream when brought in. One can of sour cream will spoil a whole churning, in fact the flavor is dependent on the poorest cream rather than the best. The state laws governing creameries are much stricter than ever before and makes it necessary for the buttermaker to refuse any cream that is not sweet."

CURE BY CUTICURA AT CITY MISSION

Young Woman Found in Awful Condition with Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Scratching—Tried Many Remedies for Seven Weeks —Result Was Discouraging, But

ITCHING TORTURES YIELDED TO CUTICURA

"While I was doing missionary work in the lower portion of several cities I found it necessary to know a little of the efficacy of a few medicines and after a while I found that a little knowledge of Cuticura was about all I needed. One of the very bad cases I had to deal with was that of a young woman who had come to us not only broken in spirit but in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), incipient paresis, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure and the effects of her ragged-edged life. Her poor body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We tried many things, a good tonic was prescribed and baths with a rubbing of lard and sulphur. We worked hard for seven weeks and you can imagine how discouraged we were when, after all that time, we could see so little improvement. One day I happened to see a Cuticura advertisement telling how a little baby had been cured of a bad case of skin eruption, and although I had but ninety-seven cents with me, I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. When I reached home I was like a child with a new toy, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept that night better than she had since she had been with us and the next day I located the price of a box of Cuticura Ointment. I am not exaggerating when I say that in exactly five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, being strong enough to work and full of ambition. In another month she left the home, and now has a good position in a nice family where she is respected and is strong and well. You may refer any one you wish to me, personally. Laura Jane Bates, 85 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y., Mar. 11, 1907."

From Saturday's Daily—

The Crookston Water Works Power and Light Company have installed in their steam auxilliary plant on West Robert St., sufficient engines to take the entire load of city power should the water works be incapacitated by height of water or other reasons.

The principle one of these engines is the big Russell 800 horsepower engine, capable of 1200 horsepower when required.

The generator, installed in the east portion of the power room, has a capacity of 1090 amperes with voltage at load of 275, giving it a capacity for over 5000 lights, 16 candlepower.

The alternator is the finest installation however, being fitted especially for the production of power current for machinery, and has a capacity of 2300 volts and 135 amperes, meaning if used altogether for lighting, over 5000 lights of 16 candlepower or one 80,000 candle power light.

The whole installation will produce 11,000 16 candle power lights or one 175,000 light that would light the city and surrounding country like day.

The company has placed the two old dynamoes of 520 amperes each in the water power house and will attach them to the shafts of the water turbines. This work will be completed today or tomorrow.

The power room at the steam auxilliary plant is paved with a tile floor and is finely fitted. It is understood that a piano man of the town is trying to sell Mr. Peterson a Steinway.

A water heating plant has been provided for the boiler room whereby the steam exhaust heats the water going into the boiler and thus saves fuel by utilizing what was previously waste.

The new switch board is a strikingly happy addition to the tile floor and the spick and span condition of the plant merits much attention.

AUCTIONEERS FACE ORDINANCES

CITY BLUE BOOK SAYS $50 AND $200 — NEVER ONE ISSUED HERE

J. P. White applied at the city clerk's office in city hall yesterday for information regarding an auctioneer's license which the ordinances of the city state shall cost $50 for auctioneer and $200 for auction house, both rates per year. Mr. White held a county license and there is some question if this will not cover work in the city. There has never been a city license issued in Crookston that Clerk Childs remembers of.

The matter is referred to City Attorney Martin O'Brien. Chas. Hitchcock who has been bringing more farmers to the city by his auction sales than any other single agency, operates under a county license, but never knew anything about the city license and wonders if he is going to be "picked for a few" by the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Eickhoff Back from a Ten Weeks' Trip to Germany where They Viewed Scenes Which They had not Beheld for the Past 27 Years—Stormy Voyage on Return Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Eickhoff returned yesterday from a very pleasant trip to Germany where they visited their old home at Altano and also stopped at Hamburg and many other points of interest. They visited relatives and friends and report a thoroly pleasant trip, tho many faces were missing and radical changes were noted on every hand.

Their trip over the Atlantic was made in six days with ideal weather, but the return trip took 11 days, and the ocean was rough all the way. Enroute home they visited in Chicago, Red Wing and St. Paul. Both return in the best of health but are a little weary. They left here on Jan. 30.

[illegible] THE CITY

JUDGE WATTS ISSUED PERMANENT INJUNCTION AGAINST THIEF RIVER

MUST NOT INTERFER OR REMOVE MILLING COMPANY'S ELEVATOR

From Friday's Daily—

Judge Watts of the district court gave decision yesterday in the case of the Red Lake Falls Milling Co., against the city of Thief River Falls in favor of the milling company. The milling company brought action thru Stanton of Thief River Falls and Martin O'Brien of Crookston, their attorneys, to restrain the city from interfering with or removing an elevator they had moved nearer the depot in that city.

August 7th, 1907 Tom Harris of Crookston started work of removal on the milling company's elevator to remove it from a distance 3-4 of a mile outside of town to within a short distance of the Great Northern depot on their right of way, having secured a license for that privilege from the railway company. The city objected to the moving stating that their ordinances prescribing fire limits and the condition of the building would not fit together legally. They arrested and jailed laborers that Harris had in Thief River Falls. There was much excitement at the time, and jealousy of contractors said to have something to do with the matter.

The order of the Judge will restrain permanently, unless reversed by a higher court, the action of the city to remove the building, Harris having at last succeeded in moving the building as contracted between himself and the milling company.

The city will appeal.

DIRECT To YOU
Best Wine On Earth

SOWLE ADV.

To thoroughly introduce, Direct to the Consumer in any part of the United States, the Absolutely Pure Vintages of the famous Santa Rose Wineries, in California, we have adopted a remarkable and unique method, giving you the opportunity for a limited time to try these famous wines, free of all cost. It is a well known fact among California wine men that most of the so-called "California Wines" sold throughout the east by the retail dealer, were either cheap imitations—"California" in name only—or else a highly adulterated mixture a little real California wine and a great deal of some inexpensive substitute. The wineries shipped the pure product to the wholesaler—in barrels. The wholesaler shipped to the retail dealer in barrels and kegs, and the retail dealer sold to the public in his own bottles. Naturally, after all this handling (and oftentime rank adulteration) the matchless quality and delicious flavor of the wine was seriously affected. It was on this account that we have adopted the plan of shipping direct from our "Winery to the Consumer."

E. A. DUNHAM IN CUSTODY

ARRESTED IN ST. VINCENT AND WILL BE BROUGHT TO CROOKTON TONIGHT

SUPPOSED THAT CROOKSTON FORGER PREFERRED AMERICAN TO CANADIAN COURTS

From Saturday's Daily—

E. A. Dunham, the Great Northern brakeman who left Crookston on January 3rd last after forging checks to which he signed the name of Conductor J. S. Gould, passing them on a number of the business men of Crookston saloon keepers being caught to the amount of several hundred dollars was apprehended last evening about 7 o'clock at St. Vincent by Deputy Sheriff Heath and will be brought to Crookston this evening by Deputy Sheriff Louis Gonyea and Special Deputy Mike McLaughlin who went up this morning after him on the flyer.

Dunham left for Canada between two days and has been dodging about from one place to another ever since. The first of the week he was heard from thru two checks which he had forged and passed in Canada, one for $50.00 which he gave the Edmonton City hospital and to which he signed the name of S. E. Best, and the other one for $125 was made out in favor of S. E. Best and bore the forged signature of C. C. Hoch, a saloon keeper of this city whose place he had frequented when here. The last check had been cashed by J. O. N. Sloan of Edmonton.

Wednesday of this week Chief of Police Eck of this city advertised the forgery committed in Canada in the newspapers, and it is believed that the publicity given these crimes committed on Canadian soil reached the ears of Dunham and he preferred to return to the States and take chances rather than be prosecuted in Canada where he could expect no leniency.

Deputy Sheriff Heath over heard two men talking to Dunham at St. Vincent and having read of his latest forgeries pricked up his ears at the name, and at once phoned for instructions to this city and after getting orders to do so placed Dunham in jail.

There was a woman with Dunham who he claimed was his wife, and the officer hesitated for a time because of the pleadings of the woman, but when he was wired that Dunham's deserted wife was here in Crookston the crook was nabbed at once and thrown in jail.

Dunham has a bad reputation both in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth where he has been at various times, and was ordered to leave St. Paul owing to some shady transactions at that place. The case is clear against him and Conductor Gould will insist on his being sent over the road.

The two had been personal friends and he is greatly enraged at Dunham.

WINKLE HERE—Jack Winkle, well known ditch and contracting foreman for M. W. Barnard, arrived in the city last evening from contracts on the new railway building from Duluth to Port Arthur. He will return shortly to attend to work of the same contractors on the Soo.

He was accompanied from St. Paul by Jake Andrist, well known constable. Mr. Bertrand accompanied Jake without resistance.

"FITZ" A BUSY MAN—G. I. Fitzgerald, he of "Chancellor" fame has been in the city for the past few days and will remain here for some time. He has a surprise in store for the people of Crookston next week, and if you don't believe it direct your peepers towards Backen's confectionery store next Monday evening and see a flash light display that will make you look twice.

HE WAS A "SPOHT"—When the the Great Northern flyer arrived from Winipeg last evening a young Englishman took occasion to alight for refreshments. He was ticketed thru to New York but did not seem to care when he went. He had a fat roll of bills in every pocket and was not satisfied until he had met as many gentlemen who reside in Crookston as possible. In fact he took a real liking to the city. He was warned several times that his train would pull out and leave him but he assured all that he could take another train, and that is just what he did do, as some of the boys led him back to the depot and hoisted him aboard No. 6. He may have considerable trouble in St. Paul locating his baggage.

Attorney C. R. Middleton formerly of this city, now at Baudette in the northern part of the State, has a contest pending before the United States Land Office. An error was made in getting service of the notice. It appears that he trusted to a printer the task of mailing and registering a copy of the notice. The printer failed to do it in time and he wrote the land office to help him out. The excuse given appears as follows:

"The man with whom I arranged to mail and register the letter appeared to be a methodical fellow who did business with the card index system, and assured me that it could not be overlooked. I saw him fill out the card and place it in the proper place in the system, and I left with him three envelopes, properly addressed, and these he placed in the card index, so I went away assured that the matter could not be overlooked. Upon further investigation I learned that about the time the index should have prompted him, he had acquired a condition of coma, or languor, sluggishness, torpidity, lethargy, hypnotism, super-induced by a combination of narcotics and intoxicating stimulants, voluntarily taken into his corporeal system, to the extent that procrastination and "more booze" supplanted the card index system for the period of twenty-one consecutive days, demonstrating beyond a doubt that the two systems do not work well together, and that the card-memo-system cannot be relied upon under all conditions, and in this case was a complete failure."

In closing his letter he states "Sorry to bother you so much, but a fellow in the woods, remote from any of the seats of learning, is sometimes compelled to seek advice, even to the extent of becoming a nuisance."

The answer sufficiently advised Brother Middleton, and the error has been overlooked, since the deplorable condiiton referred to affected only the printer and not the attorney.

FELL VICTIM OF BUM LOCATER

OLE S. MOEN FORMERLY OF ERSKINE HAS TROUBLE IN ROSEAU

Ole Siverson Moen, formerly of Erskine, Polk county, is having troubles of his own on account of a bum steer given him by a locator in Roseau county. He is a practical farmer and departed for the north county last fall to secure some of the federal homesteads there. He fell in with a settler who said he would locate him for a consideration and he was shown one of the finest high and dry sites in the country. With dreams of a great farm in his mind he filed only to find when the figures came out that he had viewed a piece of land that belonged to another party, miles distant from his pick which was out in the muskeg. He is trying to get the land office here to cancel the entry.

BALLOT BOXES ARE LOOTED.

Strong Democratic Townships Turn Out 715 Republican Votes.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 16. — The fight for the Republican nomination for congress between ex-Congressman H. W. Palmer and Col. Asher Miner in the Eleventh congressional district took an unexpected turn yesterday when three Democratic districts in Pittstown township, which usually poll a small Republican vote, gave Miner 700 votes and Palmer 15 votes.

The sheriff of Luzerne county was sent after the ballot boxes and found two of them in an office of a justice of the peace, broken open and the ballots strewn over the floor. The justice said that his office was entered during the night and the boxes broken open.

Sensational developments are expected and wholesale arrests, it is said, are to be made.

U.S. SOLDIER WANTS LAND

HUGH DELARGY HERE SEARCHING FOR CREDIT SERVICE GIVES HIM

WANTS HOMESTEAD — WILL BE ALLOWED FOUR YEARS ON PROOF

From Saturday's Daily—

Hugh Delargy, born 42 years ago in Antrom county, Ireland and who has spent years in the service of the United States Army in all parts of the world, is at the Crookston land office today trying to secure a homestead as provided under acts of congress for soldiers.

Those acts of congress provide that if he files on federal public land, he Delargy enlisted in the hospital corps of the United States Army in 1888 and served until 1891. He has a broken shrivelled piece of sheepskin to show for his honorable discharge which he presented to the land office clerk this morning.

He re-enlisted June 21, 1897 and served in the war in Cuba. He re-enlisted again in 1900 and served in the war in the Philippines until 1903. He has circumnavigated the globe under the Stars and Stripes and harbored in all climes.

He is looking for a quarter section of homestead land and states he is now going to settle down. The acts of congress will not permit him to settle on Red Lake lands which comprise the most of the allotment under this land office because the Indians must be paid their $1.25 per acre and the homesteader must pay for it.

SEEDING IS IN FULL SWING

J. H. GRIFFIN O FG. N. SAYS CONDITIONS WERE NEVER MORE FAVORABLE

SAYS FARMERS ARE BUSY IN EVERY SECTION OF THE NORTHWEST

J. H. Griffin the industrial agent for the Great Northern passed thru the city this morning enroute to points on the Greenbush line. To the Journal he said:

'Seeding conditions were never more favorable. The farmers are all at work full blast and the soil was never in better shape than at the present time. Every good day's weather now means thousands of acres seeded, and under the most favorable conditions. From present indications we are going to enjoy an era of prosperity in the northwest such as has not been experienced in many years. We are in good shape now and with a big wheat crop in sight this will be the favored portion of the entire country."

Farmers at Work

Seeding has been started by many farmers, the fine weather of the past week having put the land in good working shape at least on the higher ground. Some began work last week but it was not until Monday and Tuesday that work began in earnest. At present the outlook for a good year is favorable, the spring being early and there being not too much moisture.—Hallock News.

Seeding in Red Lake

Attorney Farley of Red Lake Falls who arrived in the city last evening states that seeding is well advanced in the country north and wheat is half in. They have been seeding there for ten days.

All Busy Seeding

Julius Skaug was an arrival in the city this morning from Beltrami and will spend several days here on business and pleasure combined. He reports everyone in that section busy seeding and predicts a good year.

400 Acres of Wheat

Dave McCleary on the Jim Hill farm near Northcote has completed seeding on 40 acres of land on that farm.

Otter Tail County

Seeding has now been in progress for over a week in this locality and a great many farmers have all their wheat and a part of their other grains in the ground. The work is being completed from one to two weeks earlier than usual, and other things being equal, this means an unusually early harvest. The ground was never in better condition to receive the seed, and the outlook at this season was never more encouraging. The government weather bureau reports indications of showers tonight, and showers would be decidedly welcome just now, as they would lay the dust and start vegetation of all kinds.—Fergus Falls Journal.

Near Warren

Seeding was begun in this vicinity the latter part of last week and many farmers are in full swing with the work. The season is opening up well and conditions are more favorable than they have been for several years at the middle of April. If the prevailing weather conditions continue unchanged till the end of the month, the first of May will see practically all the wheat seeding done. The early opening of the season will have a material effect upon the comparative areas sown to different kinds of grain but the most noteworthy change this year will be the greatly increased areas sown to grasses especially clover. The farmers are counting on an exceptionally large and profitable wheat crop this year, but experience has taught them the value of diversifying and they are not taking any backward steps along that line because of the rosiness of the present wheat prospects.—Warren Register.

Commissioner Clements is at present representing this district.

TWO SEINERS WERE FINED

USED NETS AT LOWER END OF MAPLE LAKE AND WERE CAUGHT IN ACT

ENTERED PLEAS OF GUILTY AND WERE FINED $25 BY JUDGE McLEAN TODAY

From Monday's Daily—

After "laying" for them three nights Deputy Game Warden Wm. F. Munch of this city on Saturday evening shortly before 12 o'clock arrested W. G. Klinger and Christ Nelson brothers-in law, formerly residents of this city but now residing on Klinger's farm near Maple Lake for seining in the south end of Maple Lake. He caught them red handed as they were looking over their nets after 11 o'clock at night to land their spoils.

From across the lake, Warden Munch watched two men lay their nets Saturday afternoon. As soon as darkness fell he crossed the lake in a canoe and hid his boat in thewoods. Then he lay near the shore till the two men appeareed with a lantern and rowed to their nets. He slid his canoe into the water and followed them. He was within 20 yards of them before they became aware of his presence and started for the shore but a short distance away.

It is to the vigilance of Warden Munch and other game wardens in this section that make the game laws so effective.

The seiners were arraigned before Judge McLean here this morning. They plead guilty and were fined $12.50 each.

CHICAGO SUPPORTS BASEBALL TEAM

THOMAS JOHNSTONE SAYS A FEW ABOUT REAL LIVE MEN

Thomas Johnstone on his return from Chicago has a few sentiments to voice after visiting the opening game of the season at the American League park on the south side when the White Sox trimmed the Detroit Tigers. With the widespread sentiment in support of the two league teams in Chicago as well as its hundreds of minor teams Chicago must win her ball games and does. Tom says it does live men good to go away once and see what support will do for a ball team.

The loss is $2,000 with no insurance. A tenant had moved out of the buildings only a few days ago. There was no fire breaks. The buildings burned included a barn, residence and granary. LOSES $3,000 IN SECURITIES

S. SWENNUMSON OF PARK RIVER ALSO LOST $300 IN WATCHES

LEAVES GRIP IN GRAND FORKS GREAT NORTHERN DEPOT RETURNS TO FIND GONE

From Wednesday's Daily—

S. Swennumson of Park River lost about $3000 worth of securities and $300 worth of watches and jewelry yesterday in Grand Forks while on his way to Jamestown to attend the funeral of his wife, who died in the state hospital there. When he returned his overcoat was there but the grip was gone In it were securities and watches.

Two men were in the depot at the time Swennumson left the grip there. They left for Winnipeg on the morning train and an effort is being made to locate them.

Old Man is Hopeful

Swennumson secured money from a friend in Grand Forks and left on the evening train for Jamestown. He is hopeful that he will recover the notes and other securities. They are of great value to him, altho worthless to whoever stole them. He does not care so much about the jewelry. Fortunately he placed securities valued at $2,000 in a local bank a few days ago.

POTATOES FOR A PROFIT CROP

SOME OF THE REASONS WHY PRICES HAVE BEEN LOW

The potato market in this city has been unsatisfactory for a number of years. The price paid has been considerably below that paid in the potato districts of the state.

This is chiefly due to the quality of the potatoes offered for sale. There is a lack of uniformity in color, shape size and eating qualities. A carload lot of such mixed potatoes brings the lowest price on the market. The highest price paid for potatoes is paid for well known varieties for seed purposes.

The remedy for the present market conditions then must lie in the selection of some well known variety of potatoes adapted to this locality, which brings a good price on the market; and an agreement among the farmers to raise that one variety in quantity sucient to ship in carload lots.—McIntosh Times.

PECULIAR CASE IN OTTER TAIL COUNTY

An interesting hearing occurred in the probate court here Tuesday on a claim presented by Jane C. Mallon against the estate of Jacob Lambrick of Perham. Mr. Lambrick made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Mallon for four or five years before his death, and it was generally understood that he would them his property. Instead of this he bequeathed it to his nephew Arthur Lambrick who resides in Wisconsin. Mrs. Mallon thereupon put in a claim against the estate for $750 for board and care of the deceased and the nephew contested this claim. Judge Frankberg after considering the evidence allowed Mrs. Mallon $637 deducting $83 for time during which Mr. Lambrick was elsewhere. The nephew who wants the whole estate thinks some of appealing from the allowance of the bill. The estate is said to amount to about $1,300 or $1,400—Fergus Falls Journal.

FIRST TRIP TO OLD COUNTRY IN 30 YEARS

H. Harrison returned from Norway Sunday evening where he has spent the winter. It was thirty years since Mr. Harrison had visited his old home in Norway. He found that great changes had taken place during that time and many of his friends and relatives had passed away and he was almost a total stranger. People in the part of the country that Mr. Harrison visited are contented, happy and prosperous, but there as in other foreign countries, opportunities are limited. Dairying and lumbering are the principal industries. They had a great deal of snow this winter but the weather was not cold. Mr. Harrison enjoyed his trip immensely. Rough weather was encountered on the return voyage and it took fourteen days to cross the Atlantic. By rail he came over the Canadian Pacific which gave him an opportunity to see a part of the Great Canadian Northwest.—Hallock News.

GETS $6 615 FOR HUSBANDS DEATH

MRS. KEELEY WINS OUT IN HER ACTION IN COURT AGAINST TWO ROADS

HER DECEASED HUSBAND GREW TO MANHOOD AT EUCLID

From Monday's Daily—

Mrs. Anna Keeley of Duluth was given a verdict of $6,615 in her suit against the Great Northern and Terminal roads by a jury in the circuit court at Eau Claire Saturday. The case was taken up before Judge O'Neil on last Monday. The suit had its origin with the death of the plaintiff's husband, Michael Keeley, railroad switchman, who was killed in the Terminal company's yards last May and his remains were brought to Crookston for interment.

At the time of his death Keeley was in the employ of the Great Northern road. He was standing between two cars of his train when a Terminal switch engine with a string of cars ran into the Great Northern train crushing him to death. Mrs. Keeley subsequently retained Attorney W. P. Crawford of Superior and suit for $10-000 damages was instituted jointly against the Great Northern and Terminal. The suit was brought in the superior court some months ago.

The defense had the action transferred to the circuit court, and after several delays the trial was begun last Monday. Plaintiff alleged that her husband's death was caused by the negligence of a flagman in not protecting the train. The flagman who was a witness for the plaintiff, admitted that he did not put out a flag to warn approaching trains. At the conclusion of the plaintiff's side of the case Attorney J. A. Murphy of Duluth acting for the defendant, moved for dismissal on the grounds that the evidence did not show that there had been any negligence on the part of the company contributing to the accident. The motion was overruled and then the attorney moved that the court direct the plaintiff to elect which theory she would take to prove the negligence alleged.

The attorney contended that the testimony went to show that one company was negligent while the evidence of another witness for the plaintiff showed that the other company was negligent.

Attorney Crawford said that Michael Keeley was killed by being squeezed between two cars, but that he had to rely on the witnesses to prove whether the Terminal company or the Great Northern or both were responsible for the accident. The court overruled Attorney Murphy's motion.

DRAINAGE BILL IS PASSED

U. S. SENATE PASSES BILL AFTER STRIKING OUT TWO SECTIONS

BERNARD COMING WEST TO CONFER WITH THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES

From Wednesday's Daily—

As finally passed by the senate yesterday the general drainage bill confers direct advantages on states like Minnesota, where there are public lands yet to be disposed of, the proceeds of which will go into a general drainage fund.

The southern senators had their way about striking out sections 5 and 6, which provided for loans to forward drainage projects to be secured by local bonds.

Captain A. G. Bernard of the National Drainage association, who has for two years been looking after this legislation, said at Washington today that he expected soon to leave for the West for the purpose of taking up the drainage question with local authorities.

"We expected that the first projects would be started in the South," said Captain Bernard "but it seems that the southern senators did not desire to acept the provisions of the bill, which their own delegates insisted on the last national drainage congress."

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Blinded by Snow Storm, Man Stepped in Front of Switch Engine.

St. Paul, April 29.—Thomas Nixon, a hostler employed at the Northern Pacific roundhouse, was struck by a switch engine in the Mississippi street yards and instantly killed. Nixon was on his way to work in the roundhouse, where his duty is to take care of engines. The snow storm, which was at its height then, and the gusty wind, blowing it ten different directions in as many seconds, blinded Nixon so he did not see the approaching switch engine. The engineer of the switch engine for the same reason could not see Nixon, and when he stepped on the tracks in front of the engine he was run down. His body was horribly mangled and death was instantaneous.

STATE GAME A FISH COMMISSION THANK PER FOR THE WOR DONE

CO-OPERATION S THANKFULLY ACKNOWLEDGED BY EXECUTIVE AGENT

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

The present state game and fish commission is doing some most effective work. This is generally known In their efforts the commission is being seconded by the leading papers of the state in every way possible. That the commission appreciates what the press is doing is shown in the following letter received by the Journal which needs no further explanation:

Board of Game and Fish Commissioners, St. Paul, Minn., April 25th 1908—Editor Crookston Daily Journal, Crookston, Minn. Gentlemen: Thru the courtesy of our game warden Wm. F. Munch of your city, we have been supplied from time to time with clippings from your excellent publication relating to Mr. Munch's work in that section and his efforts and those of the Commission to build up a healthy sentiment favorable to game protection and the enforcement of game laws. The friendly attitude maintained by your paper toward Mr. Munch and his work has been of great assistance to him and is greatly appreciated by myself and the entire Commission.

We realize thoroly that a healthy public sentiment is all that is needed to make violations of the game law so unpopular that comparatively few will have the hardihood to go in the face of it, and there is nothing that can promote the sentiment so much as articles and news items such as you have made use of in your paper.

The Commission desires to deal as generously as possible with your locality and all others that show a like interest in assisting in the propagation and distribution of food and game fishes and game birds.

Yours very truly,

—Carlos Avery,

STEPHEN BANK ROBBED OF $8,000 THIS A. M.

ONE ROBBER WOUNDED BY WM. MERDINK IN A REVOLVER FUSILADE AS THIEVES LEFT BANK THE SEXTETTE OF THIEVES MADE THEIR ESCAPE. THREE STOLE HORSE AND BUGGY. OFFICERS IN PURSUIT-

From Wednesday's Daily—

This morning Stephen was terrified by a gang of six desperate robbers who at 2:30 dynamited the vault and then the safe of the Scandia State Bank and carried off $8000 in cash, after a revolver duel with Wm. Merdink, merchant, who resides upstairs in block adjoining bank. He was aroused by first explosion and grabbing his revolver crawled to cement roof, and lying behind a parapet opened fire on the robbers as they left the bank with loot. The robbers returned his fire and a few minutes there was a perfect fusillade which aroused the entire town, but none of those near at hand had guns to assist Merdink.

Merdink escaped injury but at least one of the robbers was badly wounded and blood was spattered on the sidewalks from the bank to the stables of Al Dickerman, Mgr. of lumber yard, where the wounded robber and two others stole a buggy and horse and drove out of town, heading north.

The other three robbers headed for Strandquist, east on the Soo. In a few minutes the people organized posses and gave chase in all directions and all surrounding towns were notified by phone and wire and it is expected to land part of the gang before night.

Only description is that two were tall and other four medium Residents in neighborhood were panic stricken during shooting and several women were hysterical.

No suspects were seen about Stephen last night. H. L. Melgaard was president, O. L. Melgaard, V. P., and Thomas Olson, Cashier of the looted bank. Capital stock $10,000, deposits $83,000.

The work was undoubtedly that of professionals, and the gang is supposed to be same that operated extensively thru this section last fall. The front door of the bank was forced with crowbars, and valuable papers scattered all over the floor, but none were stolen. More cash was carried than usual owing to heavy land deals just consumated. Both vault and safe were completely wrecked.

Robbers very cool and walked away after Merdink ran out of ammunition.

It is believed that the entire gang is headed for Canadian boundary.

A NEW RULING ON THE LUMBER RATES

From Wednesday's Daily—

The ruling of the interstate commerce commission on the lumber rate case, arising out of an effort of the transcontinental lines to raise the rate on fir from 40 cents to 50 cents a hundred from Seattle to St. Paul, and a proportionate rate to other points, is daily expected by traffic men and lumber dealers. The case was argued before the interstate commerce commission last month and it is expected that the decision of the commission will be forthcoming within a few days.

Lumber interests on the coast have been fighting the proposed increase in rates from the start and succeeded last fall in securing an injunction from Federal Judge C. S. Hanford restraining the rates from being put in effect. As a protection to the railroads, however, lumbermen were compelled to furnish bonds to cover the difference between the present and proposed rates.

Last week $200,000 additional bonds were furnished by the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association and the Shingle Mills Bureau as surety to cover future shipments which may be made before the interstate commerce commission announces its ruling. The additional security was furnished on an order of the court which at the same time con junction indefinitely. The original bond of $250,000, put up by the lumbermen last fall had become exhausted by the shipments from the coast to the east. Altogether the lumber organization has furnished bonds to cover the difference between the old rate and the new to the amount of $450,000.

The first surety presented was a blanket bond, put up by the allied lumber interests. The recent surety offered, however, was made on the group plan. By this scheme the lumbering interests in certain districts furnished certified checks sufficient to cover the excess of probable shipments for some time and the aggregate security of these districts was furnished the court.

Many of the smaller lumbering firms dropped out of the association on account of the recent additional security necessitated by the court's order. This action may have come from the lesser concerns being unable to furnish the required amount on account of business sluggishness.

Head of Lakes Is Scene of Renewed Agitation.

Superior, Wis., April 29. — The "State of Superior" has been talked about for years, and there is a prospect now for new agitation. It is hardly expected that anything will result from the movement as yet, but the fact that in Duluth there has been some little talk of the proposition and that there is a feeling here that Superior has a hard time getting what it wants from the State of Wisconsin, may result in some movement being started.

The plan always has been to form a new state of the northern parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan, with the capital at the Head of the Lakes.

Santa Barbara's Welcome to the Battleships Is Gorgeous Floral Display.

Santa Barbara, Cal., April 29. — A day of vivid colors flashing in the brilliant rays of an undimmed sun, a day redolent of the perfumes of spring blossoms and of petal-strewn pathways, a day of gayly arrayed holiday throngs, a day of flower-decked coaches and floats passing in review, a day of white uniformed marching sailors, with gun barrels hidden in roses, a day of flying bouquets hurled in floral warfare at the passing pageant, a day of soft southern breezes, of blue skies and flowers everywhere the eye could reach—such are the memories of Santa Barbara's floral festival of yesterday in honor of the Atlantic battleship fleet. Last night the ocean front was gay with lights, with dancing sailors gathered in an outdoor ball room, with the radiance of the fleet illuminated with lively music. A brilliant indoor ball for the officers was also a feature of the gala event.

The afternoon and evening of gayety ashore were preceded by a morning of hard work on most of the sixteen battleships at anchor in the ocean roadsted. Preparations are being made for Admiral Thomas, who is soon to transfer his flag from the Connecticut back to the Minnesota in anticipation of the return of Admiral Evans to the command of the fleet for its entry through the Golden Gate of San Francisco.

It was officially announced during the day that Admiral Evans will wait until the afternoon of May 5, when, just before the ships leave Santa Cruz, he will board his old flagship, the Connecticut.

WOMAN HACKED TO DEATH WITH AN AX

Mutilated Body of Woman Found in Trunk—Neighbor and Wife Arrested on Suspicion.

New York, April 29.—The body of Mrs. Sarah Brennan, wife of Patrick Brennan, a paper manufacturer, frightfully hacked with an ax and her skull crushed in, was found tightly packed in a large trunk at her home at Brownville yesterday.

Near the trunk a bloody ax was found. Pending further inquiry into the case the police have taken into custody James Farmer and his wife, who are neighbors of the Brennans. The Brennan home, which was in the wife's name, was, according to the county records, transferred on Oct. 1 last to Farmer for the consideration of $2,100. Brennan claimed that he was not a party to the transfer and further said that his wife had denied to him that she had executed such a deed. On Thursday last Mrs. Brennan disappeared, and the same day the Farmers sought possession of the Brennan home. When Brennan objected he was directed to the county clerk's office. On Saturday he examined the records and found that a deed had been executed as Farmer stated.

Meantime Mr. Brennan had instituted an unsuccessful search for his wife. Every bit of the country about the village was gone over and hope of finding Mrs. Brennan had been almost abandoned when a further search at her home was suggested. This resulted in the breaking open of the trunk in which the body was found.

BABY BOY HAD ITCHING HUMOR

Which Broke Out in Different Places —Nothing Would Help Him—Mother Almost in Despair—Skin Quickly Healed Without a Scar and Trouble Has Never Returned

SINCE USING CUTICURA MOTHER GIVES IT PRAISE

"Several months ago, my little boy, now two and a half years old, began to break out with itching sores. I began to doctor him, and as soon as I got them healed up in one place they would break out in another. I was almost in despair. I could not get anything that would help him. One evening I read a testimonial from a lady who had cured her little boy with Cuticura. I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and after using them three times, the sores commenced to heal. He is now well, and not a scar is left on his body. They have never returned nor left him with bad blood, as one would think. Cuticura Remedies are the best I have ever tried, and they are surely great. I shall always have them in the house, handy, and shall highly recommend them to any one who is suffering likewise. I cannot give them too much praise. BRIDAL COUPLE WAS ANGERED

CARL PETERSON OBJECTED TO A CHARIVARI AT THE VENDOME HOTEL

BOARDERS PERSISTED AND BRIDE AND GROOM MARCHED TO SCANDIA

From Thursday's Daily—

There were doings at the Vendome Hotel last night. The music was started as a charivari, but later on sounded more like a funeral dirge.

On Tuesday evening Carl Peterson, manager of the dry goods department at the New Store was united in marriage to Miss Laura Gangstad of Fosston. Last evening they took up their abode in the Vendome Hotel.

About midnight the guests at the Vendome decided to charivari the bridal couple and formally welcome them as members of the Vendome family. Drums, cornets, 'cellos, bass horns, violins and a few other instruments were brought into requisition and for 45 minutes all sorts of high class arias were played lead by Frank Kops with Geo. Manning drum major and spokesman.

Mr. Peterson waxed mad. In fact he was very, very wroth. He told his tormentors to go to various and divers places. The program consisted o fabout 15 pieces at intervals of 5 minutes.

Mr. Peterson was advised that if he would show his face he would not be asked to make any further contributions. He replied that the whole caboodle could go jump in the lake. Mr. Manning then asked him to simply stick his nose out of the door that his friends might know all was well at which Mr. Peterson addressed him with a biblical name.

Finally at 12:45 this morning, Mr. Peterson and bride donned their bridal togs and left their room. The charivari party opened ranks and let them pass down stairs and then started up a funeral dirge while the bride and groom sought refuge in the Scandia Hotel where their slumbers were not disturbed.

It was funny—awful funny—for the merry makers.

"Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad" solemnly quoted ringmaster Manning. "Amen and Amen" said Mr. Kops, followed by the others, and in 5 minutes quiet reigned in the Vendome.

At Kittleson lake he secured several nets but again the owners of the same disappeared as by magic. The game warden says he will come again and then look out for there's blood in his eye. —Fertile Journal.

It is a well known fact among California wine men that most of the so-called "California Wines" sold throughout the east by the retail dealer, were either cheap imitations—"California" in name only—or else a highly adulterated mixture a little real California wine and a great deal of some inexpensive substitute. The wineries shipped the pure product to the wholesaler—in barrels. The wholesaler shipped to the retail dealer in barrels and kegs, and the retail dealer sold to the public in his own bottles. Naturally, after all this handling (and oftentime rank adulteration) the matchless quality and delicious flavor of the wine was seriously affected. It was on this account that we have adopted the plan of shipping direct from our "Winery to the Consumer."

PENNED AND PILFERED

A well-known writer of humorous advertisements told a number of Duluth jewelers at a recent jewelers, at a recent jewelers' banquet, a good way to get off for a vacation without being missed from business.

"During the last Easter holidays" he said, "I met a jeweler at a seaside hotel.

"Why, I thought you were such a busy man! I said. How do you manage your affairfs here at the shore?"

"Oh, said he, I am just keeping my advertisement out of the papers until my return and so, you see, there are no affairs to manage."

At the cemetery the minister was moved by the grief of the husband whose wife was to be buried and sought to commiserate him in the following manner. "My brother, I know this is a great grief that has overtaken you, and altho you are compelled to mourn the loss of this one, who has been your companion and partner in life, I would console you with the assurance that there is another who sympathizes with you and seeks to share your grief, who will take you and embrace you in the arms of unfailing love." To this the bereaved man replied by asking as he gazed thru tears into the minister's face: "What's her name?"

Some wag has issued a postal card with this bit of advice on it: "If whisky interferes with your business, give up your business. No use trying to do two things at once." Unhappily too many men take this advice without waiting for any postal card to suggest it to them.

FOREST FIRE SWEEPING WHOLE EAST COUNTRY

A WOMAN NARROWLY ESCAPED BEING BURNED NEAR MALLARD---SAWMILL DESTROYED NEAR SOLWAY---BIG FIRE AT PUPOSKY WAS CHECKED BY HARD WORK. COUNTRY EAST OF FOSSTON AND NORTH AND SOUTH OF BAGLEY IS AFFECTED.

From Thursday's Daily—

Forest fires appear to have got almost beyond control in the north country east of Fosston and north and south of Bagley and Bemidji and much damage has been done, and in many instances residents on farms in the timber districts have been forced to fight desperately to save their property and in several instances some have narrowly escaped wit their lives.

For many miles north of Bemidji the air is filled with dense smoke which has grown blacker but word received in the city during the past few hours is to the effect that there is no danger of fire spreading cityward. Considerable timber country has been burned over, and much damage has been done to standing timber and other property

Telegrams and phone messages from other places indicate a general dryness and combustable matter will easily ignite with disastrous results.

Rain is much needed and unless relief comes from that direction much great damage will result from fires.—Bemidji Pioneer.

In the vicinity of Bagley a large amount of cordwood has been burned The Moen farm buildings north of Bagley were saved by the town people turning out and covering the building with wet blankets.

South of Mallard yesterday the buildings on the Charles McCarthy farm were burned and Mrs. McCarthy, who was asleep upstairs in the house barely escaped with her life.

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA

Itching, Burning Skin Disease Routed Without Use of Injurious Drugs

Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world in the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the eminent skin specialist of Chicago.

Dr. Dennis in his own office practice, discovered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple remedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch, sald rheum, and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure

This compounded D. D. D. Prescription positively takes away the itch at once—the instant it is applied to the skin. This vegetable liquid does away with deleterious drugs so long used in an attempt to doctor the blood whereas modern science has determined that eczema is first and all the time a skin disease.

If you want to know more about the merits of D. D. D. Prescription, call at our store. We vouch for this remedy.—S. A. Wallace.

HEAVY LOSS SUSTAINED

PECULIAR ACCIDENT FLOODS AND STEAMS THE NEW YORK STORE

RADIATOR REMOVED AND PIPE NOT PLUGGED—$5000 LOSS

From Friday's Daily—

This morning a steam pipe from which a radiator had been removed last evening on the first floor of the New York Store, the workmen neglecting to plug the pipe, resulted in flooding the floor with water, and filling the store with steam so dense that that much damage was done, estimated at from $5000 to $6000.

The workmen who removed the radiator did not suppose there would be any further need of steam this spring, and very carelessly left the pipe open. Last night the rain made it rather chilly, and this morning at 5 o'clock the janitor in the Fournet block put on a fire and of course the water and steam gushed up into the New York store thru the two inch pipe.

When employes opened the store this morning the floor was found swimming, and the water was running thru the hole in the floor thru which the steam pipe came in streams to the basement where the goods on the tables under the hole were badly water soaked.

The goods on the tables on the first floor and the goods in the show cases were also badly damaged by the dense steam which filled the building for two or three hours, and the goods hanging on racks and used as decorations were also limp with moisture.

It is not thought that the goods on the shelves are damaged as they were covered by the dust protectors excepting the silks which were uncovered. However it will take time to determine whether they have been materially damaged or not. Most of the rugs and lace curtains in the balcony were also badly damaged.

The accident is one of the most peculiar in the history of the city and it is possible that the damage may prove to be more than is estimated at the present time.

It took a large force of men several hours this morning to sweep the water from the floor and get in shape to do business. It is a case where the floor got a scrubbing that was not on the program and some of the goods will need no further "steam shrinking." There was considerable damage to the fixtures also.

The loss is not covered by insurance, as fire-insurance does not apply to damage by water unless the water is used to extinguish a fire.

MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP

BODY OF JOHN SWENSON HAS BEEN FOUND NEAR LONG LAKE

FOREST FIRES BURNED UNDERBRUSH DISCLOSING THE REMAINS

From Thursday's Daily—

The remains of a man, badly decomposed, were found on the Asleson farm near Bagley yesterday. From the description sent of the body and place where found, it is thought that they are the remains of John Swenson, who mysteriously disappeared a year ago last winter, and for whom a continuous search has been made ever since by his relatives and neighbors.

The forest fire cleared up the under brush and tall grass where the body was found.

Coroner Wagner verifies the belief that the dead body found at that place wasc that of John Swenson the missing homesteader.

In one of Swenson's pockets was found a Norwegian coin which Swenson always carried, and also $11 in money. Part of his hand was amputated, which made his identification complete.

The fact that there was still money in the dead man's pocket is proof that he wandered away from his homestead and died from eposure.

Swenson has proved up on his claim and was living on the place in his shanty. He mysteriously disappeared, and hope had been given up of ever again seeing his body.

Knowledge in Farming

The advantages of a knowledge of the right principles and their proper application in the business of farming have been so plainly demonstrated that no young man has the slightest sort of excuse for going into farming because he can do nothing else, without knowledge and preparation for the work, expecting to make a success of it, says the Sleepy Eye Dispatch.

Farm and Fireside, a well known agricultural paper, recently discussed the subject in an interesting way, remarking that "it's as plain as a red barn on a side hill that the business of farming has reached a sharp turn in the road, that the ranks of the soil tillers are rapidly being separated into two camps: The Do-It-As-Dad-Did-Its and the New Knowledge Group. are in the minority; the old-line farmers can outvote them on any proposition and not know that there has been a contest.

"But just the same, the agricultural colleges are turning out every year an increasing number of young men who can tell the veteran farmer a whole lot about his own game. Best of all, the New Knowledge youth can give a reason for the faith that is in him; he can tell the why of what happens in the corn field, the wheat field the pasture, the meadow, the barnyard and the dairy house. And the best part of it is that he is farming with an open mind instead of closed eyes and the tools that Dad used. No young man can today take even the "short course" in an agricultural college and not come out with the knowledge that the best and biggest thing taught him there is that the world is still moving on and that he must keep on reading and studying and listening and thinking or else he will fall so far behind the procession of progress that he can't hear the band play or the bystanders cheer.

"Only the other day President Roosevelt said: 'I want to see our education directed more and more toward training boys and girls back to the farm and the shop, so that they will be first-rate farmers, first-rate mechanics, fit to work with the head and to work with the hands, and realizing that work with the hands is just as honorable as work with the head.'

"Even the Wall Street crowd can afford to cheer this sentiment; it's the right stuff!

"This declaration by the President may be a whole lot more significant than surface indications would show. There is a bill somewhere in Congress appropriating about eight million dollars of United States money for the introduction of agricultural training into the country schools and industrial training in our city schools. Of course this is only a starter, but every live farmer will boost that bill with all the "infloonce" he can exert. It means more to the future of better farming than he can possibly realize at the present moment."

Bitter Prospect in Finland

Free Finland lying close to the very heart of reactionary Russia, is an anomaly which the czar evidently means to overturn. Stormy, even bloody times, are pending for the Finnish people, if they firmly insist on retaining their ancient liberties so recently restored to them. The first step in the reactionary program was the appointment of a man of blood and iron to take the place of the moderate governor general. The new ruler appointed a senate or executive council which has already proved weakly docile. Its course has been such as clearly to indicate that Finnish liberties are not safe in its keeping. The diet, which is controlled by socialists thru combinations with smaller fractions, recently passed a vote of lack of confidence in the senate. In parliamentary governments this would call for the resignation of the ministers. But at this juncture, the czar intervenes and dissolves the diet for daring to call into question the acts of the senate.

The parallel between the czar's policy toward Finland, and that toward the Russian duma is already striking. Fresh elections have been ordered under the liberal suffrage laws, and the new diet is likely to be quite as contumacious as that just dissolved. It is already prophesied that the new diet will be dissolved the moment it opposes the Russian program and that later elections will be held under new laws restricting the suffrage, so that in the end a submissive parliament will be obtained. Then the work of Russification will go steadily on—unless the Finlanders show new power of resistance and new resourcefulness in circumventing the czar's purpose.

It is a bitter prospect for one of the most enlightened and progressive peoples of central Europe.—Minneapolis Journal.

Break Neck of Butter Trust

From information received it appears that the Standard Oil company succeeded in breaking the neck of the butter famine in England by seeking to change the conditions of the trade and substituting chemically made butter for the dairy product. The company was able to do this owing to the fact that the retail butter sellers were unable to sell dairy made butter at a profit at famine prices Taking advantage of this situation butter made from oil products, selling at 24 cents a pound retail was placed in the hands of grocers in large quantities for next to nothing, on condition that they induce their customers to purchase it instead of dairy butter, one extra half pound to be given free to each purchaser in order to create a market. The sellers of chemically made butter imagine that this product has profited by the famine and secured a permanent place in the produce market. The reason given for this change in the English taste for butter is that now people have been induced to try chemical butter the prejudice against it has been overcome among a class, who before the famine would not give it a trial.

GENERAL EDUCATION

By Albert Lagerstedt Principal of Schools at Erskine, Minnesota.

It can well be said that in its broadest sense life is a school in which all can consider themselves as learners. We never graduate from this school. Even the wisest confess that they are mere beginners and that beyond them lies the boundless fields of achievements and research. However in the sense we usually speak of education it is applicable to the formal discipline and instruction secured by the youth in educational institutions.

Complete education involves the symmetrical development of all of man's powers. It is in other words a preparative for complete living. The more truly we are educated all things being equal the better, happier and more useful lives we should live provided it is on a sufficiently broad basis Today as never before, there is a growing demand for keen intellectual men. The times require it. The intellectual requirements today are higher than ever before. I believe that along with the keen intellectualism so characteristic some provisions are made for at least a partial training of the physical, moral and aesthetic nature of man. It may not always be as much or as definite as may be desired but its importance should be duly considered physical work is necessary for the preservation of health and strength. We must also realize that we have moral obligations and that we are to cherish a heartfelt interest in the welfare of others as well as our own. Then also we should possess a due appreciation of what is true and noble wherever we find it. These things need to be considered if our education is to be everything that it should be.

Society has become a very complex thing and its needs have become widely differentiated. It needs men and women who possess not only broad culture but also skill in their chosen work. Therefore I believe that education should be both general and specific.

Education needs to be general in order that we may appreciate in some measure at least what others are doing and thinking. It needs to be specific in order that we may do that work in the best way possible for which we are best fitted. Much of the education in schools in general rather than specific. There is a growing sentiment in favor of making studies as concrete and practicable as possible owing to the needs of the times and to at least partially eliminate those subjects from the school curriculum for which there seems to be no special need. The social science which includes history, sociology, political economy and political science have a direct bearing on present day social conditions and problems. They are necessary for a completely rounding out of ones education There is a growing tendency to specialize along these lines and this I consider a step towards progress.

There is a need to study the social and economic conditions of society and to work for the ameliorization of adverse social conditions wherever found much useful work can be done along this line.

I believe that the middle west is destined to become the center of our country's educational activities. Here will be located the largest universities Remarkable progress has been made the past decade. I deem that our children are entitled to better educational facilities today than ever before and that they deserve the best that state institutions are able to provide. It is their royal prerogative. This sentiment should be fostered by all educators that the scholars under their care should equip themselves cost completely for useful work by finishing not only their high school studies but to complete the academic and professional courses as offered in our universities.

NINETY DAYS IN THE COUNTY JAIL

KEEPERS OF DISORDERLY PLACE OVER JARVIS' SALOON IN E. G. FORKS COME TO GRIEF

The police force made a raid Monday night on the place over Joe. Jarvis, saloon at East Grand Forks and arrested the proprietor, Mrs. H. T. Castenson and her husband three girls and a well known young man. Their cases came up for trial in the municipal court there yesterday afternoon, City Attorney Collins conducting the prosecution. Mr. and Mrs. Castenson were each given 90 day sentences in the county jail and the four inmates of the place were each fined $25. The authorities of the city are determined to close up every disreputable place on the avenue and a second offense will mean long jail sentences. In this case it is understood the mother of the young man found in the place will provide the money for his fine, but next time it will be a trip to the county jail.

FIRST BASE BALL ACCIDENT OF YEAR

SPOONER MAN GETS A MOUTHFUL OF BASEBALL BATS

Wednesday evening while a number of prospective baseball players were practicing near the mill office, Ed Dorsky in striking at the ball accidentally slipped his hold and threw the bat striking Emil Hedberg, a distance of 25 feet away, therewith full in the mouth. The force of the contact was so great that the unfortunate victim dropped as if dead and it took some moments ere he was sufficently recovered to assist him to Dr. Oppliger's office. Upon examination of the injury it was ascertained that two upper teeth were knocked out and another broke, which will necessitate its extraction, besides a number of other teeth were much loosened. The upper lip was badly cut and bruised, and depended in shreds from his face. It required a careful operation and the taking of 12 stitches to bring the lip again into proper place. The injury is an extremely painful one and may take a number of weeks ere sufficiently healed to enable the patient to resume his occupation at the bank, and even then it may leave a nunpleasant scar thereafter.—Northern News.

TWETEN IS INSANE

ONCE CROOKSTON POLICEMAN COMMITTED TO FERGUS FALLS

KILLED HOBO IN GREAT NORTHERN DEPOT FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

From Monday's Daily—

From the village of Shotley on the southeastern shores of the Upper Red Lake in central Beltrami county, fifty miles north of Bemidji, Ben Anderson and Axel Asp, lumbermen once employed in this city at the Crookston Lumber Company's Mill, brought to Kelliher and finally to Bemidji, Halvor Tveten, a former Crookston policeman, who shot and killed a tramp in the Great Northern station at Crookston in the winter of '93 tnd '94. Tveten is insane.

Halvor Tveten shot and killed Andrew Thompson at 1:30 a. m. December 9th 1893. Thompson was a transient laborer, having worked here, in Traill county, N. D., and at Brainerd. He had been arrested on the night of Dec. 8th for raising a disturbance in the saloon of M. J. Halla, was put in jail, broke jail and Tveten found him in the G. N. Depot with six others. Thompson assaulted Tveten when the night policeman tried to arrest him, Tveten shot him in the forehead. Tveten was acquitted, William Carleton of Angus being foreman of jury.

At the murder trial which followed here fifteen years ago, well remembered here he was found innocent on the grounds of self defense. He had at that time been a policeman here for two years and was walking about the Great Northern station shortly after midnight. He shot a hobo with whom he had been having some trouble. The hobo died before he could speak. No one witnessed the deed. Tveten claimed the hobo resisted arrest and attacked him and he was forced to shoot in self defense.

Immediately after he was cleared on the first jury trial he left the city and took a claim in the woods north of Shotly, living in that neighborhood ever since.

His fits of insanity have been gradually coming upon him with shorter and shorter lucid intervals until his recent examination at the probate court in Bemidji which sent him to Fergus Falls, passing thru Crookston Saturday evening.

Tveten believes all his friends have deserted him. On the road to Crookston from Bemidji he thought a crowd was gathering about to hang him. This incident occurred at Dugdale station. The deputies accompanying him held him from violent action.

Present Congressman Steenerson defended him at his trial for murder 15 years ago. He has been unable to pay Steenerson for his services and thinks that thereby he has gained antagonism of friends. He became insane in Shotly on religious subjects.

He told the probate judge in Bemidji that the devil told him to go out and cut off his hands and "God appeared" and struggled with the devil before him. He says God changed the command later to one finger, and seizing an ax Tveten chopped off one finger on his left hand. He was then arrested.

Deputy Sheriffs Andrew Johnson and Arne Solberg had him in charge.

FRICTION IS PAST

DEPUTY MARSHAL RIDER OF LITTLE FALLS TELLS OF BORDER

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS AT EMERSON FRIENDLY — WRIGHT INCIDENT

From Wednesday's Daily—

The friction between the United States and Canadian government officials at the international boundary line at Emerson has almost entirely disappeared according to the statement of Deputy United States Marshal H. A. Rider who passed thru this city bound southward for the first time since the arrest at the point of a gun of Herbert Wright, Dominion customs house officer at the line, for smuggling Margaret Price, an alien, an Icelander, thru the border to Orleans on the Soo.

In fact it was just that circumstance that has cleared the atmosphere. Rider says the statements that he kidnapped the Canadian is not true. Upon arrival at Emerson with warrant he had secured the description of Wright of the men at the U. S. station and proceeded on the Great Northern southbound local on which Wright was examining baggage to Emerson. He then dismounted and walked up the track meeting Wright coming down 300 yards on the United States side. He announced Wright's arrest and Wright refused to come and continued so to do for four times even after Rider took him by the collar. Then Rider drew a gun from his pocket and without pointing it at Wright that gentleman accompanied him. Wright was arrested on complaint of Assistant District Attorney Dickey of St. Paul. The trial comes off in St. Paul May 5th.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Crookston People Stands the Test

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and the merit alone will stand the test of time Crookston people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills they do still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Benj. Champagne, of 322 Spendley St., Crookston, Minn., says: "I can just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did six years ago. At that time they proved of great benefit to me in banishing a dull, annoying backache which clung to me despite my earnest endeavors to get rid of it. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I procured a box at the Wallace drug store. I found relief from the first dose or two and soon the pains in my back were entirely removed. The difficulty with the kidneys was also ended and I was improved in every way. Up to date the relief has remained permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents fo rthe United States.

RIVER TRACK DANGEROUS

3RD STREET SEWER WASHOUT ENDANGERS PASSING MAIN TRACK TRAINS

NORTHERN DIVISION ORDERS ALL TRAINS TO RUN OVER EAST TRACK

From Tuesday's Daily—

Orders from the Northern Divisional offices of the Great Northern yesterday ordered all trains to take the Dakota division tracks out of here. The middle or main line track is put out of business as a result of a rampage of water in the sewer and consequent undermining of the G. N. grade. City Engineer Carroll and the sewer committee will investigate conditions and report tonight to the city council in order that the repair of the sewer and grade may be taken up.

The Great Northern commenced today to fill up the weak place. Last night about five minutes after the St. Vincent train pulled into the depot the grade surface sank with a rush and left a visible hole large enough to swallow an engine.

The cause of this unusual difficulty arises from a breaking of the brick and concrete sewer. The Great Northern drove piling along the river last year to hold their grade from washing away in the Red Lake River current. This piling instead of holding the dirt has slid itself three feet into the river. This has dragged the whole grade and the river end of the sewer thus breaking it in the middle.

MOST OF DEAD ARE NEGROES. TORNADO DESTROYES SCORES OF CABINS, BURYING THE OCCUPANTS IN DEBRIS, EXACT CASUALTIES ARE YET UNKNOWN. DAMAGE IS DONE IN THREE STATES, LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND ALABAMA.

Atlanta, Ga., April 25—Reports up to noon today indicate that 225 persons were killed and about 400 injured in storms of great violence which passed over sections of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama... Several towns were almost swept away and the property damage runs into the millions.

Atlanta, Ga., April 25—A wind of cyclonic proportions swept over portions of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama late yesterday, leaving a trail of dead and injured. At noon the number of killed is estimated at close to 225 and the number of injured above 400, with many portions of the afflicted districts to hear from. Most of the dead are negroes. Perhaps a dozen white persons were caught in the falling buildings and either fatally injured, or so seriously disabled as to require medical attendance.

The loss of life was chiefly in the quarter of colored persons where the wind destroyed their cabins burying the occupants in the debris or in the farming sections of the country, where trees were uprooted, telegraph and telephone poles torn up and general destruction became an encore to the storm which swept with almost tornado fury thru the country.

In Louisiana it is estimated that a score of small towns were destroyed or partially wrecked. They include Amite City, Arcadia and Independence Belle Grove, Melton, Lorman, Pine Ridge, Quitman Landing, Fairchild's Creek, Purvis and Lumberton, Mississippi, are reported seriously damaged by the storm.

In Alabama, Dora was the chief sufferer. The dead include the wife and daughter of Section Master Moore.

From Meridan, Mississippi comes the report that Mrs. John Minniece and her child were killed outright, and John Minniece was seriously injured.

Richland and LaMoure, Louisiana, were struck by the storm and nearly a fifth of their population injured.

DEATH AND RUIN BY TORNADO

Baby Girl Killed and Several Persons Injured—Many Buildings Are Destroyed.

The family consisted of Mr. Mangleson, his wife, mother and five children, all of whom were more or less injured.

Not a board of the dwelling was left and every building on the place was razed.

The storm, which was accompanied by a terrific roaring noise, next hit the farm residence of Richard Waacker, a mile from the Mangleson home. The dwelling was entirely demolished, but none of the nine members of the family was dangerously injured.

Barns and outbuildings were leveled at several other farms in the track of the storm, and live stock suffered greatly. No estimate of the monetary loss is available at this time.

CREAMERIES FLOURISHING

16 NORTHERN COUNTIES WHICH 10 YEARS AGO HAD NO CREAMERIES

NOW HAVE 54 FLOURISHING INSTITUTIONS—POLK COUNTY HAS 18

From Friday's Daily—

Figures compiled by Secretary W. W. Wall of the state dairy and food department show that in 16 counties which in 1898 had no creameries there are now 54 in operation. All these counties are in the northern half of the state, showing that the farmers in the comparatively newer counties are awakening to the advantages from a financial point of view of the dairy business.

The success of creameries in the southern counties in which creameries have been in operation for a number of years has resulted in a great increase in the number of creameries and the quality of the output and a consequent improvement in the financial condition of the farmers furnishing the milk and in many cases owning an interest in the creameries.

The number of creameries in each of these 16 northern counties at present is as follows:

Kittson, 7; Roseau, 3; Marshall, 13; Red Lake 7; Hubbard, 1; Cass 1; Aitkin 1; Crow Wing 2; Carlton 1; Pine 4; Mille Lacs 5; Benton 6; Wadena 5; St. Louis 1; Kanabec 2; Clearwater 5;

Polk county is rapidly developing into one of the banner creamery counties of the state, and every year sees additional and medern creameries constructed. At the present time there are 18 creameries in the county all but one of which, Euclid, is in operation and doing a flourishing business. The creameries are located as follows:

Crookston, Fertile, Rindal, Erskine, McIntosh, Fosston, Lengby, Olga, Winger, Eldred, Climax, Beltrami, Mentor, Greeg, Cisco, Hill River, Fisher, Euclid.

CLUE TO TWO YOUNG THIEVES

Yesterday afternoon some boys discovered the steel cash box which had been taken from the safe in the Smith pool room which was robbed of $25 Tuesday night. The small steel door to the box had been smashed in the money taken and the box hid. The thieves had left three checks for small amounts in the drawer.

The police are positive they have clues as to the guilty parties. Two young men of the city disappeared the night of the robbery. They bought tickets for Grand Forks but did not take the train. It is supposed they hid somewhere on the outskirts of the city all Wednesday for on Wednesday evening they appeared at P. J. Lachapelle's place on the outskirts of the city and bought a glass of milg each and wanted to remain there all night but he would not allow them to stay. At least one of the boys left for the Forks Thursday morning.

CHANCES NOT FAVORABLE

TARY MOORE CONCERNING STEENERSON WRITES SECRE- FISH HATCHERY

DEMOCRATIC FILIBUSTER MAY PREVENT PASSAGE OF BILL THIS SESSION

From Friday's Daily—

A communication from Representative Steenerson of the Ninth District received today by J. F. Moore, Secretary, 25,000 Club reads: "My Dear Mr. Moore—I have your letter of the 8th instant relative to S. 6335, a bill introduced by Mr. Nelson to establish a fish culture station in the state of Minnesota, and replying would say that the bill has passed the Senate and is now pending in the House, but in the present state of the Democratic filibuster the chances are not very favorable for its passage. The bill was undoubtedly introduced by Senator Nelson for the benefit of the lakes in the vicinity of Alexandria and if it should pass he would probably secure the location of the fish station at that point. In the event that the bill should become a law I should of course be glad to forward every effort to secure the station for Maple Lake but I do not think it is intended for any other place than Alexandria.

I am, your very truly,

—H. Steenerson.

A $50,000 N. P. LOSS AT STAPLES

Passengers on the Northern Pacific passenger train from the south report a most disastrous fire at Staples Wednesday. A prairie fire swept up to the freight yards shortly after noon and before it could be headed off a long string of cars were in flames. Heroic efforts were made to check the flames but not until 48 stock cars and 15 box cars were destroyed did the flames stay their progress. The property loss to the N. P. will be close to $50,000. The plant of the Northern Pressed Brick Co., started operations for the season yesterday and the first kiln of pressed brick will be burned next week. The demand for pressed brick is specially brisk and the demand for the common building brick will take care of all the brick that can be burned here this season.

In response to a letter written to Attorney General Young for a ruling as to whether the filing fee of candidates was $10 or $20 County Atty. Maybury today received a reply in which the attorney general stated that while it was the evident intention of the legislature to make the filing fee $20 the language was very obscure, and a comparison with the old bill made him arrive at the conclusion that but $10 should be charged.

Those who have already filed and paid $20 will therefore have a $10 note refunded to them.

FRAUD ORDER WAS ISSUED

PHILLIPS AND CROWD WHO TRIED TO GET CROOKSTONITES TO BITE

ON GREAT ELECTRIC AIR LINE SCHEME HAVE PLANS NIPPED IN BUD

From Friday's Daily—

Fraud orders have been issued by the United States postal department against the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Seattle Electric Air Line, the Co-operative Construction Company, the Great Northwestern Fiscal agency and the Northwestern Investment company all enterprises which have headquarters in the New York Life building, St. Paul.

Under these orders any mail received at the St. Paul postoffice addressed to any of the companies named will be stamped "fraud" in red ink and if possible returned to the sender. In case the name of the sender is not on the envelope the matter will be sent to the dead-letter office.

One of the promoters of the St. Paul Minneapolis & Seattle Air line was S. A. Phillips, who was sentenced to the state prison some weeks ago on a charge that he had embezled funds of the Hancock company while acting as its northwestern representative. The Hancock company was interested in handling the stock of the New York-Chicago Electric Air line.

But a few weeks ago Phillips and a pack of his friends after visiting Grand Forks and East Grand Forks, visited Crookston. The plan was to have Crookston and the Forks on the main line of the Seattle road, and efforts were made to sell stock here. Considerable was sold at Grand Forks but the people of Crookston and East Grand Forks gave the promoters the cold shoulder. The whole scheme was a fake and those who bit bade a final farewell to their coin.

THIEF RIVER FALLS BUSINESS DISTRICT SUFFERS BAD FIRE YESTERDAY

From Saturday's Daily—

At 9 a. m. yesterday morning a fire broke out in the general merchandise store of C. A. Peterson at Thief River Falls across from the Hotel Rushford. The building was a frame one. The stock was a total loss and the building almost so. The loss has been set at about $1500. The fire was caused by an air tight stove. Nothing was saved from the stock. The building is almost in the heart of the business district and had the high winds and dry weather that has been prevailing for the past three weeks existed the business district would have been more seriously threatened. The rain yesterday morning soaked surrounding buildings so they would not easily ignite.

DECISION FOR WOMAN

JUDGE MONTAGUE HOLDS ENTRY RIGHT FOR MAGGIE ODEGAARD

WAS FORCED TO LEAVE CLAIM NEAR BADGER BY HER HUSBAND

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

Judge Montague has handed down a decision in the contest case of Miss Maggie Odegaard vs. Ivar Mikkelson over a homestead near Badger in Roseau county, originally filed on by John E. Klippe, a divorced husband of Miss Odegaard. The decision holds Miss Odegaard was forced to leave the claim by the cruelty and unnatural practices of her husband and has right of original entry on the homestead in lieu of Mikkelson's claim.

The woman says, "When she married she had about $1600; got it by working hard for it; doesn't know how long it took her to earn it but many years."

The complaint further alleges she was forced to leave him after he had taken all her money and improved the claim on which he lived with it.

The woman is now working at the home of Thomas Durgin, well known liveryman and citizen of Badger who is loking after the rights of the woman.

Woman Modest

The language of the decision of Judge Montague is, her innate modesty appeared to have prevented her from using any language which she thought improper or immodest notwithstanding the cross examination appeared to call for such.

Regarding Klippe the decision reads, He has not much regard for the truth and uses foul and vulgar language only to degrade and dishonor the woman who was his wife.

Riddles Paper Argument

The decision of the land office riddles the contention of Klippe that he conveyed the homestead to Mikkelson, his nephew, brought from Norway, without consideration. By his own testimony, goes the decision, he has not a dollar's worth of property of any kind and he has divested himself of all his property for the purpose of defrauding his wife.

"That he did this without still remaining the actual owner is beyond the comprehension of the ordinary mind."

This is the most interesting case that has been up before the United States land office here for years on account of the unwritten laws of justice that enter into it. The case will probably be appealed.

RAINS FAVOR VALLEY FARMS

LIGHT FALL OF MOISTURE WILL BENEFIT EARLY SOWN GRAIN

FOREST AND PRAIRIE FIRES ARE STOPPED — SEEDING SLIGHTLY HANDICAPPED

From Monday's Daily— ..

The light fall of rain in the north part of the Valley for the last of the week will expedite farming and stopped prairie and forest fires and benefitted generally.

The wheat and early grains are over half in. Weeds will shoot out roots under influence of this rain and when fields are plowed they will be killed. Many a valley farm will be cleared of weeds this year thus.

For the time being seeding operations were slightly handicapped but with the sun and wind that had been prevailing before the rain started the land is again dry enough for working.

Railway men state that the heavy pall of smoke that has been hanging over country has entirely disappeared and atmosphere is cleared. The showers will put on end to fire ravages in forest and on prairie.

FRANK JEROME DIED SUNDAY

PIONEER RESIDENT AND STREET COMMISSIONER OF CROOKSTON DEAD

WAS AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN THE EARLY HISTORY OF THIS CITY

From Monday's Daily— ..

Sunday afternoon at 3:30 Frank Jerome street commissioner and one of the pioneer residents of Crookston died after suffering terribly for the past few months with cancer of the throat. Deceased was 60 years of age the 29th of last January and had been a resident of Crookston for the past 38 years, coming here on May 12 1872.

He was one of the most progressive citizens of the early days and was prominently identified with every movement for the advancement of the welfare of the city. His homestead included all of what is known as Jeromes addition now one of the most thickly populated districts of the city, and worth several fortunes at the present time. Mr. Jerome accumulated a large fortune in the early days and was one of the most liberal and patriotic citizens Crookston ever had.

When efforts were being made to secure the big T. B. Walker sawmill here, which is now owned by the Crookston Lumber Co., a large sum was necessary in cash, and Frank Jerome contributed $10,000 in cash, land and short rights, contributing more than twice as much as any other citizen. He was also extremely liberal in contributing to all public improvements.

In the late 80's he erected the St. Louis Hotel, corner of Robert and Ash Streets but one block from Jeromes addition, and operated it for some time, it being the leading hotel of the city for a time and was a large, modern brick structure. Later the hotel was purchased by J. C. Sathre and is now the home of the Crookston Business college.

In the early 90's Mr. Jerome spent several years on the road, travelling for Felix Fournet and shortly after quitting the road was appointed street commissioner.

In later years Mr. Jerome lost heavily thru unfortunate investments and during the panic of '93 lost the greater portion of his property. He has been street commissioner of Crookston for the past 13 years with the exception of one year, three years ago, and was one of the most efficient street commissioners in the entire northwest, and gave to Crookston the same patriotic and loyal service as when fortune smiled on his financial efforts.

He leaves a widow and 9 children another child having died. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to them in their hour of sorrow. The death of Mr. Jerome causes widespread sorrow not only in Crookston but thruout this section. He was generous to a fault and was ever ready to come to the aid of a friend or neighbor in trouble.

Deceased was born in Canada, and removed from Montreal to St. Paul a few years before coming to Crookston

All his children were at his bedside when the end came, and he was conscious and conversed with them till the end came. All the children reside at home with the exception of Frank, Jr., who is married, and the oldest daughter, who is Mrs. W. A. Leman, but all reside in this city excepting Emery, who arrived from Wayzata, 28 miles from St. Paul where he has a position, Saturday morning.

The funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church at 9:30 Tuesday morning, Father Smiers officiating. The city officials will meet at the city hall at 9 o'clock and attend the funeral in a body.

MUCH SEEDING DONE UP NORTH

The cold wave and snow flurries of the past few days have hampered seeding operations, tho some farmers on light soil have continued seeding without interruption. The farmers east of Crookston and west along the river are from 79 to 90 per cent thru with their wheat seeding, but the farmers in northwestern Polk are not more than half thru with their wheat.

A well known elevator man who returned last evening states that in the vicinity of Stephen and Argyle, Marshall County, and Hallock, Kittson County, have fully 90 per cent of their wheat in the ground and are all rejoicing over the rain and snowfall, believing that it augurs well for a big crop next fall.

If it were not for fear of public opinion, most men would go to the devil in the day time.

WILD GEESE COME AT HIGH FIGURE

Game Warden Wm. F. Munch spent yesterday at Hallock where he arrested Ed Peterson for shooting a wild goose. Peterson saw that he was up against it and entered a plea of guilty before Judge H. Harrison, and was fined $16.50 which he paid. Deputy Warden Munch has the entire northwestern part of the state so organized that it is impossible to smuggle a feather of a wild bird into a city or village but what some one is on the lookout and tips the snap off. Every sportsman in the entire section is backing up Deputy Warden Munch, and there are practically no violations of the law for that reason.

BANNER DAY FOR K. C.'S

MONSTER CLASS OF 60 NEW MEMBERS INITIATED HERE YESTERDAY

ABOUT 300 VISITING MEMBERS—SUMPTUOUS BANQUET SERVED

From Monday's Daily— ..

The initiation of a class of 50 candidates yesterday marked an era in the history of Crookston Council, Knights of Columbus. The sessions began with a short meeting before noon, and concluded with a speech making session in Woodmen Hall, following the banquet in the Auditorium.

Prominent Visitors

The affair called together one of the largest crowds which ever assembled here for a fraternal organization function, about 300 being present from outside points. Grand Forks and East Grand Forks had the largest delegation, 86 strong, who arrived on a special train over the Northern Pacific at noon, and did not depart till after midnight. Duluth came next, 25 strong, headed by District Deputy Leo Ball, and included the splendid degree team which did the initiatory work in the most improved fashion. They arrived in a special car and departed on 36 which was held till 10:30. Winnipeg was represented by a delegation of about 20 and St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud, Brainerd, Barnesville, Fargo, Bemidji and other places were represented by from 1 to 10 delegates all representative men in the communities from which they came.

The Afternoon Session

Following the short session before dinner, the Knights re-assembled shortly after noon and the initiatory work was commenced. Owing to the large class this portion of the ceremony was not concluded till about 9 o'clock in the evening. The initiation ceremonies were performed in Woodmen hall which was literally packed with a crowd of between 450 and 500 candidates and Knights, and there was something doing all the time.

Splendid Banquet

At 9 o'clock last evening the Knights left the Woodmen hall in a body and marched to the Auditorium where a splendid banquet was served in courses. The hall was elaborately decorated with flags and bunting, and in the rear, reaching clear across the hall was a monster K. C. banner.

The Knights were seated at four long tables, with a capacity of 100 each. The tables were beautifully decorated with a profusion of red carnations and Easter lilies and were resplendent with cut glass and Haviland china.

The banquet was served by a corps of 25 ladies, relatives of the local Knights, and every arrangement in connection with the banquet was carefully attended to, the service being absolutely faultless and the menu very elaborate.

Social Session

After the wants of the inner man had been fully supplied Atty. Geo. J. Connon was named toastmaster and a series of most brilliant addresses were made by prominent visitors present. After a number of toasts had been responded to at the banquet tables, the Knights adjourned to Woodmen Hall where the speech making was continued till after midnight.

This concluded one of the greatest fraternal organization meetings ever held in Crookston. Grand Knight O'Brien of the Crookston Council together with the various committees which worked for the success of the grand meeting have full reason to feel highly gratified over the manner in which every detail of the affair was carried out.

Visitors Pleased

It would be impossible to give an adequate report of the many fine compliments paid Crookston by the visiting delegations. One made by a Duluth man is given as an illustration. He said:

"At the K. C. Institution here last summer I was necessarily absent. Later I was in New Orleans and a Knight who had been in Crookston at that time stated that Crookston was the greatest city in the Union for free-hearted hospitality. Scores of others in every part of the country at various times have told me the same thing. I determined to attend this meeting, and now I am convinced that I was told but a portion of the truth. We have had a splendid time and the people of Crookston are to be complimented. You have a great city, and royally hospitable people."

VICIOUS FLEE FROM THIEF RIVER FALLS

Orders of acting Mayor Prichard Energetically Pushed Notwithstanding Efforts of Minions of Tenderloin Traffic.

Monday night Acting Mayor Pritchard sent a special message to County Attorney Germo at Red Lake Falls summoning him to Thief River Falls to look after legal side of expulsion of tenderloin inmates. Some of the inmates returned to Thief River Falls at the same time, but the county attorney gave them no countenance.

Germo returned to Red Lake Falls last night.

Acting Mayor Pritchard of Thief River Falls is deadly in earnest in his efforts to clean out the tenderloin districts at that city. During the absence of Mayor Hammery at Hot Springs, Arkansas, he has been getting the police forces whipped into shape putting at the head the new chief of police, Lang and with the issuance of the order for the evacuation of the red light district the tin horn and gamblers found no remedy for their dilemma.

County Attorney Germo, Sheriff Nelson and Reverend Phillip Swartz went to Thief River Falls yesterday morning to secure evidence against the sporting fraternity. On the other hand a reputed housekeeper, Minnie Smith, well known on account of her enormous weight, and owner of several of these resorts throut the north country boarded the Duluth train west bound at Swan River where she lives, and dismounted at Erskine last night that she might get into Thief River Falls tonight and look after her disintegrating and infamous interests.

She has secured legal assistance and will try to withstand the attacks of the Thief River Falls authorities on her business. Inmates of the red light districts have been arriving here on every train and fleeing to the cities Minot and Duluth for refuge. The local dealers in this class of business have refused to house them on account of their number and the warnings of the local police.

The women are trailed by a bunch of tin horns and gamblers arrayed in race track checks and during the short minutes that the police permit them to roam at large about the streets they lend some picturesqueness to the town. One of the tin horns said last night that they "guessed we were knocked out of another good town."

Some of the inmates lodged for a time at Red Lake Falls but most of them moved on last evening to Crookston and scattered in all directions. There are about twenty inmates and as many or more tin horns and gamblers that have passed thru the city already.

The Swan River woman has a representative at the depot here gathering them together and sending them out again. The openness of the traffic has aroused the mayor to issue orders against them.

From Wednesday's Daily—

A. Abas, well known Assyrian Main Street merchant, returned this morning from Cooperstown, N. D., where he has been for two days looking into the discovery there of the dead body of an Assyrian peddler in the Sheyenne River 15 miles north.

Mr. Abas obtained conclusive evidence that the body was that of Abas Salen, brother of Ahmed Saien, who was lost about the first of April last. Ahmed left his brother who could not speak English at Courtney and they were to meet at Aneta. Ahmed remained about Aneta for a week but his brother did not arrive and he reported to Abas at Crookston who advertised in the Journal for the recovery of the body.

Colombia Believes Panama Is Trying to Embroil Her in War With Venezuela.

UNITED STATES MIXED IN IT

Occupation of Jurado Was Advised by America—Castro Plans to Grab Territory.

Cartagenia, Colombia, May 6. — The government at Colombia has reason to believe that the government at Panama is intriguing with Venezuela to declare war upon this country. It is known that the occupation of Jurado, which is on the Atrato river, the boundary line between Panama and Colombia, has angered the Panama government.

The occupation of Jurado was done on the advice of the American government, which held that it was clearly within Colombian territory. The attitude of the government of Panama has given the United States a good deal of solicitude. One of Secretary Taft's chief missions to Panama is to try and adjust the matter.

It is believed that the American government is aware of the effort of Panama to induce Venezuela to make war upon Colombia.

Two Disputes Pending.

Two boundary disputes enter into the situation.

Castro wants a strip of Colombian territory on the east and Panama, according to the Colombians, is seeking to despoil Colombia of certain territory along the Atrato river, which includes the town of Jurado. Venezuela's claim, or rather demand, is that Colombia cede her a very material part of the Goadjira peninsula, down the center of which the present boundary now runs, as well as a certain area in the vicinity of Cucuta.

On the other hand, Panama desires to extend her territorial holdings to embrace a section of the Atrato river and an area of territory which includes Jurado.

Troops Sent to Jurado.

When Colombia heard of these aspirations she sent troops to Jurado for the purpose of bringing this matter to an issue.

Panama, it is declared, would like to embroil Colombia with Venezuela on the eastern frontier, as such an outcome would give her a better chance to force her claim for territorial extension upon the western frontier.

A FAST ONE HAS BEEN PURCHASED

F. C. MITCHELL HAS PURCHASED THE HORSE "EARLY GLEANER"

F. C. Mitchell has purchased the "Early Gleaner," one of the best bred horses that was ever shipped into the northwest. Here are a few things about him that are contained in a pamphlet sent out by the man who bred him:

The dam of this stallion is an inbred Wilkes, twice a great grand daughter of old Geo. Wilkes himself and grand daughter of Onward, the greatest sire in the history of the world, living or dead. This dam stands 16 hands, weighs 1380 lbs. and would sell right in the market on her individuality as a coach or surrey horse for $500. Three of her filly foals sold for $1600.

No matter what noted sire a stallion springs from, without good blood on the dam's side he is only half a horse.

Sire—The world renowned Early Reaper, (2:09 1-4) sire of Early Alice 2:07 by Highwood, by Nutwood; dam Atlanta, by Alcantara, by George Wilkes.

THAW GETS OUT OF INSANE ASYLUM

TEMPORARILY LODGED IN DUTCHESS COUNTY JAIL UNTIL HIS CASE IS DECIDED—EVELYN THAW MAY TESTIFY—ATTORNEY DECLARES THAW IS READY TO SUBMIT TO ANY EXAMINATION AS PROOF OF SANITY

Poughkeepsie, May 6.—Temporarily at least, Harry K. Thaw is out of the Matteawan hospital for the criminal insane. As a result of yesterday's proceedings on the writ of habeas corpus sued out in an effort to have him legally declared sane, he will remain in the Dutchess county jail until the final decision on the writ is handed down. The formal hearing in the case will come before the supreme court here next Monday.

The adjournment was taken upon the request of a representative of the district attorney of New York county, to give District Attorney Jerome an opportunity to appear in person to oppose Thaw's release from the asylum.

In the meantime Thaw will remain in the Dutchess county jail here instead of being returned to Matteawan.

An interesting feature of yesterday's proceedings was an announcement that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, although she has brought suit for annulment of her marriage, will appear, if necessary, as a witness in her husband's behalf.

Thaw himself undoubtedly will go on the stand in his own behalf, Mr. Peabody said. He declared that the prisoner is willing to submit to any examination the court or the district attorney may desire as proof of his sanity.

"We hold that the burden of proof rests upon Mr. Jerome to show that Thaw is insane. He has never been declared insane. Mr. Jerome's commission in the first trial adjudged him sane. The jury in the second trial deemed him insane at the time he killed Stanford White."

WILL REPRESENT GRAND FORKS COUNTY AT MINOT ON MAY FOURTEENTH

AN EFFORT TO GET SOME HANSBROUGH DELEGATES ON LIST FAILS

From Friday's Daily—

The Grand Forks county republican convention yesterday elected a delegation of 17 progressives to the state convention to be held in Minot on May 14. The delegation is headed by H. Bendeke, candidate for lieutenant governor, and was instructed by the convention to secure a delegation favorable to the nomination of W. H. Taft for president and favor the selection of a committeeman who has not and will not in the future be likely to be dominated and controlled by corporation influences.

The test of the strength of the progressives and stalwarts came on the vote for chairman of the convention. A. L. Woods was the choice of the progressives and Dr. H. M. Wheeler was nominated as the stalwart candidate. Mr. Woods was elected by a vote of 76 to 37.

An effort was made to get some Senator H. C. Hansbrough stalwarts on the delegation on the ground that they were anti-McKenzie, but this proposition was not favored by the majority of the delegates.

WHEREABOUTS OF WALKER BOYS KNOWN

DISAPPEARED FROM NEAR PUPOSKY MONDAY—ENROUTE TO DAKOTA

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Arthur and Willie Walker, aged 10 and 15 years who left their home near Puposky last Monday afternoon without giving any intimation as to where they were going, has been cleared up in so far as it relates to their having been drowned or that they may have been killed as it is believed that the boys are now alive and well and are on their way to Dakota by foot.

The two boys are the sons of A. P. Walker who carries the mail on the Star route between Puposky and Fowlds and are said to have been seen late Monday afternoon leaving the railroad at Werner a station on the M. R. L. & M. railway and start westward on the old Fosston railroda.

As the older of the boys has lived in Dakota and has said he liked it out there it is more than likely that the boys have started for the "Flickertail" state.

RAILROAD GOES BACK TO 3-CENT RATE

It is understood that the Rainy Lake railroad will soon issue a new passenger tariff based on a three-cent rate. The law establishing a uniform rate in the state of two cent per mile having been declared unconstitutional and the rate being a losing one for this line on account of its short haul and the primitiveness of the section which it traverses, the company has decided to establish a three-cent rate. When it formerly operated but about forty miles the road charged five cents per mile, as such roads were accustomed to doing. It is understood that there will be but one other road in the state to resume the three-cent rate, the other lines being so situated that the two-cent rate works no hardship on them—Internatoinal Falls Echo.

STRUCK BY CAR DOOR

BERT BELLIS OF CANDO DIES AS THE RESULT OF AN ACCIDENT

SUDDEN LURCH OF TRAIN CAUSED DOOR TO STRIKE HIS HEAD

From Friday's Daily—

Bert Bellis of Cando, met with death from an unusual accident in the yards at Devils Lake Wednesday, while on his return from St. Paul with a horse owned by J. C. Lord, of Cando. The door of the box car was open and Bellius was standing there looking out when the engine started suddenly. The lurch caused the car door to run back with great force and Bellis' head was caught. He dropped to the floor of the car and was unconscious for a time. He rallied and said he felt all right. A man who was with him went away and returned in three-quarters of an hour. Bellis was dead.

It was thought at first that there had been foul play and State's Attorney Kehoe, of Cando, and State's Attorney Serumgard, of Devils Lake, started an investigation. They became convinced that it was a case of accidental death. The car door struck Bellis' head with such force that a blood vessel inside was ruptured.

The coroner's inquest was held in Devils Lake yesterday and a verdict of death as a result of an accident was reached.

FIRST TRAIN ARRIVES AT FORT FRANCIS

The first train to enter Ft. Francis over the Duluth, Rainy Lake and Winnipeg railway pulled into the Canadian Northern station this evening at 6:20. On board was a party of about thirty prominent citizens of Duluth, the Twin Cities and Virginia, an important town in Minnesota along the line of the railway. The coming of this train into Fort Francis was made possible by the completion of the bridge over the Rainy River between Rainier on the American side and Pithers Point. This bridge was built co-jointly by the Duluth, Rainy Lake and Winnipeg railway and the Canadian Northern railway. It forms the link which unites the Canadian west with the south and east over the new route which has several distinctive and outstanding features. The entrance of this train is considered as marking an epoch in the commercial development of the country connecting the Duluth, Rainy Lake and Winnipeg railway with the Canadian Northern and opening up a direct line of steel from Winnipeg to Duluth, and from there to Chicago, Milwaukee and the east.

GRAND WORK OF SPLIT LOG DRAG

FARMERS IN LOWELL TOWNSHIP ARE AMONG MOST PROGRESSIVE IN NORTHWEST

WALTER LATTA STOPS SEEDING TO KEEP ROAD IN FIRST CLASS SHAPE

From Friday's Daily—

Those who are not thoroly convinced of the efficacy of the split log drag would do well to take a trip thru the township of Lowell. The progressive farmers there have dragged every foot of the road south of the river which is travelled daily by Rural Mail Carrier J. P. Marcum and he certainly appreciates the fact. The farmers along the rural mail route have the road divided in sections and after every rain each farmer at once attends to his section, the result being that the road is as near perfect as it can be, fine and dry a few hours after every rain, no matter how hard it rains.

Walter Latta on section 33, a mile east of Crookston on the south side of the river has a mile and a half of road used by rural carriers on routes 2 and 3 which he takes care of alone and considers it of enough importance and benefit to himself alone to take his teams from the seeders after every shower and use the split log drag. He stopped work after the last rain and fixed up the road and states that he would stop work any time to keep the road in good shape.

JUST BY WAY OF COMPARISON

SOME FIGURES GIVEN TO REFUTE CLAIM THAT CITY LACKS 5000 PEOPLE

Bemidji and Crookston have made much of the fact that Thief River Falls has been turned down in its effort to land a fraternal organization because of the lack, as they state, of the necessary 5000 population. If Thief River Falls is shy of 5000 people just how does it happen that Bemidji has a boasted 6000 or 7000 population? A few figures, by way of comparison may throw some light on this claim. In the State Blue Book, the vote of Bemidji at the election of 1906 is given at 682 that of Thief River Falls at 801 an advantage in favor of the latter city of 119. The school population of Thief River Falls was last year 1035, that of Bemidji was exactly 250 less. This city, during the same year employed 24 teachers, Bemidji 19. Figring the actual population on the time-accepted basis of 5 inhabitants for each attendant at school, the population of Thief River Falls would be 5175 or 99 more inhabitants than is claimed by census taken last summer. This does not look much to us as tho the figures given out as to the city's population had been padded.

As a matter of fact, however, the population of the city was never questioned by the powers that be in the lodge. The refusal was based on other reason's the grounds being strong for believing that a "plug" against the granting of the dispensation, was put in by a nearby lodge that would be seriously affected had the new lodge been organized.—Thief River Falls Press.

When Bro. Bagley asserts that "Crookston has made much of the fact that Thief River has been turned down" we would like to know to whom or to what he refers. We have not got up on our hind legs and made any great yell over the fact, and do not know of anyone else here who has. If Thief River Falls has the required population, and we have neither the inclination nor the facts to dispute the claim that Thief River is entitled to the lodge. There is no disposition on our part to belittle Thief River. We glory in the progressiveness of her citizens and wish she was twice as large as she am.

Glasgow, May 2.—It is unofficially reported that the new cruiser Indomitable, which is now undergoing her speed trials, has beaten all records, making twenty-eight knots over a measured mile course on the Clyde and twenty-six and one-fourth knots in the continuous steaming trial.

We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

You must look well after the condition of your liver and bowels. Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, nausea, dyspepsia, and thus preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. Act gently, all vegetable. The dose is only one pill at bedtime.

GOOD ROADS MADE WITHOUT MONEY

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING THE FAMOUS KING ROAD DRAG—DIRT ROADS CAN BE MADE USABLE ALL THE YEAR AT A SMALL OUT LAY OF TIME

(Reprinted from the R. F. D. News.)

For the good of the cause and at the request of hundreds of carriers, we reprint the directions for making the road drag designed by D. Ward King, of Maitland, Mo. Mr. King deserves the thanks and encomiums of all dwellers on the dirt roads of the country for his discovery and the generosity with which he places it without money and without price in the hands of any one who will take the trouble to use it.

The Problem

The problem given is the soft or dirt road. It is "worked" occasionally by being plowed on each side and the lose dirt thrown up toward the middle making a more or less symmetrical oval sloping to the ditch on either side. In good weather when the rains are not frequent or heavy the ruts will be cut down by the wagon traffic. In rainy weather and in the spring and fall the ruts are full of water and the mud holes are worn into the surface and made deeper by every now wagon track. The water that makes mudholes is held in by the bottom and sides of dryer earth or a frozen surface. If the water can run off it will do so. The problem then is to make a smooth surface so that the water will run off. Then of course there be no mudhole.

The Solution

The solution is the King drag.

Any man or boy can make a drag in less than two hours.

Get a log, eight feet long and twelve inches in diameter. Split it in halves. Bore three two-inch holes in each half—one at each end, and one in the middle. Join the halves, split sides forward, with good strong braces, about three feet long; wedge them in securely.

If a log is not handy, use a twelve-inch plank. Reinforce the backs with a 2x6.

A loose plank, on which to ride, is placed across the braces.

Wrap one end of the chain around an end stake, carry it over the top of the slab, out to the double trees, and then back to the other end of the slab where it should be fastened by poking an old bolt or spike thru one of the links into a hole bored three or four inches from the end of the slab and about its center, up and down.

Hitch up and drag—at an angle of forty-five degrees—and you will be surprised at the results.

How to Use the Drag

First make the drag and have a four horse evener ready for use the first time. Wait until your roads are very soft, the wetter and softer the better. Then attach four horses; straddle the right-hand rut, and begin to drag. then turn and come back along the other rut. Don't hurry; drive slowly the slower the better. The effect of this first dragging will be to fill up the ruts, and to make a moderately smooth surface on which it is possible to make three tracks—one on each side, and one where the old track used to be. This smooth surface will shed water partially at least, and will give free access to the sun and wind, causing it to dry off quicker than the rough surface on either side of the smoothed space. When it begins to dry off, take two horses and go over the same track again. This will still further puddle the clay and carry a little more into the middle of the road which every team will both puddle and compact still more.

If you wish to widen the road, wait until another rain, and then when it has dried off sufficiently to plow readily plow one furrow along the outer mark of the drag, take the drag and spread this smoothly over the surface of the road. In this way the road will be widened by the width of the furrow and will gradually become oval that is, higher in the middle, and each time the drag is used will become a little smoother and a little harder. If the road is still too narrow, plow another furrow, and so on, until the road has been widened as much as you wish.

Don'ts

Don't drive too fast.

Don't walk; get on the drag and ride.

Don't wait for your neighbors to take hold; they may be waiting for you.

Don't wait for the big grader to come and shape up your road. All you can do first will help to make the work of the grader permanent.

Don't be particular about material With an ax and a two inch augur almost any kind of a log can be made into a drag. The one I used for several years is a box elder.

Don't try to drag with one piece; use two. One will scoop out the hollows in the road and deepen them. When two are used the one keeps the other up; and in a month or so the hollows will have filled and become level and hard like the balance of the road.

Mr. King's Catechism

Would it not be better to plow the road before dragging?

No. Plowing gives a soft foundation. Plowing in the middle of the road is a relic of the old dump scraper days.

What do you do where there is deep ruts in the road?

Drag them. If you drag when the surface is quite loose and soft you will be surprised how soon they will disappear.

How do you get the dirt to the middle of the road?

By hauling the drag slantwise with the end that is toward the center of the road a little to the rear of the other end.

But suppose the road is too narrow?

First drag the wheel tracks. After three or four rains or wet spells, plow a shallow furrow just outside the dragged part. Spread this over the road with the drag. Only plow one furrow. You may plow another furrow after the next rain. At each plowing you widen the road bed two feet.

How many horses do you use?

Two generally. Three if it is just as handy. Four when breaking colts. A good solid team in the center and a colt on each side. Two men on the drag one to drive the other to control the colts.

How do you drain the road?

If the earth is pushed to the middle of the road continually the road will drain itself.

Why not make drag out of plank?

You can, and do good work. Mr. Chas. Hill of Mexico, Mo., uses one made of three hardwood two by fours. But the split log is the best. The plank drag is not so stiff and quivers and flounces.

Why not make the drag of heavy sawed timber, say 6x8 or 8x10?

Because they have a tendency to slip over the bumps. The log is better than the plank because it is more rigid and better than heavy timbers because its thin, tapering edge scrapes more surely.

Don't you grade up the road first

No. The grading is done with the drag, gradually. By so doing the road is solid all the time and is built on a solid foundation.

At what angle do you haul the drag?

A safe answer is forty-five degrees, or in common parlance, exactly quantering. But bear in mind that the proper angle of a drag like the proper tension of a sewing machine depends somewhat on circumstances. The angle of the drag will need to be varied as the soil is moist or dry and as the surface is more or less convex. These slight changes can be made by the driver walking in one direction or the other on the drag.

What does it cost to drag a mile of road a year?

The cost is variously estimated at from $1.00 to $3.00. I think much depends on a season and what degree of excellence satisfies the man who drags.

How do you keep the drag from dodging sidewise?

By not loading it too heavily. If it dodges it is overloaded. If it is overloaded it is because you are trying to do too much at once. The secret of road dragging is a little at a time and often.

Will it work?

All over the state of Missouri the drag has been used with satisfaction. The State Board of Agriculture recommends it and publishes a free booklet on the subject.

Mr. King has traveled extensively in Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, and elsewhere and everywhere comes the word—it will do the business.

The Northwestern Railway Company sent out a special good roads train February 12 to 24, thru Illinois and previously one thru Iowa, to tell the people about the King drag.

Logs Are Scattered.

Bayfield, Wis., May 1. — The wind which blew a gale from the northwest for twenty-four hours broke the double boom which held 2,000,000 feet of A. J. Mussel's logs in the Bayfield Mill company's pond and scattered the logs all over Chequamegon bay. The Bayfield Mill company also lost about 500,000. Although the storm is a very severe one, it will do no other damage, as there is no frost whatever.

From Over The Valley

1200 BUSHELS SHORT ON GRAIN ACCOUNTS

It appears that more than half the grain buyers along the Moorhead Northern have a shortage in their grain acounts this spring. At Kragness one is reported about 1200 bushels short, while at other points along the line deficits are numerous but smaller. It appears that the state weight does not in any case correspond with local weights but, causes a shortage of several bushels on almost every car shipped. There is a suspicion that the "shortage" claims of the various companies is a new form of graft, by which the buyers are bluffed into paying back their wages, and sometimes more.—Hendrum Review.

RAILROAD SUPPER FOR AIR LINE

The gigantic effort of the recent swell supper and railroad entertainment given at Roosevelt last Saturday evening for the benefit of the Consolidated Thief River-Roosevelt Air Line railway was a success. The young people of Roosevelt who took part in the entertainment and were friends to the cause stood as a unit in one solid phalanx.

CLOVER ACREAGE TURNED TO WHEAT

There is perhaps more acres of clover and timothy fields in Hendrum than in any other township in the Red River Valley—at least there are a larger number of pieces. This year will add some to the acreage but will also decrease it somewhat, as several fields have gotten so old that they have been plowed up and are being seeded to wheat, and at the end of this season we shall be able to give accurate figures as to how much of an increase in the wheat yield may be expected by raising clover on the land for a couple of seasons.—Hendrum Review.

TWIN VALLEY PROFESSOR GETS A GOOD BERTH

Prof. Feland of Twin Valley was last week elected to an eleven-hundred-dollar position at Portland, N. D. where for the ensuing school year he will have charge of Brufrat Academy, an institution of learning quite similar to the Grand Forks College. Since his arrival in Twin Valley Prof. Felland has made many friends, has worked hard in the cause of education been a social leader among the young people of the village, taken an active interest in church work and been one of the village's most useful citizens. The Board of Education was very anxious to retain him for another year but was unable to pay the salary necessary.

MILTON MAN GOES INTO OPEN BRIDGE

While on his way to Milton from Fargo with a new 24 horse power Northern touring car, purchased for his automobile livery, C. A. Morton, of Milton, met with an experience that he does not care to repeat. It happened Saturday morning about four miles north of Larimore. Mr. Morton was speeding along at a rate of 25 miles an hour, when he suddenly ran into an open bridge. In fact there was no bridge whatever, that having been removed, but approaches and the embankment were there. The machine took a drop of from eight to ten feet, landing in the water below, right side up with Mr. Morton at the steering wheel. Strange to say the machine as well as Mr. Morton escaped almost entirely without damage or injury, and after some hard work, with the assistance of a farmer's team, the machine was again placed on terra firma and put to service. On account of the bad roads as well as the weakness of Mr. Morton after his harrowinging experience, following an all winter siege of illness, the machine was left at McCanna, from which place it was taken to Milton as soon as the roads and weather permit.

MELGAARD PLANTING MANY VALLEY FRUIT TREES

H. L. Melgaard received 100 choice apple trees this week which he will add to his orchard on the farm east of Argyle. Mr. Melgaard has already over 200 apple and plum trees on his place that are doing well and which produce a fine sample of juicy hard apples and plums.

At his residence in Argyle, Mr. Melgaard has a small orchard of apple and plum trees that produce an abundance of fruit every season that will compare favorably in size with any that are grown in the southern part of the state—only like all northern grown fruit the flavor and quolity is far superior to that grown in the south.—Argyle Banner.

OLDEST ENGINEER IS STRICKEN.

Simeon E. Hedding, in Service for Forty Years, Passes Away.

Minneapolis, May 1. — Simeon E. Hedding, oldest passenger engineer on the St. Paul road, died at his home here yesterday morning. During his forty years' service he never had a wreck and never lost a cent of property belonging to the company as the result of accidents of any kind. He had the honor of pulling the firsttrain which ran out of Minneapolis on the St. Paul road. This was on Christmas day, 1874.

D., May 1. — John Sysinger, convicted of a statutory offense and sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary at Sioux Falls, but who had secured a stay of sentence pending hearing on an appeal, broke from the new county jail here last night and still is at large. He stole a pony kept close to the wall and made for the prairie.

ROUGH RIDER UNDER CLOUD.

Receiver of Phoenix (Ariz.) Land Office Suspended.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 30.—Publicity has just been given to the suspension last Thursday of Gen. S. Hildreth, who was a sergeant in the First Volunteer cavalry (Rough Riders) during the Spanish-American war, was appointed by President Roosevelt to the land office.

Commmission's Instructions To Tax Assessors.

The following is the list of written instructions given the assessors by the representative of Minnesota tax commission:

1. It is of the greatest importance that the assessor should place all property both real and personal upon the assessment books.

2. The assessor should actually view all property so far as possible. He should not accept the valuation placed upon it by the owner, but shuld make his own valuation.

3. The assessor cannot deduct debts from credits unless the person claiming the same shall make an affidavit required by law.

4. Assessors have no authority to grant to $100 exemption. All property must be listed. The auditor, not the assessor, grants the exemptions.

5. Land should not be assessed at so much per acre thruought a township, but each tract should be valued separately. Improvements upon the land should be assessed separately from the land. Improvements consisting of buildings and permanent structures on the land. This aplies to town and city lots as well as farm property.

6. Incorporated banks in the state are to be assessed according to section 48, tax code. Many private banking concerns have been incorporated since the last assessment and will come under the assessment method described in the tax code.

7. Shares of stock in all corporations, whether domestic or foreign, when the property of the corporation is not assessed in this state, should be listed and assessed to the owner thereof.

GREAT TIME ROUNDING UP THE BANK ROBBERS

From Thursday's Daily—

No robbery in this section of the state ever so thoroly stirred up the people apparently, as the robbery of the Scandia State bank at Stephen, and the traveling men who make the north territory state that they have had some very rich free vaudeville at the smaller places. Large numbers of farmers and others were gathered at all the smaller places yesterday and today, and many of them organized posses and ran down every rumor in their vicinity in the hope of landing the robbers and getting the reward money.

Armed to the Teeth

From reports that have been received from Strandquist, Middle River, Thief River Falls, Greenbush, Strandquist, and other Soo points, and all points on the Great Northern from Warren to Emerson, between 400 and 500 people were arrested and detained from an hour to 24 hours on suspiciou. In the larger places the police of course would not make arrests unless there were some grounds of suspicion but the marshals in some of the villages gathered in every stranger who appeared in town and threw them into jail or kept them under surveillance till they could give an account of themselves.

Wholesale Arrests

At Strandquist yesterday there were at least 25 farmers gathered with wagons and light buggies and armed with shot guns, revolvers, and even old army carbines, determined to go after the thieves. One travelling man stated that the town looked as tho a general rebellion was imminent.

Seeding was neglected yesterday and the day before by scores of farmers who dreamed of making $500 or $1000 all in a bunch. Nothing was talked of, nothing was thought of but robbers.

Farmer Boys Arrested

Well known farmers' sons were arrested in numerous instances and it took all manner of telephoning to their home or to the towns where they did business and were known to get them out of limbo. The wholesale arrests have nearly caused small sized riots in a few instances where the men detained were disposed to resent the suspicion attached to them.

On every incoming train last evening there were bunches of travelling men laughing over the ludicrous side of the situation. They state that it was simply side splitting to see the important airs put on by the marshals who scanned every traveller as tho he were an ex-convict and was only allowed his liberty temporarily owing to the magnanimity of His Grace, the Marshal.

Arrested 'Em All

Traveling men from thru those stations on the Soo, Strandquist, Halma and others, being in that objective direction from Stephen which bank robbers took, state that woe be it to that daring transient farmhand that wanders from the straight path and leaves the farm with which he has been identified for the past week or so. For the town marshals fully cognizant of the importance of their position in this hour of dire calamity are as sharp as hawks and arrest each and every individual they do not know

25 Deputies

At Strandquist the morning of the robbery at Stephen over twenty-five farmers and citizens were sworn in by the town marshal and gathered about the depot preparatory to making some deep strategic move into the brush west of that city where the robbers were supposed to be dividing the exaggerated thousands they had secured from the bank and wild rumors filled the air of the rewards that would come to the lucky individual who would effect their capture. The death of a homesteader in the brush between Stephen and Strandquist led to a rush to that place from all directions for reports filled the air that the robbers were in the last desperate straits and had shot him.

A Secondary Danger

A breath of relief comes from Thief River authorities who stated today that it was worse than hunting season and the dangers of bank robberies in the live north country was not so much at the time of the robbery but at the time of hunting. Two alleged suspects were arrested at Greenbush yesterday but they were said to be farm hands by others. They were held awaiting developments.

Thief River Falls police chief Olson wired to hold suspicious individual on Greenbush passenger last night but he proved to be Great Northern lineman.

Captain Vonderbeck of city police examined suspect on St. Vincent train last night after he had boarded Grand Forks train, but he was released. He said his name was Engstad of East Grand Forks and had boarded the train at Argyle living 7 miles east. He gave a good account of himself.

Engineer Greenough was on the St. Vincent line local freight northbound yesterday morning when the shooting occurred in Stephens business district A brakeman mentioned matter to him but they pulled out without getting truth.

The bank was nearly wrecked and the front blown out. Loss was $5,011.65 in cash, covered by insurance. While Merdink was getting his shot gun ready he heard a man in the rear of the bank sitting behind a barrel, say to a man inside cracking the bank "Better watch the back door, Charley."

The robbers took four bags of silver $1000 in gold and the rest in banknotes.

The damage to the bank building and furniture will make the total loss fully $8000.

O. M. Hatcher of Hatcher Bros. corporation of Grand Forks was in the city over night enroute to Stephen to look up the bank robbery. The Hatcher corporation carried insurance for the bank for burglar losses fully covering all losses sustained.

Chief of Police Wilson of Emerson yesterday apprehended a short distance north of Emerson, Manitoba two suspects of Stephen Bank robbery. They were run down with locomotives impressed in Emerson railroad yards.

Two of the suspects entered the home of Wm. Robertson a farmer on the edge of town at eleven o'clock and asked for food. They carried wicked pump guns loaded with buckshot. They threw up their hands when ordered and showed no disposition to fight. They gave their names as Joseph Stagger and Homer Kater, but refused to talk.

They finally admitted that they were homesteaders enroute to Battleford and had arrived that morning but stopped off to get the benefit of excusion rates and had bought cheap rate tickets. The most suspicious thing about their conduct is that they went to a farm house half a mile from town to get dinner when there are hotels and restaurants handy. This with dynamite caps and the gold coin form a pretty clear chain of circumstantial evidence against them.

Three More Suspects

Detectives left Emerson, Man., at noon today for St. Jean on the Canadian Pacific just across the Red River from Arnaud where three suspects of the Stephen bank robbery are being held under arrest. One of them has an injured eye and another is reported walking with a slight limp. They carried weapons and other incriminating articles.

The third man is reported was captured in the railway yards. They claim they are landseekers.

On these men were found dynamite cartridges, a gun and $80 in gold. They explained dynamite stating they were miners from Indiana.

Three other suspects who departed from Emerson yesterday noon on a freight bound for Winnipeg disembarked at Arnaud, thirty miles north of Emerson and departed west. The Canadian Pacific railway 8 miles away on the other side of the Red is patrolled by police. It is believed that the suspects have taken their injured into the brush that lines the Red and are trying to conceal themselves there.

A description of only one of the robbers is known. He purchased some goods at Warren Tuesday before the robbery, and these goods were found in the bank at Stephen. He is described as being a young man about 25 years of age, five feet, 7 inches tall, heavy set, large nose, badly tanned, black shiney hair, wore dirty blue overalls, dirty grey check coat and a cap. Had a smooth face.

The horse taken by the robbers from lumberyard of A. L. Dickerman of Stephen has not yet been found. Its description is, big horse with white mark on forehead, weight about 1100 with hames, collar and harness. Buggy has new top with end springs, one center spring.

Woman is Fatally Burned.

Stillwater, Minn., May 2.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday where Mrs. Anne Stussi was fatally burned. Mrs. Stussi, who was feeble, lifted the lid on the kitchen stove and her clothes caught fire. A small boy who was present threw a bucket of water over her and extinguished the flames, but not until she was fatally burned.

"Spotted Fever" Closes Schools.

Marshalltown, Iowa, May 2.—As a precautionary measure against the spreading of cerebro-spinal meningitis, the school board of Gilman, Marshall county, ordered the schools closed until May 11. Four deaths among school children have occurred within two weeks, and it is feared the disease may become an epidemic.

Conditions Satisfactory

The situation in the Northwest from a financial point of view is at present more favorable than in any other part of the country. Weather conditions during the last week were unfavorable to the distributive trade and there is a slight decrease in the bank clearings and colections. When the volume of business for the first period of the year is considered, however, the commercial situation is satisfactory. Business at the Union Stockyards at South Saint Paul continues to show increases over the corresponding periods of last year. Wheat seeding is now well along and as previously stated, the acreage will, if anything, be larger than last year, and up to the present the general conditions for a big crop are much more favorable.

A Good Example

When the plans of the St. Paul Publicity Bureau were explained to the most prominent business men of the city they showed their confidence in them by subscribing $11,040 in half an hour. The meeting took place after an informal dinner at Carling's restaurant, and it was one of the most representative ever held in St. Paul. The chair was occupied by Mr. Walter J. Driscoll. After explaining the difference between publicity, as giving expression to the facts and fancies of life, and advertising as a medium of enabling a city to reveal the nature of its commercial and inductrial resources, he asked for an expression of opinion as to the value of the work already accomplished, and obtained it from R. A. Kirk who rose to his feet and offered $400 towards a fund for extending and carrying it on for two years. This was followed by a volley of subscriptions. Had a definite plea been made for $50,000, the amount would have been forthcoming. But it was felt that the whole city should be given an opportunity to subscribe to the funds of a camjaign in which every person was directly interested.

Should Make Bluff Good

This business of the government withholding franchises, concessions, grants, etc., as in the case advocated by the president when he vetoed the Koochiching dam extension of time bill may be all right, all right, but to the casual observer it would seem that if the right to improve and operate such natural resources is to be withheld from private or corporate control the government should at once proceed to take advantage of the possibilities afforded by such resources. The result would be two-fold—such an action would doubtless be a big money maker for Uncle Samuel and the country around the dam would develop into one of the richest parts of this great state.

The policy of the government in retaining for itself such rights as are being striven for in the Koochiching dam matter is very well and good—if it is carried to the proper lengths. But refusing to let private individuals or corporations develop the resources and the government failing to do anything with it, adopting it might be stated, a dog-in-the-manger policy, would be most disastrous to the northern part of Minnesota and particularly to the towns and vicinity most directly interested. It would mean a retarding of several years in the development of a large area of the northern part of the state and the ruin of large numbers who have staked their all in homes or business enterprises which are directly affected by the action regarding the building or non-building of the dam.—Grand Rapids Independent.

The Thin End of the Tariff Wedge.

It looks as if the newspaper fight against the paper trust might be the thin end of the wedge that is going to split the whole Dingley tariff system in the first session of congress under Taft.

The American Newspaper Publishers' association is making a gallant fight for removal of the duty on wood pulp and print paper against tremendous odds. It must be said that the most serious odds have been created by those newspapers that upheld and defended every inequality and monopoly of the sacred tariff until the injustice of it came home to them.

There was a certain nobility in the former attitude of most Republican newspapers, if they knew what they were about. Doing a business incapable of receiving benefit from tariff monopoly, but subject to its exactions in every item of labor and material used, these newspapers were self-sacrificing enough to fight valiantly under the high protection flag at every election, no matter what liberties they took between times.

The Republican newspapers abandoned this disinterested position when they went to congress for relief from tariff exactions without demanding it at the same time for other industries. This has been rubbed into them at every point of the debate and the hearings. Nevertheless, the representatives of the Publishers' association have persisted till they have got a grudging promise from Speaker Cannon to call a Republican caucus on the repeal question.

Under the whip of the press the repeal may go thru the house, tho we imagine the senate will stand like a stone wall. Well it may, because this repeal is the thin end of the tariff revision wedge. However selfish the newspapers are in their attitude, they will have shown other victims of tariff monopoly how to get relief by combination and agitation.

The infection will spread until even senators and speakers and committees of the faithful become aware that there are buyers as well as sellers in the United States, consumers as well as manufacturing trusts.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Mayor J. D. McPhee turned a very clever political trick in his appointment of Chas. Duval, ex-Captain of Police of Crookston as street commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Frank Jerome. McPhee is a candidate for the Republican monination for sheriff of Polk Co., and N. A. Bray a well known and popular Frechman is also a candidate, having been one of the first to file. He had been conceded practically the solid French vote of the city and county, but Duval is also a well known Frenchman, and his appointment means that Mayor McPhee is going after the French vote on his own account. Co. Commissioner Rindahl has the Scandinavian vote in the East end of the county lined up for himself for sheriff and Deputy Sheriff Orin Daniels also has a strong following and the fight will be one of the hottest in the history of the county. Another hot fight will be put up for county attorney, with E. O. Hagen of this city and G. A. E. Finlayson, of East Grand Forks the former U. of M. football star, already in the race, and more to follow. County Attorney Maybury of this city is also expected to file again but has not definitely announced his candidacy as yet.—Minneapolis Journal.

Many of the larger dailies and no few of the smaller ones are vigorously assailing the nomination of Wm. Taft for president on the republican ticket but they don't name the man who they wish to take his place.

THE MERRY WIDOW HAT

At last the married man is coming into his own. He is getting his money's worth this season. When a man pays twenty-five hard earned simoleons for a sky-piece for his beloved wife, he wants something more than a carved buckle and a feather. It remained for the milliner to solve the problem and eliminate the old man's grouch. The man never lived who would kick on twenty-five dollars for a ton of straw, seven birds and a truck garden or enough ribbon, feathers, puffs, ruffles to open a curiosity shop The fundamental principle of all business is to get something for your money and it remained for the milliner to fix it so that one feels he is getting anything and everything all in one.

The Merry Widow hat is great! It was born great! It is achieving greatness! And greatness is sure being thrust, heaped, loaded and crammed upon it!

We stood behind one in the lobby of the Lyceum theatre last night. It looked like an old family dinner table when the preacher called, and we had a homesick feelin' at once. The lady under the hat had to keep shifting her position to keep from sinking to the tile floor, and the cords stood out on her neck like they do on the Arab at the circus when he is balancing seven of his countrymen in mid-air. The milliner must have been hungry when the hat was turned out. The centerpiece was a crystalized pineapple in full bloom and its effect was carried out with a pine bough hedge surrounding a turnip patch, leaving a playground for the Easter rabbits. Pretty well toward the stern of the deck was a vineyard and we felt like giving the wearer a wine-press the combination looked so good.. In the bow of the craft was a stork's nest built with baled hay and spinach grew in profusion. We were just wondering if some young man had not been sowing his wild oats on that hat when the crowd commenced to move into the show room. It was lucky thing that the double doors were open or the procession would have stopped—that hat would never go thru a single door on the bias. The wearer finally found a seat. She removed the usual number of spikes and three men helped her settle the hat and its palm-garden finish in the next row. The young lady heaved a sigh of relief her muscles relaxed and the show was on.

Literally speaking—the Merry Widow hat is the greatest hit of the season. The idea was probably conceived in Texas where the women carry their week's washing down to the sea shore in large wicker baskets on their heads. The fad is sure to develop the muscles, round out the form and prevent gossip inasmuch ts it keeps the mouth shut tight and is a hard grind on false teeth.

If you see the delivery boy drive up to your home with a band wagon, don't think you have been nominated for congress. Your wife has just purchased a Merry Widow hat and owing to the personality of the hat it has to be delivered in a band wagon rather than a band-box.

When you go camping next summer don't take a tent—take your wife's Merry Widow hat and veil and you will have shelter enough for the family. And by the way, leave the trimmings at home. They will keep the cow alive until you return.

We repeat—the Merry Widow hat is the greatest creation of the age.—Minot Daily Reporter.

IN THE REALM OF INSURANCE

Minnesota Insurance Department Bulletin No. 8—John A. Hartigan, Ins. Com.,—Published to protect Journal Readers against fake insurance.

The Indianapolis Fire Insurance Company of Indianapolis, Ind., reinsured in the German American Insurance Company of New York, March 2, 1908, and the Hamilton Fire Insurance Company of New York, reinsured in the Delaware Insurance Company of Philadelphia, Pa., April 1, 1908.

The Independent Order of Foresters is proposing to readjust the rates of its members admitted prior to 1898.

Of 654 fires from lightning investigated by the Fire Marshal of Ohio only one building had a modern rod on it. The accident was caused by electricity jumping from a copper rod thru the weather boarding to a radiator close to the wall. The loss was $6.50. In two instances weather boards or shingles were displaced but not fired. No person has been struck in a rodded building in that state.

The National Protective Legion of Waverly N. Y., the license of which was cancelled by this Department over two years ago is now paying $113.56 instead of $250.00 promised to its victims. The disappointment felt by the unfortunate certificate holders is the inevitable result of speculative contracts.

The proposition made to the receivers of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company of New York by the Pittsburg Life & Trust Company of Pittsburg, Pa., to take over the legal reserve business of the former company was accepted by the receivers on April 8, 1908.

Since January 1st, there have been 56 fires in educational institutions thruout the United States. One hundred and sixty-six lives have been lost and thousands endangered. The property damage varies from small amounts to $150,000.

The new law governing fraternal insurance societies, enacted at the last session of the State Legislature, requires that all such societies have a representative form of government and that at least a majority of the members of the governing body be delegates elected from subordinate branches. Several societies formerly doing business in this state will be obliged either to amend their constitution and by-laws or to withdraw from the state.

The fire losses in the United States and Canada for the month of March aggregated $16,723,300.

The premiums and losses for the various forms of Casualty business transacted in this State for the year 1907 are as follows:

	Premiums	Losses
Personal Accident	$461855.99	$171207.21

WEST COUNTRY LOOKS FINE

HUNDREDS OF ACRES OF WHEAT ARE UP AND LOOK VERY FINE

MAYOR McPHEE STATES CONDITIONS HAVE NOT BEEN AS GOOD FOR YEARS.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Mayor J. D. McPhee spent yesterday in western Polk Co., looking over the crop situation. Just as an illustration he states that Pete Sullivan has 600 acres of wheat sown and about half of it is up and looks fine.

Practically all the farmers along the Marais have finished their wheat seeding, and are now plowing for oats and barley. Mayor McPhee states that the acreage this year will be at least 25 per cent greater than it has been for the past five years, and the farmers are more optimistic than they have been for many years past.

WERE PLEASED WITH PASADENA

MARINES ON PACIFIC FLEET WILL LOCATE IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The Journal is in receipt of a letter from Ex-alderman C. E. Misner of this city, who is now a member of the firm of Misner and Misner of Pasadena, Cal., doing an extensive real estate business. He enclosed a clipping from the Pasadena Daily News which reads as follows:

"Guy Clark Smith a marine and E. A. Holloway, a musician, aboard the U. S. S. Minnesota, have written to C. E. Misner, of Misner & Misner, their impressions in retrospect of the week spent in the cities of Los Angeles county, as compared to the week now being spent at Santa Barbara. Los Angeles and Pasadena and surrounding towns look so well by contrast that the writer declares when he is discharged he will bring his fortune represented by about $7,000 in property and money, to Pasadena to live, and he says he knows of a number of other men, "not bums, but out for pleasure," who are planning the same course. This means that these men will bring their families with them.

"Mr. Smith wrote that he had received copies of the News sent by Mr. Misner, in which was an account of an evening affair given at the Misner residence at which the two marines were present. The treatment accorded the sailors and the high prices charged them in Santa Barbara were subjects of very unfavorable comment but of the reception accorded the men of the fleet here, Mr. Smith wrote that the kindly feeling toward the cities of this section on account of it is not more than half realized."

Kidney ills seize young and old.

Can't control the kidney secretions.
Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.
Women worry, can't do daily work.
Men have lame and aching backs.
The cure for man, woman, or child.
Is to cure the cause—the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys—
Cure all forms of kidney suffering.
Crookston testimony proves it.

Mrs. R. Johnson, of 222 Front St., S. Crookston, Minn., says: "Kidney complaint and backaches clung to me persistently in spite of the fact that I used numerous remedies. At times there were severe pains through the loins and over the kidneys and a dull heavy bearing down feeling, also considerable inconvenience from the irregularity of the kidney secretions. The local reputation of Doan's Kidney Pills led Mr. Johnson to go to Wallace's drug store and procure a box for me. Their use strengthened my kidneys, banished the pains in my back and helped my system in a general way. Mr. Johnson, who was altroubled in a similar manner found equally fine results from using Doan's Kidney Pills."

FINAL SESSION OF LAUNDRYMEN

C. D. BILLINGS HEADS NORTH DAKOTA ASSOCIATION COMING YEAR

CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN DEVILS LAKE NEXT OCTOBER

From Wednesday's Daily—

The Third Semi-annual convention of the Northwestern as well as North Dakota Laundrymen's association adjourned yesterday at Fargo after completing the most successful meetings at which the attendance was large and the enthusiasm high. The addresses delivered were very fine and the convention was beneficial to all. The Northwestern association adjourned at noon after which the North Dakota association which also includes northern Minnesota, met and elected officers for the ensuing year, the choice being as follows:

President—C. D. Billings of East Grand Forks.

Vice President—F. B. Loomis, Fargo.

Secretary-Treasurer—W. A. Collins Grand Forks.

Devils Lake was chosen as the next place for the semi-annual convention which will be held in October.

The Northwestern

When the Northwestern convention was called to order yesterday morning several new delegates were present, having arrived the night previous or yesterday morning. Either St. Paul or Minneapolis was selected as the place for the next semi-annual convention to be held in October. The officers of the Northwestern will be chosen at that time. Papers were read by J. Kankibille of St. Paul on the subject "Our Friend the Horse." W. W. Tiffart of Aberdeen, S. D., had for his subject "Little Helps in a Laundry" while D. E. Armstrong of Duluth, talked on organization.

BY THE FLIP OF A COIN

IN THAT WAY HEDBERG OF WARROAD GOT DELEGATESHIP HERE

It was because Roger J. Bell of Roseau county chose heads and because it was the lucky Roger, too, perhaps, that John Hedberg of Roseau county landed as delegate from the Ninth district to the national convention at Chicago. John W. Eastman of Red Lake that lost the delegate job to Daniel Patterson of St. Hilaire. The Red Lake delegation say that John W. should have refused (for John has always known he was unlucky). On the night preceding the convention here the north country delegations saw that they must have one and only one of the delegates to fight for or they would both lose out and they retired to the parlors of the Hotel Crookston and John Eastman flipped the coin. Hedberg won.

HOMESTEADER WINS AGAIN.

Appeal of Cass Lake Land Case Decided for Donahue.

Washington, May 6.—The supreme court of the United States yesterday decided the case of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway company vs. John R. Donahue, involving a conflict over the possession of land in the Cass Lake land district of Minnesota, in favor of Donahue. The land was settled by a homesteader through whom Donahue made a claim in 1893, before it had been surveyed, but no effort was made to enter it until 1896, after the survey had been made. In the meantime the tract had been included in the list of land grants to the railroad. The Minnesota supreme court decided in favor of the homesteader and the federal court affirmed the decision yesterday.

GRAND MEETING OF ELKS IN BEMIDJI JUNE 18-20

Bemidji Pioneer: That the Elks of Minnesota and their ladies will be royally entertained at the fourth annual meeting of the State Association of Elks, which will be held in Bemidji June 18-19-20 is assured by the various local committees having the arrangements in charge, an elaborate program having been already arranged and the committees on accommodations reporting that already there are enough rooms and sleeping appartments assured to care for all who may desire to be present at the greatest gathering of Elks ever held in the state.

The committee on transportation reported that all agents of railroads centering here, together with the representatives in St. Paul, were co-operating with the local committees in the matter of furnishing equipment and accommodations while in Bemidji, and that that part of the program was well taken care of, assuring all visitors the best of accommodations coming here and while here.

A special effort will be made to care for the ladies who will accompany the Elks to Bemidji. Mrs. J. C. Parker, one of the most enthusiastic of the local lady Elks has been given full charge of the arrangements to care for the lady visitors. She has been given liberal funds and authorized to secure all needed assistance. All ladies who come will be as royally entertained as will the Elks themselves.

The local committee has closed a contract with the proprietors of the boat company whereby every boat belonging to that concern will be chartered for the free use of visiting Elks and ladies so that they can enjoy fishing and boating to their heart's content at any time they desire to use the boats.

There will also be plenty of gasoline launches which, with the rowboats and plenty of fishing tackle, bait and guides, will give the Elks all they desire in that line.

One of the features of the meet will be the presence of a large band of Red Lake Indians, who will give dances and boat races, etc., every day They will be camped along the lake shore and will exemplify the "noble Red men" in all their savagery and gaudy dress.

A large crowd of Elks and other visitors not members of the B. P. O. E. is expected in the city during the state meet and the members of the Bemidji lodge are making preparations to care for every person who visits this city at that time, so that no one need fear coming to Bemidji June 18, 19 and 20 because of lack of accommodations. There will be plenty of room for all.

G. FORKS COLLEGE WANTS FINANCIER

Judge Grindeland of Warren was down this week to interview Rev. O. N. Fosmark with a view to have him take charge of the financial affairs of Grand Forks College. Mr. Fosmark's great success in raising the funds to build and put Park Region Luther college on its feet has given him a wide reputation among colleges and church schools. He will probably not accept the offer as there is some work to be done in closing up the financing of the school here and there are many who would regret to see him leave the field where thirty years of his active life have been spent.—Fergus Falls Journal.

HERD OF 1000 BUFFALO LOCATED AT LAMONT, CAN.

Lamont, in Alberta, just across the line in Canada from Montana has the largest buffalo herd in the world, numbering over 400. They are kept in a large corall or game preserve so arranged that the Grand Trunk Pacific runs along one side of it for 80 miles thus giving passengers an excellent opportunity of seeing the herd. Last year these buffaloes were nearly all shipped out of Montana to Lamont. Three hundred more have just been secured from the same source from a man named Michael Pablo, a Montana rancher. These will be driven up to Lamont, a distance of over 80 miles. A round-up of 300 wild buffaloes ought to make it somewhat exciting even to the old time cowboy. The two herds united together with the offspring will make a herd of close on to a thousand head—a sight worth seeing. The net increase is estimated at 25 per cent anually hence the danger of extinction of this noblest of America's big game is passed.

"YEGGMEN'S" LOOT OF MINNESOTA BANKS

STATE INSTITUTIONS ROBBED OF $25,000 IN LAST NINE MONTHS—SIXTEEN BURGLARIES IS TH E RECORD FOR THAT PERIOD—OFFERS OF REWARDS FAIL TO BRING LAWLESS BAND TO JUSTICE.

During the last nine months Minnesota has been startled by a series of the most daring bank robberies in its history. Sixteen banks received visitations from yeggmen as they are called, in the period named, and the total amount in gold, silver and currency taken was $23,497.18. This does not include the loss resultant from the wrecking of buildings, vaults and the safes, due to the use of high explosives. Of the 16 institutions which suffered six were members of the Minnesota State Bankers' association and ten were not, tho all were protected from loss by burglary.

Despite the fact that the efforts of officials all over the state and of secret service men and detectives from out the state were centered in an attempt to break up the gang or gangs which have been operating (it is believed there is only one) the endeavor is without success.

FARMERS APPEAL TO COURT FOR INJUNCTION

From Thursday's Daily—

Joseph Lariviere and others have served on County Auditor Hoffard summons and complaint as against Polk county asking him to appear before Judge Watts May 4th next to show cause why temporary injunction should not be issued restraining construction and preparations for construction of ditch 72.

This ditch arises in the town of Grove Park and proceeds in a generally westerly direction for about fifteen miles to the west portion of Onstad town.

Joseph Lariviere appears in behalf of himself and in behalf of William Sampson, M. L. Skrivseth, Alfred Erickson, Senator S. D. Works, John Hoffman, L. E. Larson and others similarly located. Ditch 72 was established last May by the Polk county commissioners. It was petitioned for by N. Z. Horton and others.

The complaint alleges that the ditch has an outlet in a false coulie of which ditch 11 is the outlet, an outlet not having sufficient capacity to carry the water, the result being that flat country about the bottom of the coulie is overflowed and damaged.

The complaint further points out that the farmers, plaintiffs in the suit remonstrated before the county commissioners, but that they were never theless made no party to the proceedings and the ditch was established over their protests.

The paper is accompanied by the recommendations of Minnesota State Drainage Engineer George A. Ralph and County Engineer Orvis Hinds who state that the ditches 11 and 12 are too small to carry off the water forced down on them by the false coulie and the big ditch that empties into it and advise that the ditch be continued and extended for three miles more so that sufficient outlet may be found in natural streams.

PENNED AND PILFERED

"So this is Crookston" said one of the participants at the gun club tournament at noon today. "Please do not quote me in the statement, because I have to make too many towns in Minnesota and the two Dakotas."

"The fact remains however that Crookston, to an outsider looks mighty good. I am loyal to my own town, but I want to state right here that there is no city in the Northwest, Minnesota or North and South Dakota, where you can see the improvements that can be seen in Crookston. Your streets are the best in the northwest and that is all there is to it. I do not know how much they cost, and I do not care, but you have the streets. No one can deny that fact."

There was a bank robbery at Stephen the fore part of the week. The robbers indulged in target practice after they secured the booty, borrowing the fastest horse in town, hitched it to an easy riding buggy and left town while it was still dark enough so the light would not hurt their eyes. Special to the Journal from the leader of the gang: "We are going yet. $8000 not all spent. Entire party enjoying the best of health. Will be back again later on." The Journal makes it a strict rule never to give the name of its informant in connection with delicate news items that might get some one into trouble, and will therefore not publish the name of the sender, nor the place from where it was sent.

The District Court for the "County of Snipperville, State of Hubbard" was called to order by Hon. George Anderson Judge of the "999th Judicial District." The indictment of grand larceny in the second degree against Ludvig Ludvigson was signed by Ole Tin-can-two-quart-bottleson as foreman of the grand jury. ARE EXTENDING THE CUT-OFF

SOO LINE FROM BROOTEN TO DULUTH BEING RAPIDLY BUILT

Work on the new cut-off which the Soo is building from Brooten, Minn., to Duluth, is progressing rapidly. Foley Bros., of St. Paul who have the contract are pushing it steadily from Royalton, which is being made a base of operations. M. H. Foley states that the cut-off will be practically completed to Moose Lake in the south west corner of Carlton county by fall.

At Royalton the Soo is building a permanent steel bridge across the Mississippi river to take the place of a temporary structure previously erected. The site is owned by the Pike Rapids Power company, which brought suit demanding the removal of the bridge or the payment of $150,000 by the Soo. The railroad admits having trespassed on the rights of the power company, and asks to have the damages assessed. The suit will be tried in the United States court at Duluth. The Soo was granted permission to bridge the river at this point by congress.

STATEMENT TO STEENERSON

GARFIELD EXPLAINS OPPOSITION TO BILL ADJUSTING MATTERS ON THE

RED LAKE RESERVATION—WILL INVESTIGATE MATTERS FURTHER

From Friday's Daily—

Congressman H. Steenerson has received a statement from Secretary of the Interior Garfield concerning his bill to adjust matters on the Red Lake Indian reservation in Minnesota.

The bill authorizes the allotment of 160 acres to each man, woman and child of either agricultural or pine lands, and in addition a lot of five acres of either pine of agricultural land suitable for residence or gardening and fronting on or adjacent to the Red Lake.

The bill provides also for reservation of certain sections of merchantable pine timber for use of the Indians in common, and for the sale of timber growing on the remainder of the reservation for the benefit of the Indians.

The price at what white pine shall be sold is fixed at not less than $11 and Norway pine at not less than $9 per thousand board measure, the timber to be sold on stumpage under sealed bids to the highest bidder, the net proceeds to be paid to the Indians after the expense of sale and supervision of cutting by the government shall have been paid from the gross receipts.

Statement by Garfield

Secretary Garfield says: "I have given the bill careful consideration and am strongly opposed to its enactment into law, as I do not believe it to be for the best interests of the Indians that their timber be administered in this manner. The act of February 20, 1904, authorizes the allotment to Red Lake Indians of 160 acres of either agricultural or pine lands. The bill now before me amends that act only to the extent of reserving certain sections of pine land for the benefit of tribe in common, and for the sale of the remainder of merchantable timber for the benefit of Indians.

Investigation Proposed

"It is the intention of the commissioner of Indians affairs to detail a representative to his office to proceed to the Red Lake agency during the coming summer and take up with the Indians the question of administering their timber lands in a manner whereby they would derive the greatest benefit from them without denuding the lands. This could be done, for instance, by placing timber lands in a forest reserve, the ripe timber to be cut under supervision of the forest service annually and the net proceeds paid to Indians.

"If the Indians of Red Lake reservation should agree to this or a similar policy it is the intention of the department to request at the next session of congress legislation authorizing allotment of agricultural lands of the reservation and inclusion of pine land in a forest reserve or their conservation in a manner whereby the Indians would receive the full benefits from the sale of ripe timber and preserve the forests for future generations."

FIFTEEN YEARS OF KEEN SUFFERING

Rheumatism Developed Burning, Painful Sores on Legs—Tortured Day and Night—Tried All Kinds of Remedies to No Avail—Wife Had Debility and Pains in Back.

BOTH USED CUTICURA AND ARE WELL AGAIN

"My husband had been a great sufferer with rheumatism for nearly fifteen years. At first it was in his bones, but after a while it was in the flesh and finally running sores broke out on his legs, from below the knees to the ankles. There are no words to tell all the discomfort and great suffering he had to endure night and day. He used every kind of remedy and three physicians treated him, one after the other, without any good results whatever. So one day I happened to read about Cuticura Remedies. I asked him if he would not try them. 'No,' said he, 'it's no use, I've spent enough money now.' The next day I ordered five dollars' worth of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. He began to use them without confidence but after three weeks all the sores were dried up. The burning fire stopped, and the pains became bearable. After three months he was quite well. Two years later the pains and sores came back after he had been working hard and had taken cold. But as soon as he used Cuticura again it cured him. Two years ago I used Cuticura Pills for general debility. They did me a great deal of good and made me well. Three months since I had pains in my back and Cuticura took them away, too. I can prove this testimonial at any time. Mrs. V. V. Albert, Upper Frenchville, Me., July 21, 1907."

A Single Treatment

Consisting of a warm bath with Cuticura Soap, a gentle application of Cuticura Ointment, and a mild dose of Cuticura Resolvent or Pills, is often sufficient to afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure of torturing, disfiguring eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations, and inflammations of the skin and scalp, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Pills (25c. per vial of 60), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

A SUICIDE AT WARREN

From Thursday's Daily—

Last evening at 8 o'clock the body of Peter Lindquist, proprietor of the Scandinavian hotel at Warren, was found in the hayloft of the barn at the rear of the hotel dangling from a wire, cold in death.

The awful find was made by a girl employed in the hotel who went to the loft to throw down some hay for the cow. The frightened girl went into hysterics and could hardly make her way to the hotel and give the alarm.

Chief of Police Dady was first on the scene and the coroner later removed the body to an undertaking establishment.

Lindquist had been dead for about 3 hours. His absence from the hotel was not noticed as he had been a protracted spree for three weeks and it was supposed he was about town some where, having left the hotel about 5 o'clock.

Lindquist was determined to die evidently. He had fastened a heavy double wire about his neck, backed up to a heavy spike on a studding to which he hooked the other end of the wire and then deliberately drew up his feet and strangled himself to death.

He had operated the Scandinavian hotel for 8 years, ever since he went to Warren. He was well thought of and honest and his rash deed was a great shock to the people of Warren. He leaves a wife who has been in the hospital there for some time following an operation. He also has three children. His only failing was an occasional protracted spree, and it is supposed to be remorse that led to the terrible deed as he was well fixed financially. He was 40 years of age.

Deceased was well known in Crookston having visited this city often, and his rash act occasioned a great deal of surprise here today.

LARSON SUES FOR $25,000 DAMAGES

Ole Larson the pioneer hardware merchant of Fisher has brought a suit against Ex-Representative Krostue of the same place who is a banker and merchant there, for $25,000 damages for slander, claiming Krostue made the statement that he had set fire to his (Larson's) building which was burned a few weeks ago and in which the same fire destroyed a saloon, Krostue's general store, a drugstore and a jewelry store.

There has been bad blood between the two men for some time past, politics entering into the deal to a considerable extent. Larson claims to have several witnesses who will swear that Krostue made the unqualified statement that Larson started the fire intentionally which came very nearly wiping out the entire village.

The suit promises to be one of the most sensational of the coming June term, and Larson alleges there will be other developments in which the Fisher banker will be made to side step. Banker Krostue who spent yesterday in the city treats the affair lightly apparently and intimated that there would be some developments that would make the plaintiff sit up and take dotice before the case was completely threshed out.

A LEAP YEAR OF HER OWN

HILDA SENDS POST HASTE TO NORWAY FOR PROSPECTIVE HUSBAND

FURNISHED MONEY TO OLE HOVE TO COME TO AMERICA

From Saturday's Daily—

Unable to speak a word of English and ticketed like a piece of baggage, Ole Hove went thru this city last night to Minot, North Dakota where a woman, Hilda, awaits him to make him her husband. Hove has been one the road for a month, landing at Montreal and coming west thru Duluth. He got off the train at Crookston yesterday evening and ate in Chas. Byers restaurant after asking one of his associates on the train about the hours of leaving and departing. Ole was lost in Duluth and in some way got into Superior, where he sat around in the depot for two or three days. He is an erratic spouse, is Ole, and Hilda who awaits him at a Minot hotel is an anxious girl for Ole was accompanied into this country by her brother Ingvald Kristenson.

Kristenson has been in this country before, living near Badger on a home stead in 1903-4. Ole is a gentleman of short stature little cognizant of the responsibilities of Hilda's love and quite attracted by American life en route. He is the owner of spacious mind and thinks there is lots of time to get to Minot notwithstanding Kristenson's continuous watchfulness. They departed west last night.

TRY WILLOWS AS SNOW BARRIERS

RAILROAD OFFICIALS GET IDEA FROM FARMERS OF THE NORTHWEST

As a rather novel innovation in railroading, altho the scheme has been successfully tried out before the Northern Pacific has just placed an order for 100,000 golden willows which will be used as substitutes for snow fences along some of the more exposed portioss of the line. The scheme while comparatively new in application, was tried last year, when over 200,000 golden willows and Carolina populars were planted along the brow of deep cuts where trouble usually turns up during heavy snowstorms. Apparently the application of the new idea has been found moderately successful, since the road has just decided to continue the plan, and it is understood may supplement this order by several thousand more.

Some years ago the northern lines hit upon this scheme which was suggested by the custom of farmers, whose houses were located at exposed points on the prairies, of using trees and hedges as a protection against wind and snow. The great Northern last year distributed 300,000 trees, comprising box elders, maples, ashes, golden willows and poplars, along stretches of its right of way where snow fences were found inadequate to prevent the drifting of snow in the deep, unprotected cuts.

The order of the Northern Pacific will soon be delivered to Dilworth, Minn., which is but a short distance from Fargo. The golden willows and poplars will be distributed along the line from this point and will supplement the 200,000 supplied last year, which were mostly used in North Dakota and Montana.

Double Row in Spots

The willows and populars are rooted cuttings, standing in height between two and one half to four feet. The trees will be planted at intervals of about four feet at the crest of cuts on the north or exposed side. At some points where the wind has an especially strong sweep and drifting is bad the trees will be planted in double rows, in order to form a denser barrier to the blasts of the storm.

Both the golden willows and poplars are of a rugged species and require practically no attention. Both are particularly adaptable to this sort of work on account of their rapid growth about eighteen months or two years only being required for them to reach a full development. The trees are branched low, which forms a dense growth nearly from the surface of the ground upward. In case the willows and poplars are found to withstand all the rigors of the climate without attention, and form good protection against drifting, it is possible that the unsightly snow fence will be entirely supplanted on the transcontinental lines.

LAW'S HAND ON ROBBER

JUDGE STANTON DISCUSSES SERIOUSNESS OF CRIME IN OPEN COURT

DEFENDANT CONVICTED OF ROBBERY IN THE 2ND DEGREE SENTENCED TO 7 YEARS

From Saturday's Daily—

The criminal calendar of the district court for the April term at Walker has been disposed of, with the following convictions:

David Monik, indicted for assault in the first degree, was convicted of assault in the second degree and sentenced to five years in the state's prison.

August Thorall indicted and convicted of grand larceny in the second degree was sentenced to the state prison for a term of three years.

Joe Smith indicted for robbery in the second degree was convicted and sentenced to seven years in state's prison.

County Attorney Scribner of Cass county is elated over the outcome of the criminal work at this term of court and Judge Stanton who presided, while he took the greatest pains to give the accused a fair and impartial trial, dealt out stiff sentenecs.

Judge Stanton upon the passing of sentence for the charge of robbery said regarding the prevalence of the crime in northern Minnesota.

"The crime of robbery is a grave one, and they have convicted you of robbery in the second degree. It is a much more serious crime than that of larceny because it couples with it violence and taking of property or money from the person of another and therefore is a crime which the statute imposes severe penalty for the commission of.

"I am well aware, and you doubtless are yourself, and so is every other resident of the northern section of the state, that the commission of this particular crime has been very prevalent thruout the northern section of the state. Many persons have escaped punishment even when brought before the court."

EXCELLENT ADVICE GIVEN

HON. B. SAMPSON CALLS ATTENTION TO CARLESSNESS WITH FIREARMS

LIVES IN DANGER AND PROPERTY DESTROYED BY CARELESS YOUNG MEN AND BOYS

From Thursday's Daily—

Hon. B. Sampson has addressed a letter to the Journal warning young men and boys to exercise more care in the use of firearms. It is most excellent advice. That there have not been more accidents is due to good fortune alone, as bullets have been flying in all directions at various and divers times.

Mr. Sampson might have mentioned many more incidents than he did. He lost a $200 colt one time, and the attending veteninary stated that death was caused from bloodpoisoning which came from a bullet lodged in the colt's leg. He killed a cow once which was filled with shot. His barns have been perforated with hundreds of bullets and his son when plowing last fall had the handle of the plow he was operating shattered with a bullet while he was at work. If the bullet had hit the boy instead of the plow, a life might have been sacrificed thru carelessness. Following is the communication sent in by Mr. Sampson:

To the Editor of the Journal: A word of advice to young men and boys who enjoys hunting on other peoples premises should also enjoy to be a respectable citizen and not destroy and ruin a man's property, sending bullets in every direction not knowing what injury they are doing.

I am the owner of N. E. 1-4 of Sec. 2 in Town of Andover, half a mile west of South Crookston. I have a barn there in a grove, accommodation for eight horses but when I came out there I found baskets full of empty shells and bullet holes all over my barn, and tools, etc., have been carried away. Now young men and boys read the State Laws and also common laws as all your acts are accounted for under the higher authority, and you all know if you do something good you will feel good and if anything wrong you will feel wrong.

Last fall when my boys were out there plowing, one of them working on the east side and the other on the west, two Sunday school boys came along, a bullet was sent thru the water barrel so the water run out and had no water for the horses, even shooting the pitchfork handles to pieces; now young men and boys what do you think of such acts when horses have to work all day without water through your acts and all people have to depend upon such labor, as I am one of those who raise No. 1 Hard wheat which is very valuable to you and others and one of my horses is carrying a stray bullet in the shoulder and when working hard she shivers even if the animal is in good order, so my advice to you is to stop such foolish work. —B. Sampson.

M'CAFFREY GETS VERY GOOD BERTH

BROTHER OF CROOKSTON BUSINESS MAN SECRETARY OF WIS. U. REGENTS

The following from the Wisconsin State Journal of Madison will be of special interest here as M. E. McCaffrey is a brother of J. A. McCaffrey a well known business man of this city The Journal says:

"The regents of the University of Wisconsin did the university a worthy service as well as the man they named, when they advanced Mr. M. E. McCaffrey from the position of acting secretary to that of secretary of the board. Mr. McCaffrey's experience with Mr. Riley, and in handling the business of the board of regents since Mr. Riley's retirement, have proven that he possesses unusual qualifications for the important office. Considering the responsibility resting upon the secretary of the board it would seem as if the salary might have been advanced to a higher figure than $2,000."

A CLEANING UP AT THIEF RIVER

SOILED DOVES WERE ORDERED TO LEAVE CITY AT ONCE

From Tuesday's Daily—

Fifty soiled doves with gamblers and tin horn sports in their train flooded Steve Withey's special on the Greenbush line of the Great Northern yesterday evening coming from Thief River Falls to Red Lake Falls, county seat of Red Lake County.

This excited exodus was caused by the order of Mayor Hanson of Thief River Falls that all the residents of the tenderloin district leave the city by four o'clock. The order was issued Monday morning by the new chief of police Lang. Immediately the greatest hub-bub arose from among the denizens and they assembled and determined to appeal to the mayor in person who however would not hear them.

Accordingly they have appealed to County Attorney Germo of Red Lake Falls for action restraining enforcement of the mayor's order. There is considerable feeling over the matter as it is the first, tho not unexpected, action of the city of late toward freeing itself of the tenderloin.

ZALINSKY HELD FOR ROBBERY

Warren, Minn., May 5—The horse and buggy belonging to Al Dickerman of Stephen, which were stolen by the Stephen, Minn., bank robbers were found today near Deed P. O. in Marshall county. The horse was nearly dead, having been driven hard.

J. E. Raymond alias Joe Zalinsky and James Nolan, are known to have driven the horse. After leaving it they tried to hold up a preacher and take his team from him, but were unsuccessful. They then travelled to Greenbush, where they were arrested.

Two twin city detectives arrived here today and will try to weave a tight web around Zalinsky and capture his associates. Members of the gang that Zalinsky worked with were arrested at Winnipeg a short time ago and their pictures are in the rogues' gallery.

The authorities are in possession of sufficient evidence to convict Zalinsky, he having been positively identified today as the man who bought the groceries in this town that were found in the bank after it was burglarized.

No county of the valley has supported an institution for the county poor for there has been so few public dependents, but now this and other counties are being confronted with such problems.

MAN WHO SHOT CONRAD STEENERSON IS MAKING DESPERATE FIGHT

From Tuesday's Daily—

Jefferson Whitaker was arraigned in the county judge's court at Towner on a charge of shooting Conrad Steenerson at Upham. His attorney objected to the jurisdiction of the judge, but this was overruled. Then a change of venue was asked and was refused. The hearing was continued to Monday next.

It is ascertained that there had been a good deal of trouble between the men previous to the shooting. Whitaker was talking to the proprietor of a pool hall when Steenerson came in and renewed the quarrel. He abused Whitaker and finally slapped him. He was making an effort to prevent Whitaker from leaving the room when he was shot. Whitaker claims that he was suffering from rheumatism and was unable to defend himself without the use of firearms.—Grand Forks Herald.

KILLED NINE DEER IN 24 HOURS

STREET CAR MEN PLAY HAVOC WITH DEER ON HOODS CANAL

Steve Withey has received from Wm. Hall, formerly lineman here, now located at Puyallup, Washington, a letter containing the following extract:

Nine deer in less than twenty-four hours was the record made by a party of Tacoma and Puyallup hunters in the Hoods Canal country the first of this week. They brought to Tacoma today seven of the deer as a proof of their camp and given the other way.

The party was composed of G. W. Post, A H. Gunhus and W. M. Post, street car men of this city, and C. Miller, John Shadle, George Todd and Steve Todd of Puyallup. Their game was left for a few minutes this after noon on the walk in front of the Washington Automobile company, 710 Pacific avenue, and a large crowd was soon attracted.

The men left Tacoma last Saturday and reached their camp Sunday. Before Monday noon nine fine deer had fallen victims to their shots.

W. M. Post who had a 30-30 rifle was the best marksman, he having killed three deer within a few minutes not letting a single one of the bunch get away. The men are so enthusiastic over hunting in the Hoods country that they will return there at once.

Superintendent Boutelle of the Tacoma Railway & Power company and State Auditor Claussen will go to the men's camp to join in the hunt.

ARMOUR SQUEEZES SHORTS.

Burst of Speculative Fireworks In Chicago Wheat Pit.

Chicago, May 3.—Delivery day on May contracts was marked by a burst of speculative fireworks in the Chicago wheat pit. May wheat soared to $1.04, an advance of 4 5-8 cents over the previous close. Then a slight reaction dropped the price back to $1.02. The current delivery was boosted 3 3-8 cents, to $1.04, finally closing at $1.02.

There is much sensational talk of a corner in wheat by J. Ogden Armour. This Armour's grain manager, George E. Marcy, denies, but nevertheless the fact seems to remain that Armour owns all the Chicago wheat in sight, and bear traders caught short in the squeeze yesterday owed their dilemma to this fact.

Armour is credited with holding 6,000,000 bushels of wheat in his Chicago elevators. Shrewd traders say he cleared up close to $1,000,000 on yesterday's squeeze.

Do your duty and let the other fellow do the explaining.

Under the new regime the corporation will be a strictly Crookston people affair, and every cent of money expended will remain here.

STENOGRAPHERS ARE BUT HUMAN MACHINES

THEY DO MONOTONOUS WORK THAT RARELY BRINGS LARGE SALARY

If you are thinking of taking up stenography as means of livelihood there are many things to consider, says the June Delineator.

Let us take account of your stock before you decide to be a stenographer. Are you a good speller? Is punctuation one of your strong points? Are you accurate and possessed of a quick, dependable memory? Are you neat and quick with your hands? Do you like routine work, and are you willing to do the same thing day after day with little or no variation?

If you can write "Yes" after each one of those questions, you will succeed as a stenographer. But the girl who always had to consult a dictionary when writing an essay, who lost counts in her "home work" because she forgot commas, semi-colons and quotation marks and was careless about the use of capitals, will never earn her salt as a stenographer. A stenographer is a well-equipped, well-oiled, guaranteed-not-to-run-down machine—and nothing more. Occasionally a wide-awake stenographer works up to a position of trust with her firm. But the majority of girls never get beyond the coveted fifteen a week and acquire nervous prostration from confinement, sedantary work and monotony.

The girl who is content to be this sort of a machine will find her best opportunities in the offices of a large corporation, like a publishing house, insurance company, loan and abstract firm, etc. The preparation for such work is at least six months in a good school of stenography and typewriting.

BALLCLUB P. O. ROBBED OF $600

Last Saturday night robbers entered the postoffice at Ballclub a small town just east of Cass Lake and carried away about six hundred dollars worth of goods and money. Details are lacking here, but it is authoritively stated that the haul amounts to six hundred dollars. Mrs. R. C. Payne is postmistress and in the same room she also conducts a store. After dumping the cash register the burglars located a pocket book which Mrs. Payne had in the store and emptied it of its contents amounting to two hundred dollars. There was no safe in the store or office and the News is unable to learn whether or not any of the stamped paper was stolen. From the manner in which the work was done it is supposed that persons laying around the town well familiar with the conditions did the job.

From Tuesday's Daily—

This afternoon Judge Montague of the local U. S. Land Office is hearing the contest case brought against heirs of C. E. Alfred Foelsh who lived in the neighborhood of Greenbush, by Ingval Green. Foelsh died January 10, 1907 on his Roseau claim and his heirs, who live in Chicago cannot be located. The contestant holds that the heirs did not cultivate or establish residence on the homestead.

OLD CASE UP FOR HEARING

THE ADAM SIPLE CASE BEFORE THE CROOKSTON LAND OFFICE

MR. SIPLE ACTED AS HIS OWN ATTORNEY WITH LOCAL ASSISTANCE

From Monday's Daily—

Adam Siple now living at Beltrami in this county, on September 16th, 1906 tendered a commutation proof on lands situate about 12 miles from Warroad. The proof was rejected because it appeared that his entry was allowed under the Act of April 28 1904, as a second homestead entry, he having made a former entry and lost it, and that act provides that no commutation proof may be made on entries made thereunder, but a later act, the Steenerson Commutation Bill of March 3, 1905, provided that all Chippewa Indian Lands in Minnesota on which homestead entries were made permitted commutation proof on such entries.

The Siple case has been pending a good while. The Secretary of the Interior has just held that this Act of March 3, 1905, is a special act intended to apply to all Chippewa Lands in Minnesota, and as to those lands permits the commutation proof to be made on second entries the same as if it had been an original entry, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office now construes that decision also to mean that homestead entries for the Chippewa Lands may be commuted even where they were additional homestead.

Mr. Siple with assistance given by the local land officials acted as his own attorney.

FARMERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

WHEAT SEEDING HAS BEEN FINISHED BY MANY IN THIS SECTION OF VALLEY

THE CORN ACREAGE WILL BE DOUBLED THIS YEAR—OUTLOOK VERY BRIGHT

From Tuesday's Daily—

A poll of the representative farmers up and down the Minnesota side of the Red River Valley discovers a prevailing sentiment of optimism. The weather of the month of April seems almost to have gone out of its way to make conditions favorable to the seeding and sprouting of large areas. In the first portion of the month during a dry spell about 90 per cent of the years wheat crop for the Valley was put in with also early small grains of other varieties.

The course of rains lasting four days aided this seeded crop and also burst open the seeds of weeds and noxious growths enabling farmers when the season dried out again to plow these growths up and kill them while in their tenderest state. For the last week in April seeding of other varieties of farm produce gained full impetus and there is not an energetic farmer in the valley that is behind the opening season a day.

The favor of the season has made possible many experiments for which farmers thruout the valley have waited many years and whose results are now closely watched. Chief among these is the use of heavy machinery in the breaking of new and old soils and the growth of corn. Farmers living southwest of here in the prosperous towns of Andover, Fairfax and Hammond are planting considerable tracts on different levels in Illinois corn, the seeds for which have been brought from the big Funk farms in the neighborhood of Bloomington, Ill.

In these same towns Iowa and Illinois parties have brought heavy farming machinery with experts to handle it and are taking large contracts for opening of new soils or turning over of old.

YEGGEMEN BLEW FARGO SAFE SUN.

Yeggmen forced an entrance to the office of the Washburn Lignite coal company Thirteenth street and Second avenue north early Sunday morning at Fargo and after succeeding in blowing the safe in most approved fashion secured absolutely nothing for their trouble. The entire door was blown off and the inside combination destroyed. Nothing but the books of the company and 19 cents in cash was kept in the safe which was an exceptionally small one. The coppers were strewn about the floor.

The report of the explosion was heard by neighbors but no alarm was sounded. The job was discovered by Manager A. H. Porter at 10 o'clock Sunday morning when he visited the office. It is believed by Chief Grant that the job was done by professional burglars.

BEAUDETTE POSTMISTRESS

ANDERSON CONTESTS EMMA ERICSON ASST. POSTMISTRESS AT BEAUDETTE

LAND OFFICE WILL DETERMINE WHETHER BEAUDETTE NEEDS ASSISTANT

From Wednesday's Daily—

Contest is on in the land office today brought by Erick Anderson against Miss Emma S. Ericson on lands located near Strathcona in Roseau county. Anderson alleges abandonment by Miss Ericson of more than seven months duration. Miss Ericson claims she is assistant postmistress at Beaudette, Minn., and under the government laws is not liable to charge of abandonment if she leaves her claim.

The land office here will determine whether the post office at Beaudette needs an assistant postmistress in view of the business that passes thru that office. The government does not permit such assistance except in cases where the volume of business demands it and upon such determination will rest the decision of the local land office.

The number of assistant postmistresses in the north country has been brought out by recent contests before the land office and a little sharper detail will be demanded along that line.

CEREMONIES AT R. R. OPENING

INTERNATIONAL FALLS AND FORT FRANCES RAILROAD OPENS APRIL 28

On April 28th the railway bridge conecting International Falls and Fort Frances was declared ready for business, and the first train, bearing officials of the road, prominent visitors and newspaper men, crossed the river.

There was a banquet, speeches, congratulations all around over the completion of the work, and the Canadians were even more tickled, than our own people.

The completion of this bridge gives uninterrupted communication with St. Paul, Minneapolis, and the cities of the east. Considering the difficulties of getting into, or out of this country, heretofore existing the great bridge at the Falls, and the two railroad connections to the south and east, is a blessing that will be appreciated more and more, as the country develops.

Through service between Chicago and Winnipeg, via International Falls will soon be established and the whole of this north country be put in closer touch with the centers of civilization. There will also be a great reduction in freight rates owing to reduced mileage and direct thru line service.—Rainy River Region.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM DITCH

COUNTY BOARD WILL RELET IF CONTRACTOR DOES NOT SATISFY

ENGINEER ORDERED TODAY TO MEASURE WHAT DITCH WORK REMAINS

From Wednesday's Daily—

County Engineer Orvis Hinds was ordered today by county Auditor Hoffard and County Commissioner Clements to proceed along the ditch line of county ditch No. 60 and determine just what amount of ditch work remains to be completed and report to the meeting of the county commissioners tomorrow or as soon as possible.

Also contractor Harry Wyand owner of the work will meet with County Commissioner Clements, Auditor Hoffard and Engineer Hinds this evening or tomorrow and will be asked what disposition and how soon he intends to make of the ditch for report to the county board.

Mr. Wyand took the contract in the spring of 1906 and has not been able to do anything since that time with the exception of a small and inefficient excavation in some portions.

If the county board does not find itself satisfied with the intentions of the contractor, the ditch will be relet.

The completion of the ditch is necessary before the intended tile and other drainage improvements at the experimental farm and agricultural schools can be made effective.

FIGHTING FOR THE BUSINESS

Every railway and lake transportation line entering Chicago is scrambling for a share of the big shipments of the grain that changed hands May 1st when the May deliveries were made and paid for under Board of Trade rules, and which now will go forward to its untimate destination. The focus of this rivalry for traffic is the Board of Trade, for the grain and provisions bought and sold there such exchanges, which has been confused with the gambling done in their counterfeits, the "bucketshops" which have been persistently fought by them for years. In order to maintain a continuous market for live stock, the packing companies sell in the provision pits for future delivery those meat products which must be cured, and on which they need to borrow as otherwise, for lack of capital, the record of 7,201,061 hogs and 3,305,314 cattle marketed for cash in Chicago in 1907 would not have been possible. About 4,000,000 bushels of grain soon will leave Chicago elevators, of which the lake boats have got about 2,000,000 bushels. The elevators there, with capacity of 63,000,000 bushels, will be practically emptied before the crops of this year are available, in fact, before part of the new crop has been planted.

run into tonnage figures which are enormous. The cured meats in 1907 totaled 753,259,255 pounds, and grain and flour 766,950,782 pounds. The figures incidentally threw new light upon the great legitimate business of

MAY SETTLE DITCH 72

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO CONSIDER IN MEET NEXT THURSDAY

DITCHES 12 AND 11 AND BURNHAM CREEK TO BE ENLARGED

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

The county commissioners may take the litigation concerning the ditch 72 running west thru Andover town and settle the right over the ditch by enlarging ditches 11 and 12, the final outlets of 72 and Burnham creek the outlet of 11 and 12.

It is in the enlargement of these waterways that the contention of the opposition to the proposed ditch arises and undoubtedly the injunction proceedings to be heard May 25th next on this matter will be called off by some compromise of the county commissioners.

At the same meeting the board engineer and viewers will be appointed on ditches 76 in Lowell and 77. This last ditch was dropped last fall, it being reported adversely by the viewers appointed as they held the cost exceeded the benefits.

They however at that time recommended a new petition in which would be included a changed course for the ditch. The new petition on which the board will now act conforms with this recommend of the viewers. The ditch is in Hubbard town.

RAINY RIVER DAM IS KILLED

WILL NOT RIDE OVER THE PRESIDENT'S VETO THIS SESSION

All notion of getting up a new bill for extension of the time for construction of a dam across Rainy River at International Falls has been abandoned at Washington because of the probability that congress will adjourn within a comparatively short time. It is said on good authority today that whatever action congress may take in the matter will be on the original bill, on which the president based his veto message discussing the need for taxation of grants for the use of water powers.

Fairbanks, William J. Bryan and Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota. Each was in a separate car and sound asleep when the train arrived here. WAS MURDER COMMITTED

YOUNG BOY WAS SHOT AND KILLED AT GRAND FORKS LAST EVENING

SHOT THRU THE HEART BY A 32-CALIBRE REVOLVER—DIED IN 40 MINUTES

From Monday's Daily— ..

The twelve year old son of Ole Waxvik was shot by the 14 year old son of John Nelson on De Mars Avenue between 5th and 6th street at 10 o'clock last night, dying 40 minutes after the shooting in a restaurant, near the scene of the shooting, to which he was carried. The shooting occurred near the Grand Forks Monumental & Tile works of which John Nelson the father of the boy who did the shooting is the proprietor. Young Waxvik and a younger brother were walking west on the north side of De Mers Avenue and all of a sudden he was confronted by young Nelson, who pulled a revolver and fired one shot, the bullet entering his right breast, throwing the revolver away he made his escape, but was located by the police a few hours after and was taken to the scene of the shooting. He assisted the police in finding the revolver which was a 32-calibre and had but one cartridge in the chambers which was the one discharged. The lad seemed unconcerned about the affair and no cause can be assigned for the deed. One report has it that he was mistaken in the party, and that he had threatened to shoot a fisherman with whom he had had some trouble. Young Waxvik who was killed was a son of Ole K. Waxvik who conducts a tailoring shop at 217 De Mers Avenue.

At the time of the shooting but few people were in that locality which is usually thronged by people being across the street from the Griggs Hotel and a half block from the G. N. depot.

The coroner's jury came in late this afternoon recommending that Harold Nelson be committed to the reform school. It appears that six boys had been to the river bothering a fisherman who slapped one of them. The six boys were returning to the river with the intention of getting even with the fisherman. Nelson had a revolver and one chamber was loaded. He thought it was the third chamber from the trigger. In jest he pointed the revolver at Waxvik and pulled the trigger twice. The second time the shot rang out which killed Waxvik.

SOO TRAINS WILL RUN VERY SOON

ENTER DULUTH OVER THE NORTHERN PACIFIC TRACKS BY MIDSUMMER

The Soo road is expected to run trains into Duluth over the Northern Pacific tracks from Moose Lake about the middle of the summer.

Work is going on rapidly on the Moose Lake end of the road. It is the intention of the company to have the line completed to Duluth before winter sets in. Contracts for the grading have been let for a long distance, and the engineers are busy making the final corrections along the territory that has been placed in the contractors' hands.

Steam shovels are tearing up the ground at a lively rate and dynamite is being used freely in the rock cut north of the town. Workmen are in great demand at Moose Lake and the contractors are hiring all the men they can get. The supply will soon exceed the demand, however, as workmen are pouring in from all directions on the strength of the reports that there is work to be had.

Engineer Westlake has finished buying up the right of way in Pine county and is now engaged in acquiring title to the roadway in the Moose Lake district. Very little trouble is anticipated.

BOY SCRATCHED DAY AND NIGHT

Eczema Began When a Tiny Baby and Lasted 7 Years—Tore Crusts from Face Till It was All Raw—Screamed with Pain and Could not Sleep—Though Specialists Failed

CUTICURA EFFECTED A WONDERFUL CURE

"When my little boy was six weeks old an eruption broke out on his face. I took him to a doctor and got ointments and medicines but his face kept on getting worse until it got so bad that no one could look at him. His whole face was one crust and must have been very painful. He scratched day and night until his face sometimes looked like a raw piece of meat. I was nearly insane with his scratching day and night. Then I took him to all the best specialists in skin diseases but they could not do much for him. He sometimes screamed with pain when I put on the salve they gave me.

"When he was two years old the eczema got on his arms and legs so that I had to keep them bandaged up and I made gloves for his hands so the nails could not poison him worse. We could not get a night's sleep in months and my husband and I were all broken up. Then my mother asked why I did not give up the doctors and try Cuticura. So I got a set and he felt relieved the first time I used them, the Cuticura Ointment felt so cool. He used to wake up and ask for Cuticura to be put on when he itched so badly that he could not sleep, and he would say, 'Oh! Mama, that makes my sores feel so good!' I gave the Cuticura Remedies a good trial and gradually the eczema healed all up and now he is as well as any other children. He is now seven years old and the cure has lasted two months, so I think it will never return. I can't tell you how glad I am that Cuticura did such wonderful work in our case and I shall recommend it everywhere. Mrs. John G. Klumpp, 80 Niagara St., Newark, N. J., Oct. 17 and 22, 1907."

A single set of Cuticura Remedies, consisting of Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), and Resolvent (50c.), or Pills (25c. per vial of 60), is often sufficient to cure. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Mailed Free, Cuticura Book on Skin Diseases.

SALOONS MUST GET OFF RESERVATION

A DECISION HAS BEEN RENDERED BY UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT

The supreme court of the United States has recently rendered a decision in the Funk case of Cass Lake which will effect every saloon now being operated at the towns of Callaway, Ogema, Waubon and Mahnomen.

The court has held, it is learned, in substance that saloons cannot be operated within any Indian reservation in this state as long as they are reservations, and to introduce whiskey therein is a violation of the United States statutes which prohibits the introduction of whiskey into the Indian country.

The decision in the Funk case is in line with the Wisconsin decision of the supreme court, during the past winter, wherein it was held that the allotee could not introduce spiritous liquor into his allotment.

The decision in the Funk case will compel all the saloons on this reservation to close.—White Earth Tomahawk.

ECZEMA NOW CURABLE

All Itching Skin Diseases Which are Not Hereditary Instantly Relieved by Oil of Wintergreen

Can Eczema be cured?

Some physicians say "Yes."

Some say "No."

The real question is, "What is meant by Eczema" If you mean those scaly eruptions, those diseases which make their first appearance, not at birth, but years afterward, and perhaps not until middle age—then there can no longer be any question that these forms of Eczema are curable.

Simple vegetable oil of wintergreen mixed with other vegetable ingredients, will kill the germs that infest the skin. Apply this prescription to the skin, and instantly that awful itch is gone. The very moment the liquid is aplied, that agonizing, tantalizing itch disappears, and continued applications of this external remedy soon cure the disease.

We carry in stock this oil of wintergreen properly compounded into D. D. D. Prescription. While we are not sure that it will cure all those cases of skin trouble which are inherited, we positively know that this D. D. D. Prescription whenever rightly used, will cure every last case of genuine Eczema or other skin trouble did not exist at birth.

We know this. Anyway you, yourself, will know that D. D. D. Prescription instantly takes away the itch the moment it is applied to the skin. S. A. Wallace. Stop that itch today—instantly. Just call at our store and try this refreshing and soothing liquid; also ask about D. D. D. Soap.

BIG BOOST FOR DAIRY INTERESTS

M. J. Cort, with the Creamery Package Mfg., Co., Minneapolis, dropped into our office one day last week from somewhere up in the far northwest, where he is kept busy organizing creamery organizations, selling outfits and throwing in a lot of dairy missionary work for good measure. When Mr. Cort left, our sanctum was blue from the smoke of many cigars which we consumed together, while our visitor, always young in spite of the color of his hair, told us of the things the people were doing up in the Red River Valley and in North Dakota, and thru the smoke we could see a country of prairies, swamps, rivers, little bits of towns, snow storms and forty mile drives and hard working people with small wants and big hearts. And somehow the sanctum seemed narrower and more box like than ever, and we wanted to be with Cort out on that windswept expanse of God's country where he is doing his share to help the people along and endeavoring to plant creameries as thick as the little red school houses. We know it would do us good to be with him; it is fine to see a man at the work he enjoys and at which he feels at home doing pioneer work.—The Dairy Record.

PENNED AND PILFERED

The First Fish Story

A certain writer recently referred to a young man in a humorous vein by stating that he "had been fortunate in the selection of his parents." Commenting upon a recent excursion from here it may be said that Cass Lake was fortunate in selecting the party of veteran fishermen who visited that favorite fishing ground from here last week, for in the phenomenal success of this company the attractive resort has been favorably advertised early in the season.

Messrs. S. S. Stadsvold, L. W. Larson, Dr. R. B. Foster and Wm. Cameron left here Friday with complete camping outfit bound for Cass Lake, says the Fosston Thirteen Towns. Securing a launch at the city they went to the Turtle river outlet, found a favorable location and "made" camp. For the first two days little attempt was made to angle on account of the cold weather, but on Monday they got down to business and made a great catch including nearly 150 large walleyed pike, a medium sized muskellunge, and a few extra fine perch.

With their previous light operations and Tuesday morning's work they returned home Tuesday afternoon with about 200 of the finest fresh water fish to be found in American waters.

Needless to state, the fruits of their outing were liberally distributed among their friends and many palates were agreeably tickled the following day.

CONSULAR AND TRADE NOTES

A report from Sydney, Australia, under date of March 1, places the exportable surplus of wheat from the Commonwealth at 15,657,000 bushels, a reduction of 20,000,000 bushels as compared with the exports last year.

The London Iron and Coal Trades Review says that "a strong control is exercised by Chinese interests over the available supplies of tin both in Europe and in the Federal Malay States," and that "the price is likely to be forced much higher."

The decrease in shipbuilding in the United Kingdom is the greatest, according to the London Financial Times in a quarter of a century. The tonnage now under construction is 101,000 less than at the end of last quarter, and 459,000 less than that of 12 months ago.

The United Kingdom and Germany have just published the text of an agreement respecting commercial travelers' samples, under which, when properly marked by the customs officials of one country, on exportation, they will be admitted without special examination into the other country.

Consul George N. West, of Sydney, states that two new companies have been formed at Louisburg, Nova Scotia, for deep sea fishing. They will start the season with four vessels, each of about 50 tons net register. The 15,029 men engaged in the fisheries of Nova Scotia in 1906 received $99,519 in bounties from the government.

Consul-General Ethelbert Watts forwards a pamphlet just issued by the Bureau Commercial des Expositions (Societe Cooperative), under the official patronage of the Brussels Exposition of 1910, which indicates the object of the bureau—for the convenience, information, and assistance of exhibitors, etc. The pamphlet is filed with the Bureau of Manufactures.

FURUSETH SUCCEEDS ERICKSON AT FOSSTON

Aside from the routine business of the regular meeting of the Fosston Village council last Monday evening, the only question of moment coming before the session was the consideration of the resignation of E. O. Erickson from the position of marshal of the village. Mr. Erickson had found that it would be inconvenient for him to move his family and belongings away from Thief River Falls, and as opportunity for satisfactory occupation had opened there since his leaving, he desired to return. Under the circumstances, Mr. Erickson's resignation was accepted and in his place a home man, Ole Furuseth was selected to wear the star hereafter, and qualified the following morning. Mr. Furuseth has made Fosston his home for several years, altho traveling upon the road the greater portion of the time for a prominent wholesale house.

UNEARTHED AN INDIAN PIPE

While plowing one of his fields, Hans Dunrud of the northeast section of Brandsvold turned over a dark colored object that on passing he took for a broken casting of some kind; but his curiosity led him to make closer investigation with the result that he discovered it to be a stone pipe of undoubted ancient construction, altho well preserved. One peculiarity of the pipe is the color of the stone from which it was carved. Altho somewhat similar to ordinary pipestone used by the earlier aborigines, instead of being of a dull red or terra cotta color, the stone originally was of a medium grey, the exterior however now being nearly black from age and handling.

Nearly six inches in length and about one inch in diameter, the stem is remarkably well formed and carefully finished, as is the figure of an animal (evidently intended to represent a fox) carved upon the upper side of the stem in front of the bowl, which also gives evidence of much care in its making.

Pipe bowl, stem and fox are all well polished and indicate having seen much service. It is an unusual find and Mr. Dunrud values it highly as there is no doubt that it has at some time many years in the past, been the property of an Indian chief and may have a most interesting history buried with it, but beyond all recovery.

SUBJECT TO TAXES

ABOUT SIX SECTIONS TURNED IN TO POLK COUNTY IN 1907-8

2,000 MORE ACRES NOW SUBJECT TO PRIVATE CULTIVATION

From Saturday's Daily—

The report of the state auditor to County Auditor N. A. Hoffard submitted today shows that up to May 1st last which is legal time of annual report the United States Government had given patent to homestead settlers on its lands to 3725 acres or about six sections. This now becomes subject to tax and is improved as required by government laws.

The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railroad has deeded 3,277 acres to private parties, but most of this was previously contracted for so it does not all represent actual newly settled and cultivated land. The railroad company sold the land to buyers on lang time contracts and these are just now being completed in payment. They go into hands of private individuals. New land has been contracted for from this company to the extent of 520 acres and 118 acres have reverted thru failure of buyers to keep up payments.

State school lands have been sold to private holders to the extent of 7,593.82 acres. This in addition to the government land also becomes taxable property and goes into private cultivation and ownership.

The actual addition to taxable property in this county for the year ending May 1st last is about ten sections. The actual property going into holding of private individuals will amount to about fifteen sections or nearly half a township.

Polk county as one of the oldest of the north valley counties signifies in this respect what future matters the newer counties can count on.

BUILDS A NEW DITCH MACHINE

COUNTY COMMISSIONER CLEMENTS WILL HAVE NEW MACHINE WORKING

SOON—BORES THRU EARTH LIKE AN AUGUR— 30 H. P. ENGINE

From Saturday's Daily—

After being a commissioner of Polk County for fifteen years and for many years the chairman of the board, Benjamin Clements of the township of Crookston has invented a dry digging ditching machine which has proven an actual success and which he will use hereafter on work in Northern Minnesota.

Clement's new machine which is being constructed at one of the foundries of this city acts on the big wheel principle, there being attached to this wheel which projects forward ahead of the engine placed on a wheeled platform behind it shovels and plows The main wheel is racheted to the engine. The platform of the machine which rests on wheels may be heightened or lowered as best suits depths of the ditch.

The plows on the main big wheel are set forward at different heights and as the wheel revolves strikes the earth in a gradually increasing degree thus requiring no sudden effort of the engine, and straining its parts. The shovels have no cutting edges but merely pick up the dirt as shavings which the plows cut out revolving them up over the machine and tripping and emptying their load when they reach the top into a conveyor which much reesmbles a hay stacker leading out into a wagon or along the possible level of a future road.

The machine works with all the evenness and character of an augur. A poor model of the machine has actually been tried in this city and works well. The machine may be so tilted as to dig in deeper or shallower thus making an even bottomed ditch across a slightly rolling country. The machine will be operated by a thirty horse power engine. Commissioner Clements expects to have the machine working in ten days.

AN OLD COUPLE RETURN TO SWEDEN

JOHN SOLOMONSON AND WIFE OF STRATHCONA—DO NOT LIKE THIS COUNTRY

Arriving in this city last evening on Steve Withey's special from Strathcona, Mr. and Mrs. John Solomonson, an aged couple, rested in the depot from 6:40 to 10:25 on their way to Westenbotten in Sweden where they will live the rest of their days. John Solomonson came to this country some years ago and was drawn to Strathcona between Middle River and Greenbush on the Great Northern branch. He farmed near there.

The main cause of his dissatisfaction is the arrival of new-comers mostly not of his nationality. He and his wife were dressed in the good old Swedish costumes and attracted a deal of attention about the waiting room of the depot.

BANK CHANGES HANDS — The State Bank of Winger has been sold to L. C. Simons and others of Red Lake Falls. The bank which was owned by Eckman, Ingberg, Rask, and Brattland, has been a paying proposition and was sold only because of the failing health of Gilbert Brattland who was cashier, and who finds it necessary to go west for a change of climate. The deal was made last week.

DAIRYMEN ARE WARNED— Officers of the state dairy and food commission have issued a letter of warning to dairymen and managers of creameries thruout the state calling attention to the regulations prescribed in the laws for the government of buttermakers and persons who sell milk and cream, and the penalties provided for punishment of violations of the laws. The penalties range from $15 to $100. The regulations set forth in the letter relate chiefly to the manner of keeping the milk and cream, and precaution to insure cleanliness of all parts of the dairies and creameries and all appliances used in the handling of their products.

JOHNSON NAMED BY POLK CO. DEMOCRATS

From Saturday's Daily—

In hot reply to William Brown of McIntosh, the able Bryan leader of the day, State Committeemen Martin O'Brien of Crookston upon the floor of the Democratic county convention at the court house this morning openly charged Postmaster Elias Steenerson and Judge R. J. Montague of the United States land office, both of Crookston with efforts to help Bryan men in their fight for the Polk county delegation.

The convention met at 10 o'clock this morning and the court room was immediately divided on the question of a chairman. The Bryanites put up William W. Brown of McIntosh and P. J. Kelly of East Grand Forks was the nomination of the Johnson men.

All precinct delegations voted as a unit. Those going for Bryan, Bygland, Euclid, Fertile, Grove Park, Hill River, Lowell, King, Mentor and Roome. Those going for Johnson, Angus, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Fosston, Fertile(3 votes) Garfield, Rhinehart and Tabor. Total 27 to 77 in favor of Johnson. Later 10 more Bryan delegates appointed.

The committees appointed were, Credentials, T. R. Johnson, Tom Murray, Joel Fogelberg, F. E. LePage, E. Erickson.

Resolutions, Wynkoop, Lemen, W. R. Stoughton, W. E. Handy, C. Houston, K. Nelson.

Permanent Organization, Martin O'Brien, Remi Fortier and S. K. Sorenson.

George J. Cannon was named secretary of the convention.

Kelly was introduced by Martin O'Brien and made a short address.

The main rallying man of the Bryan forces was William Brown of McIntosh, their nominee for chairman and he proved a powerful speaker driving Martin O'Brien when he rose to reply to him into an earnest address to the convention which began to display some response to Brown's address.

Mr. O'Brien referred to the introduction of Johnson into National politics by Tom W. Lawson of Boston the enemy of the system.

"Rah for Lawson," roared Stoughton of the Valley View who had ensconced himself in the seat of the district judge.

The only supporter of Bryan in Minnesota, said Mr. O'Brien is the Duluth News-Tribune, "the representative of the United States steel trust."

Martin O'Brien made the candidacy of Johnson a personal matter with him. He asked the convention if they thought him a tool of the interests. He was the one that first officially proposed Johnson for the presidency. The accusations that Johnson was favored by the corporate interests of the country was a personal charge against him and the other supporters of Johnson.

He promised that the Minnesota delegation would not betray the state's interests at Denver. He said that everybody favored Bryan, if Johnson could not be nominated.

The resolution committee reported resolutions endorsing for president, Johnson and Martin O'Brien and H. L. Shirley of Breckenridge as Ninth district delegates to the national democratic convention.

The selection of a state committeeman from the Ninth district to take the place of Martin O'Brien was left to the delegation from this district.

Sidelights of the Convention

In the absence of the regular committeeman, Martin O'Brien immediately took the helm, making a short speech for united action and fair treatment; after this assurance Bryan's supporters felt more comfortable.

The first ripple presaging a possible tumult under the surface, developed when the selection of temporary chairman came up; but the "united action" of East Grand Forks, Crookston and Fosston to the extent of 77 votes, put the outside townships out of the running with their 27.

The only evidence of a division in any voting precinct was in Fertile; the Johnson adherents polling three of the delegates to two for Bryan.

P. J. Kelly was selected temporary chairman and made a short speech in which he expressed his preference for Gov. Johnson; but admitted that he had, in the past, voted for Bryan; but because Bryan proved to be a poor vote getter and the more speeches he made the less he said, the speaker thought it advisable to try Johnson.

After the selection of the usual committees, one of the 27 above noted, called the attention of the Chairman to the fact that the Bryan supporters in the convention had been carefully ignored with the possible exception of Mr. LePage, who was given a place where, even had his intention been malicious, he could not do the least harm. Upon this showing of magnanimity of the 77 to the 27, "fair treatment" prevailed and harmony resulted.

The "favorite son" argument was now brought to bear and matters of Chesterfieldian courtesy were urged by one of the speakers.

But Mr. Brown, of McIntosh, took the floor and told the convention it was wasting its time; that Bryan would receive the nomination in spite of any thing the convention could do; that Johnson was a Wall Street candidate, and most of the stock arguments used in support of the man from Nebraska, and made an effort to make prominent the point that in his belief, the Republicans of the state and nation were the ones instrumental in bringing Gov. Johnson forth.

To this speech, Mr. O'Brien replied as soon as he could obtain the floor and vehemently denied that Gov. Johnson was a Wall Street candidate or that Henri Watterson was the first discoverer; but that the fact of Johnson's being twice elected in Minnesota was sufficient to bring him before the public and that if any one person had the right to claim the honor of having been the first to suggest his name in connection with the nomination for president, Tom Lawson was it; and that further, in answer to the charge that the republicans were having a hand in the matter that notwithstanding the election of Johnson in Minnesota, the republicans who were interesting themselves in Democratic affairs, to his knowledge, were R. J. Montague and Elias Steenerson, Federal office holders, and that the gentlemen did not favor Gov. Johnson at all. That the one newspaper in the state opposing Johnson was the Duluth News Tribune which is owned by the steel trust and that the Governor not only does not favor the predatory rich but received his political inspiration when as a boy he watched the steam arising from his mother's wash tub. The speech of Mr. O'Brien was well received by the 77 and with a grain of salt by the 27.

The editor of the Valley View next obtained the floor and made a short speech; and Mayor Dunlavy of East Grand Forks did likewise.

Mr. Anderson of the Town of Crookston, while a pronounced Bryan man thought harmony and joint action should be the rule, and agreed to work for the Democrat nominee, whoever it might be, a proposition to which Mr. Murphy, the next speaker gave his support.

The resolutions committee made a report for the 77 and the 27 gave the same their respectful attention.

Mr. Cannon then addressed the convention and thought he was entitled justly, to a place in the group of original discoverers of Gov. Johnson as a presidential possibility with the other "first idea men" and the convention adjourned, having selected the delegation to attend the state convention who were pledged to the resolution adopted by the convention.

Following is the list of delegates elected to the state convention:

Martin O'Brien, Alex Thompson, F. R. Hamel, J. R. Rasmussen, Ed Erickson, W. Lemen, John O'Leary, Hugh Dunlavy, Jos. Fogelberg, Tom Murray, W. R. Stoughton, Ingebret Larson, M. Driscoll, Geo. Cannon, Remi Fortier.

Alternates: Dan Hughes, A. J. Kirk, Thomas R. Johnstone, J. E. Morrisey, S. K. Sorenson, D. H. Miller Otto Paska, Henry P. Gies, Gus Nordes, Dan Ryan, T. P. Hirschberger, G. K. Chambers, J. Enright, J. F. Creamer, W. E. Black.

A Just Arraingment

Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis severely scored philanthropists who donate libraries and people who lecture on the child problem or engage in social settlement work "merely for the purpose of securing notoriety." In his address there he said: "There are today philanthropists—so-called—who believe that by giving the people libraries, that they might study out present-day philosophy, they are accomplishing great good," said Archbishop Glennon. "And there are others who spend their time in social settlement work or lecturing on the child problem. Constantly they seek notoriety. Let them go on giving away their libraries and establishing their social settlements, but I want you to understand that philanthropy divorced from Christ is not charity. The philosophy taught in your schools and universities today is just as brutal as it is repugnant. This philosophy of evolution, emanating from the brain of Darwin and Spencer, makes for brutality and retards progress. What is the use struggling if there is nothing to be attained? Where is there an appearance of charity in this system? The strong succeed and the weak perish. Now what do you think of your university professors who urge this theory upon an unsophisticated people? And yet there are many people known to you, whose hands and hearts and lives are consecrated to God and to charity. These nuns move along as a great silent force, and where in their lives do you find the law of evolution—a struggle for self If that theory be the law of life, then these women are the world's greatest failures. Their struggle is not for themselves but for the lives of others. The Sisters of the Good Shepherd are particularly worthy of mention, for their lives are devoted to the uplifting of the woman wha has fallen into sin." Archbishop Glennon sees dread times ahead for our country, when the true merits of so-called philanthrophy will be tried in the balance of necessity. He asserted: "It is a recognized fact that we are fast reaching a social crisis, with our millionaire on one hand, and the pauper on the other. When that day comes the philanthropist, sitting in his upholstered chair, will not arise to the occasion. He will be told that it is not a lecture that is wanted, but that it is bread."

Water Power And The People

It is good to hear that matters have been so arranged that President Roosevelt has agreed to sign the bill authorizing the completion of the Rainy river water power project, but it is still better to know that he has made this agreement without abandoning the principle upon which he based his veto of the bill, exercised several weeks ago, says the Duluth Herald.

As the bill was originally introduced and passed, it took no notice whatever of the principle which the president had laid down in a message to congress—that the government should retain control and ownership of the water powers of the country, and that when the right to use them was granted it should involve the payment by the benificiaries of a proper charge to the govcernment for the benefits conferred upon them.

In this form the president had to veto the bill and he did rightly. He would not have been justified in abandoning the excellent principle that the government should have adopted long age to cover all of its natural resources situated in the public domain.

In order to secure the signature of the president to the bill, two additional provisions are to be inserted. The first is that the concession be limited to ninety-nine years, thus recognizing the government's ownership of the water power. The second is that the government is to make a reasonable charge for the concession.

It would have been very unfortunate if the bill had fallen thru after the beneficiaries of its provisions had spent a large sum of money in developing the water power but it would have been still more unfortunate if, after the principle of government control had been established by presidential proclamation, it had been abandoned and a precedent made for further infractions.

Water power is a big factor today, but it is going to be a bigger one in the near future. All over the country thousands of streams possess waterfalls that provide natural power facilities. Every one of these will in time be developed, but in time even those now located far from the factories whose wheels they must turn will be put into use. Either the factories will move close to the waterfalls, or a process will be invented for carrying the developed power long distances with a minimum of waste.

Waste power is the last remaining natural resource and the government should keep it in trust for the people.

A New Industry

Owing to the simplification of a chemical process it is almost certain that the vast deposits of peat in Minnesota will contribute greatly to the development of the chemical industry in the state. From the latest official information received, peat, hitherto regarded as of little commercial importance, is to become the staple of a flourishing chemical business. It is found in large beds in more than half the counties of Minnesota, and when cut and dried and placed on the market as a substance from which can be extracted alcohol and sulphate of amonia will be worth from $5 to $10 a ton. This simply means that farmers who have lamented the fact that there were acres of peat deposits on their farms will be able to harvest it for comemrcial purposes, and sell it in some cases for a higher price per ton than peat land is often worth an acre at present.

Sulphate of amonia is of the greatest value in successful agriculture, and by a new process the St. Paul chemists are investigating it has been found that it can be extracted from peat in the ratio of 66 pounds to the ton. The most wonderful thing about the new process, however, is that in getting the amonia out of the peat another valuable product is obtained. This is pure spirit, one ton of dry peat furnishing, besides the amonia about 165 quarts of alcohol. Altho the deposits of peat are very extensive in Minnesota it is not accurately known just how many million tons are available for commercial purposes Peat is found in at least half the counties of the state, and because it has been considered of no business value except as fuel no particular importance has been attached to it hitherto.

Now the chemists have discovered a simple plan of converting it into alcohol and sulphate of amonia the deposits of peat in Minesota are likely to have great commercial value in the future. The discovery of the process was made by a Frenchman. Two plants have already been established in Europe to manufacture the commodity. So encouraging have been the results that a company is now being organized in Germany, the home of commercial chemistry, for the operation of a plant on a large scale. The Germans are so alive to the necessity of chemicals for successful farming that they have prophesized that in the future the demand for such commodities from the United States will be great and that they will be the only commercial nation able to meet it. The cost of manufacturing peat alcohol is 26 cents a quart whereas the cost of manufacturing alcohol from potatoes is from 9 to 10 cents a quart.

LUMBERJACKS NEAR DEATH

THREE MEN EMBARKED ON CASS LAKE IN A FRAIL BOAT

BOAT CAPSIZED AND THE MEN WERE RESCUED WITH DIFFICULTY

Three lumberjacks had a most miraculous escape from drowning at Cass Lake early yesterday afternoon.

The men had come in from one of the camps near Cass Lake and, after drinking considerably, embarked in a row boat and started for Star Island. When about in the middle of the lake they got to quarreling and upset the boat. All three were spilled out. The men grabbed for the boat and tried to keep their heads above water, but their combined weight sank the boat.

About this time, H. N. Harding who was several hundred feet away in his launch noticed something unusual, and putting on full speed, made for the unfortunate men. When he got alongside the boat he found the men almost exhausted, but, after much trouble, they were brought into the launch and taken to town, where medical aid was secured.

One of the trio is in a critical condition, but the other two are not in an alarming state.

PRESENT STATUS OF DRAINAGE IN NATIONAL CONGRESS

Letters From Members Of Minnesota Delegation Cover Status Of Proposed Drainage Legislation Before Congress.

Steenerson Thinks Localizing of Bond Issue And Drainage Projects Outside Of Government Management Is Acceptable.

Monday afternoon last the federal House of Representatives passed bills authorizing the drainage of certain swamp lands in Red Lake Indian reservation in northern Minnesota.

The lands are in the Mud Lake district covered by surveys of United States engineers.

In general the activities to further drainage legislation in the national congress for the past session has been an extremely delicate and diplomatic matter which has required a great deal of attention from the members of the Minnesota delegation and not least from Congressman Steenerson of the Ninth District. It is well then to note in the letters that follow just what the opinion of these Minnesota leaders is with regard to the status of the drainage question before the national houses at this time just on the eve of adjournment.

The first letter is published in the Northern News and reads:

Washington, April 30th. '08. Hon. Albert Berg, Spooner, Minn.—Dear Berg: I think we have finally got the drainage matter adjusted so that it will work out to the benefit of Northern Minnesota. Mr. Volstead passed a bill thru the House, which provides for land in the ceded reservation being put in drainage districts and when the bill came to the Senate I had Congressman Steenerson's amendment, which removes the embargo which heretofore has existed, put in the bill. This amendment will undoubtedly be left on by the House and if it does, it seems to me we will have solved the whole question. With kind regards, I am,

Cordially yours,

—Moses E. Clapp.

Washington, D. C. April 29, 1908—Mr. Chas. W. Latta, Plummer, Minn.: From recent editorials in your papers I see that you are interested in proposed drainage legislation in Congress and in order that you may have an accurate idea of what is proposed to be done and enable you to explain it to your readers I enclose you a copy of H. R. 19541 to authorize the drainage of certain lands in the State of Minnesota, together with Senate report thereon containing the additional amendments proposed in Senate. The amendments have been agreed to but they will be modified in conference and then the bill be passed at this session, as we confidently believe.

The main difference between the bill introduced by me and the present measure is that my bill made a direct appropriation and authorized the United States Government to construct the improvements so far as the public drains were concerned, leaving to each land owner to drain into these public drains. I had planned to increase the price of the unsold land sufficiently together with what would be collected from the lands in private ownership to reimburse the government. On account of a decided and controling sentiment in both Houses against the government engaging directly in the drainage of swamp land I made up my mind that such a measure could not pass, at least not for some time to come, and in order to get something done at the present Congress it would be best to adopt the plan embraced in this bill, which is, briefly stated, to subject all ceded Indian lands, all public lands, and all lands which have been entered but not proved up, to assessments for drainage improvements. When a drainage project is planned the amount of the expense will be apportioned to each tract under the state laws, and the county will issue its bonds the same as for other ditches or drainage works, and the tax will be enforced by sale if necessary. Where ceded Indian land is sold for drainage tax the purchaser at the tax sale becomes the owner of the land, subject, however, to the payment to the Indians of $4.00 an acre on the eleven townships and the purchaser must be a qualified homesteader, except when the state is a purchaser, and when the state is a purchaser it can only resell the land to a person who is a qualified homesteader. In a similar manner public lands and lands entered but the title to which is in the United States are treated, as you will observe that whatever value there is in the land over and above the amount due the Indians is made subject to the drainage improvement tax. This ought to insure the reclaiming of all lands that are worth reclaiming. Of course I can see that the first plan was best for the settlers because the improvement would be put in at once and the money advanced by the Government, but inasmuch as we could not get that plan adopted the proposed plan ought to be satisfactory.

Under the state law a system of drainage ditches can be planned, for instance, in the so-called Mud Lake district, and the cost of the improvement apportioned to every piece of land whether Government land, ceded Indian land, entered land, or patented land in private ownership, and altho there might be several forties in each section that would not sell when the improvement was constructed for enough to pay the assessment, yet on the whole, the amount could be so apportioned as to be sure to repay the cost of the improvement or bonds issued by the county and sold and lands which are now worthless would be valuable after the ditches are dug and the purchasers would pay the assessment together with the amount due the Indians, and you would have a thickly settled community.

I think when you study this proposed law thoroly in conection with the state drainage laws, and the procedure thereunder that you will be satisfied that this is a long step toward the solution of the drainage problem.

I am, yours very sincerely,

—H. Steenerson.

CITIES MUST PAY LICENSE TAX

JUDGE FLAHERTY DECIDES LIQUOR LICENSE TAX CASE AGAINST MORRIS

CITIES OF STATE MUST NOW SIT UP AND TAKE NOTICE

Judge Flaherty of the district court has decided that the law taxing all liquor collections two per cent for the purpose of establishing and maintaining an inebriate farm is valid. The case was brought by the city of Morris which refused to pay the tax on the ground that the law under which it was attempted to be collected was unconstitutional. Very few of the cities of the state have paid the tax, as they have been awaiting a decision in the Morris case. There is nothing to do now but to pay or appeal the case to the supreme court, and it is not known as yet what action will be taken.

ST. PAUL ROAD TO GAIN COAST SOON

Line From Chicago To Seattle And Tacoma Is Rushed With Record Speed.

By reason of an unusual spurt in work representatives of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road yesterday said they expected to have the great transcontinental line finished from Chicago to Seattle and Tacoma next spring.

Regular trains are now operated on the new Pacific Coast line as far as Mobridge, Lemmon, Hettinger, Bowman and Marmarth, in the Dakotas; to Terry, Miles City, Musselshell and Harlowton, in Montana.

Not in the history of railroads has a line been constructed with such speed. The route from Butte to Seattle and Tacoma with towns, districts and engineering feats, was given out yesterday.

From Butte to Garrison, fifty three miles, the line goes thru the Deer Lodge Valley. Then comes the valley of Hellgate River the timber district. West of St. Maries the road runs thru the Coeur d'Alene Indian reservation. The well-known Palouse district is reached. This is one of the richest grain and fruit belts of the trans-Missouri country. At Tekoa the Oregon Short Line will be crossed on a steel structure 1,000 feet long.

From Rosalia the line continues thru this fertile and well settled country twenty miles to Palisade. There it reaches the shores of Rock Lake. The banks of the lake are rocky and precipitous, excelling in beauty the far famed palisades of the Hudson.

From Palisade the line follows the banks of the lake five and one-half miles to the new town of Lavista, at the foot of the lake; thence thirty seven miles thru a country capable of producing grain; but which has hitherto not been developed for lack of railroad facilities. Six miles east of Rolston the line passes over Crow Creek on a steel structure 1,405 feet long. From Lind to the Columbia river at Beverly, seventy-three miles the line passes thru the new towns of Roxboro, Warden and Othello.

The crossing of the Columbia River is made on a bridge of fifteen spans of steel trusses, supported by massive concrete piers, the channel span being placed so high a draw is unnecessary. Twenty five miles after leaving the Columbia River the line enters the well known Kittitas Valley, which is irrigated by water drawn from the Yakima River. The line passes thru a timbered country to Snoqualmie Pass, thru the Cascade Mountains, at an elevation of 3,010 feet. The Cedar River is then followed into Seattle The line to Tacoma parallels the Interurban.

Grading the whole length of the line is progressing rapidly with greatly increased forces, excellent progress is being made upon the tunnels, and the Columbia River bridge and all lesser structures of the same character are in a state of advancement which makes certain that they will be ready when the grading is completed. Track laying on the coast will begin at Seattle and progress as rapidly as the heavy work in the Cascade Mountains is completed.—Chicago Examiner April 7, 1908.

SHOTS AND STONES USED

YOUNG MEN WHO "SHOT UP" CAR AT CARLISLE ARE ARRESTED

Frank Schuster, Matt Schuster and Frank Machinsky, who reside in the vicinity of Carlisle, were taken to Fergus Falls Monday afternoon to answer for the "shooting up" of a Great Northern railway car at that place on Sunday evening, May 3. The car was occupied by four Greek laborers who were at work on the section, and about 10:30 at night, a party of the young men of the neighborhood assembled and began shooting into it indiscriminately.

Volleys of stones and volleys of bullets were poured in, and when the work was finished every car window was broken, the doors were in bad shape, and bullet marks were in evidence everywhere. The Greek laborers managed to crouch down and escaped uninjured.

The railway company at once sent a detective to the scene and the result was that six young men were alleged to have taken a hand in the affair. Warrants were sworn out charging them with a felony which would have meant at least three years in the penitentiary, but the company was not anxious to press the matter to this extent and the charge was changed to a lesser offense. Frank Schuster and Frank Machinsky plead guilty and were fined $5 and costs amounting to $10 in each case. Matt Schuster is only 14 years of age, and as it appeared that he was only a spectator, the charge against him was dismissed.

HJELMAR IS A GOOD RUNNER

Hjelmer Vikjord, 15 year old son of Peter Vikjord of Crookston, ran away again last Saturday night. He had just returned with his father from Fargo where he had been discovered in the fur store of Joseph Pinkus by Chief of Police of Fargo Grass May 7th last. Vikjord was missing from the city for about two months the last time before found. The father claims he is ill and wants the boy to support him. The boy says he wants to work for himself. He has not yet been located. It is believed that he went south into the Twin Cities. He is an energetic if independent little fellow. He left his father at home and came up town to do an errand his father had sent him on. His departure was not discovered until this morning the father thinking he had returned home in the night quietly while he was asleep.

FORTY MEN WERE LET OUT

G. N. ISSUES ORDER THROWING MANY MEN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT.

Devils Lake, May 13—A new order has just been issued by the Great Northern that lays off forty men from the local shops permanently. This comes somewhat as a surprise as it had just been reported that the end-of the-months lay offs which began in March were to be discontinued and this was taken as a hopeful sign. It seems however, that it was but the preliminary to the permanent lay off of the men who have been discharged by the latest order. The blow is a hard one to the men affected by the order as many of them will find it hard just at this time to get work in their line.

DESERTER FROM UNITED STATES REGULAR ARMY

DEPUTY SHERIFF LOUIS GONYEA JR. ENGINEERS FINEST PIECE OF SLEUTH WORK IN CRIMINAL HISTORY OF NORTHWEST STATE—HERMAN GREELER A LIAS JOHN REED PRISONER OF GOVERNMENT

HORN IS TO ISPLACE SLADE

ANOTHER SHAKEUP ON THE HILL ROADS WITH SON-IN-LAW LEAVING

WELL DEFINED RUMORS OF SOME IMPORTANT CHANGES IN RAILWAY CIRCLES

From Saturday's Daily—

This is the slate for a new list of the officials on the Northern Pacific road; General Manager George T. Slade, to retire. H. J. Horn former general manager of the east end, to return to the position at an increase of salary.

This arrangement will undoubtedly be denied by railroad officials connected with the Hill lines, but barring the usual possibility of sudden changes in the plans of the Hill management, the slate will be carried out as indicated.

Mr. Horn left the Northern Pacific a few months ago, but no definite reason was given except that he wanted to take a rest. Mr. Horn went abroad and he was succeeded by George T. Slade, son-in-law of James J. Hill, and for a time general superintendent of the Great Northern road.

THE TRAVELING MAN

I remember the days when a barefooted boy,
In the village which witnessed my birth.
I was taught to believe that a traveling man
Represented the scum of the earth.

Whenever a stranger appeared on the street,
Arrayed in a checkerboard vest;
With a coffin nail stuck in the front of his face,
And a "sparkler" astride of his chest;

With a razor-edge crease in the leg of his pants,
And his shoes of a dazzling tan;
And I'd say "What on earth is the object I see?"
They would say "It's a traveling man."

When a dutiful hubby came home just at dawn
And was asked to account to his spouse,
For the fact that his pins wouldn't hold him erect,
In charge of his beautiful "souse."

He'd look humble and meek like a dog that's been licked,
And say, "Now so help me, Susanne
I started for home at ten minutes of ten,
But—fell in with a traveling man."

When you saw a small bunch of the town's local sports,
In a corner obscure and alone,
Perusing a picture of art in the nude,
With an "ad" on the other side shown—

And they'd say to the owner, "It's a peach, ain't it, Bill?
Where'd you get it? Let's look; let us see!"
He'd say, as he stuck it away out of sight,
'Oh, a traveling man gave it to me."

When the Ladies' Aid met, to darn socks for the poor,
And peddle some scandal around;
Some old lady would say in a horrified tone,
"I've some news that will simply astound:

Old Deacon Jones' girl has gone clear to the bad,
(That hussy they call Mary Ann);
She was seen on the street after dark Tuesday night,
All alone, with a traveling man."

And so I believed, from the things that I heard,
And the stories I heard people tell;
That a traveling man embodied 'most all
Of the wickedness this side of hell.

But I find that the law still permits them to live
In fact they quite freely abound;
And they even quarantine virtue at all,
When a traveling man happens around.

We have found that the species is human in fact,
Whose presence enlivens and cheers
Who believes that a boost is worth more than a knock,
That a laugh has more value than tears.

We find him a friend when a friend is in need,
Who will never a kindness forget;
Whose heart is developed far more than his "mit,"
In short, a hail fellow well met.

Then here's to his future and may it e'er be,
As smooth as the unruffled brook;
Our hats off to him, and oft may he come,
With his grip and his mileage book.

Bert's Rescue

By JAMES CONLEY.

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells.

"Come on, Bert," urged Charlie. "The ice is bully just now. Come on ahead."

"Don't rub it in," pleaded Bert Bentham. "This is my punishment for seeking to astonish the natives with a frock coat and silk hat. The train was so late that no one beheld my glory, and as my trunk will not be here until tomorrow I'm afraid that I shall have to go without my skating."

"But we're the same size," insisted Charlie. "Put on some of my duds."

Bentham winced. It was his quarrel with nature that she had made him but two inches taller than five feet. His little cousin was only thirteen yet, and, as he said, Bert could wear his things. For a moment pride fought with desire, and desire won. He had always been passionately fond of the ice, and it had been a couple of years since he had enjoyed an opportunity of skating. This chance was too good to be lost. It was a beautiful night, and the probabilities were that no one would recognize him. He could slip into the crowd and quickly lose himself.

"Proceed," he said, with mock tragedy. "I shall enjoy my second childhood rather earlier than most men; that is all."

Half an hour later they were on the river. Already a crowd had assembled, for the moon was full and the ice a perfect glare. Charlie's simple "My cousin, fellows," was regarded as sufficient introduction, and presently Bert was skimming over the ice with an easy swing that betokened the experienced skater.

He shot straight up the river, speeding along with no thought of anything save the enjoyment of the skimming motion, and it was half an hour before he realized how far he had gone.

Skating back against the wind was a slower process, and by the time he reached the ferry road again the ice was crowded. He hunted up Charlie and then contented himself with shorter flights, though he kept away from the most crowded part of the ice. He had been skating in artificial rinks for so long that the broad stretch of glassy ice fascinated him, and he had no use for the parties of skaters that clung in groups.

He had just wheeled for a trip up the river when a tiny form shot past him, and almost unconsciously he gave chase. Apparently she was a mere child, but her strong, graceful strokes carried her along with a speed that tested his own qualities, and he skated after her.

Around the bend of the river the sluiceway from the cotton mill emptied into the stream, and for a space the ice was thin. Bert had kept away from this side of the river after the discovery, but now he was so intent upon his chase that he did not realize that the child was bearing dangerously in toward shore until she gave a little cry as she felt the ice crack under her feet.

Instead of keeping ahead she seemed paralyzed with fright and dug her skates into the ice to stop herself. He could hear the new ice giving way as the strain of her weight continued, and with a sudden swerve he dashed in toward her.

He was powerfully built for his size, and it was an easy matter to catch the child up in his arms and carry her out of the danger zone. As they swept along he could feel the ice give under him, and the ominous crackle seemed to follow him. Then the noise stopped as he shot out on to the firm ice, and he ceased skating, coming gradually to a halt.

"That was a risky thing to do," he said sharply as he set her on her feet. "Don't you know about the sluice?"

"I should have remembered," she said as she clung tremblingly to him, "but I heard one of the boys coming after me, and I wanted to beat him. I forgot all about the danger."

"I guess that's the last time you'll forget this season," he said.

"I should say so," she agreed. "It was awfully good of you to act so quickly. Who are you?" she added as he changed position so that the moon shone on his face.

"I'm Charlie Bentham's cousin," he explained.

"Oh, yes," she smiled. "I remember Mrs. Bentham telling us that Charlie had a little cousin coming to visit him. You're a good boy, and I'm awfully grateful to you."

She stood on tiptoe and kissed him squarely on the lips. For a moment Bert was too astonished to speak; then he sped after her.

"Can't I skate with you?" he asked. "Let's skate up as far as the railroad bridge."

"Come ahead," she called as she put out her hand. Bert grasped it, and they glided off. For a few minutes nothing was said. They skated together as perfectly as though through long practice, and they were almost at the bridge.

"You are a newcomer in Maridale?" he asked, breaking the silence. "I don't think I remember you."

"We moved here two years ago," she explained.

"That's it," he declared. "I pride myself on my memory for faces. I have not been able to get up here for a couple of years. My business has kept me pretty close to town."

"Your business?" she echoed, losing her stride and stopping. "Why, Mrs. Bentham said you were the same age as Charlie!"

"That's Ned Collins," he explained. Ned's coming down for the holidays. I'm Bert Bentham."

"But"— she began, with a glance at his clothes.

"I see," he laughed. "You thought I was a boy because I was wearing one of Charlie's suits. You see, I got a foolish idea that it would be funny to come down all togged out. When Charlie said 'skating' I realized that a frock coat was scarcely a skating costume, so I put on one of his suits. I guess I look pretty much like Charlie. That's the worst of being so short."

"And you let me kiss you," she reproached.

"That's all right," he smiled. "I've had little girls kiss me before, you know."

"But I'm not"— she began. Bert started.

"You don't mean to tell me that you"— he gasped.

"I'm nineteen," she said, her eyes filling with tears. "There's nothing to laugh about," she added as Bert shouted. "You let me kiss you, and it was real mean."

"It was real nice," he contradicted, "and I didn't let you. You kissed me before I knew you were going to."

"And now every one will laugh at me," she sobbed.

"The laugh is as much on me as it is on you," he reminded. "I don't think I'm any too anxious to be laughed at."

"And you won't tell?" she demanded, her sobs growing less violent.

"Never," he promised, "not if you kiss me a thousand times. But I thought surely you were a child," he said, glancing at her short skirt.

"I have my dresses all made long, so that I look taller," she explained, "but they are awfully in the way when I skate, so I borrowed one from my sister."

"I guess it's a standoff," he declared. "We fooled each other and ourselves. But we haven't reached the bridge yet."

He held out his hand, and she slipped hers into it. Somehow the sense of a secret between them gave her a feeling of security, and her embarrassment soon wore off. Before they turned she was chatting away as though he had known her all his life.

They were on the ice again the next morning, and Bert went home a slave to her charms. Alice Vinton was the first woman he had ever seriously cared for, and he made such an active courtship that on the last night of his stay, as they turned at the railroad bridge, which marked the limit of their progress, he held her hand for an instant.

"I'm going home tomorrow," he said, "and I want to take back with me your promise that I may come for you in the spring. Will you promise, dear?"

For answer she reached up and kissed him as she had done on the night of their meeting. But this time there was no mistake of identity.

Her Serious Programme.

"I am going to have a little girl baby, and when she is three years old I am going to kill myself."

This startling remark came from the lips of a seven-year-old north side girl and was made with no more demonstration than if she had remarked that she was going to take one of her dollies out for a walk.

"My, my!" said her father. "What in the world possessed you to make such a remark?"

"Well, papa," replied the little miss, "I have just been reading a lovely story about how a little girl only three years old put fresh flowers every day on her dear dead mother's grave, and her mother had killed herself, and I thought how nice it would be to have a little girl put beautiful flowers on my grave."

"Oh!" said her father reflectively. "I guess you had better play outdoors more and do a little less reading."—Columbus Dispatch.

Jeweler's Bit of Advice.

"I think I'll have to bring her in and let her choose," said the embarrassed young man as he looked hopelessly at the diamonds spread out on the table.

"Pardon me for a bit of advice," the jeweler said earnestly, leaning forward, "but I've had a lot of experience in such matters. If you pick it out yourself and take it to her she'll surely be satisfied. Always are. But if she comes here and sees bigger, handsomer rings she won't be contented with the one you can afford. The $500 or $800 ring she sees will stay by her. We've often lost sales that way. I've frequently seen the young woman pick out a ring that the man obviously couldn't afford, and he would find some excuse for not buying it."

Then the young man said he thought he might as well decide on that $110 trifle at once.—Kansas City Star.

One Hair Astray.

A guest at a certain fashionable hotel recently had a grouch. He carried it to the proprietor.

"Look here," he said, "things around here are just about as rotton as they make them. When I went to lunch today I found hair in the ice cream, hair in the honey and hair in the apple sauce. Now, what do y' think o' that? Is that a good hotel?"

"Well," replied the genial proprietor, "I can explain the hair in the ice cream. That likely came from the shaving of the ice. And I suppose that the hair in the honey came off the comb. But I don't understand about the hair in the apple sauce. I bought those apples myself, and they were every one Bald-wins."—Columbus Dispatch.

SHORTEST TERM ON RECORD

U. S. COURT CONVENES AND CIVIL CALENDAR DISPOSED OF IN TEN MINUTES

BENJ. F. SMITH PLEADS GUILTY AND IS SENTENCED TO 14 MONTHS

From Thursday's Daily—

The present term of the United States court at Fergus Falls is going to be the shortest on record. The term opened Tuesday afternoon, Judge Morris coming over from Duluth on the Northern Pacific train and Clerks Spencer and Lange, United States Marshal Grimshaw and Assistant District Attorney Dickey coming up from St. Paul.

A number of the petit jurors were immediately excused, and others were instructed to be on hand Wednesday morning in case there should be criminal cases to try.

The grand jury went to work immediately and indictments were returned Wednesday morning against Benj. Smith, who is charged with rifling registered letters at Dalton and A. R. Applin, who is charged with stealing a mail sack from the Northern Pacific station platform at Staples and robbing and burning the letters.

Both men were brought into court, and Smith plead guilty immediately, and was sentenced to one year and two months in the state reformatory at St. Cloud. Smith is the young man who has made two ineffective attempts to hang himself.

Mr. Smith decided to talk again Tuesday evening, and is again taking food. He feels that his sentence is moderate and has no complaints to make.

Applin, on being arraigned, entered a general plea of guilty. When questioned as to what he did with the letters and the mail sack he declined to make admissions, and finally changed his plea to not guilty, and decided to stand trial. As some of the necessary witnesses were not on hand, the government asked that the case be adjourned until the fall term of court, which means that Applin will spend another 6 months in jail.

The following persons were granted discharges in bankruptcy:

Ole Rowland, Beardsley.
Jos. F. Kasparek, Atherton.
John A. Flesch, Breckenridge.
Oscar W. Ingersoll, Carlisle.
John Kowalski, Carlisle.
Garlef Von der Beck, Euclid.
Frank Wellert, Staples.
Ernest C. LeFebvre, Detroit.
Peter Olson, Odessa.
Peter O. Lundgren, Ward.
John Telander, Bagley.

Keep the Balance Up

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventative that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength, and endurance.

SEASON THREE WEEKS ADVANCE

WHEAT SEEDING IN RED R. VALLEY HAS BEEN PRACTICALLY FINISHED

PROSPECTS WERE NEVER BRIGHTER THAN AT PRESENT FOR FARMERS

From Friday's Daily—

"The season is just three weeks further advanced this year than last," said a well known Polk county farmer to the Journal yesterday. "Red River Valley farmers had completed their wheat seeding" he continued, "and all that remains for them now is to sow flax, barley and other late grain for which there is no hurry. If I have my seeding finished by the first of June, I will be perfectly satisfied. The prospects could hardly be any brighter for the farmer than at present, there being every indication that conditions will be the best. The ground was in good shape when the seed was planted and the rain started the plant It's simply 'all to the good' and the people that are not happy now are kickers right.

The above appears to be the sentiment of the farmers in general in northern Minnesota.

REVOCATION SUSTAINED

Before Judge C. W. Stanton at Bemidji yesterday the action of Mayor Dade and the village council of Blackduck in revoking the liquor license of John Berg, who conducts the Svea hotel at Blackduck was sustained.

When Mr. Dade was elected president of the village council this spring he issued notice to all keepers of saloons in the village that they must abide by the law in the matter of closing at night and also keeping closed on Sunday; as well as selling liquor to minors.

Berg is said to have violated the law relative to selling to minors and also to keeping open on Sunday, with the result that the village council of Blackduck at a recent meeting, revoked the license. Mr. Berg appealed to the district court in the matter and the hearing on the revocation of the license was held today before Judge Stanton.

C. W. Scrutchin of Bemidji appeared as attorney for Berg and Bunn T. Wilson, village attorney of Blackduck and Chester McKusick of Bemidji, represented the village of Blackduck.

MAIL ROBBER SENTENCED

A. R. APPLIN AGAIN CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY — GIVEN A YEAR AND HALF

SMITH TELLS WHY HE TRIED TO COMMIT SUICIDE—COURT ADJOURNED

From Friday's Daily—

A. R. Applin who was indicted Wednesday on the charge of robbing a mail sack at Staples again changed his plea to guilty late in the afternoon at Fergus Falls and was sentenced to one year and six months in the states prison at Stillwater. Applin is the man who escaped from jail once and planned to escape a second time. When arraigned in court Wednesday, he first entered a plea of guilty, then changed to not guilty, and finally changed back to guilty, and Judge Morris then pronounced sentence. He has already served nearly six months in jail, so that he will have nearly two years' imprisonment in all for his crime.

Benj. F. Smith, the Dalton man, is now talking freely and states that he attempted to hang himself because he was informed by an attorney that he was likely to be sentenced to at least sixty years' imprisonment under the chargees against him. The postal laws provide strong maximum penalties for interfering with the mails, and had all the possible counts been urged against Smith and the maximum penalty imposed in each case, his punishment might have reached this limit, but there was at no time any probability of any such excessive sentence. Fourteen months at St. Cloud is a cheerful prospect by comparison.

The court adjourned at the conclusion of the Applin case, the term having lasted a little less than twenty-four hours.

JOHNSON FORCES SWEEP MINNESOTA INTO LINE

Ninth District Goes to Johnson with Possible Defections In Norman And Kittson Counties Only.

The Minnesota State Democratic Convention at St. Paul May 14th next will not have a Bryan delegation on its floors.

The Ninth District is practically solid for the governor. The only defection is in Ada, Norman county and Hallock Kittson county. In Norman county Twin Valley and Halstad went Johnson with all other districts heard from except Ada. All other points except Hallock that have been heard from went Johnson.

Roseau and Becker hold mass conventions Saturday next and their stand will not be settled until that time.

In Bemidji Pat Russell gurgles beneath waves of Johnsonism. "We included him in the delegation from this city to show him how a real live Johnson convention was run," was the enthusiastic report that came over the wire last night.

The defection in Kittson at Hallock arises from energy of Bouvette, well known newspaper man there.

State Goes Johnson

Hennepin goes Johnson notwithstanding the efforts of Larrabee to put the Nebraskan thru. St. Paul of course is unanimous. St. Cloud Johnsonites caught Bennett in a whirl wind and is Johnson solid. St. Louis county has Johnson majority in city of Duluth. The returns would indicate that Johnson would be endorsed on the first ballot May 14th at St. Paul.

State committeeman Martin O'Brien states today that the swing of Minnesota into the Johnson column will have bullish effect on Johnson stock thruout the United States, that Bryan men had been relying on possible defection in Minnesota to discredit the Johnson boom and Johnson landslide in Minnesota has healthful effect.

Fosston went Johnson yesterday without dissenting voice. The five delegates include L. T. Larson, Joel Fogelberg and Ingebret Larson.

The six delegates from Ada who will cast Bryan votes at the Norman county convention are D. L. Thorpe, Ed L. Hanson, C. D. Simpson, Isadore Roesch, Fred Herringer and Jason Weatherhead.

THRU SWAMPS ON RACE FOR CLAIM

MISS EVA JOHNSON OF VINING POSTOFFICE IN OTTER TAIL CO., WALKS 8 1-2 MILES THRU HEAVY SWAMPS EAST OF MIDDLE RIVER TO APPEAR IN CONTEST SUIT

From Friday's Daily—

On a race to save her claim in the vicinity of Fram postoffice about 20 miles inland east of Middle River, Minn., Miss Eva Johnson, the assistant postmistress at Vining in Otter Tail county plunged on foot alone thru eight and one half miles of the heaviest bogs of the north country with heavy grips and won. Contest had been brought against her by parties who were not acquainted with her location and she was scheduled to appear at Fram postoffice to answer the contest or it would have gone by default to the contestant.

She settled on the claim some time ago and later obtained the assistant postmistress position of the Vining postoffice and as a result has spent her time in government employ. On that account the homestead laws permit her final proof without actual residence on the claim. She heard of the contest and went to Middle River where she was unable to secure a team that would brave the swamps.

Accordingly she walked the twenty miles to Fram postoffice, eight and a half miles of which route is thru some of the worst swamps in the north country and surrounded on all sides by impassable muskeg. Her grips contained papers and clothing and weighed about fifty pounds.

She says that she was compelled to rest from time to time. She reached Fram just half an hour before the case was called and appeared in person before the court. The road is almost impassable for horses who often go thru the floating bog.

Miss Johnson returned in buggy with Attorney N. B. Moran of Crookston who was in Fram on business. Miss Johnson said they had more trouble going than returning. The Crookston attorney spent almost all his time at the head of the plunging horse trying to get back into Middle River.

It is up to Governor Johnson to appoint the judge.

The council also passed an ordinance relating to gambling and gambling houses and also an ordinance for the removal of curtains in the front of saloons during closing hours.

STATE IS HALF CENTURY OLD

FIFTY YEARS AGO CONGRESS ADMITTED MINNESOTA TO THE UNION

Yesterday the state of Minnesota was just half a century old. Fifty years ago on the eleventh of May congress passed a bill providing for the admission of the North Star state into the union.

The news of the signing of the bill by President Buchanan reached Minnesota by a telegraphic message to prairie du Chein, Wis., which was the nearest telegraphic station at that time. The first newspaper reports of the event were published by the Daily Minnesotan two days later. That paper said editorially:

"We are now a state of the union. No longer outside barbarians, we are within the Chinese wall of the confederacy and have donned our freedom suit. There are some patches needed over some of our rents and resewing of some of the seams in our gaberdine called the state constitution—perhaps an entire new garment will be ere long required. We are rejoiced that we occupy the position henceforth in which we can wear what clothes we please, much or little, gay or grave, and Uncle Samuel has no business to interfere, especially as we pay, or promise to pay for them ourselves."

Fitting observances of the day were held at the state capitol at St. Paul.

"Exhibits must be brought to the fair in ample time for proper entry, and must be reasonably free from dirt with enough potatoes to insure the net weight of 300 pounds, or five bushels, to be passed upon by the judges

"Points of award will be fifty for the heaviest single potato in exhibit; twenty-five points on the heaviest average per potato in single bushel of each exhibit and twenty-five points on the heaviest average per 300 pounds. Only merchantable and clean potatoes to be exhibited with special proviso that each lot is to be put up and sold at auction at not less than sixty cents per bushel and the proceeds returned to the exhibitor to help pay his expenses of such exhibit.

"Second award—Two hundred dollars will be given for the best TOTAL yield on a half acre tract and divided into four premiums, as follows:

First premium	$100
Second premium	50
Third premium	35
Fourth premium	15
	$200

"Measurements of yield in this award to be by a struck bushel basket of all sizes of potatoes fit for table use or feeding purposes.

"No restrictions are placed upon the kind of seed to be used, or the soil or methods of cultivation; the aim for this year is to make it a free-for-all entry under any condition, and the hope is that the best kinds of seed will be used, in order to produce the best market quality as well as the best known methods of cultivation to produce the quantity.

"Beltrami county has the proper soil and climate for successful potato culture; and there are unlimited markets at home, on the Iron Ranges, in Duluth and the Twin Cities. What we want to add to that are energetic, wide-awake farmers.

"Parties wishing to compete for any of these premiums must notify J. J. Opsahl on or before June 20th, giving name and address, with size of tract planted (which must be staked out and contain exactly eighty square rods) section, town and range. A list of all contestants will then be made up and furnished each one, and the contestants in each township will then select from their own number three judges to supervise the digging and measurement they to issue sworn statements of their respective township yields.

"These different township judges will select from their number five judges one from each commissioner district, to act as judge at the county fair and also award the premiums on the total yield as reported by the township judges; and whose certificates of awards will be accepted as final and paid by J. J. Opsahl on presentation at the Lumbermens National Bank.

"The selection of township judges must be made and notice of same furnished J. J. Opsahl before July 20, who will then make a list of same and forward to their chairman at once so that they will have ample time to select their five county judges and have their names, etc., before the county fair and entered on the fair program.

"In this way the awards and general rules will be entirely in the hands of the parties who enter the contest.

"With our sincere hope added that the contestants, thru their respective town committees, will organize into the Beltrami County Potato Growers Association, and wishing all the best success and a prosperous year, we remain,

Respectfully yours,
—J. J. Opsahl,
Selkce Land Company.

"Information as to potato culture will be cheerfully furnished all applicants by addressing the State Experimental Farm, Grand Rapids, Minnesota."

CAPTURE THREE BURGLARS

The Grand Forks authorities are convinced that in the arrest of Thos Payne and Joe Miller they have the men who are guilty of robbing the Manvel store of C. E. Colosky early Sunday morning. Yesterday afternoon George Simmons, who is believed to be an accomplice of Miller and Payne, was arrested in the woods half a mile from Oslo. Payne is believed to have been connected with the robbery at Stephen in which over $5,000 was taken. His leg is badly burned by a powder blast, it is believed. Payne was arrested while skulking along the road three miles from Grand Forks. As he went across the field he dropped some plunder and yesterday Deputy Sheriff Johnson, accompanied by a postoffice inspector, went over the field and found some postage stamps and some stamped envelopes that had never been used. Simmons who is under arrest at Oslo is the man who came across the bridge into Oslo early Sunday morning and drank in a saloon, later making his escape, while Payne who had become rather intoxicated was captured.

Two Safes Blown Up

Additional details of the robbery at Manvel show that two safes in the Colosky store were blown up. The robbers secured about $250 in stamps and money.

From the work of the robbers it is believed that they are yeggmen and not professional burglars. Their work was of the same coarse order as that at Stephen, Minn.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

FEELS SAFE WITH A PAIR OF KINGS

Fugitive Thinks He Can Bluff State Of Minnesota. At Gibraltar Now.

Historical Society

Luigi Falluco, who is wanted at Coleraine for the theft of $700 from Mrs. Assune Marra, has stirred up an international controversy involving the state of Minnesota, the king of Italy and King Edward of England.

Falluco who was at one time a resident of Crookston, is under arrest at Gibraltar, and Governor Johnson has issued a requisition on King Edward, and the rest of the British government, for the return of the fugitive to Coleraine for trial.

Luigi claims, however, that he is a citizen of Italy, and the king of Italy has sent word to the King of England that Luigi does not care to return to Coleraine, and also that Luigi has been rudely interrupted by the arrest in his journey to his beloved fatherland.

The king of Italy has laid the matter before the secretary of state at Washington. Unless the Italian sovereign wins out in his diplomatic intervention, the sheriff of Itasca county will get a pleasant little globe-trotting trip to Gibraltar to bring back the reluctant Luigi and whatever remains of the $700.

Luigi boarded at Coleraine with Mrs. Assune Marra. He was working in the mines near Coleraine. Mrs. Marra had trouble with her husband which came to the ears of her boarders. She had $700 in the bank at Coleraine. When Luigi heard of this, it is said, he developed high finance instincts. He went to Mrs. Marra and told her that her husband was about to draw out the money and depart with it.

Mrs. Marra hurried to the bank, drew out the money and the result was that instead of her husband running off with it, Luigi up and did it. At least that is what the charges against him allege.

LOOK OVER WATER LEVEL

COMMISSIONERS AND RESIDENTS LOOK OVER MAPLE LAKE MONDAY

DITCHES WILL BE DISCONNECTED WITH DELIGHTFUL WATER BODY

From Tuesday's Daily—

Commissioners Rindal and Clements and Sam Rosenthal of Crookston will depart next Monday afternoon for Mentor and Maple Lake for the purpose of examining into the proposition mooted at the last meeting of the Maple Lake Association for the keeping of Maple Lake at a proper level all the year round.

County ditch number 14 runs out of the north end of the lake and has been the chief factor in reducing the level of the water in the lake. It was not originally intended that this ditch should drain the lake, it being platted by the surveyors to commence 80 rods from the north end of the lake, but one of the surrounding farmers connected the ditch with the lake and water has always since that time flowed thru it. The ditch was established about seven years ago.

Another ditch runs out of the lake along the south end, tho no such ditch is shown on the map. It will be the interest of the viewers of the proposed maintenance of lake level to shut off these outlets. The lake is spring fed and has no inlets.

PELICAN RAPIDS MAN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

A long distance telephone message from Pelican Rapids today states that Mr. Isaacson of that village was struck by lightning at his home there during the heavy storm Sunday night. The storm broke there somewhat earlier than it did here, and as the rain began, Mr. Isaacson arose to close a window. He glanced out at the storm and just as he did so, lightning flashed and a bolt struck down. Mr. Isaacson fell back, and a physician was summoned. Death did not occur immediately, and there was some doubt as to whether it was due to lightning or to heart disease, but the opinion is that it was due to both. In other words, had the heart been in good condition, he might have recovered from the shock. Mr. Isaacson was about 65 years of age and leaves a wife and family. He was a good citizen, kindly and industrious and will be missed in the community where he has made his home.—Fergus Falls Journal.

SHOWERS MAKE GRASS GROW

FINEST SPRING FOR DAIRIES THE VALLEY HAS EVER SEEN

BIG CELEBRATION WAS HELD WHEN CREAMERY AT ELIZABETH OPENS

From Tuesday's Daily—

State Creamery Inspector Storvick of Crookston says the creamery business of his district has enjoyed a marvelous increase during the excellent pasture and grass weather that has prevailed during the recent showers and fair weather betwixt. The green that one sees in the city and surrounding country repeats itself thruout the country.

Inspector Storvick returned from Elizabeth in Otter Tail county a short distance north of Fergus Falls yesterday. He says Elizabeth gave one of the biggest installation exercises last Friday that he has seen for like size establishment.

All the families patronizing the new creamery arrived in the city early in the morning with their new cream and while it was being put thru the processes they held a picnic on the broad greens in front of the new building and entertained with exercises in the local opera house.

Inspector Storvick and Vice President Gardner of the new creamery company were the leading speakers of the day.

About 125 people were present.

Inspector Storvick reports a new creamery at Hitterdal and states that construction work has already commenced on the new creamery at Hitterdal and at Kratka and Highlanding in Red Lake county. The farmers near the city of Orleans on the Soo in Kittson county near the international boundary line are making plans to erect a creamery at that point.

The creamery at Rollis in Marshall county will celebrate their second anniversary June 4th next and Ispector Storvick will be one of the leading speakers.

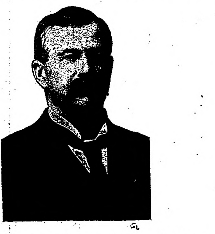
OLD-TIMER IN THE RED RIVER VALLEY



The original of the above cut needs no introduction to most of the early settlers in Polk county, and to but few of the later arrivals. John D. McPhee has been a resident of the Red River Valley for over a quarter of a century. He is 52 years of age, was born in Bruce County, Ontario, and came to Polk county in the spring of 1879 and has therefore been a resident of the Valley for nearly 30 years. Upon his arrival here he went to work as a farm laborer, and because of his industry and ability was soon placed in the capacity of foreman on the large Keystone farm situated a few miles west of Euclid.

He remained on this farm as foreman for a number of years when he was promoted to the position of manager of the Lockhart farm situated a few miles south of the village of Beltrami, the Lockhart farm and Keystone farm having been owned by the same party. He remained in the position of manager of the Lockhart farm until the spring of 1902 at which time that farm was sold by the then owners and divided up. Mr. McPhee then moved to Crookston, and since that time has made Crookston his home.

While engaged in these farming operations he became well acquainted with nearly all the old-timers in the Valley and it is always a pleasure to listen to the reports of those who were engaged as laborers on either of these farms under him, for they still speak of him affectionately as "Jack" McPhee. Since coming to Crookston he has endeared himself to all with whom he has come in contact by his spirit of fairness and consideration, and his kindly, genial personality, and today it can be safely said that "Jack McPhee" is one of the best known and most respected citizens of Crookston.

As proof of this sentiment amongst the people, tho Mr. McPhee had been but a few years a resident of the city the people of Crookston elected him as its first mayor to take charge of the affairs of the city under its new home rule charter in 1906, and in 1907 when the first regular election under that charter took place Mr. McPhee was nominated by both the Republican and Citizens' Parties of the city, and received two-thirds of the votes cast in the city election.

His administration has given great satisfaction, and he has been so eminently fair that people of all classes feel that while he has stood for good government and strict enforcement of the law his policy has been one of absolute impartiality and non-favoritism, that has left a feeling of security and confidence amongst all his constituents. As a private citizen Mr. McPhee has identified himself with every movement which tends to the betterment of conditions in the Valley and the development of its resources and in the City of Crookston since he has been a resident of that city he has aided and encouraged every effort to improve the city and the condition of its people.

GOVERNOR REVEALS SARTORIAL TRUTH

"What Did They Expect From The West? A Blanket Indian?"

Item: 1 business suit.

Item: 1 frock coat with gray trousers.

Item: 1 suit evening clothes.

This, Governor John A. Johnson says is a correct and complete inventory of the suits he took with him on the trip to Washington from which he has just returned. He denies that he has broken into the Berry Wall class and is surprised that the Washington correspondent should have found reason to comment on his having "got thru three suits of clothes in one day" as tho they had supposed that a man from the west must appear as a blanket Indian or a stage "rube" with billy-goat whiskers and with breeches tucked in his boots.

The three-suit sartorial tour which stirred the press of the country comprised the governor's spring business suit, which he wore in the morning; his frock coat, with gray trousers, which he put on in the afternoon, because he was to preside over the conference of governors; and the evening clothes in which he attended the dinner at the White House.

"The conference of governors is the biggest affair I have ever taken part in," said Governor Johnson today, "and I don't know of any better way to express the magnitude of it than to say that such men as President Hadley of Yale and President Angell of the University of Michigan have said it was the greatest civil conference since the constitutional convention of 1787.

"In my opinion the greatest paper presented at the conference was that of James J. Hill, and I met many other men who shared that estimate of it. I am convinced that much good will come of the conference.

"The proposed organization of governors will be formed later and its object will be to deal with matters of public policy that affect the states and do not involve the national government; such as the questions of taxation and public education.

"I wish to speak particularly of the effort of President Roosevelt to make this conference a success. Every possible courtesy was extended to the visiting delegates and everything that could promote the business of the convention was done and done in the thoro manner characteristic of the president."

Governor Johnson returned to St. Paul last night, and after spending today at his office he will leave either tonight or tomorrow for Richmond, Va., where he will deliver an address before the national convention of cotton Growers' association on Thursday

"The closer and warmer binding together of the state and the nation, and especially of the north and the south," Dr. Cyrus Northrop named as the greatest good of the conference. Dr. Northrop who was one of the Minnesota delegates returned today.

"President Roosevelt's address," said Dr. Northrop "was one of the memorable events of the session. Mr. Hill's paper was also warmly applauded and generally esteemed. The interest in all the proceedings, relating to agriculture, forestry, mining and water resources, was intense. Every member of the conference felt it would excite great interest and lead to legislation of the greatest value."

COURT OPENED IN NORMAN CO.

JUDGE GRINDELAND IS ON THE BENCH WITH 34 CIVIL CASES

NO CRIMINAL BUSINESS UNLESS GRAND JURY GETS BUSY

From Tuesday's Daily—

The District court opened at Ada yesterday with Judge Grindeland on the bench. There are thirty four civil cases on the calendar and no criminal. The grand jury is in session and may find some indictments.

The most important case is a damage suit brought by Hans Holden vs. the Gary Telephone Co., for $2500 for injuries received last fall repairing a telephone pole which broke throwing the plaintiff to the ground thereby causing a fracture and sprained ankle. There are fourteen lawyers making in all eighteen that will try the different cases. The petit jury was called to report this morning.

Attorney L. E. Gossman returned home this morning from Ada where he appeared yesterday before Judge Grindeland in the setting of cases in which he is interested. Attorneys William E. Rowe and Jas. Maybury, both of Crookston and Attorney H. L. Gaylord of Fertile are also before the court in their clients' interests.

A case is expected to be brought up in the first part of the term of Mrs. Martha Danielson vs. Martin Krogsund on the charge of indecent assault The parties live in the town of Spring Creek in Norman county just south of Fertile. The alleged offense took place last November. Krogsund lives about two miles from Mrs. Danielson and attacked her near her own home according to the allegations of the complaint. Attorney M. A. Brattland of Ada represents the defendant and Gossman and Gaylord the plaintiff.

ONLY FIVE CRIMINALS

POLK COUNTY GRAND JURY BILLED FOR FIVE CASES NOW

DUNHAM'S CASE MOST WATCHED —A. L. PARSONS IS UP AGAIN

From Tuesday's Daily—

The Sheriff's office here is summoning witnesses for the meeting of the grand jury to be held here early in June. The criminal docket for the coming session of the grand jurymen is very light but has some important cases that are watched from many parts of the country.

Arthur Morris of East Grand Forks now out on bail, charged with an attempt to rob Jos. Banik in that city will be up before the jurymen; Carl Schuler and Robert Johnson charged with robbery of the Smith pool room here; A. L. Parsons, charged with passing a fraudulent check on parties at East Grand Forks, who served one term of one year at Stillwater and was re-arrested on this charge as he left the prison at the end of his sentence; A. E. Dunham, charged with forgery already, and upon whom rest many other charges in connection with his escapades thruout Canada with the nurse in an Edmonton hospital this spring; E. A. Kolstad and Maaken Evenson charged with the robbery of Benjamin Hanbury.

Judge Watts has issued a bench warrant for the arrest of certain parties in this county who will be hailed before the court. This last case will probably be the surprise of the grand jury meet.

State Pure Food Inspector Heiberg arrested a few saloon keepers at East Grand Forks yesterday and they were brought up before Judge Sullivan and fined $40 and costs each. The inspector found that products manufactured by a manufacturer were wanting in purity and this was the cause of the arrest.

The state inspector departed for Greenbush this morning and will have three or four cases before the court there.

HEMORRHOIDS SORES AND ECZEMA

Accompanied by Terrible Itching—A Complicated and Most Distressing Case—Well-known Remedies Failed to Cure—Doctor Thought an Operation Necessary—Then

CUTICURA PROVED ITS WONDERFUL EFFICACY

"I am now eighty years old and one morning, three years ago, I was taken with a hard pain in my right side. In two days I had an attack of piles (hemorrhoids), bleeding and protruding. The doctor gave me some medicine and an ointment for them which helped me some but I had to keep using them all the time. Then I changed to the P—— remedy; but if I did not use it every day, I would get worse. The doctor said the only help for me was to go to a hospital and be operated on. At this time, about a year ago, I went to using the S—— remedies. I tried them for four or five months but did not get much help for my piles. During this time sores would come on a fleshy part of my body. They bothered me all the time. I would get one healed and another would come. These sores changed to eczema, accompanied by a terrible itching. It seemed as if I could not keep my hands from tearing my flesh. This and the pile trouble brought on an inflamed condition. Then I got the Cuticura Remedies. I washed the affected parts with Cuticura Soap and warm water in the morning, at noon, and at night, then used Cuticura Ointment on the irritated surfaces and injected a quantity of Cuticura Ointment with a Cuticura Suppository Syringe. I also took Cuticura Resolvent Pills three times a day. It took a month of this treatment to get me in a fairly healthy state and then I treated myself once a day for three months and, after that, once or twice a week. It is fortunate that I used Cuticura. The treatments I had tried took a lot of money that I would have saved by using Cuticura Remedies sooner, but I am wiser now. I am supplied with a full set of the Cuticura Remedies and would not feel safe without them. J. H. Henderson, Hopkinton, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., Apr. 26, 1907."

PUZZLING QUESTIONS

LETTERS BY MRS. BELLE GUNNESS TO RELATIVES AT FERGUS FALLS

REFERENCES TO THE ADOPTED DAUGHTER AFTER SUPPOSED MURDER

From Saturday's Daily—

It seems difficult to believe that Mrs. Gunness, the woman accused of so many murders at LaPorte, Ind., was the real authoress of such crimes in view of all that is known in regard to her here. Some of her relatives are of the opinion that she was used as a bait and a tool and that while she was unquestionably a party to the crimes the ghastly work was planned and executed by others who received a part of the money obtained from the victims. The case of Jennie Olson Gunness, the adopted daughter who disappeared in September, 1906, and is supposed to have been murdered at that time, is particularly puzzling. In January 1907, Mrs. Gunness, in a letter to relatives here, wrote as follows:

"We are living as usual here. That is to say, myself, Myrtle, Lucy and Philip. Jennie is in Los Angeles, Cal., and goes to school there this winter. She went there last fall with a cousin of my first husband, whose husband is a professor there at the university. She likes herself well there, but is a little homesick, but I hope she will overcome that when she has been there a little while. You can believe that the little girls are busy nowadays. They got for a Christmas present a little Shetland pony with saddle and rig. and with that they drive nearly every day when they come from school. Today they were all three in town and had a nice time. Philip is quite a boy now, and a pretty boy too. He is a lively fellow and full of mischief Then I have a younger boy here to help us do chores, and we get along the best we can."

On May 8, 1907, she wrote:

"If we get thru here with our spring work and Jennie comes home the last of June or the first of July, I have planned to take a trip to Minnesota to visit uncle. How is it with him now? Have you heard anything from him lately?

Her last letter was written in March of this year. In this she says:

"I am glad to say we are all well with the exception of my little Myrtle who has for a few days been somewhat ill. She is not very strong at best. My Lucy and Philip are all right. Jennie now attends the university and studies for an advocate (studies law) and is said to be very clever."—Fergus Falls Journal.

CAPTURED & HUNG FAMOUS GUERILLA

Jack Goodwin, a veteran of the Civil war who resides at Key West Polk County, is said to be the sole survivor of the band of 20 picked men who in the spring of '65 captured the noted Guerilla, Sue Mundy in Louisiana and hanged him the next day after a brief court martial. They went down the river 20 miles from Brandenburgh, where Morgan crossed for his famous northern raid and located Mundy in a tobacco barn. It was supposed that he had quite a band of men with him, but most of the party was out foraging and the capture of Mundy and a famous Guerilla named McGruder was easily effected. Mundy at the time gave Goodwin his photograph which he has cherished ever since as a memento of one of his most thrilling experiences during the war.

PENNED AND PILFERED

Address John L. Silber, Kay County Jail, Newkirk, Okla.

You can always tell a young husband from an old one. When a man has been married a few months, you will generally see him working in the garden or fixing up about the house and while he works he whistles or sings, or occasionally look up toward the window to see if anyone is watching him. A year later he is still working in the garden but the smile has been exchanged for a frown and he occasionally looks up towards the house wondering why in thunder breakfast is not ready. Another year rolls by and his looks would sour milk but he is still at work, stopping occasionally to kick the dog or throw a brick at the cat. The next year we find him sitting on the front porch, smoking a pipe, while his wife does the digging in the garden. Now just watch our young men, as one by one they are caught in Cupid's net and see if this rule does not work out the problem correctly.

Last Sunday morning John D. Rockefeller and his two grandchildren walked from his home on 54th street in New York to church at 46th street and of course there's nothin' strange about that, but listen. A private detective followed him very closely and kept all but intimate friends at a distance and a special patrolman was at the church and after meetin' he and the detective escorted Mr. Rockefeller home. Now I'd like to know what the big monopolist was afraid of. Farmer Ben cin come and go as he pleases but he don't have any detectives followin' him up. He calkerlates that he's got the same protection as any other well behaved citizen and he's safe in goin' round whether to church or the Gem. It must take off all relish for bein' over-rich by grabbin' and extortin' to live constantly in fear of your life so you can't have on minit of peace. I spose lots of these big rich fellows have double locks on their doors and special police watchin' their house all night long as well as day time and burglar alarms and all such while Farmer Ben sleeps with his door just latched and nothin' but the dog to watch around and scare the cats at night. And he can sleep like a top every night in the year without a shadow of trouble of bein' killed or robbed.—Farmer Ben in Mower County Transcript.

NECESSITY OF STOPPING WASTE OF SOIL

Startling was the warning sounded yesterday at the conference of governors at the White House at Washington of the danger the nation confronts in soil waste and forest depletion. The governors listened and talked and applauded but took no action. This is left for today the last day of the conference.

The resolution committee was in session all day and will report today. A supplementary meeting of a number of the governors followed the day's session and a committee consisting of the governors of Kentucky Missouri and Nebraska was appointed to bring in a suggestion for a permanent organization of governors independent, perhaps of any other organization that may be formed by the conference. The president opened the morning and afternoon sessions which were thereafter presided over by Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota and Governor Deenen of Illinois respectively.

James J. Hill of the Great Northern, who led the long list of speakers treated the depletion of the nation's resources in a very impressive way. He presented the conditions respecting the mineral, soil and forest showing the waste in each instance and drew a picture of political chaos when all were gone, wherein the people would tear down the very pillars of the government. Mr. Hill believed such results could and should be averted by prompt action. Soil waste and forest conservation received expert treatment by Professor T. C. Chamberlain of Chicago, and R. A. Long of Kansas City, after which was evidenced the desire of the convention to engage in a general discussion. The demand to be heard was insistent and the same eagerness was manifested at the close of the afternoon program, which included an address on irrigation by Former Governor Pardee of California, a paper on grazing and stock raising, read for H. A. Jastro of California, who was taken ill during the day, and general observations land conditions in the west by former Senator Carey of Wyoming. Secretary Wilson met a hearty response to a practical talk on mistakes in farming and remedies. The same crop each year on the same land, as he showed was ruinous. Diversity of crops and keeping the proper quantity of organic matter in the soil, was the secret of larger production and a benefit to the land.

Many other men spoke along the same line.

SECRETARY TAFT KEPT MOVING.

Not an Idle Moment During His Six Days' Stay on Isthmus.

Colon, May 14.—Secretary Taft sailed from here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the Prairie of Charleston. During his stay on the isthmus, which has lasted six days, the secretary has not had an idle moment. So many affairs of importance had to receive his attention that he was unable to accept any of the social invitations extended to him. Secretary Taft's efforts were directed mainly to improvements in the administration of the canal zone, the consideration of the boundary dispute between Panama and Colombia, and the relations between Panama and Colombia and the United States.

While no official statement has been given out relative to much that has been accomplished, it is announced that a satisfactory agreement has been reached. The matter of the boundary line will ge taken up by Mr. Taft when he reaches Washington with President Roosevelt and Secretary Root.

WILD AND WOOLLY TIMES ON AT WAUBON

Anthony Bellcourt and some other Mahnomen sports came down for the ball game Wednesday and incidently to 'run the town." At a dance in the evening they tried to pick a quarrel but did not succeed. Yesterday Bellcourt attempted to shoot up the town and succeeded in lodging a bullet in the leg of Joe LaClaire whom he was trying to force to dance by pointing the gun at his feet. He was placed under arrest and Sheriff Blanchard came down and took him up to Mahnomen. We learn that he could not be held for any criminal charge on the warrant issued and he was taken before a justice and fined $40 and costs. There were two or three other persons who should have been arrested.—Waubon Forum.

GOOD ADVICE FROM A FARMER FROM IOWA

N. I. Nelson a retired merchant and banker of Lake Mills, Iowa, spent last Friday and Saturday in the city with V. M. Higinbotham. Mr. Nelson informed the editor he was most agreeably surprised with the country he saw in Lake Pleasant, Terrebonne and Poplar River townships, and added "It is hard to understand why an Iowa farmer will continue to pay high rent when such lands as these can be had so cheap. Why. such land would bring $100 per acre in my country." —Red Lake Falls Gazette.

THE ADA BRICK YARD MAY OPERATE THIS YEAR

The matter of making arrangements for the operation of the brick yard at this place is again receiving consideration. The latest proposition is to form a stock company composed of local business men and capitalized at $5,000. The machinery and the entire plant is in readiness for operation and the clay we have here is very good for brick making. If the additional machinery would not be well to engage in the manufacture of tiling.—Norman Co. Herald.

SOME EXCITEMENT ON AT BARNESVILLE

There was a little flurry of excitement and some feminine shrieking at the station yesterday morning just as the east bound limited was pulling out, occasioned by the fact that an elderly woman, partially paralyzed, was just boarding the train as it started to pull out and fell with considerable force to the platform pavement. It seems that she had stepped off the train to get something to eat at the lunch room and was being assisted to the steps of the coach when the signal was given the engineer to pull out, with the result as stated. A little boy with the lady, presumably her son, yelled at the top of his voice when he saw her fall so heavily, causing all eyes to turn in that direction. It was indeed fortunate that the woman did not fall beneath the wheels, as might easily have happened.—Barnesville Record-Review.

AN ECCENTRIC RESIDENT OF THIEF RIVER DEAD

Almon Wright, an old and somewhat eccentric resident of the East Side, died at his home on Saturday morning of congestion of the lungs, following Bright's disease, with which he had been sick for several weeks.

A twin brother from the state of Washington and a nephew from Chicago were notified and immediately came on to attend the funeral arrangements, they being the nearest relatives. The remain will be taken to Washington for interment.

The deceased was born in New York state in 1844 and was unmarried. He had lived alone in a rundown house on the east side for many years He was fairly well off in this world's goods. Reports have been circulated that $1500 in money were found in the house after the old man's death, but investigation has failed to conform this rumor and it probably grew out of the quite prevalent impression that the old man was miserly in his habits.—Thief River Falls Press.

LIGHTNING DOES DAMAGE NEAR FERGUS FALLS

In Pelican township near Fergus Falls, during the electrical storm that passed over that country Sunday evening, lightning struck Olaf M. Haugrud's barn, setting fire to it, and burned it to the ground in a few minutes. The lightning also killed a horse and a little colt that were in a box stall. Mr. Haugrud succeeded in getting the other horses and several head of cattle out. The barn was one of the largest and best put up in the country and was nearly new, having been built last summer. It was a frame structure 52x54 feet. Three sets of working harnesses, several tons of hay and a considerable amount of grain was burned. The value of the barn alone was about $1,500 and it was insured for $1,000 in the Oscar Farmers' Mutual Insurance Co. The stock was covered by $200 insurance.

Can Eczema be cured?

Some physicians say "Yes."

Simple vegetable oil of wintergreen mixed with other vegetable ingredients, will kill the germs that infest the skin. Apply this prescription to the skin, and instantly that awful itch is gone. The very moment the liquid is aplied, that agonizing, tantalizing itch disappears, and continued applications of this external remedy soon cure the disease.

We carry in stock this oil of wintergreen properly compounded into D. D. D. Prescription. While we are not sure that it will cure all those cases of skin trouble which are inherited, we positively know that this D. D. D. Prescription whenever rightly used, will cure every last case of genuine Eczema or other skin trouble did not exist at birth.

REAL ESTATE TAXES ARE ALMOST DUE

The last day of 1908 to pay real estate taxes without penalties added is Friday, May 29. The 30th is Memorial day, a legal holiday, and the 31st is Sunday so the 29th is the last business day before the penalties go into effect on June 1st.

Taxpayers have the option of paying half the real estate taxes before May 30th and the balance in October and this privilege is taken advantage of by the many property holders, particularly those whose taxes are large. The man whose taxes run up to but a few dollars usually prefers to clean up the whole matter at one fell swoop, providing he has the money.

SHERIFFS AFTER A FUGITIVE

SHERIFFS J. F. DONOVAN OF STEVENS COUNTY AND NELSON OF RED

LAKE COUNTY SCOUR RED LAKE IN A LAUNCH FOR JOHN ERNST

From Saturday's Daily—

Scanning under shading hand the broad waters of the lower Red Lake for a fugitive from justice, Sheriffs Donovan of Stevens county, Minnesota and Nelson of Red Lake county are steaming thru the watersways of the north in determined search.

Sheriff Donovan arrived in Thief River Falls last Wednesday and departed with Sheriff Nelson in a fast steam launch up the Red Laake River fifty miles into the interior to Lower Red Lake. John Ernst is at present an employee of the Grand Forks Lumber Company and is retrieving dead heads or watersoaked timbers from the waters of the northern streams.

He is charged with selling a large amount of mortgaged property in Stevens county.

The officials with their assistants have been searching the Lower Red Lake for three days from Red Lake Landing and Redby to the neck along the northeastern shores. They arrived today in the Upper Red Lake and will try to penetrate the vast fields of rushes and water growths that grow from its shallow depths to find the man they want.

It is believed that Ernst is located near Shotly today on the southern shore. The launch is steaming to that village at the present time.

The peculiar side of the whole matter is that the lumber company has been receiving reports from the gang with which Ernst is working and in which his name is included regularly.

NINTH DISTRICT BANKERS CONVENTION

THIEF RIVER FALLS IS TO ENTERTAIN THE MEMBERS ON MAY 29

The Ninth District Group Minnesota Bankers' associtaion is to meet in Thief River Falls on Friday, May 29th. It is anticipated that between sixty and one hundred bankers will be in atendance from a territory extending as far south as Fergus Falls and east to Bemidji.

A program is being prepared by the secretary, Mr. C. A. Baker, now of Ogema, and preparations are being made for entertaining and accommodating the visitors. This matter was taken up at a meeting of the Commercial Club of Thief River Falls and the committee on entertainment was instructed to act with the local bankers in preparing for the meeting. It is likely that a banquet will be given in the evening to such of the visitors as finde it convenient to remain.

Last year the convention was held at Fergus Falls and the members were royally entertained by the citizens of the Otter Tail city. Not to be outdone in hospitality it is up to Thief River Falls to do as well at least, and better if possible. They will make good.

NEBRASKAN ADDRESSES NATIONAL DRAINAGE CONGRESS ON SWAMP RECLAMATION

400 DELEGATES ATTEND BIG NATIONAL CONVENTION AT WASHINGTON

From Thursday's Daily—

In an address before the National Drainage congress which met at Washington, D. C., yesterday, William Jennings Bryan said he was heartily in sympathy with the movement for the reclamation of the swamp lands of this country thru drainage. Mr. Bryan arrived there early today to attend the conference of governors. More than four hundred delegates from all parts of the United States were present when W. S. Braddock of Wisconsin, vice president of congress called that body together. The congress will be in session three days. The speakers today included, besides Mr. Bryan, Secretary of the Interior Garfield, Senators Newlands of Nevada and Clapp of Minnesota, Representatives Randell of Louisiana and Burton of Delaware, Governor Blanchard of Louisiana, O. P. Austin chief of the bureau of statistics, and Col. P. Goodyear of Georgia. All the speakers expressed their hearty endorsement of the proposed scheme of reclaiming the swamp lands of the country.

Mr. Bryan expressed the opinion that the bringing of the swamp lands of the country into cultivation would mean a wonderful addition to the wealth of those sections and the wealth of the country at large.

Senator Clapp expressed his firm belief that legislation looking to the reclamation of swamp lands would pass congress and declared that he would give it his earnest support. Secretary Garfield outlined the work of his department with reference to reclaiming swamp lands and referred to his preparedness to undertake the work if congress so provided.

CAN'T BUILD THE DAM

LUMBER COMPANY ABANDONS WORK OF BUILDING THE DAM

QUITE A NUMBER OF FARMERS HAVE BIG DAMAGE SUITS AGAINST COMPANIES

From Saturday's Daily—

The crew of log drivers employed by the East Grand Forks Lumber company have abandoned the work of trying to dam up the new cut-off in the Red Lake river south of here. The bottom of the cut-off is all hardpan and it is impossible to drive down piling. The only way that a dam can be built is by putting in stone piers and this would prove very expensive, yet this will have to be done if logs are to be driven down the Red Lake river below Thief River Falls in the future.

The million feet of logs left high and dry in the one mile of the old river bed are now being dragged by men to the main river and this is proving very expensive work. That is the only way, however of getting them out.

The new cut-off in the river runs across the land of Hans Jacob Hanson and he does not want to donate his land for navigation purposes. Those who own farms on the one mile stretch of the river in which water does not flow, want the river back in its original place, as they had depended upon it for water for their stock, etc. It is understood that there is quite likely to be considerable litigation over the affair and some of the interested parties have engaged the services of Attorney G. Halvorson of this city. Demands are to be made upon the Crookston and East Grand Forks Lumber companies for damages and if not paid suits will be commenced. It is quite likely that Hans Jacob Hanson will refuse to allow the lumber companies to drive logs across his land, and in that event no logs could be floated down the Red Lake river until they settled with him —Thief River Falls Press.

STRAWBERRY SITUATION

HOME GROWN FRUIT WILL HARDLY RIPEN MUCH BEFORE 10TH OF JUNE

What kind of a crop will the Minnesota strawberry furnish this year? This is a question which fruit dealers are finding somewhat hard to answer. At the time of the recent frosts reports were made to the effect that the strawberry plants had been considerably damaged by the cold, but local dealers do not put a great deal of credence in these statements from the investigations they have been able to make on their own account. Further south and west the same frosts experienced here did a great deal of damage to fruit, especially of strawberries, as the plants were in blossom and the buds were nipped off, but here, while there were some early plants and blossoms, these were not very numerous, and the leaves which occurred will not interfere with the fruit bearing qualities of the plants. The strawberries however, will not be so early as it was thought a while back they might be, recent chilly weather having held the plants back. While there may be a few early berries in the first week in June, the crop will not generally ripen much before the 10th if June. While some berries have formed on the plants many of them are just in blossom at the present time.

Apples were not in blossom to sufficient extent to have suffered any damage. While pieplant was quite generally nipped only the leaves above ground were destroyed, and other leaves have grown up since and the home grown product is now excellent.

Just at present strawberry shipments are poor and the price has advanced over what it was at the end of last week. The best berries received here this season as well as the cheapest were those offered on the local market last week, but since then heavy rains in these states where the berries are now ripening have made the yield watersoaked and poor in quality, many of the berries being lost in shipment. In consequence the price has gone up.

Advices from all over the country as to the peach yield indicate that unless unfavorable conditions arise it will be unusually plentiful and good. The peaches are now all formed on the trees and with favorable weather conditions will come forward to a bountiful yield.

California cherries are now beginning to be quoted, but as yet the price is so high that few of them have been brought here.

JOHNSON FIRST AND ONLY CHOICE

Democratic Convention Instructs Delegates to Fight for Him at Denver.

NO RUMP CONVENTION HELD

Bryan Men Decide Not to Bolt—Attempt to Make Bryan Second Choice Is Defeated.

St. Paul, May 16.—The Democrats of Minnesota yesterday formally indorsed Gov. John A. Johnson as a presidential candidate, and at the same time, by a vote of 772 to 166, refused to declare in favor of W. J. Bryan as second choice. The following delegates at large and alternates were chosen:

Delegates at large — W. S. Hammond, St. James; Frank A. Day, Fairmont; F. G. Winston, Minneapolis; Swan Turnblad, Minneapolis; D. W. Lawler, St. Paul; T. D. O'Brien, St. Paul; Martin O'Brien, Crookston; A. C. Weiss, Duluth.

Alternates—J. E. Vanstrom, Yellow Medicine county; J. R. Conway, Becker; S. P. Nelson, Rock; John Morgan, Red Lake; Peter McCoy, Hennepin; Milo White, Jr., Fillmore; W. A. Burnet, Hubbard; Daniel Aberle, Ramsey.

District Delegates.

District Delegates — First, L. L. Brown, J. F. Cook; Second, J. C. Wise, L. A. Fritsche; Third, A. A. Poehler, J. A. Coller; Fourth, R. T. O'Connor, J. G. Armson; Fifth, E. J. Conroy, J. W. Pauly; Sixth, F. A. Silbert, John Reichert; Seventh, J. Driscoll, B. C. Farrington; Eighth, Martin Hughes, John Dwan; Ninth, C. A. Fuller, H. L. Shirle.

The followers of Mr. Bryan did not carry out the threat which had been made within the past few days, that they would bolt and hold a rump convention if their contests were defeated before the committee on credentials, or if they were not able to secure a partial indorsement of their leader. They made a sturdy fight for their man, and when they had been defeated remained quietly in their seats during the remainder of the convention.

Bryan in Platform.

The Johnson men were generous in their victory and declared in their platform that while they entertained an affection for and confidence in the integrity and and ability of William J. Bryan, they believed that Johnson was a man better calculated to bring success to the Democratic party, and was first entitled to the support of Minnesota.

The Bryan men did not make as great a fight before the committee on credentials as had been predicted. They did not seriously contest the vote of Hennepin county. They were awarded the delegation from Itasca county, and one-half the vote of Cottonwood county. In all other of the contests which they had declared they would make they either did not appear or were defeated.

No Second Choice.

It was a foregone conclusion that this would be the result, and they reserved their strength for a fight on the floor in favor of having Bryan declared the sole heir to the votes of Minnesota in the event of any political disaster overtaking Johnson in the Denver convention. Two of the nineteen members of the resolutions committee presented a platform plank to this effect, which they asked be made an addition to the platform. They did not move that it be substituted for the majority report, but Chairman Works declared that he would consider the minority report as an amendment, and the defeat of the Bryan faction came about on the motion to substitute the minoriay report for that of the majority.

Tribute to Johnson.

The fight at times waxed warm, while the debate on the platform was in progress, but there was nothing approaching disorder at any time.

Leaving all political questions aside, the convention was throughout a flattering tribute to Gov. Johnson. The enthusiasm for him was unbounded and sincere. Every mention of his name was instantly followed by a wild yell of delight, and the final adoption of the platform indorsing him and instructing the delegates to fight for him at Denver was followed by a demonstration of enthusiasm the loyalty of which any man might feel proud.

WILL CALL HALT TO PRODIGALITY

Governors Plan Prosperity for the American People of a Century Hence.

CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE

Conservation of Natural Resources Will Be Topic for Three Days of Deliberation.

Washington, May 15. — Two ideas, destined to mark material progress in America's future, resulted from the first of the three days' conference at the White House, in which President Roosevelt, the governors of forty-four states, cabinet officers, supreme court judges, senators, representatives and experts are participating in efforts to reach conclusions on the best methods of conserving the natural resources of the United States.

The first is that a permanent organization by the states and the nation is necessary and will likely result from the present conference, to accomplish the end sought.

Would Accomplish Result.

The second — suggested by Secretary Root—is that there is no limitation by the constitution to the agreements which may be made between the states, subject to the approval of congress. The two ideas, fully developed, it is predicted, would result in the conservation of the energies and resources of the nation through uniform and unconflicting laws, both national and state.

There was no doubting the first climax of the day. It was the reception of the president.

Ovation to President.

He entered the East room on the minute of 11 o'clock, as the Marine band rendered the presidential honors. The governors arose; they clapped their hands, they shouted. Five hundred others took their cue, and the demonstration became tumultuous. Then followed a hush. The venerable Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the senate, leaning one arm on the back of the chair on which the president was seated, read the Scriptures, the description of the fertility of the land promised the children of Israel, and followed it with a supplication for guidance in the present undertaking.

President Makes Speech.

President Roosevelt here began his explanation of the reason for the conference. His fifty-minute speech was many times interrupted by applause, and when he finally reached his point of praise to the inland waterways commission and declared with characteristic vigor that should congress neglect to perpetuate the commission, "I will do it myself," he "captured" the assemblage.

The president's speech ended the morning session. The governors and delegates were photographed with the president on the porch of the White House. The picture will also show William J. Bryan, Andrew Carnegie, J. J. Hill and Gustav Schwab, specially invited participants.

Gov. Johnson Will Preside.

The afternoon session proceeded at a rate that broke all speed regulations. The president finds it impossible to devote his entire time to the meetings, but he will call each session to order and then designate some governor to preside. This honor yesterday fell to Gov. Noel of Mississippi. To-day Gov. Johnson of Minnesota will wield the gavel.

It was from the utterances of Andrew Carnegie and those who followed him that the gravity of the problems to be considered was given weight. Two hundred years of coal supply and half that of iron was the prediction of the famous ironmaster.

Johnson Makes Lively Talk.

Gov. Johnson of Minnesota made a lively talk, in which he took issue with Mr. Carnegie's statement that wasteful methods prevailed in iron mining in the Lake Superior region and cheerfully assured that gentleman that "Mr. Hill would take issue with him on some things." Other speakers were John Mitchell, Dr. C. R. Van Hise, John Hayes Hammond and Secretary Root. The latter was received with as great enthusiasm as that accorded the president.

PROOF OF LAND FRAUDS.

California Official Is Taking Evidence to Washington.

San Francisco, May 15.—Lewis E. Aubury, state mineralogist of California, left for Washington Monday night with considerable documentary evidence bearing upon his charges that land frauds in this state affecting mineral lands have been upon so extensive a scale as to affect fully 3,000,000 acres of land and that federal officials and their agents have not properly attended to the unearthing of the frauds and punishing the guilty parties. Aubury is to confer, it is said, with President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Interior Garfield.

A Spirit of Optimism

J. H. Griffin the industrial agent of the Great Northern sets a very good example for the people of this section of the country. No matter what the conditions are, no matter whether the weather is fair or foul, he is always looking on the bright side of things.

There is such a thing as being too optimistic. There is such a thing as over-playing your hand but on the other hand it is certainly a grand thing for any section of the country to have men such as J. H. Griffin who are continually looking on the bright side of things.

Mr. Griffin is on the road all the time. He has been in the Red River Valley for the past quarter of a century. His interests are here and they always have been. They probably always will be. He is satisfied with the outlook now and he has been satisfied with the outlook in the past. His judgment is better than the judgment of those who have had less experience.

Foreign Fortune Hunters

It is related that there is an American young woman who contemplates retiring from the world to some quiet retreat to conceal herself from the hordes of too importunate suitors that have pursued her from Europe, where she was travelling back to her native land, says the Duluth Herald.

Having learned this much, tho being denied the name of the young woman, it is hardly necessary to note that the story adds that she is not only desirable in every way as a young woman of brains and beauty and graces of character, but that she is very rich.

While it was necessary to tell us about the brains and beauty and graces, it was not necessary to add that she is wealthy, because the mere fact that she is haunted by a retinue of clamoring dukes and counts and things seeking her hand is evidence enough of the standing her fortune has in Bradstreets.

It seems that this auriferous young woman was left a large fortune by her father, and that when abroad some time ago she attracted the attention of a number of foreigners with very old titles and very dilapidated fortunes. We say "she attracted" from force of habit, tho everybody realizes that it was not she but her fortune that was the attraction, and that it would have proved just as potent if, instead of having brains and beauty, she had been brainless and homely. Without the brains, no doubt she would not have sought to escape the attentions of these clamoring individuals who wanted her to invest her father's money in the rehabilitaion of their fortunes and their castles and in financing their pursuit of pleasure.

Becoming seriously annoyed at this pursuit, this sensible young woman shook off her train of beggars and hurried back to her native New York. No use; they followed her, after trying in vain to soften her heart to their appeals by writing letters. It is said that she has been so pestered with the attentions of these fortune-hunters that in desperation she contemplates seeking some quiet spot where dukes, counts and things cannot find her.

It does not seem to have occurred to her to have appealed to the police. Most cities have ordinances in such cases made and provided. There are rules against begging, against vagrancy, and against suspicious characters. Policemen have been known to arrest men who have no visible means of support. Possibly a careful explanation of this American custom, which can hardly prevail abroad or there would not be so many penniless but titled pursuers of American fortunes to haunt the highways of Europe and to make the travels of sensible American girls hideous with their avaricious devotions, would have diminished her train.

But still there is still another way for this girl to protect herself. She need not move out of New York. Let her marry some good promising American young man, six feet tall and possessing about 180 pounds of clean bone and muscle. There won't be many impecunious counts dogging her about after that.

Horizon Is Clearing

In his last weekly letter Henry Clews notes several encouraging features in the business situation. Among other things he says:

The monetary future for instance, is clear of all important trauble for some months to come. Funds are superabundant, and likely to so remain owing to our imperfect system for contraction of the currency. Rates of interest are low in consequence, and will probably remain low until crop-moving begins in August. Such conditions are inflationary and, of course, stimulate gold shipments; $20,000,000 having already gone back since the panic. This movement causes no uneasiness in monetary circles; in fact, we could easily spare the $100,000,444 imported here during the panic without disturbance. Perhaps the most unpleasant feature in the money market is the rapidly growing Government deficit, which will compel a large withdrawal of public funds in depository banks. However as already stated, the money market has a clearer outlook than usual for three months ahead; and this is the most stimulating factor in stock market operations. The next bullish element is the crop situation. We are practically sure of a big winter wheat crop, probably the second best on record; for the harvest is only about two months distant, and recent abundant rains have well soaked the soil leaving the plant in high condition and comparaatively free from drouth. The condition of winter wheat is now so fine that a drop of 3 or 4 points in June or July would still give promise for a big crop. Conditions for planting spring wheat and corn are also very satisfactory, the soil being in excellent condition and favorable to a good start. Cotton, too, is beginning well, with the prospect of no reduction in acreage. All indications thus far have been on the side of a good harvest, altho occasionally temperature has been too low and precipitation too great. The chief drawback to the stock market is that free realization may take place unexpectedly at any time, prices having undergone a big advance. Railroad traffic is exceedingly dull, over 413,000 idle cars being reported at the close of April, which was the largest total on record. This means large decreases in gross earnings; but the railroads are making heavy cuts in expenses, and postponing improvemets, so that net results, while poor, are less so than was at one time expected. There are indications that the worst has been seen in general business, and that improvement will follow good crops and satisfactory nominations. Among the good features in business was the open reduction of prices in the iron trade. Secret cuts have been made for some time past, and the lower prices now established will probably result in stimulating orders Some improvement can also be noticed in the cotton goods trade in consequence of the readjustment which has taken place in that industry. The stock market has thoroly discounted all bad elements, and is now anticipating these better features. Operations in the stock market, however, must be conducted hereafter with increasing caution on top of present advanced prices. Owing to the reasons first stated there has been powerful manipulation; and while the market is under strong and capable management it is also specially exposed to unexpected drawbacks, because of its artificial character. As long as stocks remain in the present strong hands, however, no serious reaction is to be expected, but when they unload on weaker shoulders then look out.

A Good Suggestion

At the convention in Crookston last week many of the attending delegates spoke of holding the next democratic County Convention in this city. While the convention was in session every one was awful busy, being adjourned at 12 o'clock sharp, and all who attend conventions know what that rapid speed and dispatch means. After they adjourned it was fully talked with the County Committee and all were in favor of coming to this city next time. We can entertain them here, and as well and better than in Crookston. How many people live in Polk county never seen this city, would appreciate such an opportunity and the democrats are going to attend to this matter this year. It's a good move of the Commercial Club to push this convention idea to the front.—East Grand Forks Valley View.

Duluth must depend on Senator Nelson to secure an appropriation of $95,000 for the federal building which amount was estimated to be required by the treasury department.

The public buildings bill as passed by the house did not contain anything for Duluth altho Minneapolis and other Minnesota towns were well provided for.

Congressman Bede admitted tonight that he was well aware that there would be nothing for the Zenith City in the bill and further stated that he depended on the others to insert the item.

In taking this course it is considered that Bede took pretty desperate chances for the senate committee is opposed to inserting entirely new items in bills. Still Senator Nelson is quite certain that he will secure the sum desired inasmuch as it is considered necessary by the treasury department.

Two years ago this summer when the $125,000 was obtained for Duluth Congressman Bede was out of town at the time the public buildings bill came up, and left the matter in the hands of Congressman Stevens. The committee struck Duluth out when it reported the bill to the Senate but Mr. Stevens got busy with Senator Nelson and saved the item.

The senate committee on public buildings and grounds expects to complete the bill tomorrow. Senator Nelson is a very busy man, having an important meeting of the judiciary committee to attend but he has promised to do all possible for Duluth.

HOME NEWS

Of Interest to Everyone in Crookston

In every newspaper in the country you will read statements made by people living in out-of-the-way places, who are supposed to have been cured or derived great benefit from some wonderful remedy or "cure-all". But here in Crookston we only publish statements made by Crookston people—the testimony of your friends, neighbors and fellow-townsmen.

Noel Herbert, carpenter, of 338 Hunter St., Crookston, Minn., says: "My back pained terribly and totally unfitted me for any exertion, there being times when I had to be helped about. I at last heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and immediately procured a box at S. A. Wallace's drug store. I started using them and it was not long before I noticed that my back was gradually getting stronger. My trouble son entirely left me and I have not felt a vistage of it since. Doan's Kidney Pills are a most valuable remedy and I give them my endorsement with the hope that others may be convinced of their merit."

The above statement was made by Mr. Herbert in 1898 nearly six years later Dec. 2nd, 1904 he added:

"Doan's Kidney Pills so completely relieved me of kidney trouble six years ago that there has been no return of it. It is a pleasure to again endorse them."

ELEVEN CARS OF HORSES SHIPPED IN

DITCH CONTRACTORS SHIP THEM IN FROM SOUTHERN PART OF THE STATE

Eleven carloads of horses have arrived in this city during the past week from the southern part of Minnesota and Iowa. They have been shipped in by ditch contractors thru the north country and will be utilized where the nature of the work will not suit a dredging machine. Notwithstanding the increase of the dredging machine the horse is still holding its own on ditch work and that combined with the need of horses during the winter in the woods has drawn a number of shipments into this territory from the horse breeding centers. The horses are utilized on shallow and short ditches and branches.

THE REST OF HIS TIMBER BURNED

Geo. O'Reilly this morning received a letter from Will Hahn of Argyle stating that the recent forest fires up north had completed the devastation of the timber on Mr. O'Reilly's timber claim which is situated between Warroad and Roseau. Last year a fire burned about half of the timber off the O'Reilly claim and the recent fire finished it. Mr. Hahn owns the adjoining claim and he also lost all of his timber.

RALPH REPORTS ON CANAL

BIG MEETING WAS HELD THIS WEEK AT AITKIN BY OFFICIALS

ENGINEER GEO. RALPH AND SECRETARY OF STATE SCHMAHL ATTENDED

From Wednesday's Daily—

Secretary of State Schmahl and Engineer Ralph of the state drainage board were in Aitkin Tuesday and yesterday for the purpose of examing the Gun Lake state ditch, nine miles northeast of here and the proposed Waldeck-Pine Knoll cutoff canal. They will recommend that the state board deepen the Gun Lake ditch.

On their return to Aitkin Engineer Ralph made a report on the survey of the Waldeck-Pine Knoll cutoff canal, which has been awaited for months. The engineer figures that the canal must have a carrying capacity of 7,000 cubic feet per second and to accomplish this it would have to be ninety-six feet wide at the top, sixty-eight feet at the bottom and eighteen feet deep on the average. The length would be seven miles. The estimated cost would be approximately $165,000 and the estimated benefits $180,000 on the basis of there being 45,000 acres to be benefitted. The engineer's estimate is believed to be low. Major Abbott, who made a survey of the same route ten years ago estimated that 100,000 acres would be affected and that the increased value per acre would be $27.50 per acre, or total of $2,750,000. Major Abbott's plan contemplating lining the canal with timber. Mr. Ralph does not figure that this is necessary, as the bottom would be in blue clay all the way and the danger from erosion would not be great. The report will be carefully considered by the property owners before any action is taken.

Mr. Schmahl made a brief address in which he stated there was great need for drainage in the north country and he also stated that he had seen land on his visit to the state ditch that was wonderfully rich. He promised the most hearty co-operation of the state drainage board.

RETURNS FROM PEG WITH KOPANG

SHERIFF GONYEA MAKES QUICK TRIP AFTER EXTRADICTED FUGITIVE

able to secure his release, Sheriff Gonyea of Polk county as embodying the authorities of two governments could chase that individual from the Mexican border to the north pole and command the police of two governments and the territorial authorities of Alaska as well as the Philippines and the isle of Hawaii in the Pacific.

Lindsey of Winnipeg

A good deal depends on the co-operation of the police in the apprehension of criminals and Sheriff Gonyea says of Colonel Lindsey, the governor of the provincial jail at Winnipeg that he is the finest gentleman who ever kept an organized jail.

When first seen by Mr. Gonyea this trip Kopang said he would not come, extradition or no extradition. But the governor of the jail told him that if he did not go the whole police system of Manitoba would be at the beck and call of the authorized representative of the government to see that Mr. Kopang reached United States territory. Kopang made no further resistence.

Sheriff Louis Gonyea returned last evening on the 7:10 train from Winnipeg bringing with him in handcuffs Paul Kopang wanted for the forgery of checks at East Grand Forks last fall. Kopang has been obstinately fighting his transfer into this city since first arrested and held in Winnipeg for being a fugitive from justice Upon the arrival of the government papers at Winnipeg however he gave up the ghost and came to Crookston for trial without further resistance. His hearing came up at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Paul Kojang when arraigned before Judge McLean this afternoon waived examination and was held to the district court under $500 bonds which he was unable to furnish and was committed to the county jail.

Officer of Two Countries

Sheriff Gonyea appeared before the authorities at Winnipeg on his visit to get Kopang and bring him to this city as the officer of the Dominion of Canada in Canadian territory and the officer of the United States of America on American territory.

Mr. Gonyea carried these warrants with him and has them now. The first paper secured by him and the first step toward the extradition of Kopang was performed when Governor Johnson clothed him with the authority of the state and sent him to Washington. At Washington over the signature of President Roosevelt Mr. Gonyea was given a warrant as authority of the United States government. The papers signed by the president were sent to A. B. Aylesworth, minister of justice at Ottawa and that official in turn gave to Mr. Gonyea the authority of a police of the Dominion government for the taking and conveyance of Paul Kopang to the borders of the Dominion.

Authority of Two Rulers

If Kopang had broken from the Winipeg jail or his friends had been

HARD WHEAT IN THE WEST

LEAGUE FORMED TO KEEP FAMOUS HARD WHEAT UP TO STANDARD

WILL PREVENT SOFT WHEAT FROM GAINING ANY GROUND

From Wednesday's Daily—

Millers of North Dakota and northern Minnesota met in Grand Forks yesterday and perfected the organization of the Hard Spring Wheat league for the purpose of keeping the variety of wheat termed hard northern wheat up to its present standard of value and reputation in the world's markets.

Campaign of Education

The league proposes to carry on a systematic campaign of education among the farmers to influence them to raise the hard northern varieties and to encourage the use of its product by the population in this particular section.

The following officers were elected:

President—J. A. Dunn, Park River.

Vice President—B. W. Stevenson, of Mandan.

Sec. and Treas.—E. Van Houten, Moorhead.

With the above officers F. H. Chapman, of the Russell-Miller Milling company, Grand Forks and J. J. Padden, of Red Lake Falls, will constitute the executive committee.

The league voted to work in conjunction with the experiment stations of North Dakota and northern Minnesota in exploiting the hard wheat principle.

WINNIPEG FLYER WENT IN DITCH

From Wednesday's Daily—

Last evening a short distance this side of Winnipeg the Great Northern flyer was wrecked, the engine, baggage car express car and day coach going into the ditch. The train was delayed for about nine and a half hours arriving here at 7:45 this morning instead of 10:15 last evening according to schedule.

Fortunately there was no one injured but the fireman. The fireman and engineer looked out the cab window and noticed that the three cars were jumping the rails. The fireman jumped and hit on his head and shoulders and is reported very seriously injured but it is not thought that he will die. The engineer stuck to his post and escaped without injury altho the engine turned a complete summersault. The baggage, express and day coach were badly smashed also, but the balance of the train was not damaged to speak of, the observation coach escaping injury entirely.

That none of the passengers were injured in the wreck is little less than a miracle. The train was heavily loaded and there were many women and children aboard. When the train went into the ditch there was somewhat of a panic, tho the greater number of the passengers did not know what the trouble was until it was all over.

It was another case of Great Northern luck.

A SCHOOL FIGHT ON

FARMERS OF HELGELAND AND BRANDT TOWNSHIPS BEFORE COMMISIONERS

PETITIONERS CLAIM SCHOOL TOO FAR TO ACCOMMODATE THE CHILDREN

From Thursday's Daily—

Ole Peterson and Oscar Haugild of Brandt town and Hans L. Sande and Johannes Gjerde of Helgeland town are before the county commissioners today representing the petitioners for a school district to be set aside from districts 240 and 229 in the towns of Helgeland and Brandt.

G. E. Arhaug, Andrew Olson, B. E. Arhaug, A. L. Rud and Elling Olson of the town of Helgeland are opposing the petition before the commissioners. They claim doubt as to the required number of children of school age in the proposed district, legally of circulating the petition and say they have 2 school houses now in 229 (one on SW section 20 and another on NE 22, both in Helgeland) which they claim is enough.

The petitioners maintain that they have to send their children in some cases over three miles to school which operates as a boycott on account of weather conditions in the winter and need of help in the summer.

Engineers Appointed

Engineers were appointed in two new ditches one near Nielsville about five miles long, Engineer Hinds, viewers Th. Thorkelson, John Saugstad and I. I. Berg, ditch petitioned for by John G. Olson and others; another very short ditch in Lowell, Ole Hamery, engineer, viewers Erick Samuelson, Jos. Lariviere and Jos. Sauve, petitioned for by N. C. Hanson and others.

Bridge Over Judicial No. 1

Petition was presented to the commissioners from H. J. Beardsmore in Sandsville town for bridge over judicial ditch No. 1 between the towns of Farley and Sandsville.

G. H. Horn, chairman of the town board of Keystone is also looking up a bridge in his town.

From Friday's Daily—

The county commissioners yesterday granted the petition setting aside the new school district 279 from school districts 229 and 240. The decision was followed by some fireworks, the opponents of the petition who had gathered in the commissioners' room to fight the grant charging that Ole Peterson one of the signers of the petition was not a freeholder in the town of Brandt and therefore was a fraudulent signer of the petition. Peterson replied that he signed for his wife who is a freeholder.

Notwithstanding the new district was so ordered. A short time ago a petition for a new school district and the petitioners appealed. The commissioners are interested. There may be litigation.

A MINNESOTA CLUB FORMED

FORMER RESIDENTS OF NORTH STAR STATE COMPLETE ORGANIZATION

The Evening Chronicle of Spokane Washington Washington, under date of May 8 says:

"The permanent organization of the Minnesota club was affected last evening, about 100 gophers being present in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce who were interested in seeing the north star state represented in Spokane. It is estimated that a membership of fully 150 is already assured. The officers of the new club are, G. H. Twomey president; A. C. Clausen, secretary; J. Oscar Peterson, treasurer.

"It was decided at last night's meeting to hold a banquet and a committee was appointed consisting of A. C. Clausen, P. W. Kimball and H. C. Knappen, to make necessary arrangements. The banquet will probably be held in the hall of the doges at Davenports, Wednesday night, May 27. $1,000 FOR JUST 65 CENTS

LEE R. HOOPER HAD JUST PAID ONE ASSESSMENT INTO THE M. B. A.

DIED THE SAME MONTH HE JOINED AND MOTHER GETS $1,000 IN CASH

From Friday's Daily—

A proposition of $1,000 from an investment of 65 cents paid in but five months before is a good illustration of the value of life insurance.

On the 3rd of last January Lee R. Hooper of this city joined the Modern Brotherhood of America. He paid one assessment of 65 cents on the 14th of the month he was taken ill and he died on the 28th.

Because of the short time elapsing between the time he joined the order and his death the Supreme Lodge of the M. B. A. made an investigation but yesterday A. A. Glenn, secretary of the local lodge M. B. A. received notification that the claim will be allowed and the draft for $1,000 insurance will at once be forwarded.

Mrs. G. W. Hooper, mother of the deceased, who resides in St. Hilaire is the beneficiary, and is in the city at the present time on business in that connection.

The Crookston lodge of the M. B. A. has doubled its membership within the past 9 months and now can boast of 265 members in godo standing. As it is one of the newer orders to establish a lodge in Crookston this is certainly a splendid showing.

John F. Cash is local deputy for the M. B. A. and secured the application of deceased member, Mr. Hooper as well as scores of others.

ONE VICTIM KNOWN HERE

JOHN O. MOE ONE VICTIM OF MRS. GUNNESS A FRIEND OF EDITOR HAGEN

DREW $1100 OUT OF BANK AND WAS VICTIM OF THE SHE-FIEND

From Friday's Daily—

John A. Moe, of Elbow Lake, Minn. who was mentioned in the press dispatches of yesterday as one of the victims of Mrs. Gunness, the she-devil of Laporte, Ind., was well known to Editor Hagen of the Crookston Press of this city. They were old neighbors at Elbow Lake and Moe left there about Christmas time, 1906 for Laporte and cashed checks at Laporte which makes it certain that ne fell a victim to the Gunness woman.

Moe was single, and a very quiet fellow. Before leaving for Laporte he drew $1100 from the Elbow Lake Bank, which he had saved as a carpenter.

Editor Hagen has a photograph of Moe which shows him as a man of intelligence apparently. Mr. Hagen states that Moe was very industrious and had never before paid much attention to the women.

AGED 55 AND WALKS 70 MILES

P. E. SPINK, FORMER EDITOR OF THE BRECKENRIDGE GAZETTE AND THE GRYGLA EAGLE WALKS SEVENTY MILES FROM MALCOLM SOUTH OF BEAUDETTE TO THIEF RIVER FALLS, THE LAST THIRTY MILES THRU CONTINUOUS FLOATING MUSKEG

P. E. Spink up to four years ago editor of the Breckenridge Gazette, and owner of the Grygla hotel aged 55 years walked seventy miles in three days thru the old Red Lake Indian reservation from Malcolm, an interior settlement at the head of Rapid River north of Red Lake to Thief River Falls on the Soo.

Following his retirement from the Breckenridge Gazette Mr. Spink departed into the north country to repair his health without loss in fortune and filed on a claim near Malcolm, Minn., in town 156 range 36.

It will soon be time for him to prove up on his claim and he arrived in Crookston last night to confer with the land office in that connection. He seems little the worse for the 70 mile jaunt and speaks of it smilingly. His hair is grey and his face browned with his outdoor life.

He says he has regained his health and believes the northern woods is the greatest health tonic that can be taken. Mr. Spink is acompanied by is son E. P. Spink, well known printer at one time in the north country, but now converted into a homesteader by his father's experience.

They say they found dry ridges all the way across the country until they got into Grygla about 40 miles east by north of Thief River Falls. From there on they made their way continually in the water and impeding weeds of the swamps. Upon their arrival in Thief River Falls they discarded all their clothing, dressing in new purchases entirely. Thief River is their nearest railway station at this time of the year, being separated from Beaudette by impassable swamps.

E. P. Spink was employed in a local newspaper office for a number of years leaving here about two or three years ago. They will both make their homes in the city.

DREAM OF WEALTH FADES

FILED ON A LAND GRANT AND GET A TREELESS DESERT

SUPERIOR PEOPLE SEND ONE OF NUMBER TO OREGON TIMBER

From Thursday's Daily—

Several Superiorites who have been staying awake nights counting imaginary wealth, brought about by filing on supposed valuable timber lands in western Oregon received a rude shock yesterday morning to find that they were the "near" possessors of deserted desert lands. They have counted their wealth in thousands at an expense of $35 each. They now feel that they have been bitten for the $35 and their only hope of gaining their fancied treasures is the expectation that the lands may be used for grazing or that if irrigation can be secured the lands may be cultivated for fruit, says the Duluth News Tribune.

Several Superiorites sent two of their number to Oregon with money and instructions to make applications and file on a quarter section of government land for each member of the party. On reaching Oregon the Superiorites secured the services of a timber cruiser and, after being given what they considered a straight tip on the location of valuable timber lands, they made the necessary applications and filings. The expense of the trip together with paying the cruiser and filing fees, amounted to $55 for each member of the party.

Timber Cruiser Crooked

Forest reserve maps of the land grant in question show that the cruiser hired by the Superior men did not know his business or that he purposely gave them a "bum steer." A few of the Superiorites however, have filed on land shown by the maps to be located in the heavily timbered districts The holdings of the majority of the members of the party is plainly shown by the maps to be in the timberless desert district, fully 100 miles from a railroad or river.

ALL NIGHT IN A TREE

MRS. DISHER NEARLY SIXTY YEARS OLD LOST SOUTH OF GRACETON

FOUND AT SEVEN IN MORNING BY FRED HARRIS AND OTHERS

From Thursday's Daily—

Mrs. Disher an old woman nearly sixty years, was lost for eighteen hours south of Graceton in the Crookston settlement along the Canadian Northern in the extreme northern part of Minnesota and slept during the night in a tree, a little rat terrior dog at last being the means of her discovery. She left her home situated on her claim for her daughter's house about two miles distant. She wandered from the path about two miles in the cedars and became lost. A search party was immediately organized containing Fred Harris and Nells Anderson former Crookston men now holding claims and Mr. William Ecker, her son-in-law and three lumbermen and they hunted thru and thru the woods and swamps at one time passing within three hundred wards of her. They shot off their shot guns and rifles and hollowed but she did not hear them or the reports of the guns. In the morning Mrs. Ecker, the daughter, brought out the little rat terrior dog belonging to the family and put it on the trail. The dog began wagging his tail and started off on a bee line for the cedars in which the old lady had ensconced herself. The old lody had suffered some from the night's exposure and her efforts in climbing the tree but is getting well again.

REMINDED OF OLD POKER GAME "UNCLE JOE" RECALLS PROMISE

Cannon Says He Will Keep His Word to Help Pass Cass Lake Drainage Bill—Odd Incident Cause of Change in Mind

A poker game which Uncle Joe Cannon and Thomas Shevlin once participated in is likely to secure recognition for the Cass Lake forest reserve bill in the house, according to a story afloat in Washington. The stakes in the game did not in any way concern the future of the Cass Lake legislation, but the story of the game served to call back to the speaker's memory certain promises which he made several years ago regarding the question.

The Cass Lake bill passed the senate and has been in the house for some time. Members of the Minnesota delegation have been laboring with the speaker to get him to recognize Congressman Lindbergh for the purpose of calling the bill up for passage.

According to the story told there the speaker firmly refused at first. Finally several of the members told him that on a trip to Minnesota several years ago the whole matter had been gone over and that he had then admitted the justice of the bill and agreed to permit its passage if it ever came up in the house.

The speaker's memory refused to recall any of the incidents and promises of the Minnesota trip. Finally someone said:

"Don't you remember you played a game of poker in which Thomas Shevlin took part, and you cleaned up the bunch?"

The speaker's memory gave a gasp and came back to life. He finally recalled also the discussion of the Cass Lake matter, and he told members of the Minnesota delegation he was prepared to stand by his former decision and would assist in the passage of the bill.

BENNER NABBED ON N.P. TRAIN

ALLEGED JAIL BREAKER HOLDUP MAN AND DESPERATE THUG CAUGHT

NEARLY KILLS TEAM IN EFFORT TO ELUDE ARREST ON A GRAVE CHARGE

From Thursday's Daily—

With a ticket for Winnipeg in his pocket John Benner a well known gambler, wrestler, and alleged holdup man and murderous thug, was taken from the Northern Pacific northbound train yesterday morning by a deputy sheriff of Walsh county and lodged in jail on a charge of escaping from jail at Glasgow, Mont., where he had been placed on a charge of holding up and nearly killing a man.

The arrest of Benner followed a series of exciting incidents. He had been visiting in East Grand Forks with his brother, Marvin Benner, who runs a saloon, and his father. He kept under cover knowing that the Montana authorities were looking for him It was tipped off to him that the East Grand Forks police were looking for him and he decided it would not be wise to leave town by train. A driver named Nye was secured and a rig was hired with which to drive to Mekinook. Smith & Sinclair owners of the rig were told that the pair intended to go to Fisher.

Thought to Be Coachman

Shortly before the Northern Pacific train arrived in Mekinock, Benner and Nye dashed to the train and made it. The actions of Benner and Nye excited the suspicions of Mekinock residents, and Marshal Martin Lieber and Paul Sanden arrested him, believing him to be a safe blower. The sheriff's office in Grand Forks was notified and orders were issued to the authorities at Grafton and Pembina to arrest Benner. He was taken off the train at Grafton and made no resistance. Nye was brought in from Mekinock and it was at first intended to file a charge of aiding a prisoner to escape against him, but he declared he was not guilty and it was finally decided to allow him to get out of town. Benner was brought to Grand Forks last evening by Deputy Sheriff Johnson of Grand Forks, and Chief Hans Ellingson of East Grand Forks. He had been joined at Grafton by Marvin Benner and wife and his father. All of whom came down on the train together.

Resists Deputy

When a few miles from Grand Forks, Deputy Johnson decided to put handcuffs on Benner. When he suggested this, Benner objected and resisted strenuously, declaring, with some profanity that no deputy sheriff could put handcuffs on him. Johnson put not only handcuffs but thumb holders on Benner. Benner sulked after that and walked with his hat over his eyes to the Grand Forks county jail. He did not relish the idea of going to jail on the Grand Forks side of the river.

S. C. Small, sheriff of Glasgow, Montana, will arrive in Grand Forks some time today to take the prisoner back to Montana. It is said that Benner will return without requisition papers. It is said that the man attacked by Benner and a confederate is so badly injured that a charge of murder is possible.

Ordered Out of Town

Benner is well known in Grand Forks. He wrestled McMillan there last fall and for the last three or four years has made East Grand Forks his headquarters. He came there from Bemidji, where he had been for a number of years. Following the robbery of a fur store in Crookston of $1-500 worth of goods he was ordered by Chief Lowe to keep out of Grand Forks. It was up to Polk county authorities to act, but Chief Lowe was satisfied that Benner had something to do with the affair and proposed to keep Benner out of that city.

Aided By Friends

In his escape from the Glasgow jail Benner is said to have had the assistance of friends. They were allowed to visit him, it is said, and succeeded in providing him with means of escape. Full details of the affair have not been received.

TRAIN KILLS DEAF MUTE

HENRY OLSON FROM McINTOSH INMATE OF THE INSANE HOSPITAL

IS STRUCK BY GREAT NORTHERN FLYER AT FERGUS FALLS AND KILLED

From Tuesday's Daily—

Henry Olson a deaf and dumb inmate of the insane hospital at Fergus Falls was run down in instantly killed by the east bound Great Northern Oriental Limited in the western outskirts of that city Sunday. The accident occurred about 9 o'clock in the forenoon. Olson had been out for a morning walk and had wandered down to the track, about half a mile from the hospital buildings.

The train came through at its usual speed and Engineer George Irving, who was at the throttle, states that he observed him loitering along outside the rails, and supposed he would step aside as other people do when a train approaches. He had of course no reason for suspecting that he was deaf and dumb, and saw no reason for slackening speed. When the train was within a few feet of him. Olson Instead of stepping aside, stepped squarely in front of the engine. He was struck with terrific force, and his skull was broken like an eggshell, his brains bespattering the pilot. The body was hurled from the track with such force that practically every bone in it was broken.

The train was stopped and it was soon learned that the man was from the hospital where he has been an inmate for some time. Being entirely harmless, he was allowed some liberty, and had been in the habit of taking an occasional stroll. He was a middle aged man and his home is at McIntosh, Minn., he having been committed from that place some time ago.

A Regretful Fact

The traveler mourns the disappearance of the picturesque costumes of the European peasantry. One has to go far away from the cities nowadays to know that such a thing exists. The clatter of the wooden shoe is a lost joy in Holland towns of any size. The Welch women have given up the stove pipe hats and quilted kertles and gay cotton bodices of their mothers. The up-to-date American woman, however, keeps the family table supplied with golden grain belt beer. You will find it a delightful drink for the whole family at all times and on all occasions. PERMANENT GOVERMENT FOREST RESERVE BILL

REPRESENTATIVES LINDBERGH AND STEENERSON MANAGE TO GET BILL THRU CONGRESS—BILL ALSO PROVIDES FOR THE OPENING OF 175,000 ACRES OF LAND FOR SETTLEMENT NEAR CASS LAKE

From Friday's Daily—

Representative Lindbergh was successful last Saturday in passing thru the house the bill which establishes a permanent government forest reserve in northern Minnesota and opens for homestead entry about 75,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Cass Lake.

There was not a vote cast against the measure and several Democratic members, including John Sharp Williams, leader of the filibuster movement supported Mr. Lindbergh.

When Lindbergh moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill, Congressman Tawney who was holding a hearing in the committee on appropriations gave up his work and came in on the floor of the house and assisted Mr. Lindbergh. Congressman Hammond of the Second District asked a few questions and Representative Steenerson spoke for five minutes in answering them.

Few Minor Amendments

The reserve bill passed the house with a few minor amendments and Senator Clapp said that the senate would readily concur in them, thus insuring the final enactment into law of this measure which will be of substantial benefit to Cass county.

The bill describes minutely by metes and bounds the reserve. The Indians are to be paid for the timber which is left standing and an appraisal is to be made by three commissioners who shall ascertain the value of the five per cent of standing timber under the provisions of the Morris act of 1902; also of the 10 per cent of standing timber left untouched under this act. and also the 10 sections left intact and on the islands and a quarter section at Sugar Point and the peninsula of Pine Point.

Protection for Indians

The commission shall certify the value of such standing timber to the secretary of the interior and if there is no appeal within 60 days the amount of the appraisement is to be certified to the secretary of the treasury who will place the amount to the credit of the Chippewa Indians and they will receive interest upon it at the rate of five per cent per annum.

It is also provided that any Indian having an allotment within the limits of the national forest reserve created by this act is authorized to relinquish such allotment and permitted to take another allotment in lieu thereof outside of such national forest, under the direction of the secretary of the interior; and allotments of any deceased Indians located within the boundaries of said national forest shall not hereafter be disposed of under section seven of the Morris act of 1902.

Heirs May Relinquish

Heirs of said deceased Indians shall have the right with the consent of the secretary of he inerior and under such rules as he may prescribe to relinquish to the United States the lands covered by such allotments and to select surveyed, unappropriated and unreserved lands within the limits of any of the ceded Indian lands in the state of Minesota and outside of the national forest hereby created, in lieu of land covered by such allotments; and the land so relinquished by the Indians or their heirs shall thereupon become part of the said national forest.

The secretary of the interior is authorized, on request of the chief forester of the department of agriculture to purchase such relinquishments from said Indians or their heirs and to pay for the same from any moneys received after appraisal of timber herein provided for an account of sale of any other products or the use of any lands or resources thereof.

Open to Settlement

All lands in any of the Winnibigoshish Indian reservation, Cass Lake Indian reservation, Chippewas of the Mississippi reservation, or Leech Lake Indian reservation not included in the national forest hereby created, heretofore classified or designated as agricultural lands, are hereby declared to be open to homestead settlement; and any of said land which has been classified as timber land shall be open to homestead settlement as soon and as fast as timber is removed therefrom in conformity with the homestead law, except that none of said lands shall be disposed of prior to the payment of $1.25 per acre.

ENTANGLED AMONG LOGS

FUTILE SEARCH FOR LITTLE EDDIE BROUILETTE AT RED LAKE FALLS

ASLEEP ON LOG WHILE FISHING AND CANNOT BE LOCATED

From Wednesday's Daily—

The body of Edward Brouilette, drowned at Red Lake Falls just below Healy's dam Monday, cannot yet be found though several parties of men have dragged the river and searched along its lower banks for it.

It appears that the boy fell into the river while fishing.

It seems that the boy fell asleep holding his pole and line and in his sleep fell into the water. There were a number of men very near him, but before they could reach him the swift current carried him away into the whirlpool below the dam, where it is presumed his body became entangled with logs and other debris.

The boy is the son of Mrs. Wilfred Chattel. His step-father Mr. Wilfred Chattel with the assistance of citizens has been searching the river for the body.

From Tuesday's Daily—

J. H. Griffin the industrial agent of the Great Northern who was in the city yesterday states that the recent rain means hundreds of thousands of dollars to the farmers of the Red River Valley. While there were certain sections where rain was not needed, he states that in many places rain was most welcome and that the ground was well able to take care of all the rain that fell.

He further states that yesterday morning before 9 o'clock he noticed many farmers plowing their fields which goes to show that there were certain sections where the rain was most welcome.

Mr. Griffin who was formerly station agent in this city, Grand Forks and Stephen, has had his family located at Brandon for the past two years, but will remove them to Grand Forks after school closes next June.

CHICKENS DROWNED

CHICKENS WILL BE FEWER THIS YEAR THAN FOR YEARS

From Wednesday's Daily—

The north valley sports are looking downcast and beginning to believe that the hunting this year will be lacking in the chicken season. Reports to the effect that the wild chickens have been drowned out comes from Thief River Falls, Middle River, Warren and Hallock at all of which places showers have fallen.

The compromise then suggested at the last meeting of the county board has fallen thru and the injunction case brought against construction of ditch 72 by the Onstad, Russia and Hammond farmers is on again.

WOULD CLING TO PAY ROLL

ADMINISTRATION'S APPOINTEES ALARMED OVER GOVERNOR'S DECLARATION

ST. PAUL DISPATCH SAYS DAY WILL MAKE HIM RUN

From Wednesday's Daily—

Gov. Johnson's statement that he will not again be a candidate for governor, and which was published in the Dispatch is causing the administration family to sit up and take notice. If he abides by his determination not to make the race it means the simple life for practically all those now feeding at the state pie counter. They can see their finish after Jan. 1, 1909, and are not a bit backward in saying so.

The news was of such a knockout nature that it quickly brought Assistant Labor Commissioner Lynch out of hiding, and he was seen around the executive department yesterday for the first time in many days.

State Librarian King did not show up, but he was understood to be on his way. As far as known the news did not reach E. K. Slater dairy and food commissioner who is now in Old Mexico, but as soon as he hears it, he will probably cut his visit short.

What between game wardens, oil inspectors and labor bureau employes Secretary Day yesterday and today was kept busy discussing the accuracy of the governor's statement and asking that each keep up his spirits. They were all told that a way would undoubtedly be found out of the difficulty and not to feel downhearted. "If he will not run, we will make him run," said Mr. Day.

It is easy enough to talk of gubernatorial possibilities and to discuss their running qualities, but search as it will the kitchen cabinet cannot get away from the knowledge that to win it must have Gov. Johnson for its standard-bearer. In fact, it is going to insist that he run, and while he may not openly consent, the nomination will be handed him in such a way that he simply cannot refuse it.

Many hazard the guess that a third term run is dangerous in that his vote would be considerably reduced; in fact he might be defeated, but the cabinet is willing to take the chance. Jacobson, Young and all the other republican possibilities have been discussed, and the conclusion reached that Johnson would beat any of them and have votes to spare.

Frank Day regards Jacobson as a joke. "No trouble at all to put him out of business," he remarked. "Why he made votes for us two years ago."

Attorney General Young they regard as easy and the other candidates according to their view, would be pie for the St. Peter man. R C. Dunn has always contended that Johnson would be a third term candidate, and Jacobson has shared his views. They know he is the only hope of the horde that now feed at the state pie counter and this crowd is not going to give up a good thing without a struggle. — St. Paul Dispatch.

Cut Arteries With Razor

Lars Enstrom Of This City Commits Rash Act At Plummer. Cut Arteries Of Throat And Wrist.

This morning at Plummer, Lars Enstrom in an effort to commit suicide slashed the arteries in his throat and wrists with a razor, and tho he is still living there is slight hope of his recovery. He had been ill for some time and of late had become worse and was despondent, and this is ascribed as the cause of his rash act.

Lars Enstrom for years resided in Crokston and his brother, Nels G. Enstrom, 222 2nd Avenue north, is the well known dairyman.

The news of the rash act was communicated to the family by the Journal and Mr. Enstrom will leave for Plummer via Erskine and the Soo this evening.

Enstrom has not been in Crookston for some time past, residing on a farm near Plummer. This is the first time he ever showed any suicidal tendencies and his rash act was a great surprise to his brother in this city and his relatives here were shocked to hear of the affair.

He was determined to die, however and the gash in his throat is a ghastly wound and had he not received prompt medical attention death would have ensued in a few minutes.

A telephone message late this afternoon is to the effect that Enstrom is still alive but that he is growing steadily weaker and all hopes of his recovery has been abandoned.

15 PERCENT DIVIDEND

WISCONSIN GRAIN AND STOCK CO., ALLOWED TO PAY CLIENTS

CROOKSTON, GRAND FORKS AND NORTH VALLEY TRADERS GET MONEY

From Monday's Daily—

A compromise has been effected in St. Paul between the Wisconsin Grain and Stock Company and William J. Haggerson on whose application the receiver was appointed, and a large number of intervenors including a number of Crookston, Grand Forks and north valley people who have filed claims against the company for various sums.

It has been agreed that the receiver may use the funds in his possession for the payment of dividends and that opposition to the receiver's suit and the suits in intervention will be abandoned. The claims which have been filed aggregate about $165,000, upon which a dividend of about 15 per cent will probably be paid in a few weeks.

Judge Lochren appointed Ashley Coffman receiver in the suit brought by William J. Haggerson last July, while the preliminary hearing in the case brought by government against the alleged officers was in progress. Mr. Haggerson who lives in Bessemer Mich., claims to be a creditor of the company to the extent of $2,000. He lost the amount by a wild plunge into the market and tried to get it back, tying up the company. The company filed answers to all the suits but it is understood they will not be contested further.

"DOC" IS BURIED WITH SERVICES

WELL KNOWN DOG BELONGING TO WM. E. ROWE IS POISONED

"Doc" the well known and high bred hunting dog belonging to W. E. Rowe, passed away Saturday last after having been poisoned by arsenic. That night funeral services were held over the fine old animal's remains and he was buried north of the city in the dead of the night. Farmers in that section thought stolen treasure was being buried and Capt. Vonderbeck was notified and hurried north with reinforcements of farmers armed with guns and other implements of warfare and had it not been for the prowess of James Frazer the chief mourner and the balance of the quartette there might have been trouble. The mourners were finally recognized and matters explained.

MRS. M'GLOGAN DIED OF BURNS

FORMER WELL KNOWN CROOKSTON RESIDENT PASSES AWAY IN ST. PAUL

PUBLIC HERE SHOCKED BY THE NEWS OF THE TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

From Monday's Daily—

Mrs. J. H. McGlogan 442 Beacon avenue Merriam Park who was burned about the lower part of her body last Wednesday evening, died at St. Joseph's hospital in St. Paul Saturday.

During the storm Wednesday night she went to the attic to close the window so that the rain would not flood the house. She lighted a match which set fire to a can of benzine and paint.

The burning oil spread to the woman's clothes. Her youngest son, Neil McGlogan, who was in the lower part of the house, heardl his mother's cries and going up stairs discovered his mother enveloped in flames. He at once went to her rescue.

The burning woman, fearful that her son might be injured, pushed him away. He fell against a window, cutting his right wrist severely. His hands were also burned by the flames.

Mrs. McGlogan rushed into the street while the flames covered her body. The flames were extinguished by several neighbors.

She is survived by a husband, who is superintendent of telegraph lines on the Great Northern railway, and two sons, Frank, married and living in Chicago and Neil McGlogan, who is working in the office of his father.

The people of Crookston were terribly shocked by the news of the fatal accident. The family resided in this city for several years when Mr. McGlogan was connected with the telegraphic service of the Great Northern the family residing on the Hill. Mr. McGlogan was one of the members of the Crookston fire department at that time, and with his wife was held in the highest esteem. In his hour of sad bereavement the sympathy of the entire community goes out to him and the stricken children.

GUS BROMSTAD COMMITTED TO THE INSANE HOSPITAL

Gus. Bromstad was committed to the insane hospital at Fergus Falls, Wednesday. He has been acting queer for some time and Wednesday noon made an outbreak that created considerable excitement for some time, taking possession of Gilbert Hestad's house and scaring all the others out. He does not seem vicious, however, his principal hallucinations being that the world is coming to an end and that some one is trying to kill him. He is the man who lost his wife and five children in the wreck of the Norge, north of Scotland, some three or four years ago, and it is doubtless this event that was the main cause of his trouble. During the winter he has been living alone in a sort of a shanty or hole in the ground on the Dakota side, and cutting wood. It is believed he will recover after a few months' treatment at Fergus Falls.—Hendrum Review.

ROBBED BY CON MEN

ENGLISHMAN THINKS HE IS BRIBING RAILROAD MEN FOR RIDE

WORK HIM OUT OF $20 MORE OR LESS AND ARE TAKEN TO JAIL

From Monday's Daily—

A lone Englishman tarried in the city last evening on his way from labor on the Great Northern east of here to Chicago and was touched for $20 more or less—he does not remember how much.

He entered into an agreement with two men who claimed they were brake men on the Great Northern whereby they agreed to carry him to the end of their division for a certain amount and they got away with his whole roll when he produced it. All of the parties were slightly under hte weather. The police have jailed two men today one of whom the Englishman identifies as being one of the men who worked the con on him, the other is well placed and the police are out on his trail this afternoon and will probably locate him before night.

The women and tin horns are on the way to the abandoned tenderloin at Thief River.

RAILROADS DENY RECALLING CARS

G. N. AND N. P. RAILROADS CREDITED WITH ISSUING AN UNUSUAL ORDER

It was rumored in railroad circles today that orders had been issued by the Great Northern and Uorthern Pacific that all freight cars now on foreign tracks be recalled as soon as possible and that no more cars be sent to other roads until further notice from headquarters.

As there appeared to be a surplus of the cars of those two roads on foreign lines, the report was readily believed in some quarters. Roads using cars from foreign lines must pay a per diem charge on all such cars and it is thought that during the slack business which prevailed a few months ago all lines would make an effort to clear their tracks of cars on which they were paying per diem charges.

Officials in St. Paul and Minneapolis however deny that any such orders have been issued from their offices and say there has been no charge whatever in the policy of either recalling or sending out cars.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific lines both claim to have sufficient cars to handle the prospective business without calling in or prohibiting the sending out of any of their cars.

PETER PRINZL WILL FOUND

GREAT SURPRISE IS SPRING AT FERGUS FALLS REGARDING RICH MAN

BEQUEATHS ALL PROPERTY TO RELATIVES OF HIS WIFE

From Saturday's Daily—

A genuine surprise was sprung at Fergus Falls Thursday evening when Mr. Hays, a Minneapolis attorney, arrived from that city and offered the will of the late Peter Prinzl for probate. The will appears to have been made in Minneapolis on Nov. 1 last. It is a two page, typewritten document, and is comparatively brief, bequeathing everything to his wife's relatives, who reside in Wisconsin.

The contest for administration of the estate has been in progress for some little time, and briefs were filed on May 15, Judge Frankberg took the question under advisement, and the appearance of the will, will of course result in the dismissal of the proceedings. The document names no executor, and the petitioner asks for the appointment of O. H. Lee and J. S. Ulland as administrators with will annexed. The property disposed of is worth from $20,000 to $25,000 and had the will not been made all of it would have gone to Mr. Prinzl's sister in Germany. The hearing on proofs is set for June 23.

The will was witnessed November 1, A. D. 1907 in the city of Minneapolis by Jas. P. Ryan and Richard I. Golden.

The fact that the will was not presented until some weeks after Mr. Prinzl's death has caused some comment and the circumstances under which it was drawn have not yet developed.

TEN YEARS AFTER DEWEY'S VICTORY

HARRY FALK HAS A BOOK OF NEWSPAPERS OF MAY 7TH, 1898

Harry Falk has a bound file of papers, the New York World and the Chicago Times-Herald, of the date May 8, 1898 in which the first public accounts of the victory of Dewey in Manila Bay, May 7th, 1898 occur. The papers took hold of the matter in true metropolitan fashion tho the cuts and style of that day in the newspaper makeup have already begun to appear ancient. The accounts give a complete history of the battle with statistics of losses and injuries. The losses on May 8th were not definitely known, but the newspaper correspondents' accounts were correct. There was only one man killed during the battle. Ten years do not appear to be such a long time until one reads the papers of that day.

From Saturday's Daily—

Communication has been received in the city from Dr. Frederick J. Mitchell now located at the Ustion fraternity house, 3232 Park Avenue, Chicago. Since the well known doctor left his home at Euclid he has visited at Milwaukee and points in Wisconsin.

The Euclid doctor does not now figure as surely on going to the Metropolitan Hospital in New York as they desire him for too long a time and will not favor a short period as he desired He will go in with Professor Patillo, a well known eye, ear nose and throat man of the Windy City and stay there for the entire summer in the clinics. At present he is taking in the Cook county hospital clinics where the famous Dr. Murphy operates.

The former Euclid doctor is in the best of health and is having a good time meanwhile.

YOUNG STUDENT TOO PARTICULAR

HE INSISTED THAT MINNEAPOLIS PAVING BE STRICTLY ACCORDING TO CONTRACT

A very interesting case has recently been tried in Minneapolis which was out of the ordinary run of litigation. C. R. Cressey, a senior in chemistry at the University was employed by the City Engineer's office of Minneapolis to watch and inspect the creosoting of the paving blocks used on the Minneapolis streets. Mr. Cressey being young and inexperienced in public matters thought that he was there to see that the creosoting was done according to the specifications and as a result he incurred the emenity of the contractor and some of the officials around the engineer's office, who were over him in the matter of street paving. As a result of the young man's zeal in protecting the city's interest he was assaulted by the contractor who was fined and he was finally driven from his job. He was not a quitter so he brought suit for damages for assault against the contractor and during the trial the whole matter of the city engineer's office were aired. There were even intimations of too close relations between the contractor and some of the city officials. As a result there has been a strong demand that the Henepin County Grand Jury investigate the whole matter.

PENNED AND PILFERED

Ever see the human nature in a jackass?

It's there. No less an august body that the United States appellate court discovered the attribute recently, gave it an officiel sanction, and then promulgated the following rules of instruction for those that wish to prove the theory to themselves.

1. Make the acquaintance of a nice good natured jackass.

2. Procure a sharp toothed rake a four-pronged pitchfork, and a three foot strap.

3. Run the rake over the animals back one every two hours, sharpening the teeth before every application. Intersperse this treatment with a liberal application of the business end of the pitchfork to the ribs of the asinus vulgaris. Employ the strap three times every four hours.

4. The jackass will do the rest.

The court, consisting of Judges Holdum, Adams and Brown, added this chapter to zoological history when it reversed a judgment of $511 against the Frank E. Scott Transfer company in favor of John Donohue. The plaintiff had used the above recipe upon a jack owned by the company. The animal pinioned him against a wall and broke the bones of his left arm and lacerated his wrist with his teeth. Donohue sued the company and was awardetd $511 but the higher court, in passing on the judgment said:

"There is a good deal of human nature in the jackass, and, while docile enough when kindly treated, the human attribute of resentment and retaliation are apt to be aroused when smarting under ill treatment or abuse

"These latent instincts of the brute nature are developed by abuse and made manifest under provocation, and they are not confined to the brute creation. The jackass had for days suffered indignities and cruel treatment at the hands of the plaintiff, and his attempts to retaliate by snapping and biting at plaintiff had failed. The jackass undoubtedly brooded under the insults of his tormentor and yearned for revenge. He watched his opportunity, and when the tormentor was off his guard and little dreaming of the retribution in store for him, the brute seized him and wounded him."

Mr. A. M. Hart of Fergus Falls has one of the most valuable hens in Otter Tail county if not in the entire northwest. When he bought her he knew he was getting a good hen but he little dreamed that she was going to develope the qualities which make her so valuable. She is a full blooded Light Brahma and he secured her from Southern Minnesota and it is safe to say that that locality will regret very much that it parted with this hen when it finds out what she is doing. After she had laid a goodly number of eggs she showed a desire to sit and as she possessed a large covering capacity Mr. Hart placed nineteen eggs under her and she started to perform her mission. Now it is not an unheard of thing for a hen to lay an egg after she has started to sit, but this hen has eclipsed all records by continuing to lay. It has been the ambition of hen fanciers to perfect the dual purpose hen, that is to secure one which was a good layer and of good size to sell to the meat market when she got too old and tough to lay This hen of Mr. Hart's has not only got the, size and is a good layer as well but she combines a third qualification of being able to lay while sitting. If she can perpetuate these qualifications in her chickens Hart has certainly got a fortune in this hen James J. Hill achieved his greatness as a railroad man when he evolved the principle of loading cars both ways, al tho it was a little tough on the man waiting for his freight, but the man who can develope a hen which is big enough for the pot pit and will sit and lay at the same time deserves much from his fellow men for the value of the egg product annually is greater than the entire receipts from transportation. Even Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, will have to take a back seat and the Hogan idea of selection of layers will become valueless. We will add that it is useless for anyone to apply to Mr. Hart either for eggs or the progeny of this hen for he is determined not to part with any of either until he has fully determined whether she is simply freak or is the mother of strain of hens which is destined to revolutionize the poultry world.

After all there is scientific basis for the old rhyme:

"Coming storms on shooting corns presage,
Your aches will throb, your hollow tooth will rage."

It's the low barometric pressure that sets the aches "to throb" and "the hollow tooth to rage." Professor Cox of Chicago the weather man, had to admit that United States Judge Bethea's rheumatic twinges were, after all, good signs of rain, and so he explained scientifically what caused it thus: "Where there is a lower barometric pressure, the weighing down of the air is diminished and accordingly the air in the bloodvessels and skin expands, causing pain. A lower barometer always precedes rain, and this explains why rheumatism always is more painful just before a storm. When the barometer rises, the outside air becomes heavier, the pressure of the air within the body is lessened and the pain ceases." According to Professor Cox, this is the basic principle of all the old time weather saws:

"Old sinners who have all
Points of compass in their joints
Can by their pains and aches find
All turns and changes of the wind."

Humidity has nothing whatever to do with all these "signs"; joints are just as likely to ache during a 'dry low' as a 'wet low' barometer; so says the weather man.

Blue Eyes.

That the color of the eyes should affect their strength may seem strange, yet that such is the case need not at this time of day be doubted, and those whose eyes are brown or dark colored should be informed that they are weaker and more susceptible to injury from various causes than gray or blue eyes. Light blue eyes are generally the most powerful, and next to those are gray. The lighter the pupil the greater and longer continued is the degree of tension the eye can sustain.

MRS. TAFT'S VIEWS

INTERESTING GOSSIP WITH THE NEXT FIRST LADY OF THE LAND

"What kind of a woman is Mrs. Taft?" is a question which is being asked in that large area of the country where public opinion centers on the national republican convention to be held next month in Chicago.

There are many definitions to be given in replying to the question, for Mrs. Taft is a many-sided woman interested in various things.

The government's attitude toward art and music is a pregnant theme in every community and Mrs. Taft is keenly interested in all that means the practical aid of both. "But I cannot say that I think the time is ripe to ask government aid. The work along both lines must take a more definite character," said Mrs. Taft to the writer.

"But I am heartily in favor of the government taking the tax off works of art as a preliminary step to aid the arts and crafts industries.

"I can see nothing gained by admitting that our people need government aid so far as promoting home industries. It has always been our boast that the people do not ask such help, that they are able to help themselves and to make their way against all maner of difficulties.

"I think they are capable of bringing art and music to the same perfection which they have brought machinery and more practical pursuits. Remembering what a young nation this is, one need not make gloomy prognostications about music or art.

"I sympathize most cordially with those societies composed of cultured, broadminded people, who live simple, sincere lives, and who can find a wide field in spreading the doctrine of estheticism in the remote parts of the country.

Busy people who live in cities surrounded by beautiful objects and those generally of foreign manufacture can scarcely realize what it means to teach a rural community what true beauty is; to prevail on those who live in humble homes to discard useless and deleterious bric-a-brac and nightmarish furniture.

"To foster better taste in the American home is excellent missionary work, and to lure those who worship bizarre gods into the true temple of beauty is second only to religious and charitable endeavor.

"But small organizations must perform their work first then the cult will spread into the channels which will make the votaries of arts and crafts self-supporting. I should be loath to see our government attempt such an innovation as to offer aid to those who have chosen to worship at the shrine of the muses.

"And the useful crafts will soon gain a footing when the same amount of thought and intelligent labor is expended as by other nations against whom the American worker must compete."

The future of Miss Helen Taft, the only daughter of the secretary is giving her mother some concern. "My daughter will graduate from the Baldwin school at Bryan Mawr," said Mrs. Taft. "And she has taken all the examinations looking to admittance into the college next autumn and I think she will pass all the tests successfully."

"Now I cannot say definitely that I approve a college course for a girl. It puts her entire life out of balance. For instance my daughter will complete her education this June or next and will make her bow to society in the winter of 1909. If my daughter takes the full college course her natural companions will probably be married or dispersed when the time arrives for her to come out.

"Of course having a good time and going in for the social whirl is not everything, but few mothers like to see their girls give up such a delightful time as the first years after finishing school means.

"And a girl must choose between wisdom and pleasure. She cannot have both, and after all, for the natural vocation of women, the academic training is sufficient. Unless one desires to adopt literature or teaching as a profession the grind of the college education looks unnecessary.

"Not that I do not think that every kind of knowledge is valuable, though why a girl must give so much study to Greek and Latin to the neglect of the modern language which are so much more necessary, is something I do not comprehend.

"A woman who has studied earnestly makes a more useful mother of society than one whose accomplishments are superficial, but the middle course of a good academic course and special studies afterward meet all the requirements for the vast majority of the future wives and mothers.

"I have always believed that women should vote. I favor bestowing on them every civic right, but I should like to put in a prohibitory clause debarring them from running for public office.

"With women running for office, I think the natural scheme would be dispointed and the end and aim of the home destroyed. Their voice is nearly always the voice of wisdom and I see nothing unwomanly in their casting the ballot and exercising every right of the free citizen, but it seems that for the present it is impossible to disassociate the right to vote from the right to hold office.

"So the women who would never think of any other vocation than that of being good wives and mothers are prevented from taking their rightful share in governing the community thru the fear which men have of women stepping down from their pedestal. Except in rare instances the influence of women on politics is for their elevation.

"It is truly said that communities where women lack civic pride are in worse shape than those where man neglects his prerogative. Women should be versed in every phase of politics and should know what everything means which has a direct bearing on the home environment.

"That is my idea of purifying politics and I think it the only practical one, if one admits, which I do not, that our political condition calls for radical remedies."

Mrs. Taft devotes some part of every day to the study of languages, French and Spanish being her favorites. Few mistresses of the White House have known the continental tongues, something which has prevented a familiar knowledge of that fascinating part of society in Washington, the diplomatic corps. She is well equipped in this particular. She reads musical reviews from every part of the world where music is a power, in addition to magazines devoted to public questions and the best current literature.

Foreign travel after reading and music is Mrs. Taft's delight. She talks most entertainly of her recent sojourn in the Orient, and never wearies of relating the incidents and adventures of the journey across the Pacific, thru the Philippines, China and Japan, thence across the Siberian railroad to St. Petersburg.

PAY DAY AT ERSKINE

FARMER PATRONS OF ERSKINE CREAMERY FILL CITY STREETS

REV. FISHER AT ERSKINE—STEENERSON BLOCK PROGRESSES RAPIDLY

From Saturday's Daily—

About one hundred farmers with horses and teams filled the streets at Erskine yesterday at the pay day of the Erskine creamery. Every one of the farmers were patrons of the institution and have been enjoying unparalleled prosperity for the past two or three months on account of the favorable pasturage.

Reverend Fisher recently addressed the citizens of Erskine in a patriotic meeting in the Woodmen Hall at that place. Previous to his address in the hall he spoke to the pupils of the schools on the making of rails. His talk was very interesting and much appreciated.

Professor O. N. Brevik of the Shelly schools spent Thursday in Erskine and gave a reading before the central and primary schools of that city. A party in his honor was given at the pleasant home of Theodore Nelson on Thursday evening and he departed for Crookston Friday morning, going from Crookston to Shelly last night.

The Erskine Hotel Association is making important improvements in its buildings for the summer season.

The work on the brick block for the newly organized Steenerson Lumber company at Erskine is progressing rapidly and will be done in a short time.

Farmers from the north of Erskine report that the land thereabouts is all under water and some fears are entertained that the seed thru out the flooded district will suffer from the rot.

A new boat landing will soon be built near the fire department building at Erskine for the accommodation of the public during the opening summber season.

An Admiral's Stories.

One of the English admirals has a choice collection of stories at the expense of laymen placed in office at the admiralty as a consequence of a turn of the political wheel. Of one lord of the admiralty he told a delighted house of commons how, receiving a report of disaster to a ship couched in technical phrase, he wrote a reply remonstrating with the officer for his use of bad language. Another civilian lord, looking over a chart and observing that one of his majesty's ships, homeward bound, passed within a space of two inches on the chart an island where castaway sailors were sheltering, wanted to know why it could not call and relieve them. The admiral explained that the two inches on the chart meant a distance at sea of 4,000 miles.—London Strand Magazine.

The Ever Present Topic.

The clouds are drifting far away;

The wild winds with the waters play;
  I wish my work were done.

The grass is growing in the lane,

I wonder if it's going to rain
  And what our team will do.

The mists are lifting from the hills

CAPT. SNIDER A CANDIDATE

MINNEAPOLIS MAN GIVES ANSWER TO 4TH WARD COMMITTEE

MAKES BROAD DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES — SAVAGE BOOM SEVERELY CRITICIZED

From Thursday's Daily—

Samuel P. Snider of Minneapolis is a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of Minnesota. The former congressman made a formal announcement last evening, in reply to two committees, one from the Fourth ward Republican club of Minneapolis and the other from the Union Veterans and Sons' league, both of which have indorsed him and named the committees to ask him to become a candidate.

The meeting at which Captain Snider's answer was given was held at the Snider headquarters, 420 New York Life building. It was attended by a numebr outside of the committees. W. A. Fisher presided as chairman and C. W. Curtis acted as secretary. After the committees had stated their object in waiting upon him, Captain Snider replied as follows:

"The generous sentiments of regard and confidence expressed in the resolutions adopted by the republicans of the fourth ward touch me deeply and influence my response in a far greater measure than any personal ambition however laudable, to fill the high office with which you connect my name.

"The republican party believes that the laws of the commonwealth should be faithfully and honestly enforced, with favor to none, but justice to all.

"It believes in just and equal taxation for the requirements of government, and that every dollar of values within the state should contribute its fair share of taxes; and it believes in honest, healthy economy and in the exercise of a wise judgment in the expenditure of the state's funds; where for each dollar paid out, the state shall receive full equivalent.

"It believes in the beneficence of our various state institutions, from the great university to those maintained for charitable and reformatory purposes, and that they should be made to respond in the highest degree to the ends for which they were established and that they should keep step with the intelligence, health and wealth of the state.

Treat Corporations Fairly

"It believes that the large quasi public corporations, created by our own laws, or doing business within our borders, should not be the masters, but the servants; that they should fairly contribute to public revenue and render service for a fair reward. And it equally believes that they should have ample protection in their property and corporate rights under the laws of the nation and state.

"It believes that labor is the universal and inexhaustible treasury of competence, health and happiness; that work and wage should ever be just and fair equivalents; and their relations at all times should be normal. And it believes that capital is the fruit of labor and that it should neither dominate on the one hand nor be despoiled on the other.

"It believes that the chief executive officer of this state should labor unceasingly for the success of these principles, knowing that all relations in our social fabric must be founded on that justice, which is the constant and perpetual desire to render every man his due.

"Pledging my devotion to these principles, and thanking you and the 4th ward republicans for this mark of your confidence, I accede to your request and announce myself as a candidate for nomination as governor by the republican state convention."

In the informal talks that were made at the meeting several references were made to the proposed candidacy of M. W. Savage, and it was proposed that a committee should wait on him and ask him to withdraw No action of this kind was taken, but there was considerable criticism leveled at the proposition. One speaker declared that Savage could not be elected if nominated, and that Hennepin must get solidly behind Snider if it hoped to nominate a candidate for governor.

Captain Snider was elected to congress in 1888 from the old fourth district, which included both Hennepin and Ramsey counties. He was defeated for re-election in 1890 by J. N. Castle, going down with a hundred other republican congressmen in the democratic tidal wave. During his one term in congress he got the first appropriation for the St. Paul federal building, and was prominent in other matters of legislation, especially in getting money for deepening locks at the Soo. Since his retirement from congress he has not been very active in politics but has always been very interested in republican success.

From Over The Valley

THE CROP SITUATION IN RED LAKE CO.

The crop situation in this county is reported to be in a highly favorable condition. The wheat crop will be at least fifteen per cent smaller than last year and compares favorably with the situation of a year ago. It is from a week to ten days earlier, with more moisture and warm weather to help it along. Little durum wheat has been sown in this county this year. The corn planting has just started, with about thirty-five per cent of the grain in the ground and it has been planted under favorable conditions, there being plenty of moisture and warm weather prevailing. The corn acreage will be about fifteen percent heavier than last year. There is no increase in the flax sowing as the new land that has been broken will be planted to corn in the majority of cases. Barley will be grown on a larger scale this year and from ten to fifteen percent greater acreage is reported.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

JUDGE HASSELL IS WITNESS IN CASE

The hearing in the will case in which Mrs. Dorothy Miesen of Muskegon, Minn., claims the $12,000 left by Anton E. Peterson of Benson county, on the ground that he made a marriage agreement which constituted a marriage 30 years ago, was commenced before Judge Cowan in the district court at Devils Lake yesterday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in making motions and no testimony was taken until the evening session when Judge L. K. Hassell of Grand Forks, was called as an expert witness to check up some statements from Norway relating to the relationship of certain claimants to the deceased. Judge Hassell was the only witness examined before an adjournment was taken today.

CARLINGS TOO MUCH FOR EDITOR STOUGHTON

Editor Stoughton of the Valley View returned to the city this morning from St. Paul where he attended the democratic convention. The big man had a singular experience at St. Paul just after he had partaken of a bountiful repast at Carling's. He went to the Dispatch building and it was necessary for him to enter thru a revolving door. Stoughton started and got half way thru when he found that he was too big and he could not go forward or backward. A crowd of people congregated at the entrance trying to get in, while as many more were trying to get out, but Stoughton was pinned there and it was impossible to move the door either way. The feat of getting the East Grand Forks editor out of his peculiar predicament was a puzzle to the janitor of the building who came to the rescue. Ways and means were thought of in quick succession but all were of no avail, until the door was removed and Stoughton was released. When the big man got into the open air again, he could only say that he would never again dine at Carling's.—Grand Forks Times.

A BIG FIVE ACRE STRAWBERRY FIELD

Torkel Oftelie returned recently from Norman and Becker counties, where he canvassed for the Fergus Woolen Mills. He visited Representative Bjorge at Lake Park and found him busy setting out strawberry plants in a five acre patch. He was using a transplanting machine the first of the kind Mr. Oftelie has seen, and it worked in great style. Mr Bjorgo was educated for the law, but runs a large farm and is very prosperous. He believes that strawberries are a fine crop for the Park Region and has been very successful in raising the juicy fruit. He also has a large flock of sheep and has 1500 pounds of wool for the market this spring. He has been a prominent member of the state legislature.—Fergus Falls Free Press.

Senator Heyburn of Idaho yesterday at Washington sent out the announcement that he would talk to the end of the session rather than permit the adoption of a conference report on the bill "To provide enlarged homestead." The bill as passed by the senate, limited the increased homestead of 320 acres to non-irrigable, arid and semi-arid land and the house struck out "arid and semi-arid land."

Mr. Heyburn charged that the bill was a land grabbing measure, permitting a single settler to take 320 in stead of 160 acres of non-irrigable land which in Idaho, he said, would include land that does not need irrigation.

Senator Flint insisted that California objected to the report but that it was unjustly increasing the homestead from 160 to 320 acres. Mr. Heyburn proceeded to make good his threat to the session to a close and after an hour had passed Mr. Nelson of Minnesota suggested to Senator Smoot that the conference report be withdrawn and that course was followed.

And So Man Can Really Fly

At the miracles of invention the world no longer wonders greatly. All things have become credible. Has a machine been made which will fly? We no longer doubt. We reply rather, "We thought so. It was to be expected."

After the wireless telegraph how can we do otherwise? Material limitations seem to be dissolving. Time was when wood and flesh were opaque. There came the X-ray and the fallacy of opaqeness was disclosed. To the X-ray the board has become as window glass. Time was when the unseen forces of the electric world traveled the material road of a copper or iron wire; but there came the inventions of Marconi and invisible messengers leaped thru the limitless spaces of the ether. Time was when sounds travelled on the air; in our own generation the telephone has transferred sounds by new and unknow roads to distances limited only by the desires of man.

And now—after nineteen centuries of fruitless effort—is man to crown the achievements of this inventive age by a full mastery of the air?

Why not? we answer. Here we are told of a new device able to lift two men—a machine without balloon or gas bag attachment, weighing perhaps a thousand pounds, and yet able to mount as do the birds and sail the circumambient air! And we say: Why not? Why has the machine been so slow in coming

Of course the problem has been solved. Man will mount, and spread and grow; and old things will pass away; and the earth will grow still smaller—for verily we live in a wonderful, a golden age!—Minneapolis Daily News.

Co-Education

We haven't full information as to just how far President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin proposed to go in the segratgation of the sexes in that university, says the Minneapoli Journal but whether he meant to be radical and thoro or not he has aroused fierce opposition from those who appear to be opposed to any measure of separation of the boys and the girls in their school work.

And yet, President Van Hise is only following the tendency of the times in recognizing the objections to co-education where boys and girls are required to do substantially the same work and compete for the same degress. Chicago university has concluded that the best interests of both the young men and young women as students, require separation of the sexes in a large part of their college work. Other colleges organized for the admission of boys only have for years resisted the demand for co-education, but more institutions doing college work for women only, while the older ones are so crowded that applicants in order to secure admission must register two or three years in advance.

Co-education seems to be a logical and necessary condition of things in state universities, state normal schools and other public educational institutions, but it is not unthinkable that the state itself will recognize the advantages of separate institutions for the higher education of the young men and young women.

CONGRESSIONAL THRIFT

One of the many things congress hasn't done and isn't likely to do is to accept the proposal of Congressman John Wesley Gaines of Tennessee that the congressional mileage fee be reduced to 7 cents a mile, says the Duluth Herald. It is now 20 cents a mile that figure having been fixed at a time when communication was much more difficult and expensive than it is today.

This mileage fee is not compensation in any sense. It is simply traveling expenses. If you get down to the rights of it, congressmen are no more justified in taking 20 cents a mile and traveling for 3 cents a mile than any other public servant would be in padding an expense account.

There is morally no difference between a congressman who takes 20 cents a mile for his traveling expenses when 3 cents a mile would cover all of his legitimate expenses and a deputy United States marshal who took a trip costing $30 and put in an expense account of $200.

Yet congressmen not only take the 20 cents with great complacency, but they took it when they traveled on passes and their traveling expenses were little or nothing aside from what the porters and dining car waiters exacted from them. Not only that, but when Mr. Gaines proposes to reduce the fee to 7 cents, which would still yield a handsome profit, congress receives the proposal with sardonic amusement.

In the amount involved it isn't very important. The government can easily stand the expense, and if the congressmen think the mileage profits are necessary to give all they are earning, they have the right to take them. But it would look better if they would arrange to get them in the form of direct compensation, which could be done by another increase in congressional pay. It doesn't look well to see congress continuing to compensate itself under the guise of an expense account, especially when that practice is being pretty well rooted out of other departments of government. It is no longer considered good form to pad an expense account, or to travel on passes and put in bills for railway fare. Congress would be setting a better example if it would get in line with the prevailing habit of honesty.

Congresman get $7,500 a year in salary, to which they are entitled. If they are not worth that they are not worth anything. They get an allowance of $1,500 a year for clerk hire, and it is said that some of them manage to get away with part of this for their own uses. They get an allowance of $125 a year for stationery and if they use only a part of this allowance they pocket the balance in cash. They travel for 2 cents a mile, with additional expenses which another cent would easily cover and they collect 20 cents a mile to reimburse themselves.

This is all very thrifty, but is it quite honest?

TIME WONT BE EXTENDED FOR CUTTING THE TIMBER

STATE TIMBER BOARD WILL DISCONTINUE PRACTICE OF EXTENDING TIME OF PERMITS TO CUT TIMBER ON LANDS SOLD BY THE STATE

Permits for cutting timber on state lands will undoubtedly not be extended this year, as has been the custom in times gone by, the new ruling having gone into effect as a result of the work of state cruisers in unearthing the fact that much more timber has been cut from the cash-sale tracts than was embraced in the original estimate of the timber on the state lands sold.

During the past two months there has been considerable "kicking" on the part of loggers on lands bought from the state that Auditor Iverson had refused to follow the usual custom of extending the time limits of the permits, the loggers claiming that they could not possibly finish their cut in the allotted time.

In explanation of the action of the state auditor in refusing to extend the time of the permits, a party who is close to the state auditor states that a condition of affairs has been unearthed by the State Timber Board that makes it imperative that the permits be not extended, as much more timber has been cut than the amount called for in the original permits.

The outcome of the work being done by the timber board and the cruisers in the employ of the state will be watched with considerable interestt; as it is intimated that "something is liable to drap."

The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Crookston people testify to permanent cures.

I was suffering more than usual when I was induced to go to Wallace's drug store and get Doan's Kidney Pills. Their use promptly took the pains out of my back and helped me generally. Miss Laura Ramstad enjoyed a very pleasant visit with Mrs. McDonald last Thursday evening. A ghost social was held at the Aeschliman school last Saturday evening. On account of the busy season the crowd was not large. The school room was very prettily decorated. The play "Lucy's Old Man" was a decided success in every way. Samuel Aeschlimann who represented Billy the Dutch man kept the audience in an uproar. Each character acted their part well and showed the careful training of Miss Laura Ramstad. In fact the entire program seemed to be enjoyed by all present as one could gather from the numerous compliments bestowed upon teacher and pupils. As a result those that were present can be seen with some extra smiles.

Miss Laura Ramstad finished a very successful term of school. Parents and pupils are very much pleased with the work she has done. Miss Ramstad refused to teach another term. The questions naturally prompted are: "Has Miss Ramstad another position in view?" or "Has she made the most of Cupid's witcheries because of leap year?" We sincerely hope that she has the latter named "bee in her bonnet." Miss Ramstad left for her home in Crookston last Sunday and to say we are all sorry but faintly expresses our real feelings as she made many friends during her stay here who sincerely regret her departure.

MINNESOTA'S PORTION OF CONGRESSIONAL PIE

RESERVATION LEGISLATION, PUBLIC BUILDING CUT AND DRAINAGE LEGISLATION THE CHIEF MATTERS THAT WILL INTEREST PEOPLE OF THIS STATE AS RESULT OF PRESENT SESSION OF CONGRESS—CONGRESSMAN STEENERSON HAS DONE SOME EFFECTIVE WORK

The passage of the Rainy River bill by the House of Representatives at Washington Saturday and it's almost certain passage in the senate this week will wind up practically all the matters pertaining to Minnesota pending before congress.

The nomination of M. D. Purdy for district judge remains unacted upon, and there is a number of local bills, the passage of which has been practically given up. All of the more important matters have been taken care of, however and the record of the session shows that the Northwest has profited to a considerable extent, thru legislation and appropriations.

Fort Snelling Wins

The legislation and appropriations for the improvement of Fort Snelling the appropriation for the Minneapolis and other northwestern public buildings and the Volstead drainage bill, the Rainy river dam legislation, the Cass Lake forest reservation bill are the more important of those, in which Minnesota has been particularly interested.

Benefits to Fort Snelling will come mainly thru the designation of Sparta, Wis., as a maneuver ground and the authorization of the expenditure there of $150,000.

This legislation prevents the threatened removal of the cavalry from Snelling and the fort will continue as a cavalry post. Specific appropriations were secured, amounting to $16,000 for the completion of the rifle range at Ft. Snelling and other appropriations made in the general army bill, will provide for grading, construction of buildings and other improvements at the reservation.

Drainage Laws Help State

The drainage bill passed for the benefit of Minnesota and in which congressmen Volstead and Steenerson and Senator Clapp were particularly interested is looked upon as an especially important piece of legislation. It permits the state to proceed with the drainage of government swamp lands within its borders, assessing the charges against the lands.

Coupled with this bill is the provision that all of the Red Lake lands which were withdrawn when it was originally proposed to undertake drainage work by the government, shall be restored to final proof and settlement by homesteaders. Congressman Steenerson also secured an additional $10,000 appropriation for completing the survey of the Red Lake lands.

Cass Lake Benefited

The Cass Lake forest reserve bill opening up 70,000 acres of the forest reserve about the village of Cass Lake is also an important bill. This measure is the result of the efforts which have extended over a number of years for the relief of the "walled-in-village" around which timber lands had been taken for a reserve. A bill to open up the pine lands of the Red Lake reservation, on which Congressman Steenerson had secured a partial agreement, was held up by the governor, until further conferences can be had with the Indians.

Steenerson's Work

One measure of general application which is of interest in Minnesota is the resolution put thru by Congressman Steenerson as chairman of the militia committee, extending time within which national guard organizations may comply with the terms of the Dick laws.

The latter law is the one under which the state guards receive government aid, and are put on a standing with the regular troops. The time for compliance with the law was extended from 1908 to 1910, so that Minnesota and other states may have an opportunity to comply with its provisions.

The public building bill carried many items for Minnesota and the Northwest.

DISREGARD COMMISSION

CITY COUNCIL ABATES SIDEWALK TAXES JUST THE SAME OLD WAY

TAX COMMISSION LETTER TO COUNTY AUDITOR HOFFARD DISREGARDED

From Wednesday's Daily—

In a few sweet minutes meeting last night the city council of Crookston abated a few more taxes levied on sidewalks, now recalled from construction, notwithstanding that the tax Commission wrote County Auditor Hoffard some days ago that he had no right to abate taxes once on the tax rolls. If the county auditor is not able to rebate the taxes spoken of the city council's doings will prove them just so much wind. However the councilmen with the city attorney backing them up are very confident of their ground.

If the county auditor eventually is not able to abate the taxes before pay day comes, the sidewalk tax payers will have to pay their taxes under protest and try the matter out in the courts.

ASYLUM THREAT MAKES DESPONDENT

JAS. SLONEK SHOT HIMSELF WITH REVOLVER WHEN ASSESSOR SIGHTED

Dr. Chapin of Euclid was deputized by Coroner G. S. Chesterman of this city yesterday to go to section 31 in Tabor township, Polk county about twenty miles northwest of Crookston to investigate the death of Jas. Slonek last Monday.

From statements made by parties in from Tabor yesterday it appears that the brother of the one who committed suicide was owing him $1,100 that he had repeatedly asked for a settlement but instead of giving him satisfaction kept "joshing" him and telling him he was crazy.

Monday he again asked for the money due him, and the brother, it is stated, told him he was going to have him sent to the asylum at Fergus Falls. A little later the township assessor made his appearance in the distance and as he was coming over toward the two men, the brother told him that it was the sheriff and that he was coming to take him to the insane asylum. There upon the frightened man took a revolver and ended his life.

MANY MEASURES ARE LEFT OVER

EARLY ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS LEAVES IMPORTANT BILLS TO NEXT SESSION—AMONG MEASURES LEFT OVER ARE TEN OF FIFTEEN INJUNCTION BILLS, BILL FOR REMOVAL OF DUTY ON WOOD PULP AND PRINT PAPER, REDUCTION OF TARIFF ON PRODUCTS OF PHILIPPINES—BIG APPROPRIATIONS

The decision to adjourn this session of congress one week from Saturday leaves a good many legislative measures high and dry. They will still be alive at the next session, but as the time of a short session is occupied almost exclusively with appropriation bills failure to act on them at this session means that they are likely to remain in the pigeonholes. Here is a partial list of the more important bills that are to be put over:

The Civic Federation—Administration bill to amend the Sherman anti-trust law.

Some ten or fifteen anti-injunction bills.

The administration bill authorizing federal employes to sue the government for personal injuries sustained while in the line of duty.

The bill for publicity in connection with campaign contributions.

Reduction of tariff on products of the Philippines.

Removal of the duty on wood pulp and print paper.

Removal of duty on works of art.

The bill to reinstate the men of the Twenty-fifth infantry (colored.)

Revision of copyright laws.

The bills for the revision and codification of the laws of the United States in accordance with a commission which put in seven years of labor.

Prohibition for the District of Columbia.

The measure supported by the National Anti-Saloon league regulating the interstate shipments of intoxicating liquors.

The Apalachian-White Mountain forest reserve bill.

To make Porto Ricans United States citizens.

United States to own its own embassies abroad.

Bill for the purchase of a home for the American embassy in Paris.

Swamp land reclamation, similar to irrigation statute.

Retirement of superannuated federal clerks.

For the establishment of federal grain inspection.

Reorganization of the postoffice department in accordance with the recommendations of the postal commission created at the last session of congress.

The resolution providing that the ways and means committee shall sit during the congressional vacation and prepare for tariff revision has not yet been passed, but the program provides that it shall be put thru. The initiated here at the capital do not attach great importance to such action. The passage of the resolution will be regarded as a sort of "sop" to the advoaates of tariff revision—to those influential republicans who are insisting that there shall be a sign pointing to action in the immediate future.

Of course there are hundreds of bills on the "put over" calendar that have not been enumerated because they did not even receive consideration in committee. Scores of bills affecting the railroads were introduced during the session. The committee on commerce in the senate and the committee on interstate and foreign commerce in the house decided early in the session that there should be no railroad legislation at this session, and so the bills on the subject were laid aside. Shippers are particularly interested in two of these bills and made unsuccessful efforts to get committee action on them. One is designed to prevent railroads from increasing freight rates arbitrarily; the other is intended to compel railroads to furnish cars on application by shippers.

Postal savings banks and mail ship subsidy are before the committee on conference on the postoffice appropriation bill, the senate having attached the et owmareus):,ssh shrdcmfwp d the two measures to the supply bill as amendments. The house conferees are standing out against both measures on the ground that if they are meritorious they should go thru congress in the regular way. The indications are that the conference report on the postoffice will be one of the last submitted to the two houses.

The appropriation bills, in spite of the many warnings given by the chairman of the appropriation committees, carry extraordinary amounts. Rough estimates of the total amount that will be appropriated indicate that it will not fall short of a billion dollars. If all the demands for money had been heeded the total amount would have approached a billion and a half dollars The republican leaders are worried about the condition of the United States treasury. They forsee that unless government receipts begin to pick up pretty soon the showing which the party in power will have to discuss in the coming national campaign will demand a good deal of explanation.

PROCLAMATION OF GOVERNOR JOHNSON

That the people of this state may show their appreciation of the services of those who "upheld the noblest cause for which freedom ever fought" Gov. Johnson has issued a proclamation designating Saturday, May 30, as Memorial day. In flowery language the governor describes the momentous struggle of the soldier dead, in whose honor this day is set apart and the spirit of unity which now prevails thruout the land. The proclamation follows:

"Again approaches the day set apart by the people of a grateful republic to honor the memory of their soldier dead. Gratitude to them who bravely and nobly made the nation's cause their cause, inaugurated the custom, and succeeding generations of patriotic, loyal and liberty-loving Americans will look to its perpetuity. The approaching 30th of May will give our people another opportunity to show their appreciation of the services of the men who, on land and on sea, upheld the noblest cause for which freemen ever fought.

'Human liberty was involved in that great struggle and in its righteous cause no man has ever died in vain. But it is not that old wounds should be reopened, or that sectionalism should again become an issue before the American people that this day is dedicated to the soldiers of the Civil war; better that the dead should bury their dead than that a reunited country be torn by sectional strife. But of this there can be no fear. Ties of loving kindred reunite the north and south. On southern battlefields generous hands with strict impartiality decorate the graves of the heroes who came among them as foes a half century ago. In the north, there is left no bitterness of spirit as the heritage of the struggle. We are in truth and in spirit one country and one flag.

'In conformity to the proclamation of the president of the United States and the custom long since established among us, I, John A. Johnson, governor of the state of Minnesota, do recommend that on Decoration day, Saturday, May 30, 1908, all schools, factoriese, mills and other places of business be closed and that labor of all kinds be suspended. Let us colectively and individually make this day one sacred to the memory of those who imperilled their lives for the cause of their country."

PETITION FOR OUTLET

N. Z. HORTON WILL APPEAR WITH COMPLETED PETITION FOR DITCH

OPPONENTS OF 72 ASSENT IF PROPER OUTLET IS MADE

From Thursday's Daily—

The opponents of county ditch 72 will be appeased when N. Z. Horton appears in the city in a few days with a petition for ditch 79 which numeral modestly conceals the real importance of projected water way.

For ditch 79 will be the outlet of the projected ditch 72 which met so much opposition at a recent meeting of the county board. The opponents of the ditch objected at that time to the establishment of ditch 72 on the grounds that the water coming out of the ditch along the western side of Onstad township would not be provided for by a sufficient outlet and the water would be dumped onto the farms at that point.

The ditch 72 commences near Mentor and runs west about 16 miles. The farmers in Russia and Hammond were the chief opponents and appealed to the district court for injunction being supported by signed papers from George A. Ralph, state drainage engineer, and Orvis Hinds county engineer, recommending that the ditch would do the farmers damage and it was advisable to increase the capacities of the outlets before building 72.

By the petition that Mr. Horton of Tilden town will bring in the outlets, consisting of county ditches 11 and 12 and eventually Burnham Creek, will be enlarged, deepened and extended to sufficient capacity to take care of all the water that the original 72 will bring down.

The matter instead of being fought out in the courts will be amicably settled.

Robertson with the intention of establishing tree growths on the farm and determining what trees are the best grown for windbreaks and for posts. The final results will go on record for the good of the residents of this part of the valley.

COLORED WITH COAL TAR DYE

STATE PURE FOOD INSPECTOR HEIBERG ARRESTS THREE GREENBUSH MERCHANTS

Deputy State Pure Food Inspector Heiberg who has been attending to business for his department arrested three offending merchants at Greenbush yesterday and brought them before Judge Dock there who fined them $50 and costs each. The offending merchants were arrested for selling blackberry brandy colored with coal tar dye, the use of which last is expressly forbidden by the state statutes

The brandy is not a domestic product but is made in other states to the south. It has caused a great deal of trouble for the saloonkeepers who keep it in stock thru the north country. The article is particularly susceptible to adulteration.

Inspector Heiberg also visited Roseau and Badger on business making no arrests however. This morning he departed for Warren where he has one case. He says however the stocks are very clean thruout this district.

THE BOAT TIPPED OVER

TWENTY-TWO RIVERMEN CAME NEAR LOSING THEIR LIVES YESTERDAY

WENT DOWN THE CUT-OFF IN A SIXTY MILES AN HOUR CURRENT

From Friday's Daily—

Twenty-two rivermen came near losing their lives yesterday at the new cut-off on the Red Lake river four miles south of Thief River Falls. At noon a crew of twenty rivermen got into a boat in charge of John McCoy and Will Flinn just above the cut-off to be taken to the wanegan for dinner While going across the river the boat became unmanageable and went down the cut off where a sixty mile an hour current is flowing. The boat capsized and the twenty-two men were thrown into the swift current All succeeded in saving their lives but some came very near meeting death. Billy Lee one of the drivers was pinned between the capsized boat and a boom stick and was kept in the water for two hours. It was necessary to chop the boat in two before he was rescued, and when taken from the water was nearer dead than alive. Three of the men were in such a serious condition that they were brought to Thief River for medical attendance. They are now getting along nicely.

Joe McAndress, who is keeping time for the crew, came to the city Tuesday and purchased twenty hats for the other drivers who were in the Capsized boat. All of the pike poles and peavies were also lost.

NOTES MANY CHANGES

H. A. CHURCH LOOKING AFTER HIS LANDS IN RED RIVER VALLEY

JUST RETURNED FROM CALIFORNIA AND SPEAKS OF IMPROVEMENTS HERE

From Thursday's Daily—

H. A. Church formerly of Marshalltown, Ia., arrived in the city this morning from Minneapolis, having just returned from a winter spent at his Los Angelos home. Mr. Church has large land interests near Kennedy and left for that place this morning. In speaking of conditions here to a representative of the Journal Mr. Church said this morning:

"I have not been in Crookston for 6 years and I note many substantial improvements in the city since I was last here. Your streets are certainly very fine, and I note many substantial business blocks erected since I was last here.

"I have firm faith in the future of the Red River Valley and will hold all my land. When the drainage of the valley is completed the steady prosperity of the entire section is assured. The drainage is comparatively easy, and the cost is much less than in most sections of the country. You want to keep drilling away on drainage till the entire system is completed.

"I understand from Engineer Ralph that a vast amount of drainage work is being done this year. I am glad to see it. You have the soil here that will produce as much as any land out of doors."

A PROFITABLE LOT OF HOGS

John Slywesterson one of the progressive farmers of this section, who resides on the E. B. Himmelsbach farm town of Fairfax on Rural Route No. 3 out of Crookston, is getting into the high bred pig business on a large scale., and this spring has a large number of pigs which he is selling of the Birkshire breed. He guarantees these pigs to gain a pound and a quarter of meat every day for the first 8 months, and at that rate could be fed on good wheat at a big profit.

They are undoubtedly as fine hogs as can be seen in Iowa, Illinois or any of the old hog states. He has quite a number more to sell and the farmer who fails to get some of these pigs to breed from is making a mistake.

Among those who have already purchased are Medric Laplante of Lowell Mrs. Nels F. Woodstrom, Lowell, Silver Quarberg, Onstad, Ole Rude of Fairfax and others.

In getting such a fine breed of hogs introduced into this section, Mr. Sylvesterson is doing an immense amount of good to all interests. Let the good work go on.

A man may overtake a lot of people on the road to ruin, but he never meets anyone.

VARIETY OF GIANT WHEAT

IDAHO FARMER IS REPORTED TO HAVE DEVELOPED A VARIETY

THAT YIELDS OVER 200 BUSHELS PER ACRE WITH LITTLE EFFORT

From Thursday's Daily—

Giant wheat with stalks like midget telephone poles and yielding 275 bushels of highly nutritious kernels to the acre has been discovered in Idaho by Allen Adams, a former resident of Minneapolis.

Official tests of the new plant wonder have been made covering a period of four years and the results are now made public for the first time by Adams' son-in-law, O. K. Hobe of the Hobe Lumber Co., who resides at 1700 Portland avenue, Minneapolis. The new wheat has been named the "Alaska" because of its hardiness and its thrift. Mr. Adams does not care to give out details of the discovery of his famous plant which places him along with Luther Burbank as an originator of new ideals in plant life. He has the "goods" and says they speak for themselves.

In a nutshell he has a wheat which is either spring or winter wheat just as the farmer desires to sow, a wheat so sturdy that storms that ruin other sturdy stocks affect its giant stem but little and the heads of which remain erect thru ordinary hails. But the greatest thing of all regarding this wonderful wheat is that it yields so much greater a ratio of crop than ordinary wheat as to make the story almost past belief, a yield which shows that Mr. Adams has been able to secure an increase of 222½ fold.

With but one head of the giant wheat in the fall of 1904, Mr. Adams planted the seeds from that head, and the next year secured seven pounds of seed. He sowed that seven pounds of spring wheat in 1906 and from the seven pounds harvested 1,545 pounds of seed, an increase of a fraction less than 35 fold. A heavy hail storm in July was the cause of the ruined wheat crop in that vicinity, which left hardly any of the ordinary wheat standing. From that yield Mr. Adams divided his seed, sowing a part of it last fall and the balance of it this spring. He now has nearly 900 acres in seed of the new wheat and has saved some seed to guard against possible total loss this year.

It is stated that ordinarily the farmer sows a bushel and a peck of seed to the acre. Out of that a big yield would be 55 bushels to the acre under exceptional circumstances, or an increase of 44 fold. The Adams wheat has shown as high as 222 and a fraction. Carry this out on the same plan and it would mean 277 bushels to the acre or 6.23 times a bumper crop. To show that the "Alaska" wheat may do for farmers of the world multiply the probable wheat yield of this summer by six times, or nearly six and a quarter times and that is a sample of what might happen had all the farmers used this wonderful new wheat. It would mean additional wealth of America alone by millions of money and would raise the value of wheat lands everywhere, making wheat the best paying crop in the world.

Photographs have been made of the new wheat kernel, comparing it in size with ordinary wheat. As shown side by side the "Alaska" is more than double the size the head of the largest "blue stem."

May 4 the Idaho college of agriculture made a laboratory test of the wheat and reported the grains plump and sound and that it should make better bread than "blue stem." The wheat also showed a much higher protein content making it more valuable for food. The chemist, J. S. Jones, asked for a sample for milling test as soon as possible but Mr. Adams is careful of his seed and has only one pound of it out, and that with a written contract with the Oregon experimental station that it will sell no seed. For this wheat Mr. Adams received $300 a bushel. He sold one pound for $5 to the state. He has an offer from a New York seed firm to handle the seed, paying him 60 per cent of the net receipts. He insisted upon asking what it was selling for, and was informed $25 a bushel. He declined, saying it was too much money, and that he was a farmer himself and was not in the robbery business.

NOT A PARTICLE OF SKIN ON BODY

Worst Case of Eczema Doctor Had Seen in 40 Years — For Six Months Father Expected His Baby to Die—Blood Oozed Out All Over Her Body—Had to Be Wrapped in Silk and Carried on a Pillow—Now She Is Perfectly Cured.

DOCTOR RECOMMENDED CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My little girl was born two weeks before her time and my wife died four hours after the birth of our child and I had to raise the baby on artificial foods. Six months after birth she broke out and I had two doctors in attendance. There was not a particle of skin left on her body, the blood oozed out just anywhere, and we had to wrap her in silk and carry her on a pillow for ten weeks. She was the most terrible sight I ever saw, and for six months I looked for her to go to her mama, but thank God and his agents, she is alive and well to-day and she will be three years old the seventh of December and has never had a sign of the dread trouble since.

"I used every known remedy to alleviate her suffering, for it was terrible to witness. Dr. C—— gave her up and then I went to C—— F—— and got Dr. B—— and he and Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment saved her. He recommended the Cuticura Remedies, or said we were right in making use of them. As nearly as I can remember, we used eight cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment; but you must take into consideration that hers was an exceptional case, for an old and good doctor said that it was the worst case that had come to him in forty years. I have always hinged on Cuticura Soap to keep her skin soft and to give her a pure complexion. James J. Smith, Wood and Metal Pattern Maker, Box 234, Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 14 and 22, 1906."

At a special school meeting held in Angus last Tuesday evening, practically a unanimous vote was cast in favor of issuing bonds in the sum of $3,000 for the erection of a new school house there, the vote standing 27 to 8. This shows a spirit of progressiveness on the part of the people of Angus that is highly commendable, and is characteristic of the people of the Red River Valley—they want the children to have the very best school facilities possible.

The Angus school board has also re-elected Prof. B. J. O'Brien for another year. Prof. O'Brien is recognized as one of the progressive instructors in Polk County and he has done excellent work at Angus in the past.

The progressiveness of the residents of the school district at Angus under present conditions is certainly most commendable.

BUILDING FENCES—Scarcely a day goes by but what farmers are seen leaving the city with wagons loaded with fence posts. This is significant in that it means that farmers are building fences and if they are building fences it is because they are needing pastures and pastures are only needed when there is stock to pasture. This shows very conclusively that farmers are getting into the stock business more and more in this section, a condition of affairs that is most gratifying to everyone interested in the development of the country.

TWO PIONEERS PERISHED IN CASS LAKE WATERS

From Saturday's Daily—

O. E. Erickson returned this morning from a fishing trip to Cass Lake. They returned to the village of Cass Lake from a fishing trip yesterday afternoon with the news of the finding of the body of Jos. North near the Indian Mission yesterday morning by an Indian woman.

This without doubt means that Alex Kittson one of the pioneer cruisers of that section of the country, and known far and wide, has also met his death.

Two weeks ago Alex Kittson was sent on a mission up into the woods and across the lake, by Sam Sutor, and he took Jos. North as a companion.

As they expected to be absent about a month there was no inkling that any misfortune had over taken them till the finding of North's body yesterday by the Indian woman. Erickson and his party were in a launch and at once rushed to Cass Lake with the news and the coroner started an investigation at once. Search was at once started for the body of Kittson.

Both were expert boatmen, but in some manner their craft must have capsized.

There is no talk of foul play as the two cruisers were life long friends.

HAS SOWN 800 ACRES

WELL KNOWN KEY WEST FARMER HAS EIGHT HUNDRED ACRES IN SEED

EXPECTS TO SEED THREE HUNDRED MORE AT ONCE

From Saturday's Daily—

Peter Sullivan the well known Key West township farmer, who is spending the day in the city for supplies, has already seeded eight hundred acres on his farm in Key West and expects to seed three hundred more before the planting season ends.

His crop is diversified and contains wheat, oats, barley and flax with more of the first. Most of the crop is already above the ground and it has been aided rather than injured by the recent falls of rain.

The entire crop was put in without the use of steam machinery, the plowing, harrowing and sowing being all done by the old reliable team and man process.

The 300 acres to be planted will be started at once. The ground is too wet today, but with an absence of rain for a few days the ground will be in fairly good condition.

She was born in 1883 and 5 years ago was united in marriage at Minneapolis to Rev. T. T. Ove. Last evening Paul Kopang, the youthful forger was taken to the Reform School at St. Cloud to serve an indeterminate sentence. He was in the best of spirits and the company of Deputy Sheriffs Daniels and Geo. Gonyea did not seem to weigh on his spirits in the least. He talked freely with several of his old acquaintances to whom he expressed the belief that his service would be very brief as he intended to remain on his good behavior, not only while in the reform school but after his sentence was over. He stated that he would take a fresh start altogether and try and outlive the bad mistake he had made in posing as a check artist.

WILD TIMES AT MEETING

THIEF RIVER FALLS TRIES TO PUT CONVENTION AT ST. HILAIRE

RED LAKE FALLS COHORTS DRIVE OPPONENTS FROM THE FIELD

From Wednesday's Daily—

Red Lake Falls, May 27—(Special to the Journal)—The republican county central committee of Red Lake county held their convention at St. Hilaire yesterday and the county seat factions got busy among the delegates and antagonism was very apparent from the start of the meeting.

Thief River Falls insisted on holding the county convention at St. Hilaire. According to opinions here the object of this move was to create sentiment in favor of holding whatever the next county convention would be at Thief River Falls. There was an "up our sleeve" atmosphere to the whole fight.

Red Lake Falls however walked away from the meeting with the palm and the next county convention will be held at Red Lake Falls.

THE GOSPEL OF GOOD CHEER

..By E. C. Simmons, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Prosperity Association of St. Louis.

We have formed a business organization to be called the National Prosperity Association of St. Louis—having for its object the encouragement of a return of prosperity sooner than might otherwise occur without help, or without some active efforts on the part of the business men. We believe that present conditions are exceedingly favorable to this. The body—commercial—has been very ill, and in a sense has had typhoid fever, but now the fever has entirely left—the disease is out and the patient only remains sick and weak, so that permanent recovery is only a matter of time. How to quicken that recovery in a healthy manner is the problem we are undertaking, and we believe in the power of encouragement—by showing to the world at large that conditions are fundamentally sound and healthy, and that nothing now exists but a lack of confidence to restore us to a full measure of prosperity such as existed a year ago. We are making an effort, thru the press and thru other business associations and through the travelling salesmen, to encourage the people to see the sunshine that is clearly in the pathway, and to believe that things are very much better than most people think they are, and that with the present crop prospects soon to be realized, if nothing unforeseen occurs in the immediate future, it is only a question of a very short time until the dinner pails will again be full and the unemployed will again be employed at fair wages, and that there will be no reduction in wages of those already employed. We believe there is a great change of sentiment with the intelligent people of the United States and that it is increasing very rapidly. It therefore seems to us a most propitious time to do what we can to encourage a quick return of prosperity to the great benefit of the laboring man and to the benefit of all business interests.

On all sides we find expressions of faavorable sentiments to the effect that further legislation against railroads and large corporations shall cease, that the business interests of this country shall be given a rest and that the departments of justice may be allowed to proceed with their work in a quiet manner—which, of course, is greatly to be desired. It is absolutely essential to the welfare of this country that the railroads should again prosper, because more than one and half million men are in the employ of the railroads today, and as many more are dependent upon their revenue from railroad investments, hence, it is deemed almost impossible that we should return to a full measure of prosperity excepting the railroads participate in the same.

With the full co-operation of the press of the United States—which we hope to have—and with the united efforts of the business associations of all the large cities, we feel confident of our ability to accelerate the speed of returning prosperity to a great degree. It is hardly necessary to say that everybody would like to have wages maintained at the highest figure and without a cut. There is no doubt as to the wisdom of this course. We are most heartily in favor of it and are working to that end—giving our time and our money to accentuate better conditions and returning prosperity. We hope and expect to have the co-operation of manufacturers, merchants, bankers, railroads and the labor element—in fact every business interest in the United States. We ask every business man—and in fact, every commercial man and house in this country—to lend us their aid—to work with us—to join hands in the gospel of good cheer, and scatter seeds of sunshine in the paths of all whom they meet. If they are pessimists we want them to become optimists; if they are optimists, we want them to increase their optimism; we want them to hunt for the sunshine; we want them to be cheerful in their manner and in their conversations—in their predictions—in their hopes and aspirations.

Fundamentally, everything is all right—the basis of our prosperity comes from the soil and the products of the soil have never had greater value than at present. The outlook for crops is marvelously promising. To illustrate—the winter wheat crop—which is the first one of importance that comes to our notice—is better than ever before in the history of this country. Kansas reports a condition of 105 on winter wheat—something heretofore unknown. When the lumber interests shut down, and the railroads laid off a lot of their employes, a large proportion of them went immediately to the farmers, or planters, so that these toilers of the soil have for the first time in many years, had enough labor to put in a full or large crop—perhaps a larger crop than ever before, and the planting is still going on. With a larger planting than has ever gone into the ground, and with favorable weather, it seems reasonable to suppose that we may have most excellent crops this year—it looks exceedingly probable. Therefore everything which is the base of our prosperity is right—all that is necessary now is to restore confidence—so that the wheels of commerce begin to move again with the same rapidity that they did a year or two ago, when we were at the height of our prosperity, and from which we went in a wonderfully short time to a very low stage of depression and hard times.

We ask the co-operation of everybody in the United States in this movement—which we think has great merit, and which has great possibilities.

GREENWOOD AND HANSEN OF GRAND FORKS AND LINDAHL OF ESMOND

From Tuesday's Daily—

The trek of the loving swaians made its regular daily official visit to Miss Minnie Boe, deputy clerk of court, at the court house today and from the prosperous Dakotas came the lovesick with their train of happiness and offering to the maids of Polk.

By noon today four marriage licenses were issued over the famous counter in the clerk of court's room, three of these licenses going to youths of North Dakota who had arrived to take back with them a Polk county girl, whose kind is the pride of the Valley. John Greenwood of Grand Forks county North Dakota took Miss Rosanne S. Robert, G. I. Hansen of Grand Forks county took Miss Minnie E. Lake and Adolph Theodore Lindahl of Esmond, N. D., took Miss Mary Simon. John Evenson himself who lives in the prosperous vicinity of Climax signed himself up for Miss Ella Fossos.

The fame of the wheat crop and the wealth of these soils may come and go. But the fame of the Polk county maid is sounded afar. And there are lots more.

WAS PROBABLY ANOTHER KITSON

LATE REPORT DOES NOT CONFIRM THE DEATH OF AL KITSON

The report sent out from Cass Lake on Saturday that Al Kitson son of Commodore Kitson had been drowned proves to be erroneous, and a later report received today shows that it was a case of confusd identity due to similarity of name.

The following is the latest report from Cass Lake:

Cass Lake, Minn., May 25—After searching the lake for fifteen hours in an effort to locate the body of Alex Kitson, the searching party returned this morning.

It was reported here that Kitson was seen working at Deer River. This led to a suspicion of foul play, but when the searching party found the row boat which the men left with, also Kitson's coat, Kitson's drowning was not doubted. The boat was found ten miles from North's body. Kitson had a wife here (squaw). He always spoke of Commodore Kitson and family. He was an old soldier. He lived around here for fifteen years and had many friends. Another party will be sent out to search the lake for Kitson's body. North's body was taken to Bemidji by the coroner.

BIG EXCURSION UP RED LAKE RIVER

Chas. Wentzel this morning received a letter from his brother August telling of a steamboat excursion up Red Lake River on June 13. The boat will leave Thief River Falls on June 13 and High Landing June 14, and will return on June 18. The fare will be very low, amounting to practically nothing and the trip will be a most pleasant one. Passengers must take their own bedding and tents and caan also take their own food if they desire, but meals will be served at reasonable rates. Many from this city and vicinity are planning on making the trip.

MENTOR LADY PASSES AWAY

"BOOOST" IS THE SLOGAN

BIG PUBLICITY RALLY HELD AT BAGLEY LAST SATURDAY

CURTIS L. MOSHER URGES NEED OF ADVERTISING STATE'S RESOURCES

From Tuesday's Daily—

Four hundred Clearwater farmers turned out last Saturday at Bagley to greet the "boosters" from St. Paul and join in an exceptionally successful publicity and better live stock rally, following a successful conference between the advertising, stock and agriculture experts at Bemidji.

The meeting at Bagley occupied the entire afternoon and was presided over by A. L. Kaiser. The Bagley Cornet band gave a musical program preceding the meeting.

D. M. Neil of Red Wing, president of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial clubs, gave a ringing address on organization for effective city and rural development work, and pointed out the value in dollars and cents to the merchants and farmers alike resulting from the establishment of good roads. He strongly urged that drainage be made the first object in rural road building and pointed out that a road well drained and surfaced, the moment the rain ceases, with a split log drag will remain in good condition for many years with trival cost of maintenance.

For Settler and Tourist

Curtis L. Mosher manager of the St. Paul city advertising campaign, spoke of the tremendous opportunities Minnesota presents to the settler, to the tourist or the stockraiser, and vigorously contended that it does no great good for Minnesotans themselves to know of the greatness of their home state.

Need to Advertise

"How are we going to get in touch with people who will buy our land; fish in our marvelous lakes; hunt in our forests and our great marshes?" he asked. The state can gain no greater wealth until people come from other states bringing their energy and money and there is no way to get them but to adverrtise. Minnesota's present yearly state advertising appropriation is so trival it becomes ridiculous. St. Paul will spend each year in advertising four times what a magnificently generous commonwealth has set aside to cover an area of 83,000 square miles."

Value of Cut-over Land

W. R. Engram of South St. Paul pointed out the weakness of the northern nineteen Minnesota counties in the raising of stock, showing that with 44 per cent of the area of the state they produce but 4 per cent of its stock. He showed the value to the farmer on cut over lands in the raising of beef cattle and hogs and strongly advocated the improvement of sires.

"Good stock will come," he asserted, "when farmers recognize that it is cheaper to raise good rather than poor stock and that blooded animals produce better beef and sell for more money than scrubs. Hogs, he said, will be the great money-makers of the future for the farmer on the old pine forest lands in Minnesota."

Welsh is Speaker

Commissioner George Welsh of the state immigration bureau at St. Paul spoke on state development, showing what the state has accomplished in manufactures and agriculture, and what Northern Minnesota has in soil and climate and gave an instructive comparison of the selling values of land with other states. He made a strong argument for life on the farm as compared with that of the cities, and showed in striking terms Northern Minnesota's talking points in seeking the better class of farm settlers from the older states.

Mr. Welsh made a strong impression and his talk was listened to with great attention.

Yesterday's conference at Bemidji drew a large attendance of farmers, who followed the arguments for better advertising and better settlement of Minnesota with keen attention. A remarkable feature of all the conferences of this series in Northern Minnesota has been the heavy attendance of practical farmers, many coming from long distances to attend the meetings and show their enthusiasm over the work of boosting Minnesota and make the state better known elsewhere.

McGuire Counsels Farmers

A. J. McGuire superintendent of the northeast experiment farm, gave a highly helpful talk, particularly directed to farmers. Farming in the cut-over section of Northern Minnesota is no longer an experiment, Mr. McGuire said. Every crop essential to successful farming maay be grown as profitably as anywhere in the state. land were more interested in the timber than in farming.

The backward condition of agriculture is not due to anything in the soil or climate unfavorable to farming, but because the men who first took up the mand for farm products, and this demand has become so great that nearly every business enterprise in Northern Minnesota is interested in getting settlers for the vast areas of unoccupied agricultural lands; not merely settlers but farmers.

"Farming is in its beginning in Northern Minnesota," Mr. McGuire continued, "and it is important that the right system of farming is taken up, so that it will not be necessary to change from a wrong system after several years of fruitless labor as has been the case in most of the older farming sections of the state.

"The natural conditions of Northern Minnesota are most favorable to the dairy industry. That dairying will be the leading branch of agriculture is generally recognized and farmers are working with this end in view.

Should Raise Forage Crops

"The principal crops grown should be clover and other forage crops for winter feed. On the small farm only a finished product should be sold. It not only brings the largest cash returns, but in this way the fertility of the soil may be retained.

"A good dairy cow will easily pay 100 per cent profit on feed consumed, in butter alone. When the skim milk which is a by-product of the dairy, is properly utilized, this profit is still further increased. The bacon hog has been found the best factor to utilize the skim milk. In this way the production of bacon pork may be made an important part of the system of farming in Northern Minnesota.

"To get the land cleared and under cultivation is the first and most important consideration for the new settler. Dynamite has been found the most effective way to remove the stumps. A movement that would provide cheap dynamite to the farmers would be the greatest boom for the country. Something may be accomplishedl by the farmers co-operating and buying in large quantities. Co-operation not only in this, but in building and operating their own creameries and in buying foundation stock for better dairy herds will reach far toward more rapid progress and success."

CROP NOT YET HURT

FALL OF RAIN HAS BENEFITTED THE CROP SITUATION

HOWEVER CROPS WILL SUFFER IF THE RAINS CONTINUE LONGER

From Wednesday's Daily—

Reports emanating from best authority on conditions thruout the Red River Valley are to the effect that the fall of spring rains have not damaged crops up to this time and has rather been active for their betterment. The pastures have been greatly helped, the planted crops have secured a good start and general farming conditions have been benefitted.

However if the prevailing showers continue for two weeks more with the same volume or greater than they have heretofore some of the crop in the lower land of the valley will be damaged.

This judgment of a first class authority continues that the losses will come not so much on low ground as in the unditched or improperly ditched territories. The ditched parts of the valley will not suffer as long as the rains continue light. The water up to this time has been evenly carried away by ditches where they exist.

BEST TIME TO SPRAY

PROF. BOLLEY SAYS IT IS NOT WISE TO SPRAY UNLESS

IN GOOD SUNSHINY WEATHER—STATE'S PROPER TIME TO KILL MUSTARD

I am writing this note as a caution to farmers who are preparing to spray mustard and king-head in grain fields by the use of field sprayers. The best results from spraying can be obtained only when there is good sunshiny weather the next two days following the spraying work. Therefore, it is best to consult the weather department, and especially to follow a rain rather than spray before an apparent one. It is also possible that those who are ready to do the work will be too anxious and commence spraying before the weeds are as old as they should be to give the best results. Do not go on a field of wheat and mustard for spraying work until the majority of the mustard plants are beginning to show the first blossoms, that is, they should be 4 to 5 leaves high. Mustard can be thoroly wiped out in one day's spraying after all of the seeds have matured in the pods. The farmers should not be too hasty in attacking their mustard fields else there may be lots of seem come up after the spraying. The same may be said to hold true with kinghead. Here one should spray just at the time when the grain and kinghead are about of equal height, say, eight to ten inches high. Spray in the mornig in preference to the afternoon.—H. L. Bolley of Fargo Agricultural College, May 26, 1908.

MRS. H. HINES DIES SUDDENLY

STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY AT 3 IN AFTERNOON AND DIES AT 10:30 P. M.

Mrs. Hattie Hines, residing at 115 North Fifth street in Grand Forks died at 10:30 last night after an illness of about seven hours. Mrs. Hines was stricken with apoplexy at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She had been talking over the telephone and after she left it she went out toward the kitchen. On her way she became ill and called a servant girl. She asked the girl to call some of the neighbors. Physicians were summoned and did everything possible but there was no hope from the start. A blood vessel in the brain had been ruptured

Both of the sons of the deceased, who are traveling salesmen, were absent when the end came. Henry was at St. Louis and William at New York city. Both were notified by wire of the serious illness of their mother and sent messages that they would start for home at once.

Mrs. Hines was 52 years old. She was born in Virginia in 1856 and grew up there. With her husband she moved to Grand Forks in the early days and Mr. Hines retaained large property interests in East Grand Forks on De Mers Avenue and looked after her affairs herself. She was a member of the Episcopal church.

She was of a sociable disposition and had a wide circle of friends and the news of her death caused widespread sorrow. Deceased often visited in Crookston and much sorrow will be caused among the many friends of the family here.

TROUBLE IN PANAMA POL.

Presidential Campaign Develops Serious Revolutionary Tendencies.

UNCLE SAM TO TAKE HAND

Marines to Be Detailed to Guard Polling Booths to Insure Fair and Honest Election.

Washington, June 3.—The Panama presidential campaign, which is to culminate in an election the first week in July, has recently developed revolutionary tendencies to such an extent as to cause grave concern and the serious intention to employ severe measures on the part of the American government to secure a fair and honest election, probably the first in the history of Central American politics. The 500 American marines stationed on the isthmus will be detailed on the two election days to the 1,800 polling places.

The contest is between Vice President Obaldia and Secretary of State Arias.

Amador Fires Obaldia's Friends.

Arias entered the race as a Conservative and from his entry the machinery of the government has been operating busily in his behalf. The last move was the dismissal by President Amador of the governors of provinces, all of them known to be friends of Obaldia. To still further hamper the chances of Obaldia, the administration has, since the departure of Secretary Taft from the isthmus, reduced the number of presidential electors from the province of Colon, where Obaldia is conceded to have many friends, and increased the number in several provinces known to be favorable to the election of Arias.

The call for a personal report from Minister Squires is the result, it is explained, of the new developments. At the same time Mr. Squires may be asked to explain certain newspaper comment to the effect that he has allowed himself to become enthusiastic in favor of one of the candidates.

FARMERS IN A MANHUNT.

Collision Expected in Montana With a Fugitive Halfbreed Murderer.

Helena, Mont., June 3. — Mosney, the halfbreed, who several months ago escaped arrest on a murder charge by shooting a deputy sheriff, has again appeared. Going to the home of County Commissioner Carmichael he demanded at the point of a rifle that horses be traded. The commissioner managed to evade the issue, whereupon the Indian visited the ranch of Carmichael's father and forcibly exchanged his jaded animal for a fine horse. The farmers are in pursuit and a fight is expected.

WALL STREET SCUTTLES THE SHIP OF STATE

Washington Dispatch Says Currency Bill Passed Before Congress Adjourned Has Went Populism One Better.

Banks Can Now Issue Half A Billion Dollars Carrying The Stamp Of Government's Approval.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—The currency bill framed up by the house and senate leaders in the closing hours of congress and pased just before the adjournment Saturday night, contains all the bad features of both the house and senate plans. It is a bill which will be welcomed by Wall Street speculators and certain favored bankers, and which will come as a shock to business men.

The railroad bond feature, which was exposed and denounced by Senator LaFollette and was temporarily dropped by Aldrich from the senate bill was reinstated. In addition it has provided that bonds in general may be acepted as a basis for money.

Populists Outdone

On the other hand the compromisers have accepted the plan embodied in the Vreeland bill to permit banks to issue money against the general assets—the time paper, warehouse receipts, mortgages — practically anything and everything that may be found piled up in their caults.

In the wildest days of the so-called Populistic craze—when it was proposed that the government lend money to the farmers, or issue loans against crops—in these days nothing more wild ever was proposed than the financial act, which Senator Aldrich, Speaker Cannon and their advisors worked out for the approval of the Republican majority of the 60th congress The Populists proposed to lend money; this congress impairs the money system of the nation by giving private banking corporations the right to issue money bearing the indorsement of the government on its face.

Can "Make" Half a Billion

And as "security" for the redemption of this "money" the banks are permitted to hand over to the secretary of the treasury promissory notes issued by "John Smith" bonds issued by Harrimanized railroads, corporation bonds of undefined character, miscellaneous securities of cities, towns, counties and states.

In short national banks are to be permitted in times of money stress, on their own motion, to just put out alleged money to the tune of $500,000,000. The bill provides that state, municipal and county bonds shall be taken by the secretary of the treasury at 90 per cent of their market value, that all other bonds shall be taken at 70 per cent of their market value. Meantime the amount of money which can be issued against the assets of a bank is limited to 40 per cent of the capital stock of the bank.

Shows Power of the Street

A 10 per cent redemption fund instead of a 5 per cent one is to be maintained. The proposal to retain 25 per cent of reserve funds in central reserve cities has gone out of the bill and only 10 per cent must be retained This is to let the money which ought to be held for reserves go to the speculators in New York. A time limit of three years is carried in the bill.

A real fight by Democrats in the senate would easily have defeated this bill and the absence of any real opposition by Democratic senators is regarded as an illustration of the manner in which Wall Street and corporate influence generally, dominates the senate regardless of party names.

TRAINS HELD BY MON. FLOODS

One Thousand Passengers Are Tied Up in Livingston, Mont.

WORST WASHOUT IN YEARS

Railroads Suffer Heavy Losses—Minnesota and Cottonwood Rivers on Rampage.

Livingston, Mont., June 3. — Seven overland Northern Pacific and Burlington passenger trains, carrying about 1,000 passengers, are tied up in this city, with the prospect of being held here two or three days more, as the result of one of the worst washouts in the recent history of the Northern Pacific. Ten miles east of this city two thirty-foot "fills," one eighty feet long and the other more than 100, are completely washed out, and the eastern portal of the Bozeman tunnel is blocked by a landslide which is said to have caved in a portion of the tunnel. The last train to get through to Butte went Saturday night. Big floods have risen east of this city, near Columbus, Mont., tying up traffic. The stalled trains reached Livingston in time to be caught by the washouts east of here yesterday morning. Northern Pacific trains are being sent east from Butte and Helena over the Great Northern tracks.

Wash Out 500 Feet of Track.

Dispatches from Butte, Mont., say that the bridges crossing Silver Bow creek, within the limits of Butte, are threatened by the floods, and the street car tracks on the flats south of that city are under water. The rainfall there during May amounted to seven inches, exceeding all records.

The Yellowstone river also is on the rampage and trains are from twenty-four to forty-eight hours late on the Northern Pacific.

A report from Hell Gate canyon states that the rains of the last thirty-six hours have washed out 500 feet of the roadbeds of the Northern Pacific and St. Paul railroads between Missoula and Clinton. It will take at least three months to repair the damage suffered by the St. Paul road.

Close New Ulm Bridges.

New Ulm, Minn., June 3.—The Minnesota and Cottonwood rivers are on a rampage. The lowlands are flooded, thousands of acres of fertile lands are inundated and this season's crop will be practically worthless. The roads leading into the city are covered with at least three feet of water on the Nicollet county side, and it is only with difficulty that the farmers can reach the city. The city authorities have declared some of the approaches dangerous and have closed the bridges to traffic.

St. Paul, June 3.—F. G. Warner, former state oil inspector, served his answer yesterday in the suit brought by the state against him and the National Surety company to recover $12,891.85, alleged to be due to the state from him on account of oil inspection fees collected by him while in office and not turned into the state treasury. The answer is a complete denial of the complaint and contains an allegation that he had paid the state all moneys collected by him while in that office.

He denies that the total collections of the office during his incumbency were $69,548.94, and alleges that the total was $60,195.60, which has been paid to the state, as shown by the record of the office.

He denies that he has wrongfully and fraudulently retained the sum of $9,355.25 of the fees collected, and alleges that the $3,538.50 which was credited to the companies during his incumbency for out shipments was credited on account of shipments of oil which were received and inspected in this state and actually sent outside the state for consumption.

The case is brought in the Ramsey county district court and may come on for trial during the June term.

BRUTAL MURDER MYSTIFIES POLICE

Paris Officials Seem Far From Solution of Murder of Artist and His Mother-in-Law.

Paris, June 3. — The Paris police seem far from a solution of the mysterious murder of the noted painter, Adolphe Steinheil, and his wife's mother, Mme. Japy, which occurred in the artist's residence in the Rue de Baugirard in the early hours of Sunday. A number of the newspapers, which are laying stress on the mysterious element of the crime, dwell upon the fact the police refuse to allow any one to communicate with Mme. Steinheil, who still is suffering from nervous shock after her terrifying experience, or her sixteen-year-old daughter, who returned from the country yesterday. They also point out that jewels which Mme. Steinheil declared Sunday had been stolen by the murderers were yesterday discovered in a concealed safe.

The examining magistrate before whom preliminary proceedings in the case have been brought spent all the afternoon in the Steinheil house on a mission of investigation. He found finger prints on a small crystal clock, which was handed over to experts for a Bertillon examination. It is thought that this may prove to be a valuable clue in running down the assassins.

MEETINGS OF AMERICAN SOCIETY OF EQUITY

"Is Dinner Ready?" The farmers and the cook only can answer. Once a year, our foodstuff is in the hands of the farmers. They own the amount that must last 12 months. They should supply during the 12 months. A plan of steady, gradual and controlled marketing to prevent glutted markets, to secure steady and equitable prices and stop speculation in foodstuffs should enlist the attention and be welcomed by producer and consumer alike.

The organization of several thousands of farmers into local unions in Minnesota and co-operative methods of marketing by carload shipments are now proving the plan to be practical and profitable without increasing cost to consumers.

Farmers have four special needs: Protection against short weights and false grading; ample storage, at the farm or at the shipping and in terminal centers to avoid dumping surplus products into speculators' hands on the low prices that they make in the Fall, co-operation for distribution in other states and marketing thru terminal centers. A voice in pricemaking, they being the investors, toilers, owners! We desire to increase the local organizations, knowing that a continuous income meant ready cash in the hands of this class who are abount one half of the entire number of purchasers of manufactured goods. The prosperity of the farmers means the prosperity of the country at large.

This plan will be offered to farmers and the public by one of our most notable lecturers, Mr. C. O. Drayton, President of the Illinois Union, who has been secured and authorized to hold seventy Dollar-Wheat Rallies in the Red River Valley, six as follows:

Hitterdal, Monday June 8.

Twin Valley, Tuesday June 9.

Ada, City Hall, Wednesday June 10.

Lockhart School House, Thursday, June 11.

Beltrami, Odd Fellows Hall, Friday June 12.

Crookston, Court House, Saturday June 13.

All meetings at 2 p. m.

We urge every farmer and business man to hear this free lecture on "Dollar Wheat to Stay." Mr. Drayton held meetings on the west side of the river last summer a few weeks and nearly 1000 grain growers enrolled in those meetings to adopt and support this plan, aiding to swell a list of about 10,000 in North Dakota.

"Two Days or Two Weeks."

Washington, May 29.—"We may adjourn in two days, or we may adjourn in two weeks," was the terse comment of Speaker Cannon yesterday, as he came out of the executive offices after a brief conference with the president.

REPORTS ARE NECESSARY

CREAMERY SECRETARIES MUST ATTEND TO THEIR DUTIES AT ONCE

CREAMERY INSPECTOR STORVICK ARRESTS REGRETS NECESSITY OF

From Monday's Daily—

Creamery Inspector A. O. Storvick who makes his headquarters in Crookston, called the attention of the Journal today to the fact that many of the secretaries of creameries in this section of the state had thus far failed to comply with the state laws regarding sending in their annual reports.

The state law is very plain on this point, every secretary being required to send in a report annually covering every detail regarding the business done. Some of the reports that have been sent in are incomplete, and are inaccurate as well, not showing the amount of business done and being in such shape that the various accouts will not balance.

Inspector Storvick is naturally loathe to prosecute secretaries but it is incumbent upon him to see that the law is enforced. The department looks to him to see that the reports are made, and of course he is therefore forced to demand the reports from the secretaries.

The state law provides that the creamery secretaries shall be fined $15 where they fail to make proper reports, but Inspector Storvick is very much averse to putting the secretaries to this expense. However he has been called upon to make several prosecutions and will have to make more unless the required reports are forthcoming.

Mr. Storvick states that conditions among the creameries are otherwise very encouraging. The output this year is just about double what it was a year ago and the checks the farmers are getting means a greater degree of prosperity than they ever before enjoyed.

GEN. STEPHEN D. LEE DEAD.

Had Record of Having Ordered First Shot to Be Fired at Fort Sumter.

Vicksburg, Miss., May 30. — Lieut. Gen. Stephen D. Lee of Columbus, Miss., commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, answered his last roll call at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of his death.

An incident in connection with Gen. Stephen D. Lee's military career not generally know is the fact that he directed the firing of the first shot of the Civil war. He was one of the two officers of the South Carolina troop sent by Gen. Beauregard to demand the surrender of Fort Sumter, and on the refusal of this demand he ordered the first battery to fire on the fort.

NONE HURT IN BIG SMASHUP.

Passenger Train Piles Up on Track Near Watertown, S. D.

Watertown, S. D., May 28.—An unusual train wreck occurred two miles from this city yesterday morning when the early morning North-Western passenger from the Twin Cities piled up in a mass of broken rails, ties and splintered cars, but without a single passenger receiving a scratch. A journal broke on the tender, which was thrown bodily from the track, the mail, baggage and two passenger coaches plowing up the track for a hundred yards and finally stopping crosswise with the track.

MANUFACTURE CHLOROFORM.

Officers of Ashland Blast Furnace May Build Addition for Product.

Ashland, Wis., May 28.—While the blast furnace is closed down for repairs it is probable that a new addition will be built to the chemical plant for the manufacture of chloroform. The plans are now being made and the officers will decide the last of this month if such a step shall be taken. Chloroform can be made as one of the by-products of the charcoal kilns, and it is believed that the plant, costing in the neighborhood of $20,000 or $25,000, would be an addition that would make its operation profitable.

Burglars Raid Altoona.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 30.—Burglars operating in and around Altoona have committed three burglaries in that village during the past three weeks. The last time they broke into Crysler's store and carried away a small safe, which they broke open near the village limits. The joke was on the burglars, as the safe was of the imitation kind and contained only a few bottles of wine and a deck of cards.

Daily Journal, 30 cents per Month

HER BIRTHDAY GIFT.

By Troy Allison.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The rarely used doorbell rang out an unexpected rusty summons, and Mrs. Jordan, engaged in putting the breakfast biscuits into the oven, tilted the pan in her excitement until the carefully cut forms slid down to one end of the pan, an avalanche of dough.

"Marietta, go answer that bell." She thought Marietta had not noticed the episode of the biscuits, and she would not for worlds have the girl think there was a vulnerable spot to her stoicism or that she owned to curiosity. "If it's a woman, don't let her in, for there ain't a woman round here that hasn't sense enough to know better'n to call before breakfast."

Marietta, without waiting for the end of the monologue, had opened the door.

"Here's a package for you," said the man from the station, grinning and pointing to the small boy on the doorstep, "he's labeled to Mrs. Jordan."

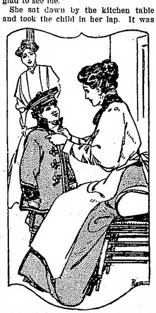
The girl stared at the small figure in astonishment. "I'm Ned and I'm a birthday present to grandma and I'm hungry," he said, with no recognition of the need of pauses or punctuation, raising very blue eyes to meet hers earnestly.

"I guess he'll have to come in," said the girl in bewilderment. "I don't know anything about him, but maybe Aunt Ann does."

Mrs. Jordan, waiting in the kitchen door, gave a gasp of terror when she saw the small face under the leather sailor cap. "Bobbie!" she whispered faintly.

"No; I'm not named Bobbie. I'm Neddie, grandma." The small hands clung around her waist. "Papa said you would love me and be awfully glad to see me."

She sat down by the kitchen table and took the child in her lap. It was the first time she had ever been called grandmother, and she had never known there was a child.



"YOU DO WANT ME FOR YOUR LITTLE BOY, DON'T YOU?"

When Robert Jordan went to the city six years before to study bookkeeping and during the first year married one of the chorus girls belonging to the "Froth and Foam Extravaganza," his mother's Methodist principles had refused to acknowledge that she any longer had a son. His letters, unanswered, finally stopped altogether. There had been no word from him, direct or indirect, until this small boy, with the eyes and mouth of her own little Bobbie, called her grandmother.

"I never saw you before at all," he said, softly patting her cheeks with the cold little hands from which he had removed the mittens, "but papa said you would love me dearly and that every time you made cookies you would make me a large cake shaped like a doggie, with currants for its eyes. Will you, grandmother, please?"

Mrs. Jordan trembled from head to foot at the vision of another little boy of long ago watching her put the currants in for eyes. She could fancy his childish voice saying, "Mind, muvver, don't make him cross eyed."

"Where is your papa?" she asked, unbuttoning the child's overcoat mechanically.

"Papa's gone away. He said he was going to stay with mamma and that I was to be your little boy. He sent you a birthday letter in my overcoat pocket. You do want me for your little boy, don't you?"

His childish mouth quivered apprehensively at her continued silence.

She left the letter unopened while she hugged him suddenly to her breast.

"Yes; I want you for my little boy. I have wanted a little boy for years and years—so terribly long," she said, crushing the words against his short, curly hair.

"Marietta, take the child upstairs and wash his face and hands before breakfast. He's all covered with train dust," she said, suddenly becoming conscious that the young girl had been standing silent in.

Left alone, she looked at the letter long and silently. The years rolled back—she seemed to feel with all the intensity of her young motherhood. She realized that the letter must tell her that her son was dead, yet the child, her child, seemed miraculously restored to her.

Bringing her glasses from a corner of the dining room mantel, she opened the letter.

"I shall not live to see your birthday, mother, but little Ned will be with you, and you can't help loving him. His mother has been dead a year. The doctor says he will see that the boy gets to you safely. And, mother, if you will only love him and forget these last few years"—

The woman leaned her head on the table, and deep sobs convulsed her.

Marietta, coming downstairs with an immaculate little boy by the hand, saw through the front window some one who caused her to run hastily to the door.

"Come to the steps a minute, John," she called softly. "I was afraid I wouldn't get the chance to see you today. I've determined to say 'Yes,' even if Aunt Ann doesn't give her consent. She seems to have a horror of people getting married. It's getting unbearable. I wanted her to say I might marry you, but I'll do it, anyway."

John Terry's strong hand closed on hers convulsively.

"Will you wear a veil and carry a big bouquet?" eagerly asked the child, overlooked by them both.

The man laughed good naturedly.

"Hello, youngster, where did you come from? Yes, she can have the veil and bouquet, and maybe there will be a long train that you can walk behind and carry just like the picture of the princess and her little page. But who on earth are you, and when did you strike this town?"

"I'm Ned Jordan, and my papa's name is Robert Jordan, and I've come to stay with grandma, and I hope you are well," the child answered, with a polite timidity that caused him to rush through his explanations and wind up for lack of breath.

Terry gazed at the girl meaningly.

"So? The old lady has relented at last, has she?"

"I don't think it's that," the girl answered softly. "I think Cousin Robert is—dead. She seemed wonderfully affected and more gentle than I have ever known her."

"Marietta!" Mrs. Jordan's voice called from the dining room. "Is that John Terry? Tell him to come in and have breakfast with us. It's awfully lucky to have a man caller on your birthday. I'm forty-nine years young," she added, with a laugh that held a sob. "And I'm going to start in the fifties right. You might as well let John come on in. I'll bet he'll spend most of the year with you anyhow."

Terry, laughing, took the girl's arm and led her to the dining room.

"She's going to be married, and I'm going to carry her train for her, grandma," said the child excitedly.

"All right, Bobbie; come, sit in this chair by grandma, and let those people that are so much in love with each other sit by each other."

The child climbed into the chair and looked at her reproachfully. "I should think if I was your own little boy you wouldn't forget my name," he said.

"Yes, Bobbie, dear—I mean Neddie," she said, "bow your head now while John asks a blessing on my birthday gift."

Holland's Source of Wealth.

When it comes to coffee, sugar, indigo, spices and tobacco all the nations of the world have to take off their hats to the little kingdom of Holland," said Mr. Karl Van Valkenberg of Amsterdam.

"Once in every two weeks the Netherlands company sells more coffee than all the rest of the world's markets combined. This fortunate situation comes about through the ownership of our island colonies. Sumatra, which is almost thirty times as large as Holland, sends its tobacco crop to the home government. Java, tremendously larger, is also ours, and to it we are indebted for our coffee. Borneo, which would make a dozen of us, is our source of coal supply, and from the islands of Blanca and Billiton we get vast quantities of tin. So you see that Holland's riches come largely from her insular possessions. Amsterdam and Antwerp cut the diamonds of the world."—Baltimore American.

Our Oldest Permanent City.

Albany, capital of the great Empire State, claims to be the oldest permanent settlement within the limits of our thirteen colonies, but has greater historical significance on account of its strategic importance during the century of conflict between the English and French in America and in the American Revolution. In 1524 Verrazzano, a French navigator, sailed up the Hudson, and about 1540 a French trading post was set up near the present site of Albany. The continuous history of the place dates from the discovery of these regions by Henry Hudson in 1609, who was followed by Dutch traders, who in 1614 established a trading station on Castle island under the name of Fort Nassau. In 1664, after the transfer of New Netherlands to the English, the name of Albany was given to the settlement in honor of the Duke of York and Albany, afterward James II.—Leslie's Weekly.

Curing a Fish.

A curious experiment was tried a short time ago to determine the brain power of the pike. One of these voracious fish was placed in a tank with some minnows with glass partitions separating the one from the other. The pike for three months made fruitless attempts to catch the minnows, repeatedly dashing its nose against the glass. At last, having come to the conclusion that its efforts were of no use, it finally discontinued them. The glass was then removed, but the ideas firmly established in the pike never became disestablished, for it never afterward attacked the minnows, though it fed voraciously on all other kinds of fish.—London Telegraph.

Maybe the reason Solomon was so wise is because he looked to his composite wife for advice and counsel.

WERE MARRIED HALF A CENTURY

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lee residing south of the city near Kittson were pleasantly surprised last evening in honor of their Golden Wedding—Their five children were all home and the evening was a most delightful one—Both active and healthy — Entered fully into the spirit of the occasion

Yesterday was the 50th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lee, well known farmers residing south of the city on rural route No. 4 on the old Locken farm, and last evening a number of their friends and relatives dropped in unexpectedly and spent the evening with them. The occasion was a most delightful one and Mr. and Mrs. Lee will long remember their Golden Wedding. They were married 50 years ago at Mt. Pleasant, Henry Co., Ia., May 27, 1858 Mrs. Lee's maiden name being Miss Sarah A. Mitts. The five children of the couple were all present last evening including two daughters, Mrs. H. L. Ross and Mrs. Geo. Welch of this city and Will, Earl and Albert who reside at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee were presented many beautiful gifts including a beautiful gold handled umbrella. The evening was passed most pleasantly and ice cream, cake and coffee were served. The company departed at a late hour after extending most hearty congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lee. Those present included Messrs. and Mesdames W. E. Slocum, Chas. Musselman, and H. B. Scribner, Mrs. H. L. Ross and sons,, Mrs. Geo. Welch and James Johnson of this city and Messrs. and Mesdames Phillips, R. E. Smith and O. J. PRACTICAL FORESTRY

SOUTHERN MINNESOTA FARMERS CONVERTING SOFT WOOD TREES INTO LUMBER

COTTONWOOD AND WILLOW TREES MORE POROUS AND TOUGHER THAN PINE

While the forestry faddists are conjuring the spook of a timber famine for building, the farmers of various sections of Minnesota are giving a very practical answer to their alarming prophesies. All thru southern Minnesota the portable sawmill is on its annual rounds converting into building materiral the soft wood trees the farmers in the prairie sections planted for shade and windbreaks.

It is only two years ago that Mr. Michael Horgan, one of Ireland's sons who recently visited in this city, called attention of his neighbors to the value of their little individual forests. His home is in Martin county, near the southern boundary of the state. This season hundreds of thousands of feet of excellent lumber have been cut there.

Twenty Years Growths

The trees are largely cotton wood and willow, but they are but little more porous than pine and vastly tougher. For all dimensions material they have been tested and found satisfactory. These trees grow to large timber size in about twenty years. The man who plants can reap his own harvest.

On every farm there, they have been planted for other purposes, but now have become valuable for this. There are but few farms where there are not enough to supply their owners need at the small expense of cutting.

Planted Carefully

Since their new utility and value have been proved, they will be more carefully spaced and grown. Other varieties will also be used and they will so supplement the pine forests as to minimize the demand and extend the life of the supply almost indefinitely, if it is reasonably conserved.

There is no reason whatever why on every farm there should not be these wood lots, which while protect the buildings from storm and sheltering the cattle, would supply the far greater part of the demand for lumber. Man can never be made dependent upon one material nor one source for any need. Give him the soil and he and the Lord will take care of all the rest.

NEW LANDING CONSTRUCTED

ERSKINE PEOPLE PLEASED WITH THE SUBSTANTIAL IMPROVEMENTS

GENERAL NEWS OF INTEREST FROM THE LIVE EAST END VILLAGE

Erskine, Minn., May 27, —All was activity at the lake front Monday morning as three carpenters of whom O. Palm was master of ceremonies proceeded to build the new landing. The finishing touches were put on Tuesday and now presents a pleasing effect to those expecting to use the same. A large platform is built about thirty feet from the shore. A raised walk leads from this to the shore and this is connected to the main sidewalk by a plank one. Two large benches are placed under the shade of the spreading trees opposite the landing to rest up on after the excitement of sailing.

Dr. O. H. Olson and wife leave for Chicago today and expect to be gone a month or so. Mrs. Olson is to undergo some surgical operations and the Doctor is going to make use of the opportunity to take up some post-graduate work to better himself in his chosen profession. All Erskine friends sincerely hope that Mrs. Olson will return much improved in health.

The section gang under their stalwart 'boss" August Carlstrom tested their strength on a 1200 pound pile hammer which they had to load on the local of the G. N. Tuesday in its transfer from the Soo on its way to Euclid from St. Paul.

Miss Grace Brogen, sister of Mrs. O. T. Nelson of this place, arrived Monday from Wilston, Minn., where she has been teaching school. The next day she proceeded to Mentor where she engaged to teach the primary department the coming school year.

Miss Christine Dale, the daughter of Reverend Dale of the city of McIntosh spent the time between trains 33 and 36 Monday in visiting her friends of Erskine and attending to some business.

The Board of Supervisors of the Township of Knute met at the Bank of Erskine Monday to consider some important matters in regards to the roads. They decided to buy a new road grader. This is very commendable as the roads of any community ought to receive our first attention especially in the spring.

A new cement walk is soon to be constructed from the opposite corner of the Echo printing office to the primary school.

Drs. Kahala and Walman made a hurried business trip to McIntosh Tuesday afternoon.

The state high school board examinations are being conducted in the schools this week. A few students from outside districts are in attendance.

Assessor Torger Nelson commenced work today and he says he is going to push the work as fast as possible.

LAWYER GIVEN FIVE YEARS.

Forger Who Left Family for Chorus Girl Is Sentenced.

New York, May 30.—Victor Shanley, a lawyer, was sentenced here yesterday to serve not less than five years and not more than ten years in the state prison for forgery. In the early part of 1904 Shanley forged the name of a client, Julia A. Smith, to a mortgage for $25,000, obtained the money and spent it. Shanley fled but was arrested about a year ago in Philadelphia.

After his disappearance it developed that Shanley, who was married and had two children, had taken with him a chorus girl with whom he was infatuated.

MRS. HAMILTON SENTENCED.

Druce Witness Gets Eighteen Months In Prison for Perjury.

London, May 30. — Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, aged seventy, who was one of the principal witnesses to the alleged identity of the duke of Portland, with T. C. Druce, was yesterday sentenced to eighteen months' penal servitude for perjury, her appeal having been disallowed.

600 CHILDREN IN PANIC.

Dynamite Scare Almost Causes Disaster in Chicago School.

Chicago, May 30.—Rumors that an Italian secret society had formed a plot to dynamite the Dante school at Ewing and Desplaines streets caused a panic yesterday afternoon among the 1,700 pupils in the school. About 600 of the children became panic-stricken and fled from the building. Many of them were knocked down and slightly bruised, but none of them was seriously injured.

JEW AND GENTILE URGED TO CO-OPERATE IN FAITH

At Marseilles, Illinois, Dr. Tobias Schanfarber of the K. A. M. Temple, Chicago, made a plea Sunday evening in the Universalist church of that city for co-operation between the Christian and Jewish religions.

"It's a disgrace to mother and daughter if they fail to live together and keep in harmony," he said. "On the same reasoning it is a disgrace to both Judaism and Christianity that stand toward each other as mother and daughter in the domain of religion, if they fail to exercise that love and forbearance which this relationship entails.

"The religion which has given the rich and inspiring example of the good Samaritan, that has bequeathed the glorious principles of the sermon on the mount to humanity, that has given lofty and sublime idea of Jesus to civilization, should show in its action the universal love breathed forth in the lofty lessons and inspiring character of Jesus to Judaism—the mother religion which has been its source of inspiration. The religion which has given the doctrine of love your neighbor, the ten commandments, that has nourished in its bosom the great prophets, those master spirits of the world should exercise all the noble principles which the prophets have advocated to all the children of mankind

"The Jew has rarely, if ever been the persecutor, always the persecuted. He has suffered well-nigh twenty centuries of martyrdom because he has refused to give up his historic position that of being the first Protestant.

"The Christian world should never forget that Jesus was a Jew of the Jews. He was the bone of our bone the flesh of our flesh. Without Judaism there could have been no Christianity; without the prophets, no Jesus. It is passing strange in these latter days of hyperbiblical criticism and what not that our overkeen biblical scholars and so-called ethnologists declare that Jesus was not of Semitic but of Aryan origin. That is a piece of vandalism that deserves the severest castigation. If Jesus was not a Jew he was nothing.

"The millennium day will not dawn on the horizon of humanity as long as religions which teach love and peace scatter hatred and strife. In this twentieth century of civilization we all should put aside our narrow prejudices and work together for the establishment of a kingdom of heaven on earth."

ABILITY IS RECOGNIZED

BANDMASTER RIGGS ASST. CONDUCTOR OF BAND FOR N. D. STATE FAIR

WAS ENGAGED AS CONCERT SOLOIST WHICH IS A DISTINCT HONOR

From Thursday's Daily—

Bandmaster G. O. Riggs of this city has received a distinct honor in being engaged as cornet soloist and Assistant Conductor of the Band of 40 pieces which will furnish the music for the North Dakota State Fair which will be held in Fargo this year during the week of July 20-25th.

On certain occasions at the fair the band will be divided, and Mr. Riggs will then conduct one of the bands. This band of 40 pieces has been collected from musicians within a radius of 200 miles of Fargo, and the fact that he played with the band last year and has this year been selected as cornet soloist makes it very evident that Mr. Riggs is considered the leading cornet player of the entire northwest.

POACHER SENTENCED

MAN ARRESTED WITH BANKER FOR ILLEGAL HUNTING MUST SERVE

From Thursday's Daily—

A rather dramatic arrest and return to incarceration was that of B. F. Boyd, of Brainerd who was taken to Grand Rapids yesterday by the sheriff of Itasca county to serve a sentence imposed by a justice in Northome a few years ago.

Boyd, it will be remembered was arrested together with a banker named Ward of Fairmont, charged with killing a cow moose, the party shot three. After a hard fought trial in which Attorney E. E. McDonald of Bemidji succeeded in convicting Boyd, while Ward secured a disagreement of the jury. Boyd jumped his bonds after conviction and the Itasca officers reported themselves as unable to find him.

When the case of Barnard Bros. vs. The Northern Express company came up for trial in the district court at Brainerd a few days ago Mr. McDonald appeared for the company and what was his surprise when Boyd was drawn as a juror. He was of course quickly disposed of as a juror and the sheriff of Itasca county notified. He came down and took Boyd to Grand Rapids. As an example of Boyd's monumental nerve, he is said to have been a candidate for appointment as deputy game warden at the time of Mr. Rardin's appointment this spring.

At the time of Boyd's trial in Northome he was under indictment for a staturtory offense in this county, but the case was afterwards dropped.

PRESIDENT HOWLEY OF MINNESOTA FEDERATION LOOKING UP CANDIDATES

WILL PAY PARTICULAR ATTENTION TO THOSE SEEKING PLACES IN CONGRESS

From Thursday's Daily—

George B. Howley, president of the Minnesota state federation of labor, passed thru the city this morning en route to Grand Forks. He announced that the federation proposed to take an active part in politics in North Dakota and will pay particular attention to the election of members of congress. This declaration is in line with the announcement made by President Gompers of the national federation, some time ago.

Mr. Howley stated that there are many members of unions in North Dakota and they can yield quite an influence in an election. He will look up the situation while in Grand Forks

The annual convention of the Minnesota federation, which includes Grand Forks and Fargo, will be held in Winona, beginning June 8. Fargo will make a determined effort to land the convention for next year. Fifteen delegates are to be sent to Winona.

Will Be Big Meeting

It is expected that there will be about 500 delegates at the Winona convention and many of them will be accompanied by their wives. The business will take up about four days.

President Howley is investigating the labor situation here. The Builders & Traders' Exchange recently declared for the open shop and the East Grand Forks boss barbers also announced open shop. President Howley may also organize the musicians and clerks while in Grand Forks.

Flannery of the Great Northern departed overland by livery this afternoon for Shirley in the matter of the damaage claims made against the Great Northern railway as a result of the destruction of the school house at Shirley by a prairie fire a few weeks ago as leyy as the destruction of other property in the path of the same fire.

The Currency Bill

We miss the mark sadly if Speaker Joe Cannon and Senator Aldrich do not hear from the Currency Bill passed just before congress adjourned. Others may also hear from it.

The bill has precious few features that will commend it to the masses, but it is just what Wall street wants, at least the laboring class can find nothing in the entire bill, should they search it with a spy glass, which is favorable to them.

The banker who finds himself short of currency can issue currency stamped with the approval of the United States government, and can put up almost any kind of junk as security.

If "elasticity" was what was wanted we have got it with a vengeance. The volume of currency can certainly be "stretched" from here to the Philippines if necessary.

The question is it a safe measure? Would not conditions be worse under the new law than under the old in a financial flurry?

General comment from one end of the country to the other is against the measure, and Joe Cannon will be called to answer to the people from the attitude they have apparently assumed.

Forestry Experience

Roughly speaking says a report those countries which today manage their forests on sound principles have passed thru four stages of forest experience. At first the forests were so abundant as to be in the way, so they were destroyed. Next, as settlements grew and the borders of the forest receded, the question of local wood supply had to be faced and the forest was spared or even protected. Third, the increasing need of wood led to the recognition of the forest as a crop, like agricultural crops which must be harvested and which should be made to grow again. Finally, the forest was safeguarded so as to yield a constant maximum product year after year. Systematic forestry for the benefit of the whole people is therefore the last stage in the experience.

German, France, Norway and Sweden are countries which have passed thru all stages mentioned. The United States, in attacking the problem, seeks to jump from the second stage to the fourth. The opposition which comes to a system of national and state forestry comes from those individuals who will not learn in this matter from the experience of others but would follow the natural course which prevailed when forestry was less well understood than it is today. The enlightened idea of the forest advocates is not to wait until our forests are gone before replacing the waste spaces.

The Growth Of Rural Free Delivery

There is no one thing that illustrates better than rural free delivery of mail the wonderful strides this country is making. The growth of the rural system has been so rapid that today it is one of the most important branches of the post office service. It has been developed with so little fuss that few realize its extent or the fact that it practically was unknown a decade ago. There were five routes twelve years ago and now there are 40,000 serving more than a million of families.

The first appropriation for rural free delivery was $10,000 and it remained in the department treasury untouched during nearly two years because no one seemed to know just what to do with it. The postmaster general decided to spend the money on five experimental routes, and a county in Nebraska was selected for the test. The citizens in the district to be served believed the service was a political dodge intended to aid McKinley in carrying a county in Bryan's home state. The Republicans were in favor of the routes and the Democrats were opposed. The department officials finally convinced the people of the county that the five routes to be established had no political significance, but were in the nature of an experiment.

The appropriation made for rural carriers in 1897, the year following the experiment in Nebraska, was $40,000. The service has grown at such a remarkable rate that the last appropriation was $27,000,000, or $2,000,000 more than was set aside to pay carriers in the cities. The development has been almost beyond comprehension and all within a little more than a decade. The service has passed from an experiment to one of the most important and useful of governmental functions. Those who had any doubt about the desirability or possibility of extending the delivery system to the country districts no longer are pessimistic.

.:. POLITICS .:.

The Prohibition State Convention which will be held in Minneapolis on Monday and Tuesday of next week, June the 8th and 9th will be the first nominating convention of the campaign. As it will be the only state gathering of the cold water folk, they will nominate not only state and electral tickets, but will choose delegates to attend the National Convention which meets in Columbus, Ohio, July the 15th and 16th and will also elect a state central committee to conduct the campaign. Mr. E. E. Lobeck, Prohibition member of the legislature from Douglas county, will probably be named by the state committee as temporary chairman, and James Gray exmayor of Minneapolis, will deliver the address of welcome, to which Prof. H. S. Hillesboe, of Willmar, is expected to respond.

Gossip as to the gubernatorial nomination involves the names of T. J. Anderson the leading merchant of Belgrade; which branch establishments in a number of other towns; C. M. Way, a manufacturer of Minneapolis; Clarence Wedge, of Albert Lea; Geo. F. Wells, of St. Paul, and Dr. Geo. D. Haggard of Minneapolis.

The Prohibitionists have apportioned their representation to the state convention by legislative districts, giving to each three delegates at large and one additional for every 20 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for Dorsett for governor in 1906. This gives a total delegation of 536 with an equal number of alternates.

For the past two campaigns the chief effort of the party has been the election of legislators. The leaders of the movement profess themselves well satisfied with the results of their campaign of concentration, having polled 32,000 legislative votes last year, and seated three men.

The principal objection to Jacobson at present seems to be his silence—another illustration of the absurd and flimsy arguments of small minded politicians set to work to belittle a man of worth when he comes up for office, besides we believe the time will come soon when he will be heard good and plenty. Meanwhile it hardly seems necessary for him to herald it from the housetops that he stands for what the people know he stands. The honest man is seldom heard shouting "I always tell the truth," nor do we often hear the true Christian proclaiming himself one thru a megaphone. The fellows who are not entitled to step beyond the pearly gates are more likely to be caught in such acts.—Twin Valley Times.

Hall Trees.

A woman was much astonished to receive a letter from another woman asking for a slip of her hall tree. "I understand," she wrote, "you've got a good variety of hall trees, and as we've just finished us a new house with a real nice hall we'll need a tree, and we'd be ever so much obliged if you'd send us a slip uv your'n. And please will you send along with the slip directions tellin' us whether to water it from the top er bottom?"

HANGED HIMSELF

ALOIS RECHERT A PROMINENT CLEARWATER FARMER VICTIM OF HALLUCINATION

THOUGHT KAISER OF GERMANY AFTER HIM TO SERVE IN ARMY

From Tuesday's Daily—

The remains of Alois Rechert aged 43 years who committed suicide on his farm in the town of Pine Lake, were brought to Bagley yesterday for interment.

Rechert committed suicide by hanging himself with a rope to a tree on his farm life being extinct when his body was later recovered by neighbors.

Rechert labored under the hallucination that the Kaiser of Germany was after him to serve his time in the German army. For two or three weeks prior to taking his own life, Rechert wandered among his neighbors asking for advice and requesting that he be hid when the German officers made their appearance.

The body was found hanging to a tree on his claim and in the tree, beneath the body, was carved a very strange device with Roman numerals.

Rechert was in easy circumstances and was very popular among his neighbors. He has no relatives in this country. Among his effects were found several letters which had been written by a sister who lives in Germany.

PASSING OF A HOTEL MAN

P. G. ANDERSEN FORMER CROOKSTON BUSINESS MAN DIES AT SIOUX FALLS

P. G. Andersen proprietor of the Andersen and Dacotah hotels of Sioux Falls, S. D., and well known in Crookston and among the traveling fraternity of the states of Iowa, Minnesota and S. Dakota, thru his connections in the hotel business, is dead at his home at the Andersen hotel. Mr. Andersen was ill for only a short time, having been taken ill last Friday. The seriousness of his illness was realized from the first however, and his sons, Bliss and Edward of Mason City, Ia., were sent for immediately. A brother Peter Andersen, of Leroy, Minn., came Wednesday afternoon. No hopes were entertained for Mr. Andersen's recovery and the end came at 6:30 Thursday morning.

P. G. Andersen was born near Copenhagen in Denmark, May 8, 1842. In 1866 he came to the United States, moving first to Wisconsin, near Milwaukee. He was married at Hale's Corners Wisconsin, in 1868. In 1880 Mr. and Mrs. Andersen moved to Forest City, Iowa, where Mr. Anderrsen engaged in the hotel and a general merchandise business. In 1885 they moved with their family to Mason City where Mr. Andersen established the Andersen hotel then one of the best hotels in Iowa. It is now the Hotel Childs.

In 1900, Mr. Andersen was forced to sell out because of ill health, moving then to Crookston, where they remained for two years operating a general store in the Rauch Block, now occupied by A. Albas, and later occupying the store on South Broadway where John Warfel is now located.

Mr. Andersen, with his family, moved to Sioux Falls in 1902, purchased the Andersen hotel in this city then known as the Merchants. Later he leased the Teton known now as the Dacotah.

Mr. Andersen was a strong church worker and an advocate of the cause of temperance, taking an active interest in temperance work. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Surviving the deceased are his wife and five sons. Albert, Victor, and Stanley, of this city who have been associated with his father in his business in this city and Edward and Bliss who are engaged in business in Mason City. A brother, Peter, is a resident of Leroy, Minnesota, and a sister Ellen, resides in Denmark.

Funeral services were held at the First Methodist Episcopal church last Friday at 3 o'clock. Interment took place in Woodlawn cemetery.—Sioux Falls Daily Press.

Warsaw, June 3. — Three girls and eleven men were sentenced to death by court-martial here yesterday for attacking a post car at Sokolaw, on the Vistula railroad, last January. WATER POWER DEVELOPMENT

165,000 HORSE POWER IN MINNESOTA ELEVATING STATE INDUSTRIES

ASSURANCE OF POWER BEST ASSET OF ALL INDUSTRIAL CENTERS

Saint Paul, Minn., June 3.—According to the latest official information compiled at Saint Paul there are now in operation in Minnesota 242 water power plants with a total development of 165,000 horse power. In the seven largest cities of the state the industrial output has increased 30 per cent during the last five years. In all other parts of the state, where industrial enterprises have been established, the increase has been 300 per cent.

This does not mean that the small cities have been more enterprising than the large ones. It means that industrial development has been general, and that the opportunity is here for every city to promote the industrial development of the state by fostering some kind of enterprise within its limits.

It might be interesting to know how much water power is still available in the state for industrial purposes, the localities where mills or factories could most readily avail themselves of it, and, during the last five years, how far industrial development has been promoted by this means. The question also arises whether cities can foster their development by establishing water power plants or using water power for the generation of electricity for the distribution of power as well as illuminating purposes.

Assurance of Power

Nothing encourages the establishment of new industries so much as the assurance that power can be obtained economically and that railway or river transportation is cheap and regular to the nearest market centers. The mills of Minnesota already grind half the flour of the state.

Seventy-four new manufacturing plants came into existence last year, employing nearly 600 people. Now that the commercial clubs have affiliated in the interest of industrial development, the future is likely to see the state's resources energetically exploited, and new industries established in the large cities and small towns much more quickly than has been the case in the past.

JOHN VOSLER'S BEAN PLANTATION

WILL RAISE EIGHTY ACRES OF BOSTON FAVORITE THIS SEASON

John Vosler is going more extensively into bean raising this season and has eighty acres of Boston's favorite staple planted. Mr. Vosler has made a specialty of this crop for a number of years with good success, and is increasing his acreage every year. He has a specially built threshing machine for separating the beans from the pods and vines and has the cultivation of the crop down to a science. His success in this direction might be a suggestion to other farmers, as there is always a market for beans.

Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Benj. Champagne, of 322 Spendley St., Crookston, Minn., says: "I can just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did six years ago. At that time they proved of great benefit to me in banishing a dull, annoying backache which clung to me despite my earnest endeavors to get rid of it. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I procured a box at the Wallace drug store. I found relief from the first dose or two and soon the pains in my back were entirely removed. The difficulty with the kidneys was also ended and I was improved in every way. Up to date the relief has remained permanent."

FIND THE PLANT OF SAFE BLOWERS

Postoffice Inspectors Locate Belongings Of Manvel Store Robbers Buried In Bank Of Red River.

Postoffice Inspectors Hugdal and Ego made an important find near Oslo, on the North Dakota side of the river yesterday. They located two revolvers, a lot of fuse, four or five sticks of dynamite, a bottle of nitro glycerine and a small purse of money The find is important as it is one of the connecting links in the strong circumstantial evidence secured against Payne, Miller and Simmons, who are accused of blowing the safe of C. E. Colosky of Manvel and are thought to know something of the bank robbery at Stephen. Two of the accused were arrested at Oslo and the other near Grand Forks. The pair who drove to Oslo planted the revolvers and safe blowing material. A clue was furnished by Deputy Sheriff Johnson to whom one of the prisoners had talked rather freely while in the Grand Forks county jail.

Inspectors Ugdal and Ege went to Fargo last night and will appear before the federal grand jury as witnesses in the case. They will have enough evidence to secure an indictment, it is believed.

May be Another

In the arrest for vagrancy at Winnipeg of Charles Hastings, alias James H. McCurry, alias McDonald, alias Curry, alias Ralston, safe blower and ticket-of-leave man, it is believed probable that a fourth member of the safe blowing crowd that has been working in Minnesota and Dakota, has been secured. At the station the man gave the name of Ralston and was booked up as a vagrant.

Some time later, Detective Stodgell was looking over the prisoners in the cells and thought he saw something familiar in Ralston's appearance. He took him out into the open and from certain marks of identification, including a couple of missing fingers from the right hand, located the man as a criminal who was badly wanted in Manitoba some five years ago. The detective was carrying in his pocket a booklet containing the description of a number of men who are wanted in Minnesota and the prisoner was among them.

Admits Identity

When confronted with the description Hastings admitted that he was the man who was arrested and sentenced in Morrison county, Minn., in 1897, on a charge of grand larceny, the specific offense being safe blowing. He was paroled in 1900 and disappeared for a time.

Five years ago there was a safe blowing job pulled off at Rosser, Man., and from the description received it was thought that Hastings was one of the gang. Detective Stodgell was put on the job, and at Silver Heights only missed his man by a few minutes. Finding that the country was getting too hot for him, Hastings came south and it is supposed that he has been mixed up in some of the safe blowing jobs which terrorized parts of Minnesota and North Dakota. The Minnesota authorities have been communicated with and an officer will be sent to Winnipeg at once to take the man back. If he cannot be convicted of the more recent safe blowing jobs he will at least have to put in the balance of his unexpired sentence of 1897.

Diamonds of Various Colors

The mention of the word "diamond" immediately brings to mind the picture of a translucent, white gem. Not all diamonds however, are white. The most beautiful of all precious stones is said to be the red diamond. This surpasses the ruby in beauty and is exceedingly rare. Unsurpassed also, in healthfulness, purity and quality, is golden grain belt beer. Serve this delicious beverage at mealtime and you put health and strength into your system. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

Negro Is Lynched.

Lovers' Quarrel Fatal.

Watertown, N. Y., June 2.—Miss Orthan Huppen of Ox Bow, shot herself and her sweetheart, Banree Laillow, yesterday. Laidlow's injury will not prove fatal, but Miss Huppen willl probably die. The shooting followed a quarrel.

FACTS ABOUT ELECTRICITY

The nature of electricity is just as much of a mystery to the scientists of today as it was to the priests of Magi in Zoroaster's time when they so puzzled the wise augurs and astrologers of the Medes and Persians with static electric sparks produced by rubbing amber and glass. No one knows for a certainty the truth about electricity. Some hold that it is a form of matter, a kind of force, a variety of motion, a disturbance in the ether and still others that it is a weightless fluid.

For the sake of simplicity, however, scientists assume that electricity may be a fluid; that is, in the sense that light is a fluid. It may be a fluid without weight; capable of inconceivably rapid motion, traveling at the rate of 188,165 miles a second, even faster than light; and manifesting itself under certain conditions as heat, light and power.

Elsewhere it takes the form of magnetism or has a peculiar influence to bring about chemical action. We live surrounded by electricity but it becomes evident to us only when in motion or when the quantity present in any thing is more or less than the average amount.

Electricity flows thru all substances in some degree; some almost wholly oppose its passage and others allow it to move with the greatest freedom. Those materials thru which electricity passes easily are called good conductors; those which obstruct its passage are called non-conductors or insulators Silver is the best conductor, copper being almost as good. The latter metal is used almost exclusively where good conductors are wanted. Over 141,000,000 pounds of copper were used last year in the electrical industry. All the metals and their alloys are conductors. Iron and steel conduct fairly well but less than one-seventh as well as copper. All gases, including air, are practically absolute non conductors. So are oils, rosins, glass, crystals, gems, porcelain, clay, dry wood and leather, rubber, gutta-percha paper and fibrous materials such as silk and cotton cloth.

When electricity is at rest it is called static electricity. Lightning is a discharge of static electricity from one overloaded cloud to another or to the earth. The earth seems to be a regular resorvoir of electricity. Elecnets. When electricity generated by friction, chemical action or by magnets. When electricity generatel by mechanical means flows continually in one direction it is called direct current electricity. When it is produced with alternators which generate a current surging first one way then the other over the line it is called alternating current. At first all the electrical lines were direct current but lately alternating current is being extensively used.

"It is an age of electricity," declared one of the engineers of the General Electric Company, "and the electrical industry is yet in its infancy." Even now electricity applied to motors gives the best form of motive power in the world. In the electric arc and incandescent lamps it produces the best artificial light known to man, lighting thousands and thousands of buildings cities and villages. As a source of heat it is rapidly coming to the front The electric furnace gives the highest temperatures known in the laboratory. Electricity is so tractable it can be transmitted hundreds of miles over slender copper wires to run at once the tiny dentist drill or the mammoth machinery of a steel mill. It is in daily use in nearly every business, in all professions and by a large percentage of the world's population.

New and greater electrical wonders are produced every year. What the future will bring forth no one can even imagine.

MARKET DAY COMMITTEE

WILL START CANVASS IN CROOKSTON TOMORROW FOR FUNDS

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

The Market Day Committee appointed at the last meeting of the Commercial club will start soliciting for funds tomorrow and those upon who the committee calls should respond promptly.

The committee consisting of Messrs Walter Stone, J. A. Cowley and O. Mercil, Jr., desire to conclude the work as rapidly as possible, and it lightens the work materially for those called upon to give what they intend to give cheerfully and without waiting to ask a string of tiring questions.

The plan is to hold a market day every two months during the year, beginning the latter part of June, and it is expected that the six market days will cost $100 each a total of $600 for the year or $50 for each month.

It is proposed t ofurnish a free auctioneer for the farmers on that date and make other provisions for their comfort, and give them an opportunity to dispose of anything they have for sale at top prices. It is believed that such a policy would soon result in making market day the signal for a grand gathering of farmers from all directions in the county and that scores who now only come here once or twice a year would make it a point to attend every market day and make many trips between times.

CLASS OFFICERS

President—Grace Kemmerer,
Vice President—Roxanna Bailey,
Secretary and Treasurer—Niome Dahlquist.

From Friday's Daily—

Last evening, before an audience that taxed the capacity of the Auditorium, a class of 31, the largest in the history of the Crookston high school was graduated, and the commencement exercises were of a character to reflect credit not only upon those who participated but upon Supt. E. F. McIntyre, his corps of teachers and the school board.

A Pleasing Sight

The graduates, whose names appear above with the members of the school board, Messrs. F. R. Hamel, R. J. Montague, C. Reidesel, John Cromb and Edward Peterson and Supt. McIntyre and Rev. Willard S. Ward were seated on the platform which was very beautifully decorated with palms and pink and white roses.

The girl graduates looked very charming. All were dressed in white and carried bouquets of roses.

Excellent Music

Interspersed between the orations there were a number of fine musical selection. The high school quartette consisting of Misses Henrietta Koelmel, Emily Rasmussen, Huldah Johnson and Lucy McPhee rendered several very fine selections which pleased the audience highly and received hearty applause. Ross Chesterman sang a beautiful solo and Miss Beth Rapin also delighted the audience with a solo.

After the invocation which was offered by Rev. Willard S. Ward.

Supt. E. F. McIntyre who presided announced the first oration by Claude Alvah Hunt.

Child Labor

Child Labor was the subject of the oration, and the speaker depicted the deplorable conditions existing in mills mines and factories where health of youth was ruined and prospects blighted. The speaker handled the subject well, his enunciation was good and he demonstrated clearly the right of all children to an education.

Wadsworth

The above was the subject of a most excellent oration by Miss Grace Idaline Kemmerer. She gave a splendid description of the early home and associations of the great poet and his tender regard for his sister, who was his companion for years, and his wife. She spoke of his glorious life and his peaceful death and quoted liberally from his writings, selecting choice gems to illustrate his character and ability. She spoke with clearness and force and the oration was in every way creditable.

Home Rule in Ireland

On the above subject Miss Beth A. Rapin delivered a splendid address. She traced the struggles of Ireland for Home Rule from the early days to the present time, and depicted in a realistic manner the oppression of the Irish peasants by the agents of the rich land owners and told of the manner in which they were evicted penniless. There was no incentive to thrift under the old regime. The speaker related what Gladstone did for the cause, and concluded with the statement that Ireland would never be satisfied with anything short of a national parliament and absolute political independence.

The Development of the United States Navy

Harry W. Hitchcock gave a concise and yet comprehensive history of the United States navy and traced its development thru the three stages, the wooden ships, the iron clads and the present battleships. He spoke of the glorious achievements of the American Navy in the Revolution and of the great power of the present navy which he said was not measured by number, but by efficiency and concluded with a statement of the vast importance of a great navy to the development of the American Merchant Marine. His address was a masterly one.

The Juvenile Court

The above subject was discussed in a most aceptable manner by Miss Ada Louise Houston. She spoke of the development of the juvenile court and the fact that the state now goes behind the overt act and places the blame where it belongs—usually with the parents—and attempts to remove the cause of crime. The placing of the child on probation, the speaker stated, appeals to the child's pride and arouses confidence, all tending toward a higher and better standard of living.

Forest Preservation

Martin Kjolhaug discussed the necessity and importance of forest preservation. He referred to the ruthless destruction of the American Forests during the past century and the climatic changes that have resulted. He spoke of the great work towards forest preservation that is being carried on under the supervision of the German and French governments. His address was an extremely practical one and dealt with a subject which is attracting widespread attention thruout the country and specially in Minnesota.

The Weather Bureau

Wesley Henry Kalbfleisch discussed the development and the usefulness of the weather bureau. He spoke of the value of the service in predicting storms, thus preventing disasters at sea, and of the great value to the farmer in forecasting rains, frosts and other climatic changes. He stated that the present service was far from a state of perfection, but that steady progress was being made. His topic proved deeply interesting.

Portia, Our Modern Ideal

The closing oration on the above subject was made by Miss Christine Lofstedt, and was one of the best of the evening. Of the great Shakespearian character she called attention to the wonderful play of wit and coquetry, the courtesy, dignity, and honesty displayed, and woman possessed of a soul as tender as it was firm, with no taint of conceit. She referred to Portia's kean judgment and intellect and in conclusion spoke of the wider opportunities of the women of today who had open to them the sacred science of home making.

Diplomas Presented

Space forbids giving the addresses more in detail. Every speaker was heartily applauded and without question the commencement exercises were the most creditable ever held in Crookston. Hon. F. R. Hamel presented the diplomas and made a brief but impressive address to the 31 students in behalf of the school board in which he expressed the hope that the students would enjoy good health develop the highest character and continue their education, taking what they had received at the high school as a foundation and building upon it. His address was very forcible and earnest. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Ward and the class later held an informal reception.

BUSY DAY FOR THE HOBOES

JOE BURKE SHY A NEW SAW AND 50 CENTS IN CASH TO BOOT

OYSTER BAY RESTAURANT SHY A MEAL—ONE 'BO BEAT UP

From Friday's Daily—

Two hoboes furnished considerable amusement and excitement in Crookston during the past 2 days.

'Bo No. 1. appeared Wednesday afternoon at the home of Jos. J. Burke 321 Robert St., in Jeromes Addition and wanted a job sawing wood. Mr. Burke who is very kind hearted, and who also has an antipathy for sawing wood, gave the man 50 cents. As soon as opportunity afforded the hobo made his get-away with the 50 cents and also took Burke's new saw with him.

'Bo No. 2 entered the Oyster Bay Restaurant yesterday morning at two o'clock and ordered a meal. After eating it he started to walk leisurely out. "Tommy" did not look at it that way and came from behind the counter to make the stranger "dig up". The stranger landed on Tommy's jaw and Tommy came near taking the count. A young man from Sampsons addition then tackled the hobo and went to the floor. Then Tommy and his friend made a joint attack and down went the hobo, after which he was patted on the head with a stool and when he scrambled to his feet and fled he looked like Hec Rapin would if he had a fistic encounter with Jack Gorman.

He is of slender build, is active, studious, of good habits, quiet and retiring in manner. When he left home he wore a dark blue serge suit and a light golf cap; may have taken an assumed name.

The City of Munich.

Munich is one of the most beautiful cities in Europe, with broad streets, frequent fountains, many stately statues, numerous open squares, large wooded parks, a swift river flowing directly through the center of the residence section, galleries that contain several of the finest recollections of pictures and sculpture in the world, libraries, academies of design, schools of science, a magnificent opera house, a theater that was erected exclusively for the production of Wagner's operas, and various other attractions which do not disturb the classic atmosphere, but appeal to the artist, the student and whoever seeks for beauty and for rest. No city of equal size has so many noble monuments and public buildings, while probably a larger number of the population of Munich is engaged in study and artistic and scientific pursuits than may be found in any other city. The Royal library is one of the greatest in existence, probably second only to the British museum.—William E. Curtis in Chicago Record-Herald.

FRED G. WELLS IS A $40,000 EMBEZZLER

FORMER CROOKSTON MAN MAKES OFF AFTER ROBBING LISBON LAND FIRM—TRUSTED AGENT OF ADAMS & FREESE COMPANY IS MISSING FROM COGSWELL—LEAVES WIFE PRACTICALLY DESTITUTE AND DEPARTS FOR POINTS UNKNOWN — SHREWD PLAN BY WHICH HE SUCCEEDED IN GETTING HOLD OF MONEY BELONGING TO FIRM—SHORTAGE IS GROWING AS INVESTIGATION PROCEEDS

Fred G. Wells, formerly of Crookston and later located at Grand Forks where he was engaged in the real estate business is missing from Cogswell, N. D., and is believed to have embezzled $40,000 of funds of Adams & Freese, of Lisbon, whom he represented as their sole and trusted agent.

Wells left Cogswell three or four weeks ago. At first nothing was thought of his absence, as he was believed to have been away on some land deal. Circumstances demanded an investigation and his firm was astounded at an alleged apparent shortage in the accounts of Mr. Wells, which have expanded from $30,000 to $40,000 and new developments are continually appearing.

Had Fullest Authority

It appears that Mr. Wells was clothed with the fullest authority to buy and sell lands in Sargent county and has represented the firm there about two years. Yesterday a new feature appeared and has added about $5,000 to the alleged shortage.

What seems to have been a shrewdly planned scheme was for Wells to take mortgages and during his incumbrance of the office a number of the mortgages have been paid to him in full. Instead of reporting the payment for lands on his books, it is alleged to be shown that he has made duplicate mortgages with accompanying extension notes, taking care to only use such transactions which would best and most easily fit his purpose.

He has a wife and two children, whom he has left in Cogswell and it is stated that the distracted mother reports she is practically destitute. As to his whereabouts nothing is known at present but it is known that efforts are being made to locate him.

His Record Here

Wells was located in Grand Forks after leaving Crookston until about three years ago. A charge of embezzlement was filed against him in the district court at one time at Grand Forks but it was never pressed and finally was dismissed. He had quite a lot of friends who admired his energy and perseverance and were willing to help him out of what appeared to them to be only a little financial oversight.

There is a good deal of sympathy for Mrs. Wells, who was very popular here.

The family spent several summers at Maple Lake where they had a cottage and were prominent in social circles both here and at Grand Forks.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF FERGUS FALLS DEAD

Samuel D. Ingersoll, one of this city's oldest citizens died at his home at 608 Channing avenue east at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning from complications incident to old age. Mr. Ingersoll was born in New Jersey on April 19, 1817, and was 91 years one month and eight days old at the time of his death. He came to Dodge county, this state, in 1861, and about nine years ago, moved to Grant county, coming to this city about four years later. He was the father of 17 children of whom fourteen, with his aged wife, survive him. His daughter Mrs. Daniels, of Bena, Minn., Mrs. Maynard of Bertha, Mrs. Banks, of Sleepy Eye, and Miss Cora and Mrs. Edgar Holbrook of this city, and his son O. W. Ingersoll of Carlisle, were with him when the end came. His daughter Mrs. Ben Anderson of Wendell, had also been with him shortly before his death. Another son, Gilbert Ingersoll now a resident of Palo Alto, Cal., is also well known here. Owing to the distance he will not be able to attend the funeral.

Mr. Ingersoll was a good citizen and enjoyed the respect of his neighbors and friends everywhere. He was a member of the Methodist church for seventy years, and has always been a devoted Christian.

The funeral will occur from the residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and in the absence of Rev. Flesher, who has been asked to deliver the Commencement address at Thief River Falls that day, the services will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Rice. The remains will be taken to West Concord Dodge county, for interment.—Fergus Falls Journal.

ANOTHER VALLEY PIONEER HAS PASSED AWAY

Ed S. Erickson a prominent farmer and public man of Rockwell was taken sick Sunday afternoon a week ago and died the following Tuesday evening. Deceased was 59 years of age. He moved up into this country in 1887, living at Hendrum the first five years when he moved to Rockwell. He was a near neighbor and friend of the Hans O. Dahl family of Rockwell four of the boys, M. E., J. H., L. H., and H. H. together with Knute Halvorson and I. B. Draxton acting as pall bearers at the funeral held Saturday last when the remains were buried in the Gjevenaker cemetery three miles east of the Erickson home. The funeral was a large one there being many out from Twin Valley. A wife and seven children survive the deceased—five girls and two boys, one of the latter being an assistant in the bank at Ulen.—Twin Valley Times.

NOT THE PROPER METHOD TO PURSUE

In the creamery districts of Minnesota the farmers in order to secure quick returns and small profits have hit upon the plan of selling every drop of milk and knocking their bull calves in the head. Is it possible to imagine a more unprofitable way of conducting the farming business? It is a condition of things which can not fail to have a baneful effect on the live stock industry. The practice is not only reprehensible from an economic standpoint, but is likely to have a bad influence on the rising generation who are apt to receive the notion that bull calves are of more economic value on a farm than bull dogs. At South St. Paul, every bull calf like every hog, has its commercial value. The sooner the farmers realize that it is better for them to sell calves than to kill them the better for the live stock industry of the state.—Valley View.

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

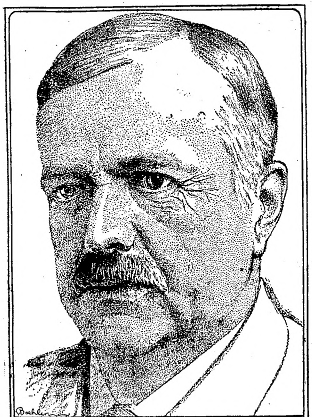
ONE OF THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR



JOEL P. HEATWOLE.

MR. HEATWOLE'S POSITION ON PUBLIC QUESTIONS.

In reply to a letter from C. S. Edwards, editor of the Albert Lea Times-Enterprise, Joel P. Heatwole outlined his position on questions affecting the welfare of the people of the state of Minnesota as follows:

All men to stand equal before the law.

The rights of the citizen must be respected and protected.

Enforcement of all laws.

A state government in the interest of the people.

County local option.

Retail liquor license in which a brewing company, wholesale liquor dealer or distiller has an interest to be revoked.

Corporations engaged in wholesaling malt, spirituous or vinous liquors interested in retail licenses to forfeit their charters.

Freight rates prescribed by the legislature or other competent state authority should stand until decided otherwise by the courts.

Public service corporations should not tax the people in freight and passenger rates beyond a fair rate of interest on the physical valuation of the property.

All telephone companies should be compelled to make connections under an equitable traffic arrangement.

The opposition of railroads and other corporations who expect special executive and legislative favors at the expense of the people is to be expected in a campaign for good government.

Permanent improvements of public service corporations should not be charged to the expenses or operating account.

Stock issued in excess of the actual physical valuation of the property of a public service corporation to be forfeited to the state.

Fair freight rates so that factories and labor may live and prosper in the interior villages and cities.

State supervision of freight rate classifications.

A sharp reduction of express rates.

A public utilities commission with full jurisdiction over all public service corporations.

The state has the right to regulate the business of public service corporations which begins and ends within its borders.

Human effort is entitled to pay commensurate with the labor performed; and labor is entitled to equality of opportunity.

Labor and capital are entitled to their just dues, no more, no less; and labor should be protected against discrimination.

Safeguard the deposits in all financial institutions under state supervision.

Combinations to monopolize public positions or create a trust in public offices should not be tolerated.

State development that means a square deal for every section of state.

Promises to the people should be held inviolate.

Imprisonment of jury fixers.

Divorce the judiciary from politics.

A thorough organization of the Republican party in every election district in the interest of good government.

No candidate should permit the use of a dollar of corporation money in his behalf. Few individuals and no corporations contribute money for political purposes without expecting handsome returns. And the people pay the freight.

A prison sentence for a public official who violates his oath and betrays the people.

Public office should be a position of honor and trust and not a place for a puppet who can be used as the plaything and tool of corporations.

The people, not the corporations, should govern.

The progressive policies of the present vigorous Roosevelt administration should be continued and every tendency toward reaction should be strenuously opposed.
